FIGHT FOR FORTUNE.

Thurston Will Contest Near End.

Jury Will Decide Whether Tingleyites Plotted to Get Estate.

Questions of Insanity and Undue Influence Are to Be Determined.

Bitter Fight Made; Strange Features Exposed; Thousands at Stake.

BY JOHN M. STEELE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Out of a tangled maze of evidence introduced in the progress of the case that has been on trial since December 29, 1911, a jury will decide early next week whether Harriet P. Thurston was sane or insane, or was unduly influenced, when she executed the will dated May 11, 1910, leaving a fortune to Katherine Tingley, the autocratic head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society.

The contestant, George L. Patterson, a son, contends that Mrs. Thurston was a victim of a carefully-planned and executed conspiracy by which she was influenced to give large gifts during her lifetime to Mrs. Tingley and her associates, and to execute a will devising a considerable fortune to these same people.

Through her agents Mrs. Tingley knew of Mrs. Thurston, then Mrs. Patterson, as early as 1906, but it was not until March, 1908, that Mrs. Patterson came to Coronado, where she was brought in direct contact with Mrs. Tingley. From that time until her death, July 21, 1910, Mrs. Patterson was never away from the influence of "the conspirators," as charged in the contest of George L. Patterson.

According to the statements made by Mrs. Tingley, Mrs. Patterson never became a member of the organization, although there is an admission in the answer as originally filed in the case to the effect that she was a probationary member, although Mrs. Patterson believed she was a member, as evidenced by her letters introduced.

FOUR DIFFERENT WILLS.

After the coming of Mrs. Patterson to "Loma Land" she made a trip East in the latter part of August, 1908, at which time she executed, and left with her attorney in the East, a will in which her children were named as residuary legatees of her estate. Upon her return from the East to Point Loma, and on December 14, 1908, she made a second will in which J. F. Knoche, Mrs. Tingley's private secretary, was the executor, and in which Mrs. Tingley was the residuary legatee. On August 13, 1909, less than one month after her marriage to Clark Thurston, she made a third will in which Clark Thurston was the residuary legatee and the executor. And on May 11, 1910, a little over two months before her death, she made a fourth will in which her husband was given $75 a month and from which Mrs. Tingley would receive an estate of over $300,000.

Shortly after the execution of the will, surrounded by members of the Theosophical colony, including Dr. L. F. Wood, Mrs. Thurston went to Newburyport, Mass., the home of Mrs. Tingley, where she died July 21, 1910, six days after her arrival, her husband remaining at Point Loma and not reaching the East until after her death.

George L. Patterson, a son and the contestant in the suit now pending, says that he was not notified of his mother's illness or death until she had been dead two days and eight hours.

PROGRESS IS DEFINED.

An Interpretation by Mr. Taft.

Points to the Achievements of His Administration to Illustrate.

The Constitution a Token that the People Insist on Caution and Care.

Indorsed by Swedish-Americans in Chicago, Where He Receives Ovation.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—President Taft gave a new definition of a "political progressiva" tonight, in a speech at the banquet of the Swedish-American Republican League of Chicago. He eliminated from consideration as real progressives those who look to socialism for relief, declared that his "distinguished predecessor" deserved most of the credit for awakening the public to the need of action and argued that "progressive is that progressive does," pointing to some of the achievements of his administration as proof that it has qualified under that definition.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

"The term progressives," said the President, "includes all of those who have been moved to efforts of reform by the necessity of legislative and governmental action to deprive corporate capital and undue vested privilege of its political power and to bring about proper popular and governmental control and regulation of the use of capital in legitimate avenues and for legitimate purposes.

"An administration which has been successfully progressive in deed is entitled to the approval of the people. The present Republican administration in what it has accomplished in legislative and executive action is able to point to many real steps of progress, both in the way of avoiding unnecessary disturbances of business, in the way of regulating the use of corporate capital and privilege and preventing its abuses and in the preservation for the public of what belongs to it, as well as in ameliorating the legal status of certain classes of the people, and in increasing the functions of the government for the benefit of the whole people.

"The progressive movement has assumed the character of a crusade, and many radical remedies were suggested, the carrying out of which would only be less destructive than the threatened fatal course of the disease.

"The growth of socialism in this country is a noteworthy incident in showing the extreme to which many would go in the solution of the problem which I am discussing.

"The futility of every socialistic scheme which destroys the right of property for the uplift of humanity is that it is impossible to find a sufficiently strong motive for labor or for savings. Without this, the wealth of the world could not increase to meet the demands for the living and comfort and increased physical happiness of the growing population."

IRONCLAD CUE.

The banquet was given in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac, and the President referred to the first fight of the ironclads as a sort of starting point for a political speech.

"There is nothing more inspiring in the history of the world than the story of the achievements of the Republican party since the Monitor received her baptism of fire," he said.

Mr. Taft pointed out that the progressive movement practically began with the present century. Two decades of enormous expansion in all lines of endeavor in the United States previous to 1900, he declared, were responsible for encroachments of "big business" in the field of politics and it finally became apparent that these encroachments must be stopped and legislation must be enacted that would hold in restraint corporate and vested interests. It was in this connection that he brought in a reference to Col. Roosevelt.

"During the administration of my distinguished predecessor and by his appeals to Congress, and to the public, the people and especially the business communities, were roused to the necessity for action," he said. "The great public benefit arising from this movement can not be over-estimated. It put the people on guard in every State and in every community."

"The anti-trust law and the interstate commerce acts to control lawbreaking corporations, both were passed some time before," said Mr. Taft. "But," he continued, "the first step and the most important, was the stirring of the people to the nature of the crisis that they had to meet and the obstacles they had to overcome."

In conclusion, the President pointed

PILLAGING IN JUAREZ.

Rojas Calmly Loots Branch Bank.

Makes Pretense of Placing Guard in Charge, Then Forces Vault.

Seizes Goods of Foreigners Who Have Permits from Jefe de Armas.

Orozco Confiscates Railway Cash Receipts in Region of Chihuahua.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) March 9.—If Gen. Orozco, chief of the rebels in Mexico, fulfills his promise of ordering Gen. Antonio Rojas, commander of the Juarez garrison, to join the Southern campaign, it is asserted generally that he will have the gratitude of most of the Juarez business men, many of whom are Americans with interests on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande.

Rojas's latest exploit of calmly looting the Juarez branch of the Mexican National Bank has greatly increased resentment on both sides of the river. According to the most accurate versions obtainable of various details of the story, Rojas, when placed in command in Juarez, instructed the manager of the branch bank, E. Fernandez Alonzo, not to move any money from the bank. Most of the valuables already had been spirited away, but more remained than Senor Alonzo cared to "contribute."

Gen. Salazar scarcely had left the south last Sunday, [illegible] Rojas in charge, when [illegible] common and frequent [illegible] would be robbed. Finally [illegible] has unbent sufficiently to place a guard around the bank, but despite this guard, the work of opening the main vault began Thursday and was completed last night.

IS SEEN COUNTING MONEY.

Wednesday Gen. Rojas was engaged in holding a court-martial to discover the culprit or culprits, who had started reports that the bank would be robbed. It was said today that last night a well-known American saw him counting the money taken from the vault. According to Senor Alonzo, the booty aggregated 20,000 pesos, which is equal to about $10,000 United States gold. To some interviewers today he said he knew nothing of any robbery; to others he said the funds belonged to the government and that he was the proper custodian. After the work at the bank was completed, by means of crowbars and nitroglycerin, Senor Alonzo's Juarez house was robbed, and the manager came to El Paso, where he dispatched a telegram to the Spanish Minister in Mexico City, protesting against the outrage.

Gen. Rojas has offended in other less serious instances. He has seized lumber, flour and other goods belonging to foreigners after the latter had obtained permits for shipment or storage from Col. Ponce.

A special dispatch from Chihuahua tonight said that Orozco sent another troop train in the direction of Juarez today, and that his machinists were trying to fashion a field piece.

PREDICT EARLY BATTLE.

The chief of the agents of President Madero now in this city says that the rebel forces never will reach Jiminez, their present ostensible objective, much less Torreon. He says that Orozco will be compelled to fight soon very near Chihuahua. The insurrecto commander, he says, will be driven back by a superior force from the City of Mexico, and will find detachments from Ojinaga and Monterey, as well as Gen. Pancho Villa, in his rear.

Col. Ponce, jefe de arms at Juarez, declared today that he would pay the Madera Lumber Company for the rifles and ammunition seized yesterday by Gen. Rojas.

ROJAS AND PONCE DIFFER.

Feeling between Ponce and Rojas over the incident is not of the best. Ponce gave permission for the presence of the rifles, and Rojas ignored the order, declaring that the rifles were "for Americans to shoot Mexicans."

Ponce holds that the seizure of a regular shipment despite the secret presence of parts of a rapid fire gun in the consignment was typical of incidents which bring the insurrectos into disrepute with foreigners. It is said that the rapid fire gun lacked certain parts to make it effective.

The coke and coal shipments consigned to various plants of the American Smelting & Refining Company, which have been held up at Juarez for three weeks, were started south today. Orozco's desire to utilize the cars for his campaign against the City of Mexico accounts for the sudden activity.

Wealthy Iowa Man Compels Her to Take Place With Farm Hands.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ATLANTIC (Iowa) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch] Charging that her husband has not allowed her to leave the premises in thirty-one-years and has forced her to work as a farm hand, Mrs. Sophia Anderson has brought suit for divorce from B. W. Anderson. Mrs. Anderson says she and her husband were married in 1881. They reside near Anita. The petition declares that each of the couple's five children has been forced to work like a slave by Anderson, who is alleged to own 490 acres of land. Mrs. Anderson asks $15,000 alimony and the custody of their minor child, Roy, aged 17 years.

ROOSEVELT ON THE STUMP.

GOING OUT NOW TO DEMAND THE NOMINATION.

Stubbs of Kansas Is Reported to Have Been Giving Him the Absent Treatment So Strong that He's Been Chopping Down Trees to Provide the Stump.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OYSTER BAY (N. Y.) March 9.—Col. Roosevelt has about made up his mind to take the stump and personally make the fight for the Presidential nomination.

Since the day of Col. Roosevelt's announcement he has been urged by supporters in almost every State, except in the South, to conduct a speech-making campaign.

Gov. Stubbs of Kansas sent a message yesterday, urging the colonel to make addresses in Kansas, Michigan, Illinois, Massachusetts and other States in which the Roosevelt leaders believe there is a chance.

Today the colonel took a rest. His services as a juror were not required, as there was no session of court and he spent the day in riding horseback and chopping down trees.

He read President Taft's speech, delivered yesterday in Toledo, and said he probably would reply to it later. Roosevelt said just now he is concerned chiefly with the Presidential preference primaries. His opponents, he said, "were fighting tooth and nail" in Michigan and Illinois against the primaries.

Tempestuous.

GREAT LONG BEACH PIER DESTROYED BY ROUGH SEA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONG BEACH, March 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Prospects at 1 o'clock this morning are that unless the present storm abates, dawn will see the 1800-foot pleasure pier a total wreck.

About 8 o'clock last night a southeaster, which had been blowing all afternoon, stiffened into a gale which at times blew sixty miles an hour. It lashed the ocean into a fury and heavy swells and waves, which broke beyond the outer wharf, again rolling in toward shore dashed with tremendous force against and over the wharf.

All of the concessionaries deserted the pier on order of the police, leaving their goods to the mercy of the storm. The waves were from forty to fifty feet in height, and presented a majestic spectacular as they rolled high over the outer wharf, dashing the spray over the sun parlor. Planking was ripped away like paper and landings and railings were torn loose. The debris drifted ashore west of the Hotel Virginia.

The outer wharf swayed dangerously and her weavings were estimated from five inches to a foot and a half. At 9 o'clock President Craig of the Board of Public Works ordered the wharfinger and his assistant ashore and expressed the opinion that the structure would not last until daylight. Through the night the waves pounded the planking away from the entire lower deck of the pier and wrenched the supporting girders until it seemed the structure would collapse any moment. The entire night was wild and stormy and all entrances to the pier were closed and under guard.

Darkness permits a detailed description of the damage wrought, but enough was seen to justify the statement that the pier is already practically demolished.

The pier was built seven years ago, at a cost of $100,000. Since that time $56,000 has been spent in repairs. It is the first concrete pier built in the open sea, though similar structures have stood the test of time in the still waters of San Francisco bay.

Notable.

PRIEST SAYS SUN SPOTS RESPONSIBLE FOR RAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, March 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The most notable discovery made in two hundred years in observation of sun spots was announced from Santa Clara College tonight.

The announcement was made under the signature of Father J. S. Ricard, college meteorological observer, and says that the prediction of the time when sun spots would form and appear and the verification of the prediction is the crowning achievement in that line of research.

Sun spots now in full view on the sun were predicted early in January, according to Father Ricard. Their appearance was coincident with the present storm in California and the discovery is declared to bear out Father Ricard's contention that sun spots directly influence the earth's weather conditions.

The prediction said that the spots would form about February 18 on the western limb of the sun and that after a semi-rotation, plus the allowance to be made for the change in the earth's position during that time, the group would blaze into view on the eastern limb of the sun about March 4. Father Ricard continues:

"We did a lot of careful observing between February 18 and March 4 without success. But March 6 was the day. A large spot stood on the eastern limb, say 85 degrees east from the central meridian and roughly 24.94 degrees hello latitude south. On March 7, the spot was larger and better defined. On March 8 it was a group of portly dimensions."

A slight earthquake shock located 37 deg. 7 min. east was recorded at the college observatory tonight.

CANCER CURES EFFECTED.

Paris Physician Demonstrates Discovery on Thirty-three Cases, Injecting Copper Hydrate Peroxide.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thirty-three cases of cancer in varying degree of malignancy are claimed to have been wholly or partly cured by a Paris physician, Dr. Haube Dugers, as the result of a treatment discovered by him and made public this week. The method whereby he combats one of the most terrible scourges known to humanity consists of subcutaneous injections of collid of peroxide of copper hydrate, introduced into the system at intervals varying from four days to a week. The effect of the drug is said to be the prompt arrest of further development of the growth and in many cases its injurious influence on the body has disappeared.

TRIAL OF ZOLLIE CLEMENT.

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Zollie Clement, who since his confession of the murder of three men and dozens of robberies, has been in th County Hospital being treated for the wound in his arm which he sustained in a hold-up, will be taken to Stockton Monday to stand trial for the murder of William Newman. This afternoon Clement was taken from the County Hospital and placed in the City Jail, where he will await the arrival of Chief of Police Briare of Stockton.

Fighting for the Thurston Fortune of Hundreds of Thousands.

Lawyers and Principal Figures in Will Contest at San Diego,

Where jury will this week decide whether Mrs. Tingley and members of her "Loma Land" cult exercised undue influence on aged Mrs. Thurston to get her in her fourth will to leave Mrs. Tingley over $300,000 of the Patterson estate. In the center is the old man who married Mrs. Patterson after consulting Mrs. Tingley.

FIGHT FOR FORTUNE.

cremation awaiting husband's arrival, he due Park avenue. Hotel Tuesday 11 o'clock; funeral Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Thurston wished funeral strictly private. Expect closed relatives."

Upon receipt of this telegram Mr. Patterson began search for his mother's remains, going first to New York, and through the assistance of the Department of Public Health of New York, he learned that his mother's remains had been shipped through New York, and were then at a crematory at Hoboken, N. J. And he then learned that "L. W.", the signature to the telegram, meant Dr. Lorin F. Wood.

Later the body of Mrs. Thurston was cremated against the express wish, and without the knowledge of the son, and contrary to an understanding which he had that the body would not be cremated until the following day.

Mrs. Tingley was at the Belmont Hotel in New York City, at the time, but did not attend the funeral services.

For five years previous to her death Mrs. Thurston had been feeble in mind and body; under various influences, due in most instances to directions of spiritualistic communications, she had expended large sums of money, notably at Kingston, N. Y., where she purchased several tracts of land with a view to erecting a spiritualist temple, and later she did erect a building at Edgerly, La., at a cost of $30,000, and expended over $50,000 on the Kingston property.

CALL OF SPIRITUALISM.

Again answering the call of spiritualist writing, in the fall of 1906 she sold control of a bank that had been in the Patterson family since 1855, and which stood third on the roll of honor of American National Banks, which stock paid a dividend of thirty per cent. Mrs. Patterson having stated that she disposed of this stock through a communication from the "Great Beyond."

The climax came a short time afterwards when Mrs. Patterson sought to invest approximately $100,000 in a Chicago medicine company. Then the family stopped payment on the $100,000 check and shortly afterwards a proceeding was started to appoint a guardian for Mrs. Patterson. This action was stopped by an amicable arrangement by which it was agreed that all of her property should be controlled jointly by George L. Patterson, her son, and herself, with the understanding that Mrs. Patterson should receive $60,000. This amount was paid to her in cash. She was to receive also the income from her entire estate, conditioned, however, that no investment or changes should be made in her estate and property without the consent of her son, George L. Patterson. Upon her death her estate was to be divided among her children and her grandchildren.

Shortly after the execution of this agreement Mrs. Patterson traveled extensively, in company with a Mrs. Hastie, a spiritualist medium, who finally accompanied her to "Loma Land," where the Tingley influence began to predominate.

The first intimation the immediate family had of the alleged Tingley domination was a demand for bonds, stock and other securities, held by George L. Patterson, which securities eventually found their way to "Loma Land."

Then followed the marriage to Clark Thurston; then the making of the third will, and subsequently the making of the fourth will, which in turn was followed by the trip to Newburyport.

Following the death of Mrs. Thurston, L. A. Wright, who had been named as executor of the fourth and last will, petitioned to have the will probated. This was followed by the suit filed by George L. Patterson, which has now been on trial since December 27, 1911.

This suit alleged conspiracy to deprive the heirs of Mrs. Thurston of a large part of her fortune. The complaint stated that the execution of the will, if the same was executed by her at all, was procured by undue influence of Katherine Tingley, Dr. Lorin F. Wood, Ethelind Dunn, J. F. Knoche, Jane Doe Davidson and Clark Thurston, her husband, and various other persons under the control and direction of Katherine Tingley.

The questions to be decided by the jury are embodied in the following form, which has been agreed upon by the attorneys on both sides of the case:

First—Was Harriet P. Thurston, on the 11th day of May, 1910, at the time she executed the instrument herein offered for probate as her last will and testament, of sound and disposing mind?

"Second—Was Harriet P. Thurston on the 11th day of May, 1910, at the time she executed the instrument herein offered for probate as her last will and testament, free from undue influence which affected the making of the will?"

Growing out of the conditions existing at "Loma Land" were also two other suits instituted by George Patterson, the son; one habeas corpus proceeding for the recovery of his sister, in which suit the son was successful, and Julia P. Quinn was by the court taken from "Loma Land" and delivered over to her brother, George L. Patterson, and she returned with her brother to her home at New Castle, Pa. Also a suit in which George L. Patterson asked to be appointed guardian of the two grandchildren of Mrs. Patterson, Harriet and William Quinn, and asked to have the letters of guardianship which were granted to Ethelind Dunn shortly after the death of Mrs. Patterson revoked.

While this suit was pending, and before it had come to a final hearing, the children were sent to New Castle in charge of a member of the Universal Brotherhood, a Mrs. Stevens. Mrs. Stevens stating at the time that she left the children with them at their home for a visit. The children since that time have been with their mother, Mrs. Quinn, and are now in New Castle.

A bitter contest has been waged in the Superior Court of San Diego county for the last ten weeks, Leroy A. Wright, Eugene Daney, E. T. Smith and Iverson Harris appearing as counsel for the proponent, and J. W. McKinley of Los Angeles, James E. Wadham of San Diego and J. Norman Martin and J. V. Cunningham of New Castle, appearing for the contestant. George L. Patterson made the contest on behalf of himself and his brother, William L. Patterson, and his sister, Julia P. Quinn, both of whom are incompetent.

Leroy A. Wright, attorney for Mme. Tingley, tonight reviewed the case of the defense for The Times as follows:

"Mrs. Thurston's will was attacked on the ground that it was not executed by her; that it was procured through undue influence by means of a conspiracy and that the testatrix the jury. This resulted from an execution.

"The charge that the will was not executed by Mrs. Thurston has been abandoned by the contestant and withdrawn from the consideration of the jury. This resulted from an examination in court of the witnesses to the will. It developed that Mrs. Thurston went to her attorney's office where she remained alone with her attorney for about two hours, which time the will was drawn and executed. Neither Mrs. Tingley nor any of the alleged conspirators had any knowledge of the execution of the will until after Mrs. Thurston's death. As soon as the will was made it was deposited with the Bank of Commerce and Trust Company where it remained until it was filed with the court for probate.

"There is absolutely no testimony in the case that rises to the dignity of evidence in relation to undue influence. The trial disclosed that Mrs. Thurston resided at Point Loma for about two years and a half. During that time she was the recipient of much kindness and attention from Mrs. Tingley, the alleged conspirators and all the residents of Point Loma who came in contact with her. The same attention was paid her as was shown to other residents. There was with her at Point Loma a daughter of unbalanced mind and two grandchildren. Mrs. Thurston applied to the Superior Court and was appointed guardian of her daughter and grandchildren. The grandchildren were in school at Point Loma for four years. Their depositions were taken at New Castle under the influence of contestant and their principal complaint is that they received the same consideration as other children; that the rich and poor were treated alike, whereas they should have had favors because their grandmother was wealthy.

"The charge that Mrs. Thurston was kept a practical prisoner at Point Loma after she went there is ridiculously absurd. She came and went as she pleased. She received visitors from the East and in the year of her death entertained for a period of ten days an old friend from Pennsylvania, who was not a member of the Universal Brotherhood. She also entertained two nephews from Pittsburgh and corresponded with her sisters in Seattle and her brother in Louisiana.

"The only testimony which even raises the least suspicion of undue influence is that given by the dermatologist, Mrs. Dixon, who testified that while treating Mrs. Tingley at Point Loma on the 20th of March, 1908, she over-heard Mrs. Tingley say to Mrs. Dunn, in a conversation about Mrs. Thurston: 'Ethelinda, we have got the old girl coming our way. We must play our cards smoothly.' Mrs. Dixon has been so thoroughly discredited that this testimony, instead of aiding the contestant, emphasizes the absolute absence of any warrant for the charge of undue influence. Whatever may be said of Mrs. Tingley, she is not addicted to the use of such language. Besides, it has been shown by half a dozen witnesses and by records that Mrs. Dixon was not present at the time that she testified she heard the conversation.

"Our courts have repeatedly held that undue influence can not result from acts of kindness or expressions of affection, and this being true, the contestant's case must fall so far as the issue of undue influence is concerned. If there was any conspiracy at all it was a conspiracy to make Mrs. Thurston's latter years free from worry, to make her last days happy and to make her realize that she had found a haven of rest in which to spend her declining years surrounded by her afflicted daughter and grandchildren.

INSANITY ISSUE.

"The only issue upon which there is any evidence to go to the jury is that of insanity. It is beyond the power of man to determine in every instance whether a person has sufficient mentality to make a will.

"No standard has ever been found by which to measure the mind of a decedent. A perfect mind, that is, one that perceives accurately, remembers exactly and reasons correctly, exists in the imagination only. In every one there is some defect in the mental faculties. In some it is more pronounced than in others, but there is none that always reasons correctly; no one always remembers exactly. It must, therefore, be conceded that Mrs. Thurston had some mental defects, but that she had a stronger mentality than exists in the average person appears from the testimony of numerous witnesses. She was a splendid conversationalist, and her wide reading and study of literature was remarkable. Few people can quote Browning as could Mrs. Thurston. Her knowledge of Walt Whitman, Tennyson, Shakespeare and Emerson, as well as more modern writers, was far above that of the average literary student. During the latter year of her life she committed a quotation from Shakespeare each day. She was also familiar with history. She loved Plutarch's Lives and was a great admirer of Alexander Hamilton. She remembered distinctly the names of a large number of relatives, where they lived and their financial circumstances. She remembered distinctly the incidents of her life from her early childhood. She impressed all the business men with whom she came in contact in San Diego, including merchants and architects, as being very intelligent and perfectly rational. If Mrs. Thurston was insane then the sanity of every man and woman now living is at hazard.

"In her last will she left something like twenty bequests to relatives and friends and in each instance she named the beneficiaries correctly and gave their proper address. One of the contestant's witnesses, a relative of decedent, testified that Mrs. Thurston told him several years ago that she would leave him $5000. An examination of the will discloses that she left him a bequest of that sum. About $100,000 of the estate was given to different relatives and friends in sums ranging from $500 to $10,000."

SAYS SHE IS HIDING HUSBAND FROM HER.

Ohio Woman Wants a Divorce on Allegation that She Was Subjected to Indignities and Vexations in the Homestead of the Theosophic Cult at Point Loma.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In an action filed today by Alice E. Acheson against Dr. Nathan B. Acheson for permanent support and maintenance, the plaintiff charges that Mrs. Katherine Tingley has conspired and is conspiring against her to prevent her from seeing her husband and to prevent service.

Dr. Acheson was for many years a dentist in the Isis Theater building. Mrs. Acheson, now in Youngstown, O., charges desertion. She also charges that Dr. Acheson's dental office in the Isis Theater building was a rendezvous for Katherine Tingley and other members of the theosophical brotherhood, that Dr. Acheson disappeared December 15, last, and before he disappeared he placed in charge of his office a woman theosophist.

Dr. Acheson and his family, consisting of three children, besides the wife, came to San Diego from Youngstown, O., in 1902. According to the complaint, Mrs. Acheson says they went to live in Point Loma, where, she alleges, she was subjected to indignities by the defendant husband and others and that she was compelled to follow vexatious customs; that the manner of living, the entire place, and the mode of life she was subjected to was grossly unfit for a person of her station in life. Mrs. Acheson further alleges she soon returned to Youngstown and that from October, 1902, to July, 1905, her husband sent her only $20 a month, that in 1905 friends and relatives aided her to return to San Diego, where her husband rented for her two rooms on Fourth street which, she declares, were unfit for her to live in; that during the thirteen days she remained in San Diego her husband absented himself from her, that he spent his evenings in his dental rooms or in Point Loma.

OROZCO CONFISCATES RAILROAD EARNINGS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, March 9.—A cipher telegram received at the headquarters of the National Railways from Chihuahua states that Pascual Orozco has served notice on the railroad there that all cash receipts from railroad operations in the territory under his control must be passed over to his treasurer. The Chihuahua railroad officials say they have withheld sufficient funds to pay wages of operatives.

Representatives of 40,000 cotton workers in seventy-nine of the independent factories of the country have presented to the government a new demand for a uniform schedule of hours and wages. They asserted that a renewal of the strike, which was stopped by government intervention some months ago, would be declared within a week if their demands were not given immediate attention.

Denials of the reported death of Jesus Salgado, rebel leader in Guerrero, have been made by Figueroa and other Federal commanders in the adjacent district.

A total of 3000 Federal troops is given unofficially as the number sent through this city to the North to resist Orozco's advance.

Rebels under "Tuerto" Morales are reported to have captured the town of Tepeji, Puebla.

Nine days of prayer for the restoration of peace began today in one of the prominent churches of the city.

TROOPS START FOR TORREON.

Four troop trains are under orders to leave today for Torreon carrying infantry, cavalry and artillery, bringing the number of soldiers who have departed since yesterday up to more than 2000. The government asserts it has 5000 men in the Torreon district.

Gen. Trucy Aubert is said to have reached Torreon. Troops also are moving on that place from Durango. Gen. Trevino, chief of the Monterey military zone, in an interview today predicted the early failure of the revolution. He said that throughout the States of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas, many persons were offering their services in a national guard corps.

Four quick-firing guns have been placed in position at the Treasury Department for the protection of the reserve bullion stored in the vaults.

BIG SMELTING WORKS WILL GO RIGHT ALONG.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHIHUAHUA (Mex.) March 9.—Certain independent mine owners of Mexico learned today that the mines and smelters of the American Smelting and Refining Company will continue to operate despite the revolution. Some of the independents already have closed and others wish to, because of the shortage of supplies, and they desired that the big corporation should do likewise. An official of the company telegraphed today that the corporation would continue work.

The American Smelting and Refining Company employs 55,000 persons in its Mexican mines alone. Two hundred and fifty thousand persons are dependent upon the company for their incomes and Mexicans are rejoicing that the big concern has taken the stand it has. The closing of the mines and smelters, it is commented, would be nothing less than a national calamity. It is added that the compulsory closing of the largest mining interest in the country would have been seized upon as a mighty argument of those who advocate intervention by the United States.

EVERY BORDER TOWN ASKING FOR TROOPS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The seriousness of the Mexican situation is revealed by the request of Gen. Duncan, commanding the Department of Texas, to the War Department that the order for dispatching troops of cavalry to the border be held up until his report on towns which will need troops' assistance is received.

Practically every town of any size on the Rio Grande has asked for troops in the past few days. Gen. Duncan's reasons for his request are in line with the proposed big mobilization of the army in Texas. If his suggestion is followed, it will result in all the cavalry at Ft. Sam Houston being ordered to the border. It will then be necessary to bring other troops into Texas and this movement will be on a large scale.

Mexican marauders and bandits, apparently unorganized, are menacing many towns along the frontier. The matter of protection is in the hands of the Federal government. The State has only a few rangers and these act practically as scouts. They can afford no real protection to the towns.

NEGOTIATIONS OPENED.

An unpretentious dwelling standing just on the fringe of the inner business section of San Antonio, was today the scene of dickering between representatives of the Madero government and those of Emilio Vasquez Gomez, under whose banner the majority of revolutionists in Mexico are flaunting their defiance to Maderistas.

Representatives of the Madero government reached San Antonio this morning. In the afternoon Emilio Vasquez made this admission:

"I have been informed through communication from Mexico City that a man prominent in politics or several men will call upon me for a discussion. So far as I know they have not yet reached San Antonio, at least they have not yet come to my home."

While Vasquez Gomez was telling this, three or four men were engaged in some very animated conversation behind the closed doors of another room, but he declined to say just what was transpiring within.

GOMEZ MAKES DENIAL.

"I have not heard who this gentleman, or gentlemen, can be," said Gomez. "They have not yet done me the honor of calling upon me, although I have been informed, as I said before that it would be some one very prominent in the politics of Mexico."

Asked if that would mean a representative of the government, Gomez slightly shrugged his shoulders and in another breath said he was not positive.

Gomez believes that the very near future is certain to develop something of interest.

"If there is anything," he said, "I will be glad to communicate it to you, but I do not think there is likely to be anything this afternoon, or this evening."

The coming of the three representatives of the Madero government, two of whom are said to be members of the Cabinet or closely affiliated therewith, caused somewhat of a flurry among the refugees who are now here and are awaiting the turn of affairs in the southern republic.

Consular representatives of the Mexican government denied knowledge of a diplomatic move to end the revolution by a compromise.

Orders have been received from Washington by Gen. Duncan to send one troop of the Third Cavalry to Sanderson and another to Canutillo, in the Big Bend country.

AMERICANS PREPARE TO MAKE A DEFENSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 9.—Hopeless of government aid against the bandits, masquerading as insurrectos, who surround them on all sides, Americans in the Culiacan Valley, on the west coast of Mexico, have sent their women and chilren to the border and are concentrating to protect themselves against attack. According to advices which reached here today the residents of the important American settlements of Yababito and Lode are arming themselves and organizing a defensive force.

Other concentrating points are Los Blancos, Shepley's ranch and Navolito. All these towns are in the vicinity of Culiacan, capital of the State of Sinaloa. The Americans are gathering such arms as they can find, and are preparing to hold their own until conditions change for the better.

From the vicinity of Mazatlan come reports of bold robberies and the maltreatment of foreigners at the hands of bandits. A force of rurales under Eduardo Felix, has been operating against the bandits, but so far seems to be unable to cope with the situation.

At Guadelupe de los Reyes, a town in the State of Sinaloa, twenty-five Federals under Norberto Rochin, the jefe politico, beat off a force of rebels estimated at 100 men. The rebels retreated. Rochin reported in mail advices to this city that four of his men were wounded.

BORDER PATROL IS TO BE STRENGTHENED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Owing to the constant reports of danger from marauding bands of Mexicans in the Big Bend country of Texas, it was deemed advisable today to strengthen the patroling force in that section.

Orders were issued today for two troops of the Third Cavalry to proceed from San Antonio to the border.

The War Department late today ordered a third troop of the Third Cavalry from San Antonio, to Eagle Pass, on the Mexican boundary, to aid in the enforcement of the neutrality laws.

REBEL VANGUARD IS MARCHING SOUTH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHIHUAHUA (via El Paso) March 9.—Gen. Salazar and the vanguard of the rebel army is moving southward cautiously. They camped tonight at La Delcas, which is about half the distance from this city to Santa Rosalia, where a Federal detachment of 125 men is said to be located.

Talks on Teeth Good Teeth Health

You need good teeth not alone to enjoy your food, but to have your food do you the good that nature intends. Given good food for every meal and good teeth to chew it with, and you will enjoy good health. You furnish the food and we guarantee to furnish you good teeth. That is our business, correcting tooth troubles and correcting them in a manner that restores tooth efficiency. We have spent fifteen years practicing dentistry, and during this period we have been absorbing all possible knowledge concerning our profession, not alone from our own calling, but we have drawn upon the knowledge and discoveries of the foremost members of the dental profession in this country. The result of our professional efforts and labors is a thorough understanding of every dental need and an ability to execute work in the most satisfactory manner possible.

WHAT WE CAN DO FOR YOU

It matters not what your tooth trouble are, it is possible for us to restore your tooth efficiency. If there is a cavity we will fill same with the necessary care required to do first-class work, not least of which is the preparation of the cavity for filling. This must be done right if the filling is to last. In crowning, equal care must be exercised in preparing the root for the crown. Our porcelain crowns are among the most successful of our dental achievements, and are most satisfying to our patients, since they restore the tooth in a manner that is quite like the natural tooth and quite as durable as many natural teeth. In case you need a complete set of artificial teeth, you will be supplied with the best counterpart of the natural teeth in size, color and contour that human skill can fashion. If you have two or more natural teeth in the jaw, we can restore the missing teeth by

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE.

This is the nearest approach to a duplicate of the natural teeth known to dentists. No plate or bridge is used, nor is any surgery or gum-cutting required. Instead the teeth are anchored to the natural teeth, and the result is teeth that look so natural that close observation will defy detection in a majority of cases. Alveolar teeth are comfortable and secretary, due especially to the absence of a plate. You can cleanse them just as you do natural teeth. You cannot know how desirable and practicable Alveolar teeth are until you have them. Our patients, to whom we are now serving, tell you of their advantages, and we have executed much of this work since it was introduced same in Los Angeles about six years ago.

Our Charges Are Reasonable

We do not ask fancy prices for our work. Just a fair fee—a reasonable one—just what anyone will gladly and willingly pay for high-grade work such as we invariably execute. Remember that we can always consult us free of charge regarding your teeth troubles, and there is no obligation incurred on your part in so doing.

ABE RUEF DINES IN ROADHOUSE.

Deputy Sheriff in San Francisco Is Suspended.

Two Women Said to Have Been at the Function.

Tire Puncture Delays His Return to Prison.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Deputy Sheriff William Kane was temporarily suspended today by Sheriff Eggers pending an investigation of a story that Kane permitted Abe Ruef, while en route to San Quentin Prison Thursday evening, to stop in San Rafael and enjoy a last dinner outside of San Quentin before he returned there.

The story was related with various details, which are denied by Kane and by Dr. Leo Sichel, a warm personal friend of Abe Ruef, who was accompanying him on his journey to the prison.

According to Sichel, when the party learned there would be no bus at Greenbrae they stopped at San Rafael for an automobile, taking their supper there. They then took the machine and started for the prison, but had a puncture, which delayed them.

By way of a final fling before returning to San Quentin, Ruef, according to another version, entertained a party of friends at a roadhouse near San Rafael.

Kane was instructed to remove Ruef to the prison in the regular prison bus, but, it is alleged, permitted the former boss to use an automobile instead.

The dinner party, which was attended by two women and a physician, lasted until nearly midnight and Ruef was several hours late in arriving at the penitentiary.

This is the second time Ruef's fondness for gaiety has been brought to the attention of the officials at San Quentin.

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The fight between Gov. O. B. Colquitt and the Daughters of the Republic, reached a climax here today when Judge Camp, in the District Court, made permanent an injunction obtained by thewomen's organization prohibiting the Governor from proceedig further with his remodeling plans for the famous Alamo. The daughters have plans of their own, which they desire to carry out and they say the care of the ancient building is in their hands. The Governor, through his attorneys, tonight announced he will take the fight to the State Supreme Court.

PASTORS WANT HIS PLACE.

THIRTY APPLICANTS IN ET THIRTY APPLICATIONS IN.

OREGON CITY (Or.) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] More than thirty ministers have made application for the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of this city, which will be vacated by the Rev. S. A. Hayworth March 20. The Rev. Hayworth has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Washington, Ind. The applications are from ministers in all parts of the country. The salary paid is $1000 a year. The Pulpit Committee of the Church met Friday night to consider the applications for the vacancy and will report to the congregation at the services tomorrow morning. Mr. Hayworth was born and reared in Indiana, and has been desirous of obtaining a charge in that State for some time. The salary offered him by the Washington church is several hundred dollars more a year than paid him here.

WOULD SUCCEED NEWLANDS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is announced today that George Wingfield, millionaire miner of Nevada, head of the Goldfield Consolidated, and interested in vast properties throughout the State, is expected to be a candidate for the office of United States Senator when the time comes for the choosing a successor to Senator Newlands.

ENLIGHTENING THE SOCIALISTS.

Gen. Baden-Powell Puts Them on the Right Track in Portland About the Boy Scouts.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, March 9.—Lieut.-Gen. Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, founder of the boy scouts movement, who came here in the interest of the organization, had a platform argument today with Socialists who attended a lecture delivered by him to the members of the scout organization of this city.

With James E. West of Washington, D. C., chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, Gen. Baden-Powell appeared on the speaker's platform. He was greeted with cheers from the scout organization and hoots and catcalls from a certain element of the local Socialist organization. The general was not permitted to proceed far with his address before interruptions from the Socialists forced him to stop.

The general then invited the Socialists to ask questions regarding the movement. Question after question was "fired" at the general, who promptly answered his inquisitors. It seemed to be the impression of the Socialists, judging by the nature of the questions asked, that the scout movement was antagonistic to the union labor movement and based on purely military principles and for military purposes.

At the conclusion of his address, Gen. Baden-Powell called upon Socialists to send some of their speakers to the platform. After several had been heard, one of the Socialist speakers volunteered the statement that western Socialists had misunderstood the purposes of the scout movement, and expressed the opinion that the organization would result in building up a better nation.

MOVING ELK A BIG TASK.

Captured in Wyoming, Animals Must Be Hauled to Railroad on Sleds, and Progress Is Slow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the most difficult experiments in handling large game animals ever attempted is now under way in the transplanting of a herd of fifteen elk from Jackson Hole, Wyo., to the Wallowa forest reserve in eastern Oregon, under the supervision of D. C. Nowlin of the Biological Survey. Twenty-five of these splendid animals were enticed into corrals and are now being sledded ninety miles over the Teton Pass to Saint Anthony, Idaho, which is the nearest point on the railroad, where they are turned over to the State of Oregon.

The whole herd came near being lost on account of a driving snowstorm in the roughest part of the mountains.

After four days the outfit of five teams had made but twenty-eight miles, and in one accident three of the elk were lost.

State Game Warden Finlay, with Deputies Cral and Averill, has gone out into the mountains to meet the shipment, which is expected to reach its destination Monday.

Five elk are now being held by the government at St. Anthony, Idaho, and when the twenty-two others arrive the Oregon officials will have the selection of the best and strongest animals.

The fund for transporting the elk to their new home was raised by Oregon Elks' lodges.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Slot Machine Felonious.

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) March 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] To operate a slot machine within the State of Utah is a felony, according to a ruling made by Judge J. M. Bowman in the criminal division of the City Court here today. Judge Bowman held that a trade slot machine was a gambling device and that the operation of such a machine was a felony as contemplated by an act of the State Legislature in 1911.

Census Case a Mistrial.

TACOMA (Wash.) March 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The jury in the case of Elmer L. Amidon, accused of census frauds in Tacoma, failed to reach a verdict today and was discharged by Federal Judge F. H. Rudkin after it had been out more than twenty hours. A second trial will be held. Amidon was a census enumerator here and was charged with having been implicated in frauds that added 35,000 fictitious names to the roll.

NEW DISTRICTS GOVERN.

Congressional Apportionment of Legislature Will Be Basis of Presidential Nominating Blanks.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—In an opinion handed down today by Atty.-Gen. Webb, answering a point raised by Secretary of State Jordan, the Attorney-General holds that for the purpose of circulating petitions, known as Presidential nomination blanks, for Presidential candidates in the Presidential preference primary election, the new Congressional districts, as formed at the extra session of the Legislature, will be used.

Following this announcement, setting at rest the troublesome question of Congressional districts, Jordan has given out the data upon which those spreading petitions must proceed to know the total number of signers necessary.

The total vote of Atty.-Gen. Webb will be used as a basis in every district in California with the exception of the Fourth and Fifth, San Francisco, Seventh, Fresno, and Ninth and Tenth, Los Angeles. In these districts, W. W. Shannon, running for the office of State Printer, received the largest Republican vote, and his total must be followed in determining the number of signers.

In the Seventh, W. H. Williams, former State Treasurer, received the largest Republican vote, and in the Ninth and in the Tenth Congressional districts, W. D. Stephens, Representative, was the highest and their totals must be used by petition circulators.

On the Democratic side, the vote of Theodore A. Bell being the highest in the entire State, with the exception of the Fourth and Fifth districts, San Francisco, will be used. In the districts named, Timothy Spellacy, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, received a larger vote than any other Democrat.

The Socialists have to follow the vote of J. Stitt Wilson, their candidate for Governor. He received more votes in all the Congressional districts than any other candidate.

WIFE CRAVED VIOLENCE.

Irvington Merchant Obtains Divorce After Woman, Tiring of Monotonous Peace, Leaves Him.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, March 9.—Edwin Hirschsen, an Irvington merchant, received a decree of divorce yesterday from Hazel Hirsch, who deserted his home two years ago, unable to endure longer his perfections. According to his testimony Hirsch gave his wife every luxury in his means, placed no restraints on her amusements, never showed jealousy, allowed her to help herself from his stock so that she had a wagon load of trunks on leaving him; never spoke an unkind word and never indulged himself in liquor, tobacco, profanity or late hours.

"Didn't she ever find fault with you?" asked the judge.

"Oh, yes," responded the witness, "she frequently said she could have loved me if I only beat her or at least scolded her once in a while."

APPEALS TO WICKERSHAM.

Georgia Man Was Fined for Shooting Himself Accidentally—Thinks Rights Are Infringed.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—A citizen of Barnesville, Ga., who declared he had been fined $25 for shooting himself accidentally with his own gun in his own home, has appealed to Atty.-Gen. Wickersham to know if there is any law in the land justifying such punishment.

Pending payment of fine, he is in jail. He asked "the government's highest attorney," to look his case over and reply "at once."

The Department of Justice responded that the matter was outside Federal jurisdiction.

CLAMOR FOR HIGHWAYS.

THEY ALL WANT TO GET IN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Beginning Wednesday, March 20, and continuing throughout the week, the State Highway Commission will hold conferences at its headquarters in this city for the purpose of hearing further claims and arguments of highway and road associations and other organizations for local roads to be constructed under the provisions of the $18,000,000 highway bond issue. Applications for appointments are being received by the commission. A delegation from San Mateo county, another from Santa Barbara and one from Tulare will occupy the attention of the commission on March 20 and 21.

PAPER EXPERT CALLED IN.

WILL SETTLE CONTROVERSY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Upon the findings of an expert in the East will depend whether the State finally rejects the order for 750 reams of ballot paper supplied under contract by the George A. Moore Company, and which it is charged by other concerns is not the grade of paper upon which the State Board of Control awarded the contract last January. The Board of Control held a hearing today, at which Secretary of State Jordan said the Moore paper was not up to standard. The representative said the acid tests upon which Jordan rejected the order were not fair. The agreement to leave the matter to the decision of an expert in the East was at the suggestion of the representative of the Moore company.

CITIZENSHIP RESTORED.

CONVICTS GET CLEAR BILLS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, March 9.—Pardons restoring Wallace H. Moore and J. J. Arborry, prisoners at San Quentin, to full citizenship were issued today by the Governor. In these cases pardons were extended upon the application of the judges and district attorneys who figured at the trial of the men. Moore was sent from Santa Barbara for a term of one year upon conviction of burglary. He has made a good record for conduct while in San Quentin and his term would have expired next week. J. J. Arborry was sentenced from San Francisco to serve two years for attempting to obtain money by false pretenses. His term would have expired within a few days and he also has an excellent record in the San Quentin Prison.

MUST PAY LARGE DUTY.

Many Pieces in J. P. Morgan's Art Collection Do Not Come Within Class Exempted by Antiquity.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—J. P. Morgan will have to pay a large sum of money in duties on the art collection which he now is bringing from abroad, in spite of the law recently passed to exempt works of art over 100 years old and paintings over twenty years old. A considerable number of the items in the London and Paris collections, it is announced, failed to pass the United States appraisers under the exempt clause, but exactly what the duties will amount to, has not been determined. Most of the very valuable pieces, however, are clearly duty free because of their age.

GERMAN NAVY AUGMENTED.

PROPOSED LAW PUBLISHED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLOGNE (Ger.) March 9.—The text of the proposed new naval law as published in the Volks Zeitung, which declares it received the information from clerical members of the Reichstag, provides for the expansion of the German navy from fifty-eight to sixty-one big ships with forty protected cruisers instead of thirty-eight. The new law provides for a battle fleet consisting of a flagship and five squadrons of eight battleships each; ten first-class cruisers and thirty protected cruisers. The fleet for service in foreign waters is to be composed of ten first-class cruisers and ten protected cruisers. Three active squadrons and one reserve squadron, together with a flagship, making in all thirty-three battleships, are to be kept constantly in commission. Two extra armored cruisers are to be stationed abroad.

The Crown of Womanhood

"Uncared for hair cannot be beautiful
There is no part of the human makeup s revengeful as the hair. It cries out: Lool at me, care for me, or I will disgrace you Treat me with consideration and I will be glory to you."

With the above words Lillian Russell, an unquestione authority on feminine attractiveness, places no uncertain valu on nice hair as a beauty asset. Unkempt, uncared or hair no only cannot be attractive but is actually a disgrace.

But why have illkept, untidy hair? By devoting a few mo ments regularly to brushing and intelligent application of NEW BRO'S HERPICIDE, the hair may be made to yield wonderfu returns in increased personal charm.

Dandruff, which is due to a germ or microbe, is the direc cause of more hair trouble than anything else. The hair become thin, harsh, uneven and falls out in quantities. It looks dea and lifeless: there is no luster. The scalp itches.

HERPICIDE will destroy this dandruff germ that is causing all the trouble, cleans the scalp, gives the hair life, snap and luxuriance. The hair stops coming out, the itching ceases almost at once and withal there is a most gratifying sense of cleanliness.

To the woman who wishes to make the most of nature's gifts by having fluffy beautiful hair, NEWBRO'S HERPI-CIDE is a toilet necessity. It is exquisitely perfumed and is a delightful hair-dressing.

PREDICT STRIKE OF COAL MINERS.

American Operators Steadily Refuse Their Demands.

Unions Think Crisis Abroad May Help Them Here.

Would Time the Break in a Presidential Year.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The prospect of a gigantic strike of coal miners, which will sweep the central, eastern and southern fields of the United States, has become clearer during the last few days. Coal operators have announced they will refuse all the demands of the United Mine Workers of America.

While this action, which was repeated at various conferences of the mine owners, does not preclude further negotiations, it strengthens the likelihood of a strike. So strongly does the agitation portend a strike that a number of operators have made arrangements to guard the coal in storage.

Operators of the central field and officials of the union held a joint conference in Chicago last Tuesday. Another meeting was held in New York the same day by the operators of the eastern mines. The eastern operators took a determined stand and the central mine owners gave the union leaders no hope of an amicable settlement unless the demands were modified. Another joint conference will be held in Cleveland on March 20, while a similar one is scheduled for New York on March 13.

The principal demands of the union miners are:

A seven-hour work day with pay for eight hours.

A 10 per cent. increase over the present wage scale.

A half holiday on Saturday, with pay for the full day.

After the conference Harry N. Taylor, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association, said no settlement could be reached unless the miners receded from their position. The present working contract expires on March 31 at noon.

The miners are relying on the British strike to help them. President White has also let it be known that considerable importance is attached by them to the fact that this is Presidential year. There are 500,000 members in the union.

FOOT OPPOSES THE BILL.

New York Senator Puts Himself on Record Against Proposal to Grant Porto Ricans Citizenship.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Senator Elihu Root of New York has written Mr. Rivera, Porto Rican delegate to this country, emphatically expressing his opposition to the granting of American citizenship to Porto Ricans. The Senator has just learned that a letter from him recently was misused by a political meeting in Porto Rico to represent him as an advocate of the Porto Rican citizenship bill now pending in Congress.

"I do not think that it is desirable either for Porto Rico or the United States that Porto Rico should become a State of the Union," wrote Senator Root to the delegate, "and I apprehend that a grant of citizenship of the United States would be a step in that direction; that it inevitably would be followed by a feeling on the part of the Porto Ricans that they were entitled to Statehood.

"I think that the true policies for both countries lie in quite a different direction, in the gradual development of the autonomy and local sovereignty of Porto Rico just as all of our States have local sovereignty regarding their internal affairs. The necessary corollary of this would be that as rapidly as the Porto Ricans acquire facility in self-government and develop capacity for it, the part taken by the United States in governing them should be reduced to as low a point as is consistent with the interests of both."

Lost Ground.

"SPANK THEM," IS CRY IN LONDON.

RECENT OUTBREAKS DAMAGING TO FEMININE CAUSE.

Former Suffrage Adherents Now Publicly Disavow Movement, and Champions Among Newspapers Join Chorus of Disapproval—Police Rescue Women from Crowds.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Even the most ardent supporters of female suffrage, outside a relatively small ring of the most extreme militants, admit that the last week's occurrences have done enormous damage to the cause.

Many individuals who have heretofore upheld woman suffrage now publicly disavow it, while important newspapers which have been its sturdy champions have sorrowfully joined the chorus of disapproval.

Nothing could more plainly show the really serious nature of this public disapproval than the action taken by the government in putting in force the law of conspiracy.

The Cabinet is hopelessly at odds on the woman suffrage question, and but for the pressure of other and more vital matters that situation, in view of the projected franchise bill, would alone be sufficient to endanger its existence.

The good-nature of a London crowd has long been proverbial. The police, before this week, devoted their energies to preventing the women from attacking. Now they have already been turned to protecting them from attack, and if the violent demonstrations continue, this will probably be before long the chief part of their duty on "suffragette days."

This may easily be inferred from what is heard throughout London. "Spank them," is a comparatively mild suggestion made in first-class smoking compartments. More drastic prescriptions are offered by the rougher elements. This may be more conveniently indicated by what has happened already on several occasions during the last week.

Two policemen with difficulty rescued a woman in Westminster on Monday night and brought her to the Cannon Row Police Station. Her shirt-waist was completely torn off and her skirt, hat and hair had also been dragged off, though it should be said that her hair had evidently been attached to the hat and not to her scalp.

On the same night a window-smasher was hustled by a crowd into a quiet alley off the Strand and practically stripped of her clothing which, however, was placed in her arms.

Hooligan women and boys are the perpetrators of these brutalities, but their actions, as usual, interpret in the most violent form the feelings of the more decent majority.

"TIZ Reminds Me of My Barefoot Days!"

"My Feet Never Get Sore, Tired or Chafed Now, Because I Use TIZ."

"TIZ makes me feel like a boy again. Nothing would hurt my feet in those days even when I'd run around barefooted with Rover, over rocks and pebbles and sticks.

"To be able now to have feet that never ache, never get tired, blistered, swollen or chafed, or have corns, callouses or bunions is a glorious recompense for all the other aches and pains one suffers in the winter of life. TIZ makes the feet feel young and young feet make you feel young all over.

"I've tried many things for my poor old tired feet, for those bunions of 20 years, and for those corns that have added wrinkles to my face. I've tried plasters, powders and salves—and nothing has ever given the relief that TIZ has. My feet are now strong and vigorous, they never get tired or swollen, I have no corns, callouses or bunions any more—they are boy's feet on an old man!"

TIZ gives instant relief and cures all foot troubles. It operates on a new principle, draws out all the poisonous exudations that cause foot miseries.

Don't accept a substitute. An elderly man especially has a mind of his own; see that you get TIZ.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

TO RENOMINATE HOOPER.

Republican Governor of Tennessee Seems to Have a Walk-Over—Taft Will Get the State's Delegates.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Ben. W. Hooper, Tennessee's first Republican executive for thirty-five years, elected on his pledge to enforce the prohibition laws, will be renominated unanimously to make the race to succeed himself by the Republican State convention, which meets in Nashville Tuesday. Republican conventions in every county of the State have indorsed his candidacy.

Gov. Hooper has failed to enforce the prohibition laws, little change in the operations of saloons in the larger cities of Tennessee being apparent, and has acknowledged that he has failed. In extenuation of his course recently he appointed a commission of lawyers composed of Republicans and Democrats to investigate his authority in this regard. The commission held him powerless to do more than he has done.

President Taft will carry Tennessee in his race for the nomination, with the exception of the Second Congressional District, it is conceded.

ENDS SUITS AGAINST SEE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two suits for $100,000 each filed against Evelyn Arthur See, leader of "Absolute Life," some time ago by Stephen H. Bridges, husband of Lucille M. Bridges, a follower of See, were dismissed today before Judge Joseph Fitch in the Superior Court. Two suits were dismissed on stipulation entered into by attorneys representing Bridges and counsel for See. The first suit filed by Bridges was for alleged alienation of the affections of the wife by See, and the second suit was for the alleged abduction of his daughter, Mildred Bridges.

HOMELESS MEN DIE IN FIRE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—Six men were killed in a fire in a Clark-street lodging-house here today. One of the six, Thomas McMath, a painter, jumped to his death from the fourth story and the bodies of five others were found where they had been suffocated or burned to death. The flames spread quickly through the building and the firemen had hardly arrived before men were rushing from the lodging-house. Some were trapped in their beds. Two jumped to life nets held by firemen and were injured. One of these, Oscar Amen, 38 years old, jumped from the third floor and struck a protruding sign. The establishment housed 175 men according to the proprietor. Fear that many more men had perished was dispelled when the firemen entered the building after the flames were under control and found the sleeping compartments empty.

SHARP CAN'T DROP EXTRA WIFE

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH (Kan.) March 9—Peter Sharp, who recently tried the experiment of living peaceably with two wives, both regarded as legal, was refused a divorce today from Celia Sharp, the younger wife. Celia Sharp was not in the court and the judge said he could not grant the decree unless she appeared and agreed. Peter Sharp's first wife, Anne Catherine, became separated from him in the confusion of the great Chicago fire. Thirty years later, believing her dead, Sharp married again. Last year Anne Catherine appeared. Sharp attempted to solve the dilemma by giving the two women equal rights in his home. Dissatisfied with the result, he filed divorce action against Celia Sharp last November.

The exposition is termed "The West. he exposition is termed "The World in Cincinnati," and has as its object the gathering together of missionaries from all parts of the world, who will depict the life of the missionaries in the foreign lands and the hardships that they are forced to endure.

BABY'S STOCKINGS LAST STRAW

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—Because of the kindness of Judge Goodnow of the Court of Domestic Relations, Bruno Woskowski is not working so hard today as formerly. When arraigned for desertion he explained to the court that he arose every morning at 5 o'clock, prepared breakfast for himself, wife and baby. Then he washed the dishes, dressed the beds and hastened to work to earn money for the next day's meals. In the evening he explained he went for the meat, cooked the supper, washed the dishes, darned stockings and retired with the happy thought that there was "nothing to do till tomorrow." The break came, he said, when he refused to wash the baby's stockings and dust the furniture. The court dismissed the charge of desertion.

Rainfall up to midnight for the storm, 1.60 inches.
Rainfall for the season, 7.16 inches.
Rainfall to the same date last season, 15.94 inches.
Forecast for today: Unsettled and showery weather.

Southern California was visited yesterday by another splendid soaking rain which will add millions of dollars to the coffers of the ranchers and fruit men of this section. The precipitation began early in the morning and continued without material intermission until midnight. The result has been to put agricultural lands in such condition that with clearing weather the farmers will lose no time in planting their crops. Pasturage is already in a much improved condition, from the former rains and the mountain slopes have donned a coat of green.

Concerning the present storm, Weather Observer Wollaber said last night: "This is an entirely new storm, distinct from the other, and has been moving inland over Southern California since Friday night. It was central off the Coast this morning and we have one of the lowest barometer readings at present that we have had in some years. We have advised shipping of the approaching storm Sunday morning and ordered storm signals displayed early today. The storm will cause continued unsettled weather in Los Angeles and vicinity on Sunday, with southerly winds over inland section and gales at sea."

The lowest barometer for several years was reported by some observers in Los Angeles.

Crop prospects all over Southern California were never brighter than at this time. The rain has soaked deep into the soil, giving good assurance to the beet men and bean men particularly. In Santa Ana 1.50 inches fell and in Ventura the precipitation while not so great, was of sufficient volume to create joy in the breasts of the men who have great plantations devoted entirely to beans and sugar beets.

POSSIBLE DAMAGE.

In Pasadena the rainfall was so heavy that streets were flooded and in several instances street cars were stopped. At 9 o'clock the police of that city were called to 109 South Meredith street by a report that a barn located on low ground was being carried away by the rising waters. A bridge which spanned a small wash in the same part of the city was washed out.

The San Gabriel River as yet has showed no signs of rising and none is expected until today, when it is feared damage will be done in lowlands. Snow is reported back in the mountains. San Anita Canyon creek is rising rapidly.

From Covina, the report comes that a washout on the main line of the Southern Pacific at Savannah due to the steady rain necessitated transferring the Riverside local trains' passengers at El Monte to the Pacific Electric cars.

San Bernardino reports say that the freight of railroad officials in connection with the tieing up of all railroads in that section. A surprisingly heavy rainfall occurred, nearly an inch falling in the valley, while in the mountains it measured more than six inches. All mountain streams were out of their banks, but the protecting walls erected by the rail-

CHICAGO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to statistics compiled by Construction News, building operations increased 113 per cent in Los Angeles during the month of February. That city leads the country in the number of permits issued with 1155, which compares with 744 in Philadelphia, 498 in New York, 441 in Chicago and 593 in Brooklyn. The cost of buildings erected in Los Angeles during the last month was $1,152,345, which compared with $1,069,227 during the same period last year.

Official reports from sixty-seven cities show an increase in the aggregate of 24 per cent.

"It is gratifying to note," says Construction News, "that notwithstanding February was the coldest month that has ever been recorded, reports from cities all over the country show an increase of 24 per cent over the same month a year ago."

Decreases are reported from but few cities but the increases in these have been phenomenally large, that at Kidston, for instance, being 1000 per cent.

Capt. Kidston, well known seaman, who brought the Kansas City, New York and Boston to their present owners, navigators, command of the Mariner recently.

Capt. Kidston leaves a widow and two children residing in Los Angeles. Another brother, Samuel Kidston, well known sea captain, being connected with the Pacific Coast service at the time the Mariner was in command of the Norwegian tramp steamer Fulton.

In Santa Ana 1.50 inches fell and in Ventura the precipitation while not so great, was sufficient volume to create joy in the hearts of the men who have large plantations devoted entirely to corn and sugar beets.

POSSIBLE DAMAGE.

In Pasadena the rainfall was so heavy that streets were flooded and in several instances street cars were stopped. At 5 o'clock the police of that city were called to 109 South Fair Oaks street by a report that a house located on low ground was being washed away by the rising waters. A bridge which spanned a small wash in the lower part of the city was washed out.

In San Gabriel River as yet has shown no signs of rising and none is expected until today, when it is feared damage will be done in lowlands. Flow is reported back in the channel. San Anita Canyon creek is running rapidly.

From Covina, the report comes that a washout on the main line of the Santa Fe Pacific at Savannah due to heavy rain necessitated transferring of the Riverside local trains' passengers at El Monte to the Pacific Electric cars.

From Redondo reports say that the force of railroad officials in connection with flood protection work, following the tieing up of all railroads in that section. A surprisingly large rainfall occurred, nearly an inch falling in the valley, while in the mountains it measured more than that before. All mountain streams are out of their banks, and the temporary walls erected by the railroads successfully withstood the onslaught of the water, and as a result all trains were on time.

In San Diego at 10 o'clock a terrific gale was blowing at the rate of forty-two miles an hour from the Southeast. It began late in the afternoon and reached the highest velocity ever recorded there. The wind was accompanied by rain. Windows were blown out, awnings torn from their fastenings and cornices carried away. Trees were uprooted and telephone and telegraph service crippled. Some damage is also reported from outlying districts, but no one has been injured. The steamers State of California and Yale were delayed by rough weather. Lights, apparently signals of distress, were reported as being seen off the coast from the lighthouse.

FORMER TYRANT MUST DIE.

Haytien Military Leader Charged With Instigating Riots Is Convicted by a Jury.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORT AU PRINCE (Hayti) March 9.—Gen. Jules Coicou, the former military tyrant of Hayti, was condemned to death today by a jury in the Criminal Court on the charge of having instigated the riot of March 15, 1908, in which ten persons, including three of his own brothers, were shot to death. The accomplices of Coicou were acquitted. The date of execution has not been settled.

Gen. Jules Coicou, who at the time of the outbreak in Port au Prince in 1908, was military commander of the district, was known chiefly for his tyrannical character. He was at that time known to hate thoroughly all white, and he threatened to "carve out the hearts" off all his enemies.

He is absolutely illiterate, and while he was in office used a rubber stamp in signing documents. He betrayed his brothers, Masillon, Horace and Pierre Louis, to President Alexis on March 14, 1908, and personally directed their execution on the following day. Altogether, on that occasion he killed twenty-seven men in less than an hour, but only ten of these murders were included in the charge against him.

Seattle ex-Actor Says the Lady Was Already Married When She Says He Proposed to Her.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That Sheridan Simpson, the musical-comedy star recently with Madame Sherry, was married at the time she claims to have made a contract for future marriage to Frank Stetson is the defense set up in Stetson's answer to her suit for damages filed today.

Miss Simpson alleges that in June, 1909, Stetson, who is a prominent business man of Seattle, and was then an actor, proposed to her and was accepted. She is suing for $35,000 balm, because, in 1911, Seteson was married to his present wife. Stetson's answer is a general denial of Miss Simpson's complaint, and he alleges particularly that at the time she avers Seteson proposed to her the singer was already married.

TO GET LARGE FORTUNE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It developed today that Miss Sopha R. C. Furness, daughter of the late William Ponsonby Furness, the West Indian merchant prince, left a will when she died a few weeks ago at her home, No. 280 Madison avenue, that disposes of her share of the $40,000,000 estate to her two sisters, Margaret E. Zimmerman and Clementine Furness. Miss Zimmerman is 72 years old and Miss Clementine Furness is 80.

In the will filed for probate with the surrogate today no mention is made of Grace Livingstone Furness, the author, who is a niece to the testatrix. Likewise, there is no mention of William Ponsonby Furness, second nephew of the dead woman, who applied to the surrogate for the appointment of a trustee.

CAPT. KIDSTON DEAD.

Mariner Who Brought the Beaver and Kansas City Around the Horn Passes Away on His Ship.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. William Kidston, in command of the Pacific Mail liner Pennsylvania, from San Francisco to Panama, died of Bright's disease last Thursday, when his vessel was within one day of Panama. The news of his death was cabled to the company today from that port.

Capt. Kidston was one of the best-known seafaring men on the Coast. He brought both the Beaver and the Kansas City around the horn from New York and was looked on by his employers as a reliable and careful navigator. He was advanced to the command of the Pennsylvania only recently.

Capt. Kidston was 45 years old and leaves a widow, son and daughter, all residing in San Francisco. His brother, Samuel A. Kidston, is also a well-known sea captain in the same service, being commended for heroism at the time the Beaver, of which he was in command, collided with the Norwegian tramp steamer Selja.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to statistics compiled by Construction News, building operations increased 113 per cent in Los Angeles during the month of February. That city leads the country in the number of permits issued, 1155, which compares with 1000 in Philadelphia, 498 in New York, 472 in Chicago and 393 in Brooklyn. The cost of buildings erected in Los Angeles during the last month was $1,000,000, which compared with $500,000 during the same period last year.

Reports from sixty-seven cities show all increases in the aggregate of 24 per cent.

"Nothing to note," says Construction News. "That notwithstanding this was the coldest month that has ever been known, building operations all over the country show again of 24 per cent. over the same month a year ago."

Decreases are shown in several large cities but they are in towns which have been piling up increases for so long that a brief respite is in a sense a relief. The figures in detail for the first fifteen cities, follow:

Cities.	No. of Buildings.	—1912— Estimated Cost.
New York	1,001	$10,934,353
Detroit	227	4,392,130
Boston (met. dist.)	182	4,062,000

OTHER TROUBLE FACES HANISH.

Juvenile Court May Give Sun Cult Leader a Jolt.

Unwholesome Influence Over a Boy Is Alleged.

He Has Ramifications Laid in Other States.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Juvenile Court may strike a severe blow at Ottoman Zar Adusht Hanish, Wusht Hanish Mazdaznan Sun Cult leader, within a few days.

Relatives of Maurice Clements, the boy who is known as the "Master's choice disciple," and who lived with Hanish at the temple, have consulted Judge Pinckney of the Juvenile Court regarding steps to be taken to wrest him from the influence of the prophet.

It was said today that a petition declaring the boy a delinquent would be prayed for soon. This would mean that Hanish would be subjected to a similar grilling to the one he received when the court considered the petition to take William Lindsay, the boy heir, from the custody of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay, a member of the cult. The court issued the order. In the meantime Mrs. Lindsay vanished with her boy.

The Clements boy is before the Federal grand jury, which is considering an indictment against Hanish for violating the new criminal commerce act by sending his book, "Inner Studies," into another State by express. It is said that he has revealed secrets of the cult that were so amazing as to widen the investigation and make the return of a number of indictments an imminent possibility.

The Federal inquisitors were not in session today, but deputy marshals were busy traveling about this State and other States to locate and serve subpoenas on much-wanted witnesses. The body will be in session again Tuesday.

It became known today that a manuscript said to be even more objectionable that the "Inner Studies," was found in a bureau drawer in Hanish's bedroom when the temple was raided and its leaders arrested.

A letter from a young woman, apparently one of the soul-mates of Hanish, was also found. In it Hanish was called "sunshine and light of my life."

KNOX WARMLY RECEIVED.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—American Minister Northcott at Managua cabled the State Department today that the visit of Secretary Knox to Nicaragua was regarded as extremely beneficial both to the United States and to the Central American republic. The American Minister belittled the outbreak of the Zelaya adherents and said the honors paid Secretary Knox were without precedent in Nicaragua.

LOST APPETITE AND HOPE

Neglected Cold Caused Complication, Promptly Restored by Peruna.

Mrs. Rosa Boyer.

Mrs. Rosa Boyer, 1421 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill., writes: "If any one has reason to praise Peruna it is surely myself.

"Last spring I became so run down from the serious effects of a lingering cold, that several complications united in pulling me down. I could neither eat nor sleep well, and lost flesh and spirit.

"I finally tried Peruna and it did wonders for me. In two weeks I was like another person, and in a month I felt better than I ever had before.

"I thank Peruna for new life and strength. I send you two pictures, so you can see what Peruna has done for me."

KING GEORGE DISPLEASED.

Loses Patience With Asquith and Lloyd George.

Amazed by Failure to End the Miners' Strike.

Hints of Calling Opposition Into His Counsel.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In Court circles there are reports of stormy interchanges between King George and Premier Asquith owing to the latter's failure to settle the coal strike.

The King is of impatient temperament and unable to appreciate the force of trade union organization. He is bitterly surprised at the failure of the Cabinet's mediation and expresses amazement that Asquith was unprepared with an alternative scheme for compulsory settlement.

THEIR POWER FAILS.

Mr. Asquith found it impossible to satisfy the King that the Cabinet had done its utmost, so Mr. Lloyd George, in whom the King has great personal confidence, was sent to reassure him. For once the Chancellor's brilliant powers of persuasion failed. The King suggested that an emergency might arise when he would be compelled to call to his councils the leaders of the opposition and ask whether they were prepared to carry on the government and deal with the present situation.

Lord Landsdowne was sounded, but Bonar Law intimated that such a step in the present crisis must indefinitely delay a settlement and that it was the duty of the government to discharge its responsibility in that connection.

THE KING DISPLEASED.

The King, displeased at this opportunist betrayal of the state, proposed to invite coal owners and the miners representatives to Buskingham Palace, believing he could force the government's proposal.

Mr. Asquith had difficulty in persuading him that the failure of such an extraordinary expedient would have the worst possible consequences. The King also wished to address a public appeal to the owners and miners, but Asquith asked him to defer this unusual proceeding until further efforts to bring about a settlement had failed.

So far as Tory leaders are concerned, there is nothing they would dislike more than an invitation to handle this thorny situation.

A WOMAN'S VIEW.

Preparations are making to minimize the serious consequence of prolongation of the miners' strike. Lady MacLaren, a well-known author, suggests that as a first step the government might prevent a further rise in the price of coal by fixing a maximum selling price and instructing every municipality and county council immediately to take possession of all stores at the government price. Even private stores she holds should be commanded wherever necessary and coal thus obtained should be carefully guarded by constables and soldiers.

"Next," she says, "the bakeries must be placed under municipal control and a continuous supply of bread must be guaranteed in every district as long as the strike lasts. All unnecessary fires must be suppressed. Millionaires must not toast their toes in the palaces, while poor people are dying of cold in the cottages. Rigid economy should be practiced in the preparation of meals and food depots should be organized in every street. Special boilers should be used sufficient to supply hundreds of people with hot nourishing foods such as thick pea and bean soups for ½ penny (one cent) the basin full.

"All feeding centers should be provided with boiling water, free, where men and women could fill their teapots. Pawnshops should be opened by the municipalities to provide people with food in return for goods. The Elberfeld system could be adopted, whereby towns are divided into districts, each under a captain and helpers, who would be responsible for every street in their districts and would report cases of need to the municipality. A public safety committee should be formed and every capable citizen should be pressed into the service to help. Compulsorily idle workmen should be kept busy collecting fuel and filling kettles."

LORD MAYOR TO RESIGN.

SERVES BERLIN LONG TIME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 9.—The lord mayor of Berlin, K. A. Martin Kirschner, who is in his seventieth year and has occupied the position snce 1899, announced today his intention of resigning. He was re-elected last year for another term. After the recent creation of the municipality of Greater Berlin, in which Berlin proper is combined wth all the suburban municipalities, Dr. Karl Steiner was elected mayor of the larger municipality.

AUTHOR CALLED BIGAMIST.

HUGO AMES FACES CHARGE.

HEROIC FISHERMAN SAVES THE LIFE OF HIS FRIEND.

OCEANSIDE, March 9.—If W. H. McDonald, a fisherman of San Pedro, lives after his experience of last night under an overturned launch in the surf at San Onofre, a station of the Santa Fe Railway, eighteen miles north of this city, he will owe his life to his companion, John Boohime, also a fisherman of San Pedro, the two men having a camp at the little stopping place of the trains.

The men were returning from a day's fishing with McDonald, an old man, at the wheel, when, in forging through the surf to the shore, the boat was overturned. Boohime, who was in the bow assisting in the work of making a landing, jumped clear as the craft capsized, but McDonald, weighted down with two big overcoats and long leg boots, was caught underneath.

Reaching the shore safely, Boohime looked about for McDonald, but failed to see him. That he was under the boat and in great danger of drowning was evident. Hastily removing some of his clothes, Boohime rushed into the surf and, reaching the overturned boat, dove under it and dragged the half-drowned McDonald out, carrying him on his back to the shore.

The effort exhausted him and with his load he sank upon the sands, where both men, lay, unable to get upon their feet. They were discovered by men in the section house and taken care of. Dr. S. R. Reid of this city was summoned and, with the help of the section men, worked the balance of the night to save McDonald's life. At noon today the word from the physician was that the fisherman would probably recover, although still suffering from severe exhaustion.

The work of Boohime in effecting the rescue under such trying conditions is highly commended, and it is likely that steps will be taken to secure for him a Carnegie medal.

POLITICS LIVELY.

Six candidates for four vacancies on the city Board of Trustees, and one candidate each for the offices of Clerk and Treasurer, is the result of the first work of the municipal campaign. The nominees for Trustees are: M. W. Goetz and E. G. Carter for the two year term; George E. Morris, M. W. Spencer, M. Pieper and F. W. Reike for the four-year term. David Rorick, attorney, is a "hold-over," being the fifth member of the board.

J. L. Mathews and T. V. Dodd, present members of the board, are not renominated, having declined to serve again. George E. Morris has been a member of the board for four years and has been its president for two years. Mr. Spencer, one of the "new men," is a lumber dealer and large property owner. Mr. Pieper is a retired hotel man and rancher, and Reike is a contractor and builder.

Mr. Goetz is a member of the firm of Goetz & Berry, and is at present a City Trustee, but whose term expires with this year. Mr. Carter is a contractor and builder. It is evident from the composition of the ticket that the candidates stand for a vigorous defense of the city's legal rights as to the diversion of water from the San Luis Rey for use for irrigation and other purposes in the vicinity of San Diego. Over 100 of the women of the city registered, so that the registered vote this election will be in the neighborhood of 700. Harry D. Brodie and E. S. Payne, Clerk and Treasurer, respectively, are candidates for re-election and are unopposed.

TURN THEM BACK.

As the result of the action of the Supervisors in authorizing the employment of forty men to patrol the county line between San Diego, Orange and Riverside counties for the purpose of halting the south-bound "I Won't Work" men and boys and sending them back, eighteen were stopped last night, the first night under the new order of things. Seventeen were intercepted at San Onofre, eighteen miles above Oceanside, on the line of the Santa Fe Railway, and two in this city, the latter having been taken from a freight train.

The guard is in charge of Sylvester Marron, constable, who now has the title of captain-general. Deputy Constable W. H. Trotter holds the position of lieutenant-captain. Six men are stationed at San Onofre, four in this city, four at Fallbrook, four at Pala and four at Rainbow. Other camps will be established. Oceansida is made the base of operations.

PROPOSAL IS ACCEPTED.

Bakersfield Oil Concern Reach an Agreement to Charge for Storing Oil.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Independent Oil Producers Agency with 57 directors voting yes and one voting no, today accepted the proposal of the Union Oil Company in substance as follows:

The agency will issue certificates covering all oil in tsorage belonging to its members on March 31, 1912, which will approximate 4,000,000 barrels.

The union will guarantee these certificates at 35 cents per barrel and will purchase in cash or bankable paper at 35 cents per barrel at least half of the certificates that may be offered within thirty days after their delivery to the agency members.

Of the certified oil, 300,000 barrels per month is to be soldd with the agency's current production.

Holders of certificates are to receive the full agency price for the oil as sold.

In the event the agency price is less than 35 cents, the difference is to be borne by the current production. The storage certificates are to run for about four years and no charge is to be made by the union for storing certificated oil.

President St. Clair, Secretary Robb and Attorney G. W. Lane of the agency to put the agreement into effect and to make any minor changes compatible with the spirit of the documnt.

The only other formal action taken was the adoption of a resolution to the effect that the agency accept monthly only as much oil as was sold the previous month and that all surplus production to be stored by the constituent companies on their respective leases.

OLD LADY IN FRONT.

DEL MONTE, March 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Del Monte's golf tournament closed today with the women's consolation handicap, which was won by Mrs. H. D. Quinby, aged 80 years. Mrs. Quinby is said to be probably the oldest woman golfer in America. She was allowed a generous handicap today, and her bonus of forty strokes gave her a net score of 105. Mrs. H. H. Sherwood, who played from scratch, finished second with a score of 108.

SICK HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, TORPID LIVER, CONSTIPATION—CASCARETS

Sick headaches. Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, awful throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the poison move on and out and purifying the blood. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box means a clear head and perfect health for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too. Children gladly take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

MASS MEETING OF VALLEY MEN.

Residents of Half a Dozen Cities Participate.

Make Plea in Resolution to Highway Commission.

Bouquet Canyon Route Is One Most Desired.

LANCASTER, March 9.—Braving a downpour of rain on Saturday, the residents of the Antelope Valley and representatives from many surrounding cities, met in convention at Lancaster and discussed with much interest the proposed highway route.

W. C. Fletcher of Los Angeles, who subsequently introduced the accompanying resolutions which were unanimously adopted, was the first speaker. He was followed by Supervisor R. W. Pridham, ex-Supervisor C. E. Patterson, Assemblyman C. H. Randall, F. C. Fenner and others. The resolutions adopted follow:

"The citizens of Antelope Valley and of Owens River Valley, represented in a convention held in the town of Lancaster, on this 9th day of March, 1912, do hereby respectfully represent to the Honorable State Highway Commission as follows, to-wit:

"That, whereas, the people of the State of California have voted the sum of $18,000,000 for the purpose of constructing two State highways through the length of the State, one thereof to be built along the coast and the other to take a course through the interior valleys, the latter being the one in which the people of Antelope and Owens River Valleys are interested; and

"Whereas, we respectfully submit to the Honorable Commission, it was not the intention nor the purpose of the voters that such highway should be built between the various county seats by the shortest route in all cases, but that such routes should be chosen as would serve the greatest number of people compatible with reasonable expense and digression from a straight line, in the circumstance of each case; that service to the greatest number of people of the State residing in the counties through which said route should pass, and not the conveniences of those able to travel long distances in automobiles, was the idea uppermost in the minds of the voters in appropriating said money; and

"Whereas, it is understood that the Honorable State Highway Commission has in contemplation the selection of a route commonly known as the proposed ridge route from Castaic to Tejon, and thence onward to Bakersfield; with the possibility, however, that a route may be selected by said commission easterly of Castaic Canyon; and relative thereto it is hereby respectfully represented:

"That the population along said ridge route does not exceed fifty persons, that the grade of said route and its remoteness from human settlement or places to which the needs of business or agriculture are likely ever to attract any considerable number of persons, in our opinion make it entirely unavailable, and its selection not in harmony with the spirit of the law;

"That with respect to a route through Bouquet Canyon, or some pass easterly thereof, whether Mint Canyon, Soledad Canyon, or by way of Arroyo Seco, it is respectfully represented that approximately eighteen hundred people now live in the Antelope Valley, and to them the State highway should be a mode of convenient access to the county seat of Los Angeles county, in which they dents of the neighborhood of Castaic facilities was, in our opinion, the chief aim of the voters in providing such highway.

"That the Antelope Valley district is being settled rapidly and a great many residents of Los Angeles visit the valley regularly, either to look after their holdings and investments already made there, or to seek homes or lands for improvement and investment; that such travel is now considerable, and is growing heavier year by year. That no travel of this class, nor, we are informed, of any other class save as to the few reserved or benefited by said Canyon and Piru Canyon, would be served or benefited by the said ridge route. That people have come and gone to and from the Antelope Valley and beyond for perhaps upwards of seventy-five years past; and these people have sought and have used the most practicable routes, all circumstances considered; that such travel has generally gone by way of Soledad or Mint, or Bouquet Canyon, with considerable thereof, through San Francisquito Canyon, when not rendered unavailable by washouts, but none thereof has gone by way of Castaic, except as to those having special interests there.

"That the Antelope Valley is capable of sustaining a population of many thousand people, and we believe that within a reasonable course of time this valley will become similiar in development and improvement to the Imperial Valley; that the altitude is approximately 2500 feet, and upwards above sea level; and that it is splendidly adapted to the raising of apples and pears, and all orchard products excepting citrus fruits; that it has a vast artesian belt, suitable for dairying purposes; that the added stimulus of the State highway traversing this imperial section of Los Angeles county will open up to home-seekers thousands of acres now lying unused.

"That likewise, the Owens River Valley is destined in the near future to become the home of a large population, and it is highly desirable that from the point of aid highway's entry into Antelope Valley, it shall take such course as will enable the people of the Owens River Valley to connect with it, for in addition to the service of the State highway to the people of Antelope Valley, we deem it important that the great Owens River Valley shall be made more accessible through the aid and influence of this highway.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that we respectfully represent to, and urge upon, the honorable State Highway Commission that, in the building of said State highway between Los Angeles and Bakersfield, the best available and most serviceable route will lie though Bouquet Canyon, or one of the passes easterly thereof, already mentioned; thence through Lancaster to Mojave, at which point connection may otherwise be made on behalf of the people of Owens River Valley; thence to Tehachapi and onward through the Tehachapi Pass to Bakersfield; that such route is not more difficult of construction nor more expensive than would be said ridge route; and that the enormously greater service to the people of the State living in Antelope Valley, the Owens River Valley and in the Mojave and Tehachapi sections, would warrant the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars additional, even if the route herein advocated should be more expensive than said ridge routes.

"Be it further resolved that the chairman of this convention appoint a general committee of fifteen persons to present this resolution to the honorable State Highway Commission, and to use all legitimate means to assist the commission to arrive at a determination in favor of the route here in advocated."

PROSECUTION SURPRISED.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—The taking of testimony in the case of John S. Rogers, charged with murder, closed today. Virtually no defense was made. The announcement that Rogers would not take the stand was a surprise to the prosecution. Rogers repeatedly had announced a desire to testify, and declared that he would "tell everything" when he was called. Attorney Brennan for the prosecution made his closing argument, after which the case was continued until Monday.

You'll Never Say So Again After You Read This, and Act on It. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Are the Open Secret.

Trial Package Sent Free to Prove It.

Thousands of people who hadn't really enjoyed a meal for years have given their stomach a new lease of life through the little wonder-workers. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They promptly put an end to flatulency, heartburn, dizziness, sick headache, dyspepsia, burning sensation, brash, fermentation and the other ills attendant upon a disordered stomach.

Here It's Noon, and this Man Hates to Think of Lunch. If He'd Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets He would Always Be Happy at Mealtime.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of pepsin and other natural elements that help out the gastric juices of the stomach. They are Natures digestives, the same kind the stomach uses when it is in good health.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not merely aid digestion—they actually digest the food themselves. All the hard work is thus taken off the stomach and it gets a chance to rest and recuperate. The undigested food which formerly produced nauseating gases i nthe stomach becomes thoroughly digested and as a result provides new brain and brawn and nerve cells to replace natural waste always going on.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act quickly, safely and naturally, just like Nature herself. They are an essential part of the stock of every drug store and are sold at 50c a box. You can get a trial package of them free by writing to F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

COLONEL'S SHIP WILL GET JOLT.

La Follette Determined Not to Let Him Escape.

Cannot Forgive Roosevelt for Ramming His Boat.

Friends Urge Taft to Make Fight in Wisconsin.

BY SUMNER CURTIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is appropriate this week-end to note the political convalescence of Senator La Follette. The Wisconsin exponent of a radical brand of "congressiveness" may not be strong enough to make himself formidable as a candidate in the contest for the Republican Presidential nomination, but from his bed in the hospital, to which he repaired after near-asphyxiation as a result of the turning on of the Roosevelt gas, he is likely to be in a position to make things more interesting than anticipated.

It became plain today that what other life is left in the La Follette boom would be utilized to make matters as embarrassing as possible to the candidacy of Col. Roosevelt. The friends-in-time-of-need that stick to the La Follette movement are willing to go down with his ship. If they can put a hole close to or below the water line of the vessel that collided with his flagship in the execution of a loop that was damaging, as the cruiser Brooklyn "turn" might have been to the battleship Texas off Santiago in 1898, they will have no regret.

TO THE LAST DITCH.

Publication in the current issue of La Follette's Weekly of a statement setting forth the "Necessity" of discusing "The records of candidates as well as the remedies proposed by them to correct existing social and political evils, gives only a partial clue to the tactics that are to be pursued by the last ditch La Follette men. This statement indicated a purpose of attacking Col. Roosevelt as one who has not been and is not now thorough in his championship of progressive principles as they are understood by the Wisconsin leader and agitator.

Of more practical significance, however, is the statement of Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin, heretofore regarded as the first lieutenant of Senator La Follette in all matters of politics and legislation.

Mr. Lenroot entered public life as a protege of La Follette. He was made speaker of the Wisconsin Assembly through his influence, and entered Congress on the wave of La Follette enthusiasm that enveloped the Badger State. He was successively the La Follette choice for United States Senator and Governor. They had their first difference when matters resolved themselves into a question of policy following the realization of the Roosevelt candidacy for a third term.

LENROOT'S WITHDRAWAL.

As the dispatches from Wisconsin have made known, Mr. Lenroot has withdrawn as a candidate for delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention. In these dispatches it was stated that Mr. Lenroot did not wish to be placed in the position of supporting La Follette and at the same time opposing the candidacy of Roosevelt. In his latest statement amplifying the reasons for his withdrawal as an aspirant for a delegate's seat at the Chicago convention, Representative Lenroot says: "I shall not be a candidate for delegate to the national convention, though I shall assist in every way within my power in selecting a delegation from Wisconsin for La Follette.

"I have been very close to Senator La Follette for years. If a delegate to the convention many would regard me as his spokesman there. The Senator and I have differed as to certain matters unnecessary to discuss at this time. It would be unfair to Senator La Follette under all the circumstance for me to take positions in the convention with which he is not in accord. It will relieve both the Senator and myself from embarrassment if I am not a candidate.

WILL SPEAK FOR SENATOR.

"I expect to make a number of speeches for the La Follette delegation if the campaign committee in charge deem it necessary."

The only two lines it is essential to read between in the above statement for the purpose of emphasizing the new situation are those which declare:

"The Senator and I have differed as to certain matters unnecessary to discuss at this time."

The reading between is not difficult for those who understand the conditions as they appear here. Senator La Follette thinks that his supporters should be for him, and him, alone; that they should not throw their support to Roosevelt for the purpose of defeating Taft. For the purpose of understanding the situation it may be assumed that Senator La Follette has no notion of commanding a force that he may throw to Roosevelt in order to encompass the latter's nomination. He believes Roosevelt is primarily responsible for the humiliating position in which he has been placed. The duty of anti-Taft progressives to embrace the emergency that is presented, and would therefore be in favor of abandoning a lost cause for one that might show prospects of success. Here is the difference; here the secret of the Lenroot position.

URGING TAFT ONWARD.

According to the information available here at this writing Roosevelt's name has not been entered in the primary preference contest in Wisconsin. The Taft managers have been receiving scores of letters from Wisconsin, many of them declared to be from former staunch La Follette adherents, urging that a fight be made for Taft delegates in the Badger State. Hopes of gathering Taft delegates there, previously held as chimerical, are of the rainbow variety, but have been raised to a high degree. With the Wisconsin situation presenting this new aspect, and conditions in North Dakota and California emphasizing the determination of La Follette's true friends to vindicate the

BY SUMNER CURTIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is appropriate this week-end to note the political convalescence of Senator La Follette. The Wisconsin exponent of a radical brand of "congressiveness" may not be strong enough to make himself available as a candidate in the contest for the Republican Presidential nomination, but from his bed in the hospital, to which he repaired after near-asphyxiation as a result of the turning on of the Roosevelt gas, he is likely to be in a position to make things more interesting than anticipated.

It became plain today that what other life is left in the La Follette boom would be utilized to make matters as embarrassing as possible to the candidacy of Col. Roosevelt. The down-to-the-last-ditch-in-time-of-need that stick to the La Follette movement are willing to go down with his ship. If they can put a hole close to or below the water line of the vessel that collided with his flagship in the execution of a ruse that was damaging, as the former Brooklyn "turn" might have been to the battleship Texas off Santiago in 1898, they will have no regrets.

The only two lines it is essential to read between in the above statement for the purpose of emphasizing the La Follette situation are those which declare:

"The Senator and I have differed as to certain matters unnecessary to discuss at this time."

The meaning between is not difficult for those who understand the conditions somewhere. Senator La Follette thinks that his supporters should be for him, and him, alone; that they should not throw their support to Roosevelt for the purpose of defeating Taft, or for the purpose of compromising the situation it may be that Senator La Follette has not the means of commanding a force that will go to Roosevelt in order to defeat the latter's nomination. Mr. Roosevelt is primarily responsible for the humiliating position in which he has been placed. Mr. Lenroot, on the contrary, believes it the duty of anti-Taft progressives to meet the emergency that is presented, and would therefore be in favor of abandoning a lost cause for the present, might show prospects of success. Here is the difference; here is the secret of the Lenroot position.

GOING TAFT ONWARD.

According to the information available at this writing Roosevelt's name has not been entered in the Nebraska preference contest in Wisconsin. The Taft managers have been receiving scores of letters from Wisconsin, many of them declared to be from lifelong stanch La Follette adherents, making that a fight be made for Taft delegates in the Badger State. Hopes of gathering Taft delegates from districts previously held as chimerical by the rainbow variety, have been raised to a high degree.

With the Wisconsin situation presenting a new aspect, and conditions in North Dakota and California favorable, the determination of La Follette friends to vindicate the personal as well as the impersonal cause that brought about the Wisconsin Senator's candidacy, the general conditions became much more interesting than they were originally. In the remote event of a deadlock in the Chicago convention whereby La Follette would be sure to hold the balance of control, as matters now stand, there would be opportunity for sweet revenge. The La Follette idea now is to make somebody regret the treatment his friends declare he has received.

SPLIT ON THE PRIMARY.

MASSACHUSETTS HAS SCRAP.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, March 9.—The lower branch of the Legislature split with the Senate on the Presidential preference primary bill, and unless one branch recedes soon, Massachusetts will select its delegates to the Chicago and Baltimore conventions under the old system. The House amended the bill passed by the Senate to include the selection of delegates-at-large as well as district delegates by primaries, but later killed an amendment that would have altered the bill in conformity with the Senate provisions. The enlarged bill now goes back to the Senate, which recently defeated a proposition to include delegates at large. Friends of the Presidential primary plan fear the measure will fail.

A TAFT DELEGATION.

NEW MEXICO'S CONTRIBUTION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) March 9.—Supporters of President Taft in the State Republican convention here today named eight delegates to the national convention in Chicago. Resolutions indorsing the Taft administration were adopted, although the delegates were not instructed. H. G. Bursam, Republican candidate for Governor in the last election who recently declared for Theodore Roosevelt for President, was given a place on the delegation by acclamation.

Urgent.

HOUSER OFF FOR NORTH DAKOTA.

LA FOLLETTE MANAGER LEAVES FOR SCENE OF BATTLE.

Promises "Good Report" There for Radical Candidate and Asserts La Follette Will Surely Come to California Before Primary Election—Going After Delegates.

Walter L. Houser, campaign manager for Senator La Follette, left Los Angeles last night for North Dakota, at the request of La Follette. Houser regretted that he could not remain over and hear Gov. Johnson's speech as Houser wants very much to hear from the Governor's lips the explanation of why he turned from the Wisconsin candidate.

"I returned from San Diego expecting to attend the meeting" said Houser, "but I find an urgent telegram from Senator La Follette asking me to go at once to North Dakota. The Presidential preference election is to be held there a week from next Tuesday and I think I can promise a good result from it for La Follette."

Houser said he is not sure that La Follette will meet him in North Dakota, but thinks it probable.

"In any event he will visit California before your primary election and make a canvass of the State." he added.

Nearly all the politicians will have their eyes on the North Dakota election because it is the first one to be held in the country since the Roosevelt candidacy was announced. It has many interesting features.

One is that Roosevelt formerly claimed it as his "home." He ranched there for a time when a young man and the State has always had a good feeling for him. But in insurgency it has always been ranked as the hotbed of La Follette radicalism and was depended on by the Wisconsin candidate to go overwhelmingly for him. When Roosevelt came out the insurgent leaders expressed the hope that only Roosevelt's name would go before the voters. Houser hurried to the State and prevented this annihilation of the political hope of his candidate. During his stay the situation was further complicated by the provision of a Taft ticket and a new organization for him making the fight three cornered instead of a solitary race as the Roosevelt insurgents wanted.

The La Follette organization here is pushing its work of getting his nomination petition and starting the processes of selecting delegates for the national convention.

TAFT DELEGATES NAMED.

DIVISION IN KNOXVILLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KNOXVILLE (Tenn.) March 9.—A spit occurred in the Second Congressional District Republican convention here today. Roosevelt supporters outnumbered the Taft adherents and took possession of the convention hall. Taft supporters withdrew to another hall. Preceding the conventions the Congressional Committee seated Taft delegates from contested counties. The Roosevelt convention elected John C. Houck and Judge H. B. Lindsey as delegates. The Taft delegates are T. Asbury Wright and John Jennings, Jr.

TAFT MEETING HERE TOMORROW.

All Republicans favoring the renomination of President Taft are cordially invited to attend the meeting at Symphony Hall, No. 232 South Hill street, tomorrow afternoon, March 11, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of perfecting an organization covering Southern California.

Temporary headquarters, Suite 323 Angelus Hotel.

Col. Charles Mifflin Hammond, State chairman, will be present.

P. A. STANTON,
Chairman.

Helping Hands.

TAFT ORGANIZERS HERE TO ATTEND BIG MEETING.

COL. CHARLES MIFFLIN HAMMOND of Lake county, chairman of the Taft Republican organization of California, and Mrs. Abbie E. Krebs of San Francisco, president of the Women's Taft Republican Organization, arrived in Los Angeles last night on a joint mission of stimulating the Taft organization of the South.

Not that stimulation is needed, for Chairman Stanton is receiving the greatest encouragement from all the counties, but because "every little helps" are the two distinguished persons here.

Col. Hammond is to speak on behalf of the State organization at the Taft meeting in Symphony Hall, No. 232 South Hill street, tomorrow afternoon, and Mrs. Krebs will also made an address.

Col. Hammond is a brother-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt and is a well known lumberman of the North. Six years ago he made a campaign against Senator John Bunyan Sanford in his Democratic district and came very nearly being elected.

Taft Republicans headquarters in the Angelus Hotel yesterday received more announcements of assistance than it had been deemed possible in the short time the organization has been under way. Over forty Republicans telephoned their names and addresses and two promised ten additional names each. In addition, about 100 defied the elements and made personal visits to the headquarters to give assurance of support.

Monday's meeting is to be the nucleus out of which the whole Taft force of the South is to be solidified before the primary election, which is May 14. In two months, practically, a whole Presidential battle is to be begun and fought in California, because it is regarded, in view of the immense Republican registration, that the party will be victorious in November. But the promptness with which the Taft supporters are rallying indicates that not only will organization in the South be easy and effective, but that it will bring a successful result at the polls.

LOEB ALSO FOR TAFT.

That's the Interpretation of the Politicians on the Call of Collector at MacVeagh's Home.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Political significance is given by those watching the straws to see the direction of the Presidential breezes to the social call today of William Loeb, Jr., Collector of the Port of New York, at the home of Secretary MacVeagh of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Loeb were entertained at a formal dinner by Mr. and Mrs. MacVeagh last night and the visit continued through the day. The attitude which may be taken by Mr. Loeb, who became prominent as private secretary of former President Roosevelt, is the subject of considerable speculation.

The fact that he accepted the invitation at this time, and made the trip from New York to confer on other than departmental matters with a member of the Taft Cabinet who is ardently working for the re-election of the President, is taken to indicate that the Collector at New York will be with the Taft forces.

President Is Secure.

TAFT ON FIRST BALLOT, IS INDICATED BY POLL.

Chief Magistrate Will Go Into the Chicago Convention With Fifty-four Votes More Than Number Necessary to Nominate, and More Than Twice as Many as Roosevelt, According to Canvass of All States.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Taft in the first ballot in the National Republican Convention—that is indicated by a poll made by the New York Herald's representative in every State. Making generous allowance for the claims of the Roosevelt men, the correspondents, striving in every instance to be impartial and as analytical as possible, give the President 593 votes against 277 for Mr. Roosevelt. The President will have on the first ballot, providing conditions are the same in June as they appear now, 54 more than the necessary majority of 539.

Inquiries by the Herald's experienced correspondents show a strong shift to Mr. Roosevelt in some sections, but reveal nothing like the "avalanche of sentiment," which it was predicted would develop as soon as Mr. Roosevelt came out in the open. They disclose widespread dissatisfaction with Mr. Roosevelt for "backtracking" on his third-term pledge, and a determination—a sincere determination—on the part of the Republican leaders in all parts of the country, with a very few exceptions, to bring about the renomination of Mr. Taft.

ROOSEVELT REJECTED.

In all quarters Mr. Roosevelt is being attacked for his ultra-radicalism as voiced in his recent Columbus, O., speech. One-time Roosevelt followers have gone from him literally in droves, but partly to offset this, his new radicalism, which includes the recall of judges and judicial decisions in certain circumstances, has won over to his standard many radicals who hitherto had stood aloof on the ground that Mr. Roosevelt was not radical enough. It likewise attracted to his tent many of the one-time followers of Mr. La Follette.

It is, of course, difficult to get an accurate line on a political convention when fewer than one-tenth of the delegates have been chosen, but the Herald has sought to do so and has relied entirely on the judgment of its correspondents, who, in every instance, reflect the best judgment of the leading men in their States. These correspondents were told that the Herald had no "axe to grind" and was determined to make a canvass in an entirely impartial way. Up to date, 92 delegates have been elected, all but two of whom are for President Taft. The two are uninstructed. In many States the situation is so chaotic that the leaders themselves refuse to make any prediction.

TWO BOOMS COLLAPSE.

Utter collapse appears to have come to the La Follette and Cummins booms. In his own State, Wisconsin, it is indicated that Mr. La Follette will get twenty of the twenty-six delegates, with Mr. Taft taking the six. Minnesota, where for a time there was a remarkable whirlwind of sentiment for Mr. La Follette, is credited with giving him four of her twenty-four votes.

The bitterer the fight between the two old friends and cronies becomes, the more is heard about naming a compromise candidate to prevent disaster at the polls. Justice Charles E. Hughes is the only compromise mentioned.

A summary of the Herald's poll follows:

PROGRESS IS DEFINED.

to the acts of his own administration to prove its progressiveness. He said in part:

"Under the Jeffersonian idea, it was thought that the least government of mankind was the best and that the more nearly the functions of the government were confined to the administration of justice and to the enforcement of law, the better; but under present conditions of population and civilization, there are many functions that the government can more effectively and more economically perform than private enterprises and in this way the individuals among the people may derive greater benefits. The statutory provision of the legislative discharge of such functions by the government is progressive.

"There were many who were not Socialists, but who saw in the present structure of our government, and especially in the checks and balances intended by the framers of our Constitution to secure deliberation and calm actiof on the part of the people, a real obstruction to the reforms that were deemed necessary in order to maintain the proper control of capital and corporate privilege by popular will, and to secure equality of opportunity.

"Progressives of this stripe attained a great popular support and were able, for a time, at least, to give the impression that others who were equally imbued with the necessity for reform by legislative and governmental action, but who thought it might come without destroying the present structure of our government and without affecting the guarantees of life, liberty and property, were reactionary and unsympathetic with the cause of the people.

"The bitterness of the attacks which they made upon men in responsible positions, the lack of restraint they manifested in impeaching the motives of men as high-minded and as honest as any of them, were only symptoms of a psychological situation that must pass under the calming lapse of time as the public came to view the situation with a knowledge of the facts and with that common sense and spirit of fairness that ultimately always prevails among the American people.

"We all believe in popular government. I am aware of the criticism to which the suggestion that the American people may make mistakes by hasty action and lack of deliberation will expose one. I am aware of the ease with which such suggestion can be tortured into an expression of a distrust in the American people. I am aware that a body of people does not differ in certain traits from the individuals who make it up and that people like to be flattered as do individuals. I know that a whole people does not, any more than the individuals, enjoy having their own defects pointed out to them.

"The truth is though, that the man who tells the people of the danger that may arise from mistaken and hasty action, pays a higher tribute to them than the one who constantly fawns upon them as if they were incapable of error. The most abiding compliment that can be paid to the American people is to point to the fact that in the constitution which they framed and have maintained, they have recognized the danger of hasty action by themselves and have, in its checks and balances, voluntarily maintained a protection against it. The truth is, in this last century, we have vindicated popular government in a way that it has never before been vindicated.

"Distrust of popular government! The pride that I have that this is a popular government, and that it has shown itself the strongest in history, is as deeply imbedded as any feeling that is in me. I would be the last man to exclude from the direction of the ship of state the will of the American people. That is the ultimate source of authority, and it does not in any way minimize my faith and my love of popular government that I insist that the expression of that popular will shall be with deliberation to make it sound and safe.

"I fully and freely admit and assert that when the American people have had time to learn all the facts, and have had the time to consider their bearing, their deliberate judgment is a wiser and better guide for the state than the judgment of the most experienced statesman, the most learned jurist, the most learned and profound student of history. In this proper sense the voice of the people is nearer to the voice of God than any other human decision."

Mr. Taft was indorsed by the Swedish American Republican Club in resolutions, which declared that "prosperity of the country would be endangered at this time by a failure to re-elect President Taft."

A GRAND RECEPTION.

As a climax to his activity in Chicago, President Taft in the afternoon visited South Halsted street, running

Pimples? No They've All Gone

No More Humiliation; the Wonderful Stuart's Calcium Wafers "Get Right After" those Pimples, Boils and Skin Eruptions

Trial Package Sent Free to Prove It.

No need for anyone to go about any longer with a face covered with pimples, blotches, eruptions, blackheads, and liverspots. These are all due to impurities in the blood. Cleanse the blood thoroughly and the blemishes will disappear.

That's what Stuart's Calcium Wafers are intended to accomplish and do accomplish. Their principal ingredient is Calcium Sulphide, the quickest and most thorough blood cleanser known.

These wonderful little wafers get right into the blood, and destroy eruptive substances present in it. In some cases a few days is sufficient to make a marked improvement. And when the blood is pure the whole system is a hundred per cent. better.

Don't fret any longer about those blackheads, pimples, boils, tetter, eczema, spots or skin eruptions; they all go and "go quick" if you use Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

You can have a trial package of Stuart's Calcium Wafers, simply by sending your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Then, when you have proved their value, you can get the regular size package for 50 cents, at any drug store.

The Relation of Brock & Company to the Fashion Show

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week--Los Angeles holds her Annual Spring Fashion Show.

This event will usher in the authentic styles for the coming season.

In so far as the new jewelry styles are concerned, interest will center at the house of Brock & Company.

Here will be shown in almost unbounded scope the newest and most exclusive creations of the jewelry world. There are few stores in this country where you will find such a magnificent showing of unusual gem pieces. There are many absolutely new and exquisite platinum and fine gold pieces--beautifully set with perfect diamonds and other precious stones, which it is entirely beyond our power to describe.

And so it is throughout the entire store--new ideas in gold jewelry for men and for women--new suggestions in novelties of sterling silver--the new models in timepieces--the new table silver--the new designs in California cut glass--new patterns in English china--the new productions of the Tiffany studios--the new styles in fine stationery. Every department of the store abounds with new things which will add to the interest of the Fashion Show. Welcome.

FAST TIME IN TRACK MEET.

Sophomores Easily Win in Class Contests.

Bradway and Ed Stanton Stars for Freshmen.

Wood Runs to Form in Hundred-Yard Dash.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fast time was made in nearly every event of the annual interclass track meet, held this afternoon on the varsity oval. The sophomores were easy winners with a score of 48 points, while the Seniors were second with a count of 27 1-6. The juniors made 24 1-3 while the freshmen annexed 20½ tallies.

Bradway of Hollywood and Capt. Ed Stanton of Los Angeles were the stellar performers for the freshmen, running first and second in the hundred. Ed Stanton got second in the 220-yard dash. Dwight Wood ran to form, making 10.1 in the century and winning handily in the furlong.

Floyd Rice was only an inch and a half behind his intercollegiate mark of last spring in the shot-put, with a heave of 44ft., 11in. Results:

The 100-yard dash—Won by Wood, '14; Bradway, '15, second; Stanton, '15, third. Time, 10 1-5s.

Mile race—Won by Wood, '13; Hayne, '12, second; Cooper, '15, third. Time, 4m., 41 1-5s.

The 120-yard hurdle—Won by MacLise, '14, Balser, '13, second; Knapp, '15, third. Time, 16s.

Two-mile race—Won by Crabbe, '14; Rathbone, '16, second; Zelle, '14, third. Time, 10m., 17 1-5s.

The 440-yard dash—Won by Todd, '15; Meyer, '14, second; Chase, '12, third. Time, 51 2-5s.

The 880-yard run—Won by Smith, '13; Griffths, '14, second; Nelsen, '15, third. Time, 2m., 8s.

The 220-yard dash—Won by Wood, '14, Stanton, '15, second; Claredius '12, third. Time, 22 2-5s.

The 220-yard hurdles——Won by MacLise, '14; Havens, '13, second; Wallace, '12, third. Time, 26 1-5s.

Relay—won by seniors, freshmen second.

Hammer throw—Won by Shattuck, '14; Ready, '12, second; Gabbert, '12, third. Distance, 148ft., 10in.

FRANKIE CONLEY BREAKS WITH JONES.

Frankie Conley has a new manager and expects to start out again on a new tack.

In pursuance of this he wired Tom Jones yesterday, according to report that he had severed business connections with Tom and would try someone else in the future.

This someone else is not other than Tom Bond, a well known local sport who is one of the few owners of an oil refinery in San Luis Obispo county and a friend of Jeffries, Jones, Wolgast and the bunch.

Just what Bond intends to do with Conley is the way of matches is not known, for the papers are not signed as yet, but it is presumed that he will buy himself at once with the proposition of getting a suitable match for Frankie. On the other hand he may make him lay off a month and have him take boxing lessons. Bond himself does not know what to do.

TOO MUCH RAIN PREVENTS GAME.

Owing to the rain it was impossible to have the scheduled ball game between Vernon and the Santa Clara team at Washington Park. A game with Vernon is scheduled for this morning at the Vernon grounds and one for this afternoon with the Los Angeles Angels at Washington Park but the chances are that both games will have to be called off on account of wet grounds.

All of the players from Santa Clara are here and have told Hap Hogan that they will remain over until Monday in order to get the chance of beating his team. Years ago Hap played on the Santa Clara club and naturally he thinks that he now has a better club than the northern college.

ADVICE TO PITCHERS.

"Remember this, young fellow, every time you wind up and throw a ball, it takes just so much strength out of your arm. There's something goes out with each swing that never comes back. You are young and healthy now, and you don't notice it, but in six or seven years you'll begin to wish that you had taken things easier when you were a kid. Don't forget that there are eight other men on the team beside yourself. They are drawing down salaries and you might as well let them earn them. Don't try to do all the work. You have the goods but if you work too much you'll find yourself getting shoved into the discard along about the time you ought to be doing your best work."

Motor Boat Trophy.

CHICAGO, March 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] A perpetual international trophy for power boat racers in the shape of a $5000 cup was presented to Wm. Hale Thompson, commodore of the Chicago Yacht Club, as trustee, today by Wm. Wrigley, Jr., in a meeting in the Chicago Athletic Club. The trophy will be for competition between power boats of forty feet and under. The first race for the cup probably will be run in August.

PROGRESS IS DEFINED.

through districts occupied largely by foreign-born population. As he passed Hull House Settlement and went through some of the West Side thoroughfares, his reception was demonstrative.

An abundance of flags and placards bearing the salutation "we are all with you, Bill!" fluttered into view. The crowds were dense.

In a theater in Blue Island avenue and West Twelfth street, the President addressed an audience in which many nationalities were represented. A choir sang in Hebrew, a song entitled "Blessed and Protected be the President, William Howard Taft." The President's appearance on the stage while the song was being sung aroused continuous cheering. The President's subject was "Immigration."

"Sons and daughters of another country, many of you, you have come here to find happiness," he said. "But you must learn that the more a people shows itself fit for self-government, the more it shows its willingness to put restraints upon itself."

It was the first time in the history of the Jewish colony that a President had addressed a Jewish assembly. In honor of the visit of Mr. Taft a time-honored Jewish custom was broken for the first time in Chicago when a Jewish newspaper was printed on the Jewish Sabbath.

Soon after the President spoke, copies of the paper containing the President's speech were sold in the West Side streets.

TO THE STUDENTS.

"Great reforms are achieved by thoughtful consideration and not by momentary impulses," declared President Taft today in an address to students at the Armour institute of Technology. "Be a bit slow about schemes to reform the world."

President Taft's appearance before the students, to whom he was introduced as the "chief progressive of the nation," was the first public event of his two days visit here.

"I would not discourage you in your efforts toward progress; all I ask is that you apply the test of human nature," he said.

"Progress always will be made wherever education spreads. Be optimistic, boys. Because you get jolts, don't think the whole world is against you. One man does not make a multitude any more than one swallow makes a summer.

"The only thing the country can do is to make more perfect the equality of opportunity. The opportunity that comes to Americans today is greater than that which comes to any other people in the world.

"Study how for 125 years the law and Constitution have worked and reason out why we have survived and shown the world that popular government is the most enduring. You will find after a while that it is best, and is going to stand another—oh, I don't know how many years—because we have a people that know the advantage of self-restraint and who have provided against action by themselves under momentary impulse. That's what makes this country great. That's why I can tell the people the truth."

President Taft, in the banquet-room of the Union League Club, discussed the attitude of the administration toward business.

"It is the duty of the administration," said he, "to conserve the prosperity of the country, not only for the business man, but for those who are dependent on prosperity for their daily labor.

"No charge against me has made me more sad than that which alleges that the enforcement of the anti-trust law has injured business. I enforced the law because I believe it a good law and one which will enable the government and business to draw the line clearly and fix where each stands.

"I hope the feeling which prompted the charge has abated, not because I am afraid of it, but because I am in favor of reconciling business to the limitations of the law."

AT BREAKFAST.

While at breakfast Mr. Taft received several visitors. Among these were Gov. Charles S. Deneen, David R. Forgan, president of the Taft Club; Roy O. West, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and Postmaster Daniel Campbell. After breakfast the President looked from the hotel windows and as it was a bright day said he was prepared to have a good time while in Chicago. The programme included a reception at the Taft headquarters at noon, luncheon at the Union League Club, the address to Jewish residents and a visit to the Chicago Press Club.

AN OPEN LETTER.

NEW HAMPSHIRE EPISTLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—A letter addressed to President Taft by the Roosevelt Republican League of New Hampshire was made public by the Roosevelt organization here today. It follows: "In view of the situation of the Republican party, we believe a full expression of the preference of the voters should be taken as to their choice for a candidate for President. We ask that you lend your aid to this end. If such a vote is taken it will go far toward healing the differences now existing in the party. It is clear that a majority of the Republicans in this country feel certain the salvation of the party rests fundamentally on a bona fide expression of a majority of the Republican voters as to whom they want as a candidate."

Out of Tune.

LA FOLLETTE'S NAME CHEERED.

Roosevelt Audience Surprises Third-Term Leaders.

Johnson Says the Cause and Not the Man Prevails.

Start Organization Out of Remnants of City Club.

It's the "cause" and not the "man." This is Gov. Johnson's sole explanation why he so suddenly abandoned La Follette for Roosevelt. It was made to about 1500 persons who braved the storm last night and half filled the Auditorium, and it displayed the Governor as a new Brutus loving La Follette not less but the "cause" more.

From Marshall Stimson, who presided, to Lee C. Gates, who ended the speaking, the idea was expressed that "no man's ambition" is supreme to the "cause." Thus vaguely the audience was asked to understand that La Follette represents only ambition and could not win with the cause, so the cause must win with a new and more spectacular leadership.

In support of this and to bolster up the assertion that Roosevelt's Columbus doctrine is the same he preached in his message of 1908, the Governor read copious excerpts from that message.

It was the policy of all speakers at the opening Roosevelt third-term meeting, to avoid three perils—the mention of Taft, of La Follette and third terms. Only once did this trio get mention. Lieut.-Gov. Wallace, in prelude to the Governor, declared how it had been prophesied that Johnson would be elected, would "redeem" California and would then, from the "highest peak of the Nevadas," stretch his arms, first to Bristow of Kansas, then to Dolliver of Iowa and then "to that matchless Senator from Wisconsin—"

LA FOLLETTE DEMONSTRATION.

That was the only break, for instantly the house broke into wild applause of La Follette. Wallace quickly saw his mistake and tried to check the demonstration, but it only became greater. For a full minute the cheering continued, and Wallace waited, red-faced, until it spent itself. "There is no greater in the Senate" said Wallace desperately, which brought renewed applause.

Wallace declared that Johnson had gone to Roosevelt and putting his hand on the shoulders of Roosevelt told him to "lead, for California follows."

"And what do you think Roosevelt said?" asked Wallace. "Why he said, 'Bully.'" [Great applause.]

Stimson introduced Johnson, who immediately rebuked his Lieutenant-Governor by declaring that he had never been to Sagamore Hill and he likened Wallace's story to the words of the great orator, about a candidate, which were all right except that they were all untrue. Wallace sat burning behind the Governor while the splendatic executive roasted him in all seriousness. Of course the auditory understood that the La Follette incident had probably aroused the ire more than the tawdry apotheosis of Johnson.

In his remarks Johnson ignored everything but the fact that Roosevelt is the only man who can win an insurgent victory—the "one hope of success"—and while he put the "cause" above the man he never lost sight of the fact that Roosevelt is the "man," even if seeking a third term.

Gov. Johnson gave his first expression as to his switch from La Follette in the afternoon at the embryo Roosevelt Club. During his remarks some one asked: "How about La Follette?"

ANOTHER JOHNSON VIEW.

"My interest in the cause," said the Governor sharply, addressing the unknown questioner, "is not in any man, or set of men or the fruition of any man's ambition; this cause means more to me than my regard for Senator La Follette or my regard for even Theodore Roosevelt."

The "club" was organized at the Westminster Hotel by about 100 State and city office holders, candidates and job hunters, who cheered the Governor. Its formation was half an hour after the adjournment of the City Club, and there was no attempt to assimilate the City Clubbers into Roosevelt followers, as had been planned. The organization was programmed from the minute Marshall Stimson called the club to order with an umbrella (not a hairbrush) until it adjourned. Senator Gates was made president and Frank H. Hutton secretary. Gates made a speech. No treasurer was elected, which brought Stimson out with a suggestion that—contributions should be made to him, to Willis Morrison, one of Johnson's appointees, or to Lissner. The meeting was rather depressing because of the slim attendance and because over half those who attended the City Club meeting left without waiting for the Roosevelt programme.

CALIFORNIA TAFT MEN PERFECTING ORGANIZATION

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Organization of the Taft Republicans of California has been completed, with the exception of naming campaign committeemen for the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Congressional Districts. Chairman Charles Mifflin Hammond, of the Taft Republicans, tonight gave out the list of appointments, covering the Campaign Committee, Committee at Large, Finance Committee and committee to confer with the women Taft clubs.

P. A. Stanton of Los Angeles was named chairman of the Southern California committee of the organization and will have the naming of the campaign committeemen for the three southern districts.

Those named to the different committees are:

Campaign:—First District, E. B. Mardnelli, Marin; Second District, C. E. Clinch, Nevada; Third District, W. E. Gerber, Sacramento; Fourth District, Charles De Young, San Francisco; Fifth District, S. Fred Hogue, San Francisco; Sixth District, Capt. L. N. Hibbard, Alameda; Seventh District, Frank H. Short, Fresno; Eighth District, Thomas Flint, San Benito.

At Large—Charles Mifflin Hammond, chairman; P. A. Stanton, chairman Southern California Committee; P. S. Teller, Father J. P. McQuaide, A. B. Spreckels, Dr. L. B. Bacigalupi, D. O. Druffel, Jesse W. Lilienthal, Thomas Alton, J. N. Gillett.

To Confer with Women—Father J. P. McQuaide, chairman; D. O. Druffel, S. M. Shortridge, Charles M. Hammond, Charles De Young.

Finance — George A. Newhall, chairman; G. X. Wendling, Lippmann Sachs, James McNab, W. J. Dutton, Capt. John Barneson, M. J. Fontana.

Chairman Charles A. Belshaw will go to Los Angeles Monday to assist in the organization of the campaign committee and working organizations.

The meeting of the executive committee was given over to an informal discussion regarding ways and means of setting "the wheels of the Taft campaign machine in motion."

YOU WILL WONDER WHAT BECAME OF ALL THAT STOMACH DISTRESS

If your stomach is sick, sour, gassy and upset now you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug store. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

SAN JOSE TAFT CLUB.

WOMAN IS SECRETARY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, March 9.—Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. J. W. Dinsmore was elected chairman and Miss Zona Williams, a clubwoman, secretary, of the Taft Republican Club formed this afternoon at a mass meeting in Hale's Hall. This is the first time in local political history that a woman has been honored with such a position. J. O. Haynes was temporary chairman. Dr. Dinsmore grilled Roosevelt's judicial decision recall proposition, saying he would rather trust the Constitution than his own impulses. A committee consisting of Mrs. W. E. Stevens, Mrs. A. A. Fowler, H. W. McComas, J. O. Hayes, D. O. Druffel, W. S. Clayton and J. W. Hines was appointed to arrange for a mass meeting next Saturday at which the organization will be perfected.

OWNERSHIP OF SOUTH POLE IN CONTROVERSY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—The question whether Norway owns the territory surrounding the South Pole, which has just been discovered by Cap. Roald Amundsen, already is being discussed by authorities on international law covering the ownership of Arctic and Anarctic lands.

Ever since 1778, when Cap. Cook's expedition planted a flag in the Anarctic, explorers of various nations have carried the flags of their countries to various poins approaching the South Pole. It is generally believed the land in the Anarctic will be regarded much in the same way as Spitzbergen archipelago, which is inhabitated by men of various nations, and now is regarded as the joint possession of all mankind.

John Basset Moore, professor of international law at Columbia University, points out that leading authorities have taken the position that discovery alone does not suffice to give good title to a new unoccupied land, and that the customs of nations for centuries have crystallized into a part of the law of nations that in order to perfect the right given by discovery it must be followed by general occupation.

Prof. Moore says the task of effective occupancy of the territory surrounding the South Pole undoubtedly would prove more difficult than its discovery and that it was extremely unlikely that the question of ownership would ever be brought up to the joint commission on arbitration for settlement.

READY FOR MAINE BURIAL.

WILL BE SUNK IN GULF.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—With the opening in the great cofferdam in Havana harbor more than half completed, army engineers here believe that barring mishaps, what remains of the old battleship Maine will be floated out next Saturday, March 16. As soon as it is clear of the dam, the hull, under the convoy of the cruisers North Carolina and Birmingham, will be towed far out into the Gulf of Mexico and there, with appropriate ceremonies, consigned to its final resting place in the deep. All the engineers composing the board which has had charge of the raising of the Maine, and probably Brig.-Gen. Bixby of the army engineer corps, will be present when the vessel is taken from the dam.

IOWA WINS HONORS.

University of Central State Has No Trouble in Capturing First Prize in Rifle Shooting.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The University of Iowa today was declared by the National Rifle Association the winner of the championship of the Western Intercollegiate Rifle Shooting League, having won all nine matches of the series.

The University of Minnesota, with eight wins and one defeat, takes second place, while Purdue, Michigan Agricultural College, and the University of California are tied for third with six wins and three defeats. Arizona and Nebraska are tied for sixth with three wins and six defeats.

The Iowa team will shoot with the winners of the eastern league for the championship of the United States as soon as the eastern matches finish next week.

In the western league this week California defeated Arizona 922.

TWO DELEGATIONS.

FIFTH MISSOURI SPLIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) March 9.—One of two delegations from the Fifth Missouri Congressional District to the Republican national convention as chosen here today will consist of Homer B. Mann and Ernest R. Sweeney. They are instructed to support Roosevelt. Mann and Sweeney were named by a convention of 415 district delegates who indorsed Roosevelt. Joseph McCoy and C. F. Mead were chosen delegates to the national convention and instructed for President Taft by another convention held later today by the President's adherents. The Taft men met in a separate building. Their convention was attended by seventy-five delegates. Each convention contends that the other is irregular, and therefore illegal.

TABLE WORK OF ART EXHIBITED BY OWNER.

Mrs. Helen Foote Hayes, of the noted painting, "Orpheus Charming the Animals," which was exhibited yesterday at Hotel Alexandria.

through the generosity of Mrs. Helen Foote Hayes, the art lovers of Los Angeles were granted the privilege of seeing an old masterpiece, an early Italian school picture, which has been in the Hayes family for many years. This picture, which was exhibited yesterday afternoon in the parlors of Hotel Alexandria, is a work of art, rich and full of color and fine in drawing. Its title is "Orpheus Charming the Animals" and was painted by Leandro Ia Bassani, who was born in 1558 and died in 1623.

The accompanying picture represents the youthful Orpheus standing in a graceful attitude and playing on a violin. Around him are grouped the animals, little and big, all eagerly alert and all listening with evident delight to Orpheus's playing.

This famous picture framed with exquisite taste was draped in crimson velvet. On the opposite wall hung a mirror of the exact size of the painting, which reflected all its details of color and drawing.

Following the exhibition Mrs. Hayes presided graciously at a tea party for twelve in the salon where a dainty centerpiece of forget-me-nots graced the table.

San Diego Sends a Batch of Prisoners to Riverside to Be Entertained. News Briefs.

RIVERSIDE, March 9.—Thirty members of the Independent Workmen of the World, recently arrested in San Diego for a violation of the anti-public speech ordinance, have arrived in this city in charge of ten deputy sheriffs and are in the County Jail in this city.

The people of Riverside county were not consulted as to whether they wanted these "tourists" or not, but were simply assured that San Diego would "generously" pay their board. These men represent all walks of life and freely admit that they are a part of a combine made up to so congest the jail of San Diego county, that the anti-free speech ordinance would have to be repealed. Thus far the men have been unsuccessful.

Stock from Southern European countries flourishes here particularly well when our more hardy varieties such as bellefleurs are budded onto it. The trees left France January 13 and arrived here this week in fine condition.

The signing of the peace treaty between the United States, Great Britian and France was celebrated by the ringing of the chimes of the Mission Inn and the raising of the flag on the great hotel. In the evening the portraits of Taft, Carnegie and David Starr Jordan were surrounded with a wreath of electric lights surmounted with flags. To give the peace treaty even greater recognition the story of the battle of Gettysburg in story and picture was told last evening by Rev. R. W. Mottern, in the music room of the Inn.

ELSINORE'S SPLENDID EXHIBIT.

Will Rival any Town in State in Variety of Products Shown at Los Angeles Land Show.

ELSINORE, March 9.—A splendid exhibit from Elsinore was taken to Los Angeles Friday morning by H. J. Wambold for the Land Show to be held in Los Angeles next week.

The exhibit included: Wine from the Mission Winery, olives and pickled olives from the big Lakeland factory; sewer pipe and hollow building blocks from the Pacific Sewer Pipe Company's factory; grape fruit, oranges, lemons, all kinds of dried fruit, grown and cured here; potatoes, raisins and all other vegetables; polished granite, of which there are many carloads per year shipped from Elsinore quarries; raw clay, coal; honey and bees in an observatory hive, showing them busy. There will be panoramic pictures of Elsinore and data of her many resources. It is planned to have a barrel of the famous sulphur water from the hot sulphur springs on tap during the show.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Apricot orchards are in full bloom and so far no frost has been reported to injure them. The trees are very full of bloom and even heavy rains would probably only thin out a part of the fruit which sets and which would not be left to mature.

The municipal candidates at the close of the time for filing petitions of nomination are: Trustees, long term, two to be elected, O. W. Amsbury, S. A. Stewart and C. S. Wright; Trustees, short term, C. Merrifield and T. Earl Ellis; Treasurer, R. H. Kirkpatrick and James K. Schanck; City Clerk, Charles P. Carter and Mr. Elbert.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boston of Santa Monica arrived last evening and are occupying their home place on Heald avenue. They will remain for about three months.

Mrs. S. S. Sanker returned to Riverside Friday, after spending several weeks in Elsinore.

Col. A. W. Woodford returned from Los Angeles Friday, where he has been attending the West Virginia Association.

Dr. W. Scott Thomas, Ph. D., State inspector of high schools, from the State University, was in Elsinore Friday, visiting the Elsinore Union High School.

Miss D. M. Sadler arrived Thursday night from Lankershim to visit at the home of her aunt, Miss Kate Sadler of Limited avenue.

GLENDORA.

GLENDORA, March 9.—At the annual meeting held by the stockholders of the Citrus Belt Water Company the board of directors was re-elected for the ensuing year, as follows: H. S. Rogers, president; S. S. Scofield, vice-president; John Quick, W. J. Dennis, W. A. Atkinson, F. H. Nusbickle and B. D. C. Wolf.

After the annual report was read by the secretary, R. B. Bidwell, and approved, the stockholders present joined in a lively discussion regarding improvements it is proposed to make. The majority were agreed that at least one, if not two, wells should be sunk on the company's water-bearing ground and equipped with modern pumping plants and lay several thousand feet of cement and steel pipe for the purpose of wider water distribution. All were agreed that extensive improvements should be made.

Informal talk on Merced county land and irrigation system, Monday evening, from 7:30 to 10:00. Admission free. Farmers, business men and homeseekers invited. Questions answered. 208 Lissner Bldg., 534 S. Spring st. Take elevator to second floor.

BEAUMONT.

BEAUMONT, March 9.—A. W. Best, for many years in the customs service in China in the employ of the British government, and a high authority on Chinese politics, states in an interview here that the new Chinese republic will not be a success. He predicts the partitioning of the former empire and believes portions will fall to Russia, France and to England. Mr. Best, who is now a resident of Beaumont, bases his prediction on his knowledge of the people of China and conditions there.

PRETTY BLONDE; TROUBLE.

Angeleno Arrested for Alleged Irregularities Bound Over to Superior Court for Trial.

REDONDO BEACH, March 9.—G. Curtiss of the Curtiss-Shea-Cox Company of Los Angeles, who has been in the County Jail for the past month, on the charge of issuing checks without sufficient funds was given a preliminary hearing this morning before Judge L. F. Wells. Curtiss was bound over to the Superior Court on a bail of $1000.

Curtiss, who has another suit pending in a justice's court in Los Angeles, asked that the sum of the bail be lessened in order that he might meet it and get out and work to support his mother, whom he said was old and had been compelled to find a position to earn her living since his imprisonment.

Curtiss has a wife and young child living on Maple avenue, Los Angeles. He came here in January with his stenographer, Miss Blanche Davis, a handsome blonde, and they lived here for several weeks at Hotel Redondo as Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss. While here he issued a check for $55 to Hepburn and Terry in paying an account for meals. The check was found to be worthless. Curtiss is also to be tried for issuing a similar check for that amount in Los Angeles on a bank where he had no funds. Curtiss and Miss Davis left here on the steamer for San Francisco where he was later arrested. John L. Richardson, Deputy District Attorney, represented the State. Curtiss's lawyer did not appear at the hearing.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Pasadena.

NEW CONVERT TELLS OF SIN.

Conscience-stricken, He Tells Remarkable Story.

Innocent Man Arrested for Crime Slew Himself.

Summer Session of School Is Now Proposed.

[Office of The Times, No. 28 S. Fair Oaks Ave.]

PASADENA, March 10.—Word has been received here that S. L. Copeland of Pasadena, a convert at the Gipsy Smith meetings, has confessed a crime for which another man was convicted in Fergus Falls, Minn., in 1893. Confession was received there by County Attorney Anton Thompson, yesterday, and is as follows:

"From Pasadena, Cal., March 5.—To the County Attorney, Fergus Falls, Minn.

"Dear Sir—I send you the following confession, hoping that you will give it your earnest consideration and also publish it in the local newspapers of Fergus Falls.

"In the summer of 1893 I boarded a north-bound Northern Pacific passenger train, assaulted the negro porter of one of the Pullman sleepers, and robbed the occupants of the car. If I remember correctly, this occurred between Perham and Frazee, Otter Tail county, Minn.

"Another man, whose name was George Lyons, was arrested and convicted of this crime. After being sentenced to prison he committed suicide in jail at Fergus Falls. The same time I heard of his conviction, I also learned of his death. I remained silent.

"At that time I was in jail at Moorhead for bank robbery. For this offense I was sent to Stillwater prison. I was discharged from prison in 1899. Since that time I have lived an honest life and eventually regained the confidence and some degree of respect of many who are aware that I am an ex-convict.

"Recently, I had begun to drift back into the crooked ways, but before going very far in the wrong direction, I was converted during the Gipsy Smith church revival in Los Angeles last month.

"For nearly twenty years I have practically forgotten George Lyons. But I have been looking at his case, since my conversion, from the standpoint of the Golden Rule and I now believe that if I was in his place, even should it be in hell, I would be glad if the infamy of a crime of which I was innocent should be removed from my name and memory. So this confession is made in full view of all the consequences, for the sake of George Lyons, and with the hope that other poor and friendless men, unjustly accused of crime may also be benefitted thereby.

"The liberty I now enjoy is very dear to me. Having been in prison, I know what freedom is. I am not at all anxious to return to prison, but if the law demands it, I am ready to suffer justly for the crime of which George Lyons was unjustly convicted.

"Before many days I will deliver myself into the custody of the sheriff of Fergus Falls, to satisfy the law and will await your pleasure in the matter.

"Respectfully,

[Signed] "SAM COPELAND."

TALK OF SUMMER SCHOOL.

The establishment of summer classes at the Pasadena High School is being urged by the High School Parent-Teachers' Association. The matter will probably come before the Board of Education for consideration at the next meeting.

The subject was broached at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association which was held at the school last Friday night, and yesterday it was a subject of general discussion in school circles.

Those who advocate the plan say that students who are backward in one or two studies would thus be given an opportunity to review the course in the summer and continue with their classes in the fall.

RECEIVES QUEER LETTER.

City Assessor Munson yesterday was the recipient of an anonymous letter in which was inclosed $8, which he was instructed to "use in improving the city." The writing was evidently a woman's hand. There were no specific instructions as to what improvements the city should indulge in and as the City Treasurer is not collecting for any fund made up of donations the money was turned over to the Associated Charities.

CITY BRIEFS.

Prof. E. A. Faith of the Carnegie Observatory on Mt. Wilson yesterday spoke to the pupils at the Wilson School. He took the moon for his subject.

OUTFALL SEWER PROPOSED FOR A HALF DOZEN CITIES.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 9.—It was decided at the meeting of the Inter-City Commission of Eighteen, held in the city hall, South Pasadena, last night, to proceed immediately to obtain all the necessary preliminary data, maps, and other information required for the placing before the cities of San Gabriel Valley a definite plan to build an outfall sewer to the ocean to serve all the communities between the mountains and the sea.

This finally places in concrete form the proposition which has been discussed informally for several weeks, and comes as a result of a report submitted to the commission last evening by City Engineers Benjamin Dupuy of South Pasadena, S. J. Van Ornum of Pasadena and R. H. Blackledge of Alhambra. City Engineer A. B. Waddingham of Watts also was present, and brought the assurance from the city council of that place, that they would welcome any move in this direction. The three cities represented on the commission will be requested to appropriate $500 to pay the expense of the preliminary investigation, which will include a canvass of the other cities in the valley, with a view, in the near future, to obtaining the services of one of the most noted sanitary engineers in America to perfect the plans for the big project.

In the report of the city engineers it was estimated that, exclusive of the right-of-way, the sewer probably would cost about three-fourths of a million dollars. Following is a summary of their report:

"It appears to us that, before any actual construction work can be begun, an enabling act must be passed by the Legislature, providing for a commission to have entire charge of the outfall sewer and all the disposal works.

"At present the main outfall sewer for Pasadena runs through South Pasadena and Alhambra, and can take care of twice as much sewage as it is now carrying, about three-fourths of South Pasadena can be sewered into this outfall, and it would be large enough for a number of years. There will come a time, however, when Pasadena will require the entire capacity of this outfall, and so will not permit other cities to use it unless assured that when more outfall capacity is required, the other cities will furnish Pasadena with a sewer as far south as the present outfall runs.

"The City of Alhambra, forming the southerly portion of the district to be sewered, and being the lowest in elevation and consequently nearest to the disposal works, has the problem of the disposal more forcibly brought to its attention, and has not only the question of its own sewage to consider, but also the disposal of that of Pasadena, which is five times as large, as that of South Pasadena, which is about its own size. Citizens of Alhambra are determined that no more land shall be acquired near their boundaries for sewage disposal and are supported in this by the Board of Supervisors."

This, in the opinion of the engineers, makes it necessary for a commission to be formed, independent of the governing bodies of the three cities, to establish a sewage or sanitary district, and in making general estimates they provide for a population of 300,000, or six times the combined present population of the three cities at present interested. Possible routes are suggested, following the course of the Los Angeles and San Gabriel rivers.

It is recommended that the possibilities of purification of the sewage be ascertained, through the experience of other cities, with a view to saving the water for irrigation purposes. Attention is also drawn to the fact that purification probably would be necessary in any event, as it is doubtful if the government would permit the discharge of raw sewage into the ocean on account of the number of beach resorts whose situation upon land is nearly level with the sea, extending back for a considerable distance along the water courses mentioned.

After a discussion of this report the action already mentioned was taken by the commission, with the unanimous approval of all present. In addition to the engineers those at the meeting were Robert Jordan, R. M. Wallace and R. G. Field, Alhambra; Judge G. A. Gibbs, J. C. Brainard, T. P. Lukens, C. W. Rhodes and H. G. Chaffee of Pasadena, and D. S. Gates of South Pasadena.

DRAWBRIDGE A DEATH TRAP.

Long Beach Man Injured in Peculiar Accident.

Launch Beached on Account of the Darkness.

Injured Man Has Arm Amputated to Save Life.

LONG BEACH, March 9.—Edward Makgraff, aged 30, an employee of the Edison power plant on the inner harbor, passed through a thrilling and terrifying experience atmidnight, which he will remember to his dying day if he recovers from his injuries.

Clinging with stiffening fingers to a slender iron rod on the end of the bascule bridge over the harbor entrance as it rose in air following the passage of a freight train, Markgraff said afterwards that all of his past life rose before him and the agony caused by his fall was soothed by the thankful knowledge that he was still alive. Only the presence of mind of his companion Harry Haff, and the quick wit of the bridge tender saved Markgraff from a frightful fall and probable death by drowning.

Markgraff and Haff are employed on the night shift at the Edison Company and were on their way to work shortly after midnight and as is their custom walked across the bascule bridge. They had nearly reached the end, feeling their way along in the darkness, when the bridge tender, before starting on a patrol of the jetties thought to raise the draw in case a boat should seek passage in the channel, it being required to keep the channel open when trains are not using the bridge. Haff felt the premonitory shiver of the structure as it responded to the levers and gave a long jump to safety on the abutments. Markgraff was a few feet behind him too far to jump, but as the draw started up he dropped to the ground and began to crawl down the other way. The time required for this was fatal and the big draw rose rapidly to its height of 85 feet in air, leaving Markgraff swinging over the channel and clinging to the slender rods of the bridge, with his body swinging to and fro in a stiff wind blowing in from the ocean. Haff gave a yell but his voice was blown away in the wind. Quick as thought he drew a revolver and as fast as he could pull the trigger emptied it. Bridge tender Fulton heard the shooting and ran to the edge of the channel. He saw Haff motioning in the air and quick to grasp the situation hastened to the tower house and began lowering the bridge aided by Haff. When lowered to within fifteen feet of the ground he paused a second, and the slackening shiver was sufficient to shake Markgraff's feeble hold and he fell to the ground. He was unconscious when picked up and was hurried to a local hospital where it was found that besides suffering from shock and concussion his left leg was broken.

LAUNCH BEACHED.

The absence of lights on the San Gabriel jetties marking the entrance to the inner harbor was responsible for the beaching last night of the launch Neptune and which is still hard and fast aground. The launch, which is a fishing and pleasure boat about forty feet long, was returning to the harbor in charge of its captain and owner Barge Thomas. The night was dark as pitch and Thomas used considerable caution in approaching the harbor. Taking his bearings as well as he could he signalled his engineer for speed ahead and started forward. Suddenly there was a shock and the Neptune went hard aground about fifty feet east of the jetties. Her keel and rudder were wrecked and some of the steam pipes smashed. Efforts to get the boat afloat today have been futile and it is feared that if a storm should come up the boat, which is valued at $2500, will be a total wreck.

Capt. Dodge of the Western Boat Works is getting his launches Reliance and Audrey in readiness and will make a further attempt to float the Neptune at high tide tonight.

When the North Pacific Steamship line was preparing to put the Santa Clara in the San Francisco-Long Beach trade attention of the city was called to the fact that the harbor entrance was marked by no light which made passage at night dangerous.

The harbor committee after investigation decided that the jetties were the private property of the Dock and Terminal Company and the city although it owned docks in the harbor, had no authority in the matter. The Council ordered them to take up the question with the Dock Company, who are understood as willing to install the lights provided the city make application to the government to have them taken care of by the light house department. The Catalina made the harbor entrance safely last night as did also the Santa Clara, but the captains of both say the lights should be installed as soon as possible.

ARM AMPUTATED.

Roy Congdon, the young man employed at the Edison power plant, who was fearfully injured last week by being whirled around a revolving pulley shaft and whose arm was broken in three places, underwent a surgical operation yesterday, the arm being amputated at the shoulder, in order to save the victim's life.

BOOST THE BONDS.

Two hundred residents of the Belmont Heights district, met last night at the East Fourth-street school and organized a Progressive Improvement Association by electing A. J. Green, chairman, Mrs. Emma Gundry secretary and treasurer, and Edward Ralph, Mrs. Kate Bassett and A. W. Oliver, an Executive Committee. The first work of the new league will be to boost for the success of the school bond election, on March 14, and the pier bond election on April 2. Committees were appointed whose duty is to get out a full vote of the district on both days.

DAMP MEETING.

Rain interfered somewhat with the programme of the Junior Brotherhood of St. Andrews of Southern California, but there was a good attendance. A conference was held in St. Luke's parish house, at 4 o'clock, at which ten-minute papers were read by Harry Nichols, Daniel Helps and Beresford Kirchaffer. An address was also made by Rev. Rober Gooden, headmaster of Harvard academy. Tonight the brotherhood was addressed by Chaplain C. S. Mook of Whittier, and G. Frank Shelby.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Capt. John Loop chased three California whales yesterday a distance of forty miles and after shooting one was compelled to abandon its capture by reason of the darkness. The whale shot was thirty-five feet long and is expected to float ashore somewhere along the coas. The whales were sighted just outside the sea of kelp off Point Vincente, and the chase continued until the Camiguin reached a point off the Malibu. The whales were returning north from the Coast of Mexico.

The First Ward Civic League, which is circulating petitions for a referendum election on the water commission ordinance, are resting in the securing of the necessary signatures pending the decision Monday of Judge Bordwell on the restraining order issued Thursday afternoon by Judge Hutton, preventing the legal publication of the objectionable law. Should Judge Bordwell deny the writ the ordinance becomes effective at once and the league's labors would be naught. If he sustains it operation of the ordinance will be delayed thirty days which will give the league ample time to secure 1700 petitioners necessary to submit the question to the people.

A monster picnic which will bring several thousand people to Long Beach has been decided upon by the Long Beach New England Society. It will be held some time this month and an interesting programme will be prepared by acommittee appointed at a meeting today and of which Dr. F. L. Rogers is chairman.

Rain again interfered today with the second South Dakota picnic and President Jonah Jones has decided to wait until the weaher settles before announcing another date.

Miss Emma Daily, who came here a few months ago for her health from Calgary, Canada, died this morning at her home on Locust avenue. She was 36 years of age. The remains will be shipped to Canada for burial.

TWO ASSISTANTS IN POSTOFFICE.

NEW REDONDO BEACH POSTMASTER FACES PROBLEM.

Wife of Former Official Says She Is Assistant Under Civil Service Rules and Cannot Be Removed Unless Charges Are Preferred and Substantiated—Inquest Is Held.

REDONDO BEACH, March 9.—Redondo Beach has at present two assistant postmasters, and this in spite of the fact that this is the dull season here and business is not rushing at the local postoffice. Last Tuesday A. B. Steele, recently appointed postmaster to succeed S. D. Barkley, took charge of the office and at the same time Charles H. Mangold, appointed assistant postmaster by Steele, assumed his new duties.

Mrs. S. D. Barkley, who has been assistant postmaster during her husband's administration in the office and who holds the position under the civil service, protests her dismissal by Postmaster Steel and has referred the matter to the Civil Service department at San Francisco.

When the office became second class, two years ago, Mrs. Barkley and Miss Rose Murray, a postal clerk, entered under the civil service laws. According to the civil service laws no person can be removed from a competitive position except for cause and he is then allowed time to answer the charges. As no charges have been made against Mrs. Barkley's service, she maintains that she is assistant postmaster. A letter received today by her from C. L. Snyder, district secretary of the twelfth Civil service district, states that if she has been dismissed without charges being preferred against her, the dismissal is irregular and in violation of civil service rules. Her complaint has been referred to the Civil Service Commission at Washington for investigation.

Postmaster Steel, on the contrary, states that while no charges are made against Mrs. Barkley, he has appointed Mangold assistant postmaster and that the appointment was authorized by the department at Washington.

At present, Mangold is performing the duties of assistant postmaster.

INQUEST HELD.

The inquest over the body of John L. Easton, who was murdered here Wednesday night, was held yesterday and the jury's verdict was that death was caused by hemorrhage following a knife wound inflicted by S. A. Adams with intent to kill and murder.

Dr. A. T. Hembree, who testified before the jury, stated that Easton probably lived a half-hour after he was cut and that if he had had immediate aid he might have lived. George Easton, brother of the murdered man, stated that he had traced footprints like those of his brother's shoes from his cottage on Helberta avenue through a vacant lot to the scene of the cutting. He also traced footprints identified as those of Adams by Mrs. Adams up to Easton's house and back through the vacant lot to the place where the men fought. A. L. Squires of Los Angeles said he saw the two men come together for a second but saw nothing more. At the time, he was visiting at the home of E. W. Montague. As he was unprotected or unarmed he did not go to the scene of the quarrel.

Henry Hartman said he had been asked by Adams to watch the Adams house, and that he heard a man's voice in this house. But he saw no one go in or come out. It was pointed out that this might have been Montague when he went to speak to Mrs. Adams.

Adams was arraigned before Judge Wells at 1:30 o'clock on the charge of murder. The preliminary hearing was set for March 15 and the judge stated that no bail would be accepted during that time.

GOOD ROADS MEETING.

Pomona Citizens Favor Levying Special Tax to Pave Seven Miles of Road Entering City.

POMONA, March 9.—An enthusiastic meeting favoring good roads was called to order at the Fraternal Aid Operahouse last evening by Mayor Matthews, and much was accomplished toward attaining the object desired. Morris H. Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, was made chairman and called upon Frank W. Balfour, E. C. Bichowsky, W. H. Truitt and others who spoke on the good roads proposition, so vital to the interests of this community. Resolutions prepared by Messrs. Nichols, Bichowsky, Balfour and Greaser were unanimously passed recommending that action be taken at once toward improving seven miles of the main thoroughfares leading into Pomona and that a special tax be levied by the City Council not to exceed 35 cents on $100, payment to be extended over three years.

The action of the mass meeting will be communicated to the City Council and the matter will be up to that body for action. There is little doubt that the tax levy will be voted so that work can be commenced at once. As Pomona is on the direct route of the National Highway, it is realized that everything possible should be done toward road improvement.

MORMON COLONY FOR OLD MEXICO.

Apostle Lyman Tells of Plans of the Church.

Noted Race Horse Man Dies at San Bernardino.

Alleged Pickpocket Forfeits Two Thousand Bond.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 9.—Apostle Francis M. Lyman, one of the twelve apostles of the Mormon Church, and next to the president of the church in point of succession, was here for a brief time today, en route to Chihuahua, Mex., where is located a large Mormon colony. Other colonies in Mexico will also be visited, if the revolution permits. The apostle was very reticent regarding his trip, though it is believed here that he is hurrying on to Mexico owing to the gravity of the situation in that unhappy land. It is hinted here that the Mormons may make an appeal to their Congressional representatives to urge protection of Mormon interests, which are said to have suffered severely from the revolution.

Apostle Lyman is a son of Amasa Lyman, founder of this city. He formerly lived here, way back in 1853, with his father returned to Salt Lake City on the call of Brigham Young. His brother, T. K. Lyman, is president of San Bernardino, and it was to visit him that the apostle dropped off here. While in the city Apostle Lyman paid a visit to many of the pioneer families, urging them to hold fast in the faith.

TEST CASE.

Willis Neihardt, alleged to be an agent of the sporting district, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Holman today, charged with vagrancy, and held under $75 bonds for his appearance Tuesday afternoon to plead. C. L. Thomas, former justice of the peace, appeared for her. The continuance to Tuesday was due to the desire for the presence of a Los Angeles attorney, who will be retained to defend the woman. The arrest was made at the instance of Chief of Police Mespelt. It is intimated that the move is instigated in order to get out the order closing the redlight district. If acquittal is secured it is said those inspiring the move will use this as justification for reopening the district.

HORSEMAN DIES.

A. H. Kelly, one of the best-known horse owners and trainers in the valley, is dead at his home, No. 1... Arrowhead avenue. Pneumonia developed a week ago was the cause of death. His reputation as an expert in race horses extended not only through this State but throughout the entire Middle West. He has long been prominent in racing circles here and both the first race track in this part of the State on his ranch at Loma Linda. He was 60 years old. The first race horse placed on a track in this county was his mare Valentine. The racer won eighty-six out of twenty-seven races, and later was purchased by a syndicate and taken to Australia, where she gained world-wide fame. Kelly's... papers in New York.

SHIPPING IN THE DISPLAYS.

Upland Will Occupy Six Hundred Feet of Space at Coming Land Show.

UPLAND, March 9.—The Upland Chamber of Commerce is today shipping by express to the Land Show, in Los Angeles, a display of citrus fruits, sufficient to cover eighty square feet. Considerable literature, descriptive of this section, is also being forwarded to Mr. Stone, who is in charge of the San Bernardino county arrangements. The County Supervisors took 600 square feet of space, which is furnished gratis to the various commercial bodies, and most of them are availing themselves of this chance.

LIGHTING PLANS.

The committee from the Chamber of Commerce, appointed to look up plans for improvement of Upland's lighting system, has reported to the City Trustees, and their recommendations are considered favorably. Upland is to have installed, at an early date, an arc and Tungsten system, combined, which will prove vastly superior to the ones now in use. The lights will be installed by the Ontario Power Company, and the additional cost to the city will be only about $500 annually. The City Trustees have also authorized placing on the city ticket the question of voting a tax of $1500 per year, for two years, for the purpose of supporting here a municipal band, and the plan seems to be very generally favored.

LOSS IS GAIN.

Upland is soon to lose her "Chinatown," which for several years, has been located at Campus avenue and East A street. A number of the celestials will remove to Los Angeles, while the remainder plan to join their countrymen at Cucamonga. Ever since the recent raid, when a considerable amount of opium was seized here by the government's agents, it is said the local Chinese have been planning the "trek." The houses which they have occupied are the merest makeshifts, but have brought a splendid rental. The district has always been a "thorn in the flesh" of white residents of the section, however, and the latter will be glad to learn that the change is in prospect.

Santa Ana.

MANY CITIES IN HOT CAMPAIGNS.

ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS IN FERMENT OVER POLITICS.

Santa Ana Only Place of Consequence in County Which Is Not Involved in Selection of New Officials—Loafers Will Abandon the Proposed Invasion of Section.

SANTA ANA, March 9.—When April 8 comes, Santa Ana of the incorporated cities of Orange county can sit still and see the fun, for Santa Ana will have no city election this year. Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton, Newport Beach, Huntington Beach and Stanton are to have city elections, and with the possible exception of Stanton, each city has a lively campaign in progress. Today County Clerk Williams received registration books from his deputies in the various towns, and they show that the registration for the municipal election is unusually heavy. The women have registered heavily. Registration closed at midnight last night.

At Newport Beach the saloon issue is the dominant feature. Not only are the various candidates for City Trustees drawn out on that question, but the matter of saloon or no saloon is to be submitted to a vote.

At Anaheim the Socialists have put a ticket in the field against the Citizens ticket. At Orange a mass meeting of 250 citizens endorsed the present administration for re-election.

The opposition has come out with four candidates for Trustee, W. H. H. Clayton, C. C. Stoner, Elwood Coate and W. H. Wright.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Officers today are feeling easier over the possibility of an invasion of the I. W. W., twenty-six members, of which are in jail here as over-flow prisoners from San Diego. Jack White, a leader from San Diego, stated today that there would be no attempt to bring the free-speech fight to an issue here, but that it would be kept up at San Diego.

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce is expecting one of the best years in its history. Arrangements are being made for a large supply of literature, and the exhibits here are being overhauled.

With the signing of new leases, the Rank'n Dry Goods Company will expand into the store room now occupied by the Santa Ana Book Store, and will spend about $5,000 in remodeling its store. The book store has taken a five-year lease on a corner room of the Opera House block. A basement and balcony will be put in the building.

Owing to the rain, the county High School track meet, scheduled for this afternoon, was called off and will be held either next Saturday or the Saturday following.

COUNTY JAIL IS FILLED TO RIM.

San Diego Will Provide Rock Pile for Prisoners.

County and City Jointly to Help Entertain Them.

Knights of Columbus to Hold Big Convention.

SAN DIEGO, March 9.—With both city and county jails filled to the rim and all other jails of Southern California likewise, the county and city authorities will Monday morning begin the erection of a stockade on city lands near La Jolla, where all I.W.W.'s, hobos and the never-workers will be herded and compelled to pound rock to be used on the highways.

This action was finally determined this morning at a conference between the Board of Supervisors and Sheriff Jennings, representing the county, and Councilman D. K. Adams, representing the City Council.

The county and city will jointly pay the cost of maintaining guards and board for the prisoners. Sheriff Jennings is of the opinion that when the stockade is in running order and the word is passed along to the I. W.W. clan and hobo element that the stockade accommodations will not be a bed of roses that it will be effective in keeping that element out of San Diego.

The grand jury this morning returned indictments against ten inmates of the City Jail, who are to be tried in Superior Court on a charge of damaging and destroying a public jail. The punishment is not less than one year in the penitentiary. Those indicted are John Jones, Casey Jones, J. D. Gordon, Ramon Cabou, Pete McAvoy, James Taylor, C. Hawkins, George J. O'Brien, Paul Muffer, Otto Turk. These are leaders of the jail mutiny of last Tuesday when the turnkeys were locked out and the prisoners used every means at their disposal to break down the jail.

CONVENTION NEXT MONTH.

Thirty-five councils, Knights of Columbus, have assured the local council of their attendance at the State convention, May 14, 15 and 16. San Francisco council has chartered a steamer and will bring 500 members. A feature of the programme will be the initiation of a class of 100 into the mysteries of the second and third degrees the evening of May 14. The second degree will be exemplified by Los Angeles council and the third degree by State Deputy Neal Power and the San Francisco council. On the evening of May 15 there will be a ball at the U. S. Grant Hotel. The local Committee on Arrangements consists of J. J. McGuinness, William L. Morrison, Stephen McAuliffe, J. J. O'Carroll, George Connell, R. Trefzger, R. P. Guinan, Arthur Shaw and Frank Langley.

TO MODIFY PLANS.

To keep the cost of the Polytechnic High School buildings within the fund set aside, $214,000, the Board of Education has instructed the architects to modify the plans. When the bids were considered it was found all save two were higher than the estimates. The lowest bid for the entire building was $198,900. With the architect's fee of $10,000 added to the board fund it would have nothing left for equipment. As the board intends to spend from $20,000 to $30,000 for equipment the plans must necessarily be reduced. Bids will be readvertised, which means another month's delay. Bids not rejected were those of Ayers & Steventon for electrical work, and H. D. Hubbs for plumbing.

ANNUAL MEETING IS HELD.

Anaheim Sugar Factory Stockholders Re-elect Old Board of Directors and Approve Past Years.

ANAHEIM, March 9.—Fifty stockholders of the Anaheim sugar factory, representing 4514 shares of stock, answered to the roll call when President Peck called the annual meeting to order yesterday. In addition to the stockholders present a sufficient number of proxies were held by others to bring the total voting strength up to 5473.

The annual report of President Peck showing the result of the past year's campaign, was the special feature of the meeting. This report showed that from an acreage of less than 6000, the factory sliced 43,549 tons of beets during the season of eighty-eight days, from which was produced 11,492,200 pounds of sugar, and 3,464,600 pounds of pulp, and an enormous amount of molasses.

For the campaign opening June 1, an acreage of 10,300 has been signed and it is proposed to increase the capacity to 750 tons daily to handle the product of this acreage. The dry season has made the yield from certain sections in this territory uncertain up to the present, but the rains during the past few days have insured the sprouting of the seed, which is already in the ground, and with favorable weather the crop in full may be assured. Moreover 3000 acres of beets belonging to this factory is irrigated land, and not wholly dependent upon the rains.

The question of a dividend was brought up at the meeting but was voted down. Mr. Peck stated that $240,000 of the construction indebtedness has been paid during the year and the company had an excellent financial standing. He also said that the factory had bound itself to pay for 10,300 acres of beets the coming season, and if the plant was not enlarged sufficiently to handle the crop the loss of unsliced beets would be greater than the cost of expansion. The capacity of the factory will be increased before the opening of the 1912 campaign from 600 to 750 tons of beets per day. Among other additions two mammoth 10,000-barrel tanks will be erected for the storage of molasses. The old board of directors was re-elected. Secretary Hadsell therefore cast the 4514 votes present for Richard Melrose, William McLauchan, C. D. Rust, A. R. Peck and Messrs. Warner, Stimson and Steigerwald, the eastern representatives.

POLITICAL ACTIVITY.

Nine candidates for City Trustees have filed their petitions with City Clerk E. B. Merritt for the election April 8. Today is the last day upon which petitions may be filed with the clerk. The candidates for offices to be filled are: Trustee, long term, four years, to be elected—William Stark, Frank Gates, members of the present board; A. Nagel, Frank Fox, N. F. Steadman and John Cook. Trustee, short term, two years, one to be chosen—George Hamler, J. Ermann and Charles Pressel.

City Treasurer, Charles Boege, incumbent. John Hartung, Joe Gibson.

City Clerk E. B. Merritt, incumbent. Ira McAuley.

According to the new law, the City Trustees will appoint the City Marshal, for which John Kellenberger is a candidate. Homer Ames as City Attorney and J. S. Howard, City Recorder, will be candidates to succeed themselves. Voters will also decide at the coming election whether or not to pay the City Trustees a salary of $10 per month.

The election promises to be one of the most interesting ever held in the mother colony city, as the matter of saloons will be voted on. For several years, with the exception of one or two of the city officials, all have been in favor of the saloons, which number seven, and two of the officers deal in liquors, the Mayor owning one of the pioneer wineries of the South. With the above element to fight the temperance people will have a hard job on their hands from now until the election.

BIG CROPS ARE PROMISED.

San Diego County Enjoys Splendid Rains and Reservoirs Are Being Rapidly Filled.

ESCONDIDO, March 9. — With nearly four inches of rain for the storm, up to noon today, and 800 inches of water pouring into the big reservoir, Escondido people are joyful. In spite of the drouth, the ranchers are expecting bumper crops of hay and grain, and it is said that the acreage put into crops this year will be the largest in the history of the Escondido country. Before another winter it is expected that steps will have been taken for increasing the storage capacity of the flood waters of the San Luis Rey River, while it is hoped to have the permanent improvements on the ditch line completed so that it will be possible to fill the reservoir in a much shorter time.

WILL ENTERTAIN.

The W.C.T.U., which is to entertain the county union the first week in April, has elected Mrs. D. D. Ware president, Mrs. R. K. Lewis, vice-president; Mrs. J. S. Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. Hyde, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. V. Thomas, treasurer. A vice-president is also elected from each of the city churches. Plans for the entertainment of the county union will be made at the meeting of the 16th, at the home of Mrs. J. S. Thompson.

SPLENDID GIFT.

CARPINTERIA (Cal.) March 9.—A surprise was sprung at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night when the Henry Fish Seed Company, through Secretary Perry, submitted an offer to present a site for a public park on the ocean front to the public on condition that a pleasure pier be built in connection. It was stipulated that the pier be located a the foot of Linden avenue and that the public maintain the park. The proposed site is the most desirable in the city. The idea of the donors is that public trustees be appointed to hold the property until such a time as the city become incorporated when it will be turned over to the municipality. The proposal was received with enthusiastic response. Within three minutes after the secretary had finished presenting the terms of the proposed gift and its conditions Joel Remington Fithian, the millionaire vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and others present had volunteered generous contrbutions toward the pier. Secretary Perry volunteered to attempt to secure all the funds to build the pier if the proposal was accepted, after all the details had been farther investigated. A committee is going over the proposition carefully but there is scarcely a question but that the pier and the park will be put in.

Danderine

Stops Falling Hair and Destroys Dandruff

Makes the Hair Grow Long, Heavy and Luxuriant and We Can Quickly Prove It

If You Wish to Double the Beauty of Your Hair at Once, Just Get a 25 Cent Bottle and Try This

Surely try a Danderine Hair Cleanse if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair with little trouble and at a cost not worth mentioning—just moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—In a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. It's exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

PROMINENT SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

Catarrh in the Head and Throat.

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds. Quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Is your nose stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of head?
Do you hawk and clear the throat?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?
You can be easily cured now—don't let it run into complications.

Of the Stomach.

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing a poisonous mucus which drops down from the head and throat at night. Quickly cured at little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Are you constipated?
Is your tongue coated?
Do you bloat up after eating?
Is there constant bad taste in the mouth?
Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year. Consultation free.

The Bronchial Tubes.

When the catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after awhile attacks the lungs. Quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel you are growing weaker?
Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

Of the Ears.

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness. Quickly cured at little cost by Dr. Shores' famous treatment.

Is your hearing failing?
Is the wax dry in your ears?
Do your ears discharge?
Do you hear better some days than others?
Is your hearing worse when you have a cold? Do the ears ring?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed. Call or write.

SPRING IS THE TIME FOR QUICK CURES. GET BUSY RIGHT NOW.

TRUE SPECIALISTS

Drs. Shores have spent many years in the study and treatment of Catarrh, Asthma, Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases of Men, Women and Children. They have treated thousands, an experience rarely ever granted any specialists, and have gleaned therefrom information that is invaluable to sick people. They would not attempt to treat Scarlet Fever or Diphtheria at any price, not because they don't know how, but because they have not given it the thought and constant study that other doctors have, and, in short, it is not in their line of specialties. Every moment is given to studying CATARRH, CONSUMPTION, CHRONIC, NERVOUS and PRIVATE DISEASES. That is where they excel and that is where they can serve you better than most anyone else. Don't be a permanent invalid. They know what causes Catarrh. They know how to cure. They know what causes Stomach Trouble. They know how to cure it, instead of merely relieving it. They have studied the Liver, the Kidneys, the Ears, the Throat, the Lungs, Private Diseases, and they know what to do for these troubles. MAKE NO MISTAKE.

RHEUMATISM.

If you are hobbling about with rheumatic joints, or suffering torture from inflammatory rheumatism—come and let us explain our theory and treatment for this painful affliction. It is somewhat different from other treatments and cures when others fail. It will pay you to investigate. Bring a sample of urine and have it tested free. CALL OR WRITE.

TEXTILE WAGES ADVANCED.

General Increase Is Announced for Cotton and Woollen Mill Operatives in New England.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) March 9.—A general advance in the wages of textile operatives in Northern New England was announced today by various mill interests which have their head offices in Boston. More than 125,000 persons, including employees of cotton mills in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine, and woollen mills operatives in six New England States are affected. While few cotton mills have made definite announcements, the advance generally will not be less than 5 per cent., it is said, and for certain classes of operatives, 7 per cent., or more.

The New Hampshire and Maine cotton mills, which employ 45,000 persons, will make the change in the pay roll next Monday; other mills to do so March 18, and the Lowell mills, with nearly 20,000 hands, will put the advance into effect March 25.

The Lawrence cotton mills, except the Everett, employing 13,000, the American Woolien Company's thirty-three New England plants, with 30,000 operatives, and a number of independent worsted mills, raised wages last Monday.

The wage increase will embrace nearly all the cotton mills of New Hampshire, including the eighteen mills of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company of Manchester, the largest cotton concern in the world, employing 15,500 operatives.

HOUSE FALLS ON THEM.

Carter Maitox, No. 1218 Ivy street, and Everett Fouse, No. 1564 East Fourth street, had a narrow escape from being crushed to death yesterday when a house they were rasing at No. 675 Santa Fe avenue collapsed on them. At the Receiving Hospital it was found that neither man had sustained more than bruises and contusions. They had go weakened the walls of the building that when the wind changed suddenly the shell was lifted a few inches into the air, turned a little, and then fell with a crash. Pedestrians assisted the men in working their way out of the debris.

Mysticism.

A SPIRITUALIST ADVISES CZAR.

Holds Seances With Czarina in the Palace.

Grand Ladies of Russia Are Always at His Heels.

Some Leave Home to Be With Him Always.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gregory Rasputin, of obscure birth and with a turn for prophecy, has become the most influential man of Russia by virtue of his control over the Czar. He decides the most important affairs of home and foreign politics and has supplanted the Monk Theophile, a favorite for three years. He is a reactionary, so that Russian policy in Persia is only likely to change for the worse.

Rasputin's conduct is causing more talk than ever, not only in court circles, but elsewhere, and his name is mentioned in terms of disrespect. His influence over the Czarina is the worst feature of his rise to power. He is expected at the palace every day and there he conducts spiritualistic seances with her. He first came to St. Petersburg a year ago, when Theophile's power was waning. He had got into communication with the court during the Japanese war by wiring secretly from Siberia prophecies of victories that never came true. Then he got the ear of the Grand Duke Peter Nicholaivitch and then that of the Czar, who now will listen to nobody else. The result is that Rasputin is run after by the youth and beauty of St. Petersburg society. Countess Tolstoi owes her grant of $50,000 a year to him. The Dowager Czarina pleaded for her in vain. The Countess cultivated Rasputin and the pension became hers for life.

M. Rasputin is not courtly in looks or manners. He is an elderly man with some strange fascination which makes women he meets do the most foolish things. His "Affinities" in society are numerous. Though nobody knows where he comes from, he is overwhelmed by invitations from grand ladies and he often keeps the Czar waiting for a conference on mysticism.

Several women have left their husbands to be with him always.

LOSES A LEG AND RESIGNS.

UKIAH (Cal.) March 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Dr. E. W. King, who has been superintendent of the Mendocino State Hospital since its establishment, tendered his resignation to the board of managers today. Since the amputation of one of his legs last December, Dr. King has not been able to give active attention to his duties. His successor has not been named.

Our New Subjective Methods for Testing Eyes
Do you know that eye strain affects the entire nervous system so much that it not infrequently produces nervous dyspepsia, as well as frequent headaches, fits of despondency and irritability? You cannot be too careful of your own eyes, or those of your children.
Our new Subjective Method for testing eyes reveals and measures with positive accuracy any defect of vision. This method avoids the employment of belladonna, atropine, or any other drugs, all of them injurious, and gives more accurate and satisfactory results. We prescribe for the correction of all defects of vision, no matter how complicated and involved, and we grind and fit our own lenses, thus avoiding any possibility of errors. Our service is complete, and of the very highest order. Established here 25 years.

McBURNEY'S
KIDNEY, BLADDER and RHEUMATISM MEDICINE

A certain and thorough cure for pains in the small of the back, stone in the bladder, Bright's disease, female troubles, incontinence of urine, brick dust deposit, bed-wetting of children, gravel, gall stones, thick, turbid, frothy urine, dropsy, diabetes, rheumatism.
CHICAGO, Ill., April 8, 1896.
Mr. W. F. McBurney,
Los Angeles, Cal.
Dear Sir: It affords me pleasure to testify to the efficacy of your Kidney and Bladder Cure. I have been troubled with my kidneys and bladder for over four years. I have been treated by the best physicians of this city during that time. (I mention two who stand at the head of the profession, viz: Dr. C. A. Purdy and Dr. Frank Walls, the latter being my son. I regret to say they did me no good. I visited San Diego, Santa Monica and Santa Barbara, but received only temporary relief. On the night before I left for home I got a bottle of your medicine. The first dose did me good and I was well when I reached home. I am grateful to you. If this letter is of any use to you use it.
THOS. WALLS.
Dear Brother McBurney: I am the Holmes man that purchased some of your kidney and bladder medicine and it was worth $500 to me. While on the train coming across the plains, I gave away to friends most of the bottle I bought of you and I am grateful to state that in every case it acted like a charm. There are a number of people in this locality anxious to get your wonderful medicine, so please send me six bottles more that I may relieve the suffering. Yours truly,
JAMES S. PATTERSON.

WELL-KNOWN LAWYER CURED OF ECZEMA
By Cuticura Remedies Which He Recommends for Skin Troubles.

Greenville, Ohio.—"While attending school at Lebanon, Ohio, in 1882, there was a smallpox scare, and we were all vaccinated. Presumably from impure virus used, I became afflicted with boils, which lasted for about two years, when the affliction assumed the form of an eczema on my face, the lower part of my face being inflamed most of the time. There would be water-blisters rise up, and open, and wherever the water would touch it would burn, and cause another one to rise. After the blister would open, the place would scab over, and would burn and itch so as to be almost unbearable at times. In this way the sores would spread from one place to another, back and forth over the whole of my upper lip and chin, and at times the whole lower part of my face would be a solid sore. This condition continued for four or five years, without getting any better, and in fact got worse all the time, so much so that my wife became alarmed lest it prove fatal.
"Finally I decided to try Cuticura Remedies, which I did, taking the Cuticura Resolvent internally, applying the Cuticura Ointment to the sores, and using the Cuticura Soap for washing. In a very short time I began to notice improvements, and continued to use the Cuticura Remedies until within less than a year I was well again, and have not had a recurrence of the trouble since, which is over twenty years. I have recommended Cuticura Remedies to others ever since, and have great faith in them as remedies for skin diseases." (Signed) A. C. Brandon, Attorney-at-Law, January 17, 1911.
Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by dealers everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book on skin and scalp treatment. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

I Was a Sight From Superfluous Hair
I Cured It Quickly So It Never Returned.
I Will Send Free to Any Other Woman the Secret of How They, Too, Can Remove All Trace.
For years I was the victim of a horrid hair growth on my face. I knew I was a sight and every time I met another woman with this "mannish" mark and saw how it spoiled her looks, I became the more distracted, for I had tried all the pastes, powders, liquids and other "hair-removers" seemingly highly endorsed, that I had ever heard of, but always with the same unsatisfactory result. My time, money and patience were about exhausted, when a friend persuaded me to try a secret from Japan, almost against my will, for I had little faith owing to former experiences.

What was my amazement when I found that it actually did what was claimed for it. It was—so simple that it took but a few minutes time to work a complete transformation, in my appearance. Any woman who is troubled with superfluous hair can readily appreciate what a difference it would make to her looks if it were removed, for no woman can be beautiful if she is afflicted with a hairy growth on her face, neck or arms. My experience with this wonderful remedy was so remarkable that I feel it my duty to put my sensitive feelings aside and tell my experience to my sisters in distress, in order that they may profit by it, and not waste their time and money on worthless "concoctions" as I did.
Therefore, to any lady who will write me within the next few days and who will send me a two-cent stamp for actual return postage, I will send quite free in a plain, sealed envelope, full information which will enable you to forever end all trace of embarrassing hair by the wonderful method that cured me. Please state if Mrs. or Miss, and address your letter, Mrs. Caroline Osgood, Apartment 742, B. V., 118 E. 28th street, New York City.
SPECIAL ENDORSEMENT: As the method above referred to has been endorsed by doctors, true specialists and many publishers, all readers thus afflicted are advised to take advantage of Mrs. Osgood's offer and write her at once at above address.

Money for Power.

TREMENDOUS ENERGY FOR THE SOUTHLAND.

More Than Half a Million Horse Power of Electricity to Be Delivered in Los Angeles Within Three Years to Keep Us Cool and Warm and Bright and Make the Wheels Go 'Round—Mighty Work Under Way.

EASTERN capital is now pouring into the State to harness rushing mountain streams in Central and Southern California to provide heat, light, power, refrigeration and ventilation for the future 1,000,000 inhabitants of Los Angeles. Remarkable activity has been manifested during the past few days in the race between the municipality and the power corporations to deliver here the greatest amount of electrical energy ever supplied any city in the country. All Southern California will be amply provided for.

Within the next three years 360,000 horse power of electrical energy will be brought here, at a cost of approximately $14,500,000, to augment of the 170,000-horse power now generated for use in Southern California. Every large stream from the thirty-seventh parallel, south, will be tapped in yielding its tumbling strength to the immense commercial activity and the steady increase in population which is manifesting itself daily in Los Angeles and environs. More power will be developed than that yielded by Niagara Falls, at present.

Within the past week the Pacific Light and Power Company commenced active construction of the railroad, tunnels and dams for the Big Creek project, which will cost the company about $9,950,000. The Southern California Edison Company is concentrating its activity on the developing of 20,000 more horsepower at its Long Beach plant, at a cost of $600,000. In San Francisquito Canyon the city has hundreds of men and teams at work drilling tunnels for the Los Angeles aqueduct power projects, which will yield the city 17,000-horse power.

NO OVERPRODUCTION.

Power officials smile when it is hinted that there might be an overproduction when all these great enterprises are completed. They point to cold figures which show that the demand for electrical energy has increased 1000 per cent. in the last thirteen years in Southern California.

Both the aqueduct power officials and the men at the head of large private corporations developing electrical energy admit that the prices of juice will be decreased before the projects are completed. One corporation official stated that within a very few years the homes of Southern California will be heated, cooled, lighted, ventilated and supplied with cooking facilities by electricity. Most of the factories will have discarded coal and oil as fuel to make the wheels of industry turn, and the local runs of all railroads will be made entirely with electric motors.

A. C. Balch, general manager of the Pacific Light and Power Company, stated yesterday that now that the $25,000,000 bond issue is turned into cash, development of the Big Creek project just south of Fresno, will be pushed. For several weeks graders have been preparing a roadbed for the railroad, forty-three miles long, over which the materials will be carried to the sites of four large dams and three tunnels. By the summer of next year this corporation expects to deliver 53,000-horse power of electrical energy inland, near Los Angeles, from this project alone. The remainder of the Big Creek possibilities, about 107,000-horse power, will be fully developed in four years.

The Pacific Light and Power Company is developing 8500 horse power at San Gabriel Canyon. The present total delivered by this company is 97,900 horse power, including 60,000 horse power made at the Redondo Beach plant; 3600 at the Third-street plant, this city, and 21,800 developed at the hydraulic plants on Kern River, San Gabriel Canyon and at Mentone, Riverside and Highgrove. More than 14,000 horse power is developed at the Kern River plant alone.

DEVELOPING BY STEAM.

The Southern California Edison Company is confining its present efforts to developing electrical energy at steam plants and in bettering its hydraulic stations in the mountains. The company has just ordered machinery for developing 20,000 more horse power at its Long Beach plant, and is building lines from there to Los Angeles, and from this city to Colton for the distribution of the immense power made by the beach station.

The Long Beach plant has already cost $2,000,000, and is now developing 15,000 horse power. The company aims to increase its beach plant to provide for 40,000 additional horse power each year. The electrical energy now developed by the hydraulic plants of the Edison company is as follows: Kern River No. 1, 30,000 horse power; Santa Ana River No. 1, 4000; Santa Ana River No. 2, 1350; Mill Creek Nos. 1, 2 and 3, 6500 horse power; Lytle Creek, 650 horse power. Substations will be built this year by the Edison company at Lankershim, Chino, Highland, San Pedro, Newmark, Slauson avenue, this city, Lordsburg, San Dimas, Whittier, Orange and Wilmington.

ON THE AQUEDUCT.

Meanwhile, Electrical Engineer Scattergood of the Los Angeles Aqueduct is going quietly ahead with actual construction and further plans on the great power development along the line of the Owens River "big ditch." This project will bring to our doors three times the amount of power now used here, and 10,000 in excess of that to be developed at Big Creek by the Pacific Light and Power Corporation.

Surveys are nearly completed for all rights-of-way for a complete transmission system for the aqueduct power from Owens Valley to the city. Agents of the municipality are already on the ground getting signed rights to run power lines. At present, an 80,000-volt line is planned to carry the juice.

Detailed plans are in preparation by Engineer Scattergood for the first unit of machinery for the San Francisquito power plant. Approximately 65,000 horse power will be developed at the No. 1 plant in the canyon, and 44,000 at No. 2, six miles below.

Ten power stations will be built along the line of the aqueduct. The work on the San Francisquito Canyon part of the power project is about one-third completed. Workmen are busy on the two and a half miles of tunnel from the south end of Elizabeth tunnel to power site No. 1, and the seven miles of tunnel from power site No. 1 to power site No. 3. At the Halwee plant 6000 horse power will be developed, and at the Cottonwood Creek plants about 11,000. The remainder will be developed along the creeks tributary to the Owens watershed.

The machinery and apparatus for the plants in San Francisquito Canyon has been partly purchased, and the actual installation of machinery to bring the first 37,500 horse power of electricity to Los Angeles—all that is needed for 1913, 1914 and 1915—will be begun within a few weeks.

Important Smuggling Case to Be Begun in the United States District Court, Involving Merchants.

Several of the best-known merchants of San Francisco's Chinatown are involved in an alleged conspiracy to smuggle Chinese laborers across the Mexican border, and their alleged extensive operations will be exposed in a trial which is to be begun in the United States District Court, Tuesday. Judge Van Fleet of San Francisco will preside.

More than sixty witnesses have been summoned by the government and there is every indication that the trial will continue two or three weeks. The accused men have paid $40,000 to the San Francisco Suretv Company which furnished their bond.

Woo Wai, Wong Chung and Mar Jick are the leading defendants. Wong Wing Sai, a peddler; Mar Luck, an Ensenada merchant; Lerdo Gonzales, a rurales leader at Tia Juana; Rosario Siaz, sentenced to San Quentin for murder; Thomas Valenzuela, who is serving a sentence in the San Diego County Jail for conspiracy, and Wong Yee, who is alleged to have piloted Chinese across the border, are the other defendants.

Inspector Conkling apprehended five alien Chinese at Tehachepi, January 13, 1911. They were being conducted to San Francisco by several of the defendants. Ever since their arrest, the San Francisco merchants have been fighting for time. They have engaged several leading attorneys of Los Angeles and San Francisco to defend them.

Thieves Active. Purloining Articles From Wagons, Offices and Bedrooms.

"That's the limit!" exclaimed David Martin, who has charge of the information desk in the detective department, when Daniel Fry, No. 735 Clayton street, asked assistance in locating the man who stole the canvas cover off his garbage wagon, yesterday.

"It ought not to take a dick with a very strong scent to find a clew to work upon," commented the detective as he took a description of the stolen article.

Somebody stole a file from the store department to pry open a window of the shop at Fourth street and Santa Fe avenue and steal a typewriter from the Santa Fe Company.

To Strike Los Angeles.

JOHANNSEN CONFERRING WITH J. J. M'NAMARA.

WAT Anton Johannsen, leader of e plot under way to unionize os Angeles, has had several recent conferences with J. J. McNamara in San Quentin was learned yesterday by county detectives. The San Francisco boss of laborite "wrecking crews" has been decidedly busy. While none of the county or Federal officials will admit that the conspiracy which was exposed by The Times yesterday morning has anything to do with the dynamite investigation, a significant activity was yesterday observed in official circles.

If Johannsen, who is under Federal indictment charged with conspiracy against the government, has free access to J. J. McNamara, confessed dynamiter and serving a fifteen-year term in the penitentiary, it is believed the two will be able to scheme and plan new ways to terrorize independent manufacturers and contractors.

Walking Delegate Johannsen is admittedly the "brains" of the California laborites. Smiling and affable, this factotum of the State Building Trades Council is regarded by officials as the most dangerous man now under surveillance. He has been going from city to city throughout the State trying to arouse sympathy for the union bosses under indictment and to secure funds for their defense.

When he was called here a few weeks ago to direct the projected strike, the subtle walking delegate realized that nothing could be done with a bare treasury. So the present campaign is first to get more members in the various locals and more money in the strong box.

Secret Service agents believe that the plot to destroy the industrial peace of this city is closely connected with the so-called dynamite conspiracy, and that every effort will be made by Johannsen, Tveitmoe, Clancy and others to resist extradition to Indianapolis.

It was stated at the Sheriff's office yesterday that Ortie E. McManigal will be taken to San Francisco within a few days in answer to a Federal subpoena. Under Sheriff Brain and Operative McLaren of the Burns National Detective Agency will guard the prisoner. They will be aided by several deputies. McManigal is bitterly hated by the northern unionites and if any opportunity were afforded some one of the fanatics would probable take a pot shot at the former member of the structural ironworkers' dynamite crew.

In their secret meetings the union bosses have declared that they have no intention of reverting to peaceful methods, but that I.W.W. tactics will be used in Los Angeles this summer in an effort to break the solid front presented by the advocates of industrial freedom.

The great difficulty experienced here by the rabid walking delegates is in keeping the rank and file of the membership satisfied. Reports of the carpenters' union, for example, show that there have been 700 defections since May of last year, and other unions are gradually losing their members.

So far the officers of the unions have not confided their plans to the members for fear of decided objection to the plot which not only involves the expenditure of much money, but is also rendering those who engage in it liable under the State and Federal laws if violence is even contemplated.

Detectives are securing information along this line that may form a part of the evidence when Johannsen and others are tried in the United States District Court upon conspiracy charges.

stellar exhibit about which J. Bliss Dudley, motion-picture impresario and former automobile agent, is hinging his contemplated plea for divorce.

On December 19, Mrs. Dudley sued for a decree, charging habitual intoxication and other more serious things in her complaint. Dudley stated yesterday that he intends to file a cross-complaint accusing his wife of having kidnapped his prize $1500 bulldog and presented it to William Bradshaw, a young realty dealer, with offices in the Merchants' Trust Building.

He asserts that his wife purloined Bordeaux from his home a few days after she left him and made Bradshaw a present of the animal. Dudley states that he secured the services of three detectives and instructed them to bring Bordeaux back to his kennel, dead or alive.

Ten days later, according to Dudley, the detectives found the dog snugly ensconced in a palatial dog mansion in the rear of the real estate dealer's residence, No. 295 Mariposa street.

"I kept Mrs. Dudley's dog one week at her request," said Bradshaw yesterday. "I never met her husband, and met Mrs. Dudley only three or four times in my life. The detectives came out and took the dog away when I wasn't at home. That's all I know about the case."

DUDLEY'S TROUBLES.

The debonair motion-picture man is making preparations for his crossuit in cell at the county jail, where he was lodged several days ago on a charge of having passed a fictitious check for $20 on Logan, the hatter.

Two years ago Dudley was arrested and pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in having caused the death of W. B. Thomas in an automobile mishap. He is now charged with violation of the probation granted him at that time in that he has failed to report to the probation officers. Recently he was taken on a bench warrant issued by Judge Monroe for contempt of court

CAN'T BREAK HIM UP.

Man Knocked Down by Car and Run Over by Truck Jumps up and Walks Away.

A man giving the name of Parsons, 30 years old and living at No. 839 West Temple street, is seemingly impervious to pain or personal injury. Yesterday morning after he had been knocked down by a street car, run over by a truck and dragged half way across the street by a patrolman, he got on his feet and walked ayay. In his hurry to leave, so as to avoid notoriety, Parsons forgot to give the officer his first name.

Patrolman Eccles reported that Parsons endeavored to get on a moving yellow car at First and Main streets. The step knocked him down. Before he could get up a truck came along, both wheels on one side passing over the man's legs below the knees. The patrolman, thinking Parsons' legs were broken, carried him to the curb. In the interim the car went its way and the truck disappeared around the corner, neither motorman, conductor or driver aware that they had knocked down and run over a man.

"I'm all right, officer," said Parsons, getting up quickly and walking away. "It takes more than that to kill me."

OIL INVESTIGATORS MEET WITH OPEN HOSTILITY.

Allege Action in Conspiracy and Libel Is a Frivolous and Scandalous Attack on Oil Properties in Which the Late Admiral Evans Was Interested.

A suit for alleged conspiracy and $100,000 libel brought by J. Q. Walker against the California Consolidated Oil Securities Company, Charles E. Greenmyer and Henry W. Whack, which the defendants characterize as a frivolous and scandalous attack on the oil properties in which the late Admiral Evans was interested, will come up before Superior Judge Conrey tomorrow on a motion to dismiss.

Attorney Simons, representing the defendants, demurred to the complaint and moved to strike out on the ground that the complaint does not state the cause of action in conspiracy or libel and that no bond was given coering the action for libel. Whack is a New York attorney who was counsel for the Evans family and for the Admiral in his oil company. There are three committees in the field which came here to investigate the Consolidated, which was Admiral Evan's company, the Yellowstone Company and Section Six.

These committees arrived February 14 and encountered hostility, it is alleged by those in possession of these companies, aimed at preventing them doing anything effective in California in an investigation in behalf of the shareholders, or taking suitable steps with reference to these properties.

It is now charged that the summons and complaint in conspiracy and libel were filed February 24 at 5:30 p.m., in the County Clerk's office, contrary to the statute; also that the usual $500 bond did not accompany the libel action. This action, it is alleged, was not brought in good faith, and sets up allegations against the late Admiral Evans, which are preposterous.

CITIZENSHIP CONFERENCE.

World's Gathering at Portland in June Draws Upon Los Angeles for Two of Its Speakers.

Among the speakers at the World's Christian citizenship conference, to open in Portland on June 29, are Dr. Burdette and Robert Watchorn, of this city. Dr. Burdette has not yet been assigned his topic, but Watchorn will speak on "Emigration and Immigration, in Their Relation to the Moral Progress of Nations."

President Minton of the National Reform Association, under whose auspices the conference will be held, says: "Its basic unit will not be the individual so much as the community and the nation. Its councils will not be open merely to the abstract theorist, whose interest is rather academic than vital. It is to be a sort of world's clearinghouse for the mutual exchange of the ideas of Christian workers, and all leaders in Christian thought and action, from a distinctly Christian standpoint."

CAN'T EXPLAIN ACCIDENT.

Frank Boyd, 44 years old, No. 1170 West Thirty-seventh drive, a teamster for the Hardesty Fuel & Feed Company, was taken to the Receiving Hospital yesterday suffering from a scalp laceration, a number of contusions, and a slight skull fracture. He was found lying unconscious under his horses' feet at Seventeenth street and Grand avenue. Boyd's mental condition was such he could not give a coherent account of the accident. It is surmised that while examining the shoes of one of the animals he was kicked. Boyd's injuries are not considered fatal.

DARROW TO BE TRIED IN MAY.

Court's Ruling a Victory for District Attorney.

Upholds Contentions as to Furnishing Testimony.

Last Chapter of Dynamite Case Draws Near.

Unless Clarence Darrow sees fit to change his plea within the next sixty days, he will be brought to trial in Department Eleven of the Superior Court May 14.

Judge Hutton, who gives way to Judge Willis, May 1, as presiding judge, will try the case. This arrangement was made yesterday morning after the court had upheld the contentions of the District Attorney in regard to furnishing grand jury testimony to the defense.

The court's ruling is a decided victory for the State. Judge Hutton stated that the District Attorney has fully complied with the provisions of the code and that the defense cannot certainly secure more than has been transcribed by the official stenographer and one of the deputies of the District Attorney.

The objections taken by the defense delayed the setting of the case for trial and on several occasions there have been arguments before the court as to the interpretation of the section of the code which provides that the prosecution shall furnish every defendant indicted by a grand jury with a copy of the transcript of testimony.

At one stage of the proceedings the attorneys for the defense filed an application for a writ of mandate in the District Court of Appeals, to compel the District Attorney to furnish all his transcribed grand jury testimony. There was never any hearing on the application as Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford voluntarily furnished all the testimony he had to Earl Rogers, chief counsel for Darrow.

A week ago yesterday, Judge Hutton ruled that the District Attorney should put the defense in the same position in respect to the testimony as was the State. If this was not done, the court then indicated his subsequent decision would be for the defense.

However, during the past week Ford and Keetch made affidavits to the effect that they had no testimony other than what they were prepared to give the defense. The affidavits and copy of testimony was given to Rogers. Yesterday was the time set for the final decision as to the sufficiency of the proffer made by the State.

Rogers declared he would not accept the testimony as sufficient. He made an elaborate objection in which he embodied what he deemed were legal reasons for his refusal.

Judge Hutton held that the prosecution had done all it could when it furnished all the testimony that had been written up during the grand jury investigation.

In setting the case for trial, the court asked each side as to what date would be mutually convenient. Rogers said he had other matters coming up in April that would take much of his time, but that any time in May would be acceptable to him.

Ford stated that the only desire of the District Attorney is for a speedy trial. After consulting his calendar, Judge Hutton designated May 14 as the date. He was told by defendant's counsel that the case will take at least three weeks.

It was intimated yesterday that H. H. Appel will be added to the corps of lawyers for Darrow. The former chief counsel for the McNamaras so far has retained Rogers, former Judge McNutt, W. H. Anderson, and Rogers has several of the attorneys in his own office helping in the case.

Capt. Fredericks, Ford and Keetch will represent the State in the trial.

CALLING OFF THE CHERRY.

Anyway That of Foreign Savor Put Under the Sundae Ban by Pure Food Authorities.

Persons who call for a Maraschino cherry in their ice cream sundae may not get the order filled in the future, for the keen-eyed pure food detectives have received instructions to place the ban upon it.

The Demon Rum has reclaimed his own. The seductive foreign cherry, stolen from the cocktail to give life and color to sundae and fountain dainty, and to nestle snugly amid the creamy content of luscious confection, can no longer add savor to the temperance beverages at soda fountains, say the pure food authorities.

The Maraschino cherry is preserved in an alcoholic liquor of high spirit—mercy yes, and while this does not forbid its use as a golden globule of delight in the thin cocktail glass, it does banish it from the marble and onyx white-ribbon counters.

But do not feel sad, fair Etheldreida and Marmaduke, their is still savor in the soda fountain score card! The cherry is still the crowned king of the sundae and "Lover's Delight" um-yum. But it is an American cherry, without foreign savor and without entangling alliances. The soda fountain cocktail will now be in name as well as in fact a purely temperance concoction.

The white-aproned mixologists behind the shiny mahogany say it is not according to Hoyle these rainy days to place a cherry in your cocktail glass.

in failing to provide for his wife. Now he occupies the cell that was formerly the prison home of J. B. McNamara, the dynamiter. He has been unable to give $2500 bail.

Dudley's preliminary examination on the fictitious-check charge is set for Wednesday morning in Justice Reeve's court. Afternoon the same day he will face the charge of having violated his probation, which is for a period of five years.

"I wasn't sore when my wife left me, but when she took Bordeaux and gave him to young Bradshaw I thought it about time to call quits," said Dudley in the county jail yesterday afternoon. "I got him back all right, but only after three private detectives had scoured almost every back yard and fireside in Los Angeles and Pasadena. She beat me to it in filing a divorce suit, but I'm coming back at her with a cross-complaint that will be a sizzler. She is responsible for my being here today and is doing all in her power to keep me here, and yet she wants me to support her. I wish someone would tell me how a man can support his wife when he's in the jug.

"These charges against me are all trumped up and I will be out soon. The bad-check proposition is all a mistake. I post-dated three or four checks and expected to have the money the next day, but was arrested and thrown in jail before I had a chance to fix things up.

"Bordeaux is certainly some bulldog. Back in 1904 at the Atlantic City Dog Show, Alfred G. Vanderbilt offered me $1500 for Sapho, his mother, and I wouldn't sell her. When our case comes up in court there'll be one grand barking and growling session, believe me."

SHE LAUGHS.

Mrs. Dudley, who is living with her sister, Mrs. William McCay, No. 77 Hawthorne avenue, Hollywood, admitted yesterday that she took Bordeaux from her husband's home and gave him to Bradshaw to care for until she could properly attend to the royal-bred dog's wants. She laughed heartily when informed that her husband is preparing a cross-complaint to her suit, and laying particular stress on the dog-kidnaping incident.

"That's very funny," said Mrs. Dudley, "but Bordeaux belonged to me, so my lawyer says, and I didn't commit any crime when I took him away from my husband. Mr. Bradshaw offered to keep him for me. That's all there is to it. I brought the dog up from a puppy and always considered him my property. He often growled at my husband when he came home late at night, but he never growled at me."

When told that her husband blamed her for his present embarrassing predicament, Mrs. Dudley replied that she is mighty sorry he is in jail because he can't support her.

Dudley is well known in sporting circles and along the Rialto. He is a smart dresser, glib talker and unusually good-looking. He and Mrs. Dudley formerly resided in a pretty bungalow at No. 421 Ocean Front, Venice.

POPULAR PURP.

Mrs. A. G. Garrings, No. 1270 Mariposa street, who has had charge of Bordeaux since Dudley's incarceration, stated yesterday that private detectives, constables and handsomely-gowned women have bothered her continually by calling at her home and demanding that she turn the dog over to them.

Yesterday she gave the dog into the keeping of a friend whose address she refused to give. "They pestered the life out of me," said Mrs. Garrings, "and I decided to get rid of Bordeaux, although he is a pretty little thing. Several of the men who came to my house after him showed me police stars and said they would arrest me if I didn't give them Bordeaux. I don't want to get in this mix-up and bade goodby to Bordeaux this afternoon."

LITTLE GIRL PLAYWRIGHT.

Writes Four-Act Comedy, Which Will Be Presented by Broadway Department Store Employees.

An original comedy, entitled "Mary Jane," the work of 14-year-old Caroline Valdez, will be presented at the Gamut Club Auditorium on Wednesday evening, under the direction of Miss Bessie Reitz, the full cast being taken from the dramatic section of the employees of the Broadway Department Store. The author will take the leading role of Mary Jane, and the four acts are declared to be a long laugh from start to finish. The music will be by Busch's orchestra. In her introduction of the play, little Miss Valdez says:

"I do not apologize for Mary Jane; neither do I claim perfection for her. I will admit that she is often at fault; you will even find her bad—sometimes. Lest you might think too unkindly of her—lest you might condemn her altogether—let me remind you that she is only a little girl—and so am I."

BURGLARS TAKE CHOICE.

Go Through Two Residences and Select Valuables Worth Fifteen Hundred Dollars.

Burglars with a penchant for valuable silverware, who cut telephone wires to prevent immediate communication with police headquarters, and who carried their loot away in some vehicle, presumably an auto, went through the residences of Dr. J. Elton Lang, No. 1712 Crenshaw boulevard, and F. M. Paxton, No. 2220 Eighth avenue, of $1500 worth of goods Friday night. The two homes are but a few blocks apart. In both instances the burglars carried their loot out in suit cases. Six were used, four belonging to Dr. Lang and two the property of Paxton. Three of them, empty, were recovered yesterday under a pepper tree about midway between the residences. Tracks in the street under and around the tree indicate that an auto stood there for a while. It is thought the men carried their plunder to the machine and then drove off.

The burglars entered each residence by cutting a circular piece of glass from a rear window. Through this opening the door was unlocked. Knowing that the families were out for the evening, the burglars did not hurry. Only the best and heaviest of silverware was taken, care was shown in the selection of jewelry, and only garments that fitted the men are missing. Dr. Lang said his loss in silverware alone is about $800. The other thefts will run his losses up to about $1000. At the Paxton house the silver, clothes and other articles taken are valued at about $500.

REVENUES SHOW GROWTH.

Collector's Statistics Indicate The Prosperity of the Southland—Delinquents to be Prosecuted.

Collector of Internal Revenue Parker has prepared statistics indicating the growth of the amount of taxes to be paid by corporations in this district within the past two years. The corporations whose returns were filed in February, covering the amount of business transacted during 1911, show a tax due amounting to $176,960.65, as against the tax on the amount of business during 1910 of $124,474.24.

The tax due for the returns made to the Washington office, during January, 1912, was $27,287.85, as against $17,879.38, during the same month of January, 1911.

A good many corporations have been reported as delinquent, for returns not made to the collector to March 1, but it is believed that on this occasion, as was true a year ago, nearly all of the delinquent corporations will prove to be those whose official existences have terminated, and whose officers cannot be found. In cases where the corporation or its officers can be located, the list will be certified to the United States District Attorney for prosecution.

Water "rolly" last week? Full of sediment?

Tasted "bad," too, as we say—didn't it?

That's the result of the recent rains—they've washed down from the mountains and from the earth adjacent to our water supplies all the impurities which have been for months accumulating hereabouts.

Doesn't seem very pleasant, does it, to think that you may be taking into your system, with each swallow of city water, whole colonies of germs which, at best, are hindrances to good health, because they clog up the kidneys, form poisons and all that sort of thing.

Why make your body work overtime to keep you in good condition, when just by using PURITAS Distilled Water, you can be certain of purity in your drinking water?

Goodness knows we take into our bodies enough dangerous germs, even when we're taking every precaution, without deliberately inviting disease by using impure drinking water.

And because the bacteria contained in drinking water enter the body directly, their action is usually more rapid and more dangerous than germs which can be somewhat "filtered" by the body—as, for example, germs which enter through the nasal cavity.

When you use PURITAS, you absolutely KNOW that it is pure. PURITAS is scientifically distilled; it is carefully and thoroughly aerated, so that it is sparkling and palatable; it is soft, and quenches thirst as ordinary water will not.

In short, PURITAS is the SAFE drinking water, and you ought to have it in your home and at your office. Five gallons cost but 40c, delivered anywhere within the old city boundary lines. To outside points, because of the longer haul, the cost is a trifle more.

You who live outside of Los Angeles can doubtless secure PURITAS through one of the many dealers throughout Southern California. If you can't, simply write or telephone us, and we will have you promptly supplied. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Company. Home 10053; Sunset Main 8191.

THOUSANDS GET OUT OF MEXICO.

Americans Prompt in Taking President's Warning.

Nearly a Billion of Their Money Invested There.

Golden Stream Interrupted by the Revolution.

BY W. D. HORNADAY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

CITY OF MEXICO (Mex.) March 4.—When Mexico was in her normal condition there were approximately 40,000 Americans in the country, according to the statistics gathered by United States Consuls. The actual registration of Americans in the consulates fell several thousand short of this number, but the estimate is based on the knowledge as to many of these foreign residents who did not record their names. It is estimated that there are now but a few thousand Americans in the whole republic. Since the warning issued by President Taft advising Americans to leave the country, the exodus has depleted most of the mining camps and many of the smaller towns of their entire foreign population. Even Englishmen and Germans have either left for the United States or their home countries or flocked into the larger cities. It is a situation that never before existed in Mexico.

Americans in this country are for the most part interested in, or employed by, mining and smelting concerns, manufacturing companies or engaged in agricultural operations and oil development. During the last few years the industrial invasion from across the border has extended from the Rio Grande to the Guatemala line.

MUCH LOSS INVOLVED.

The remarkable trek from Mexico of Americans means temporary losses and disaster to many promising enterprises. But aside fom the monetary losses due to so many foreigners leaving the country, it is feared that the future effect, irrespective of how the internal strife may be settled, will be felt for a long time to come. This will depend largely upon how firmly founded is the so-called anti-American sentiment that is alleged to exist among many Mexicans of the lower class and also upon the strength and stability of the government that lives or is created from the present chaotic political conditions.

That opportunities for profitable investment in a great many lines of industry exist in the republic is a fact well known to many people, not only of the United States, but of European countries. That Americans were realizing and appreciating this fact is shown by their investment of approximately $900,000,000 of their money in various lines of industry in the country, most of this having been placed here during the last ten years of Diaz's administration. In an industrial and commercial way Mexico was rapidly becoming Americanized, and this was being done with the consent and approval of the government and the people.

GOLDEN STREAM INTERRUPTED.

It was United States money that was rapidly uplifting the Mexican people when the revolution that resulted in Diaz's downfall was inaugurated. A golden stream had been flowing across the international line for many years. It had resulted in providing work for thousands of Mexicans. As a result of the increased demand for labor, wages, within a period of fifteen years, rose, in some cities and localities, from 25 cents Mexican money per day to $1 and even as high as $3 per day, bringing prosperity to thousands of the lower class. Gradually the evolution of the peon element was being broadened and extended throughout the country. The leaven which these American industrial invaders set to work was having its effect upon native investors, and they were following the example set by the men who pioneered the way for the country's ultimate uplift.

Besides the $900,000,000 of United States capital that has been invested in Mexico, there are approximately six hundred million dollars of English money and four hundred million dollars of German money now in the country. These sums represent the original investments, many of which have increased very greatly in value.

INCREASED LAND VALUES.

It was through the demand for land on the part of American homeseekers and colonization promoters that many millions of dollars of additional wealth has been added to the country. No longer than a decade ago land in favored localities which is now selling for $10 gold and upwards per acre could have been purchased for one-tenth that sum. It was this growing demand for agricultural tracts that was causing to be brought about a dividing up of many of the large ranches into farming tracts, and it is the opinion of men who have made a study of the situation that this and other influences for which Americans were largely responsible would, in the course of another decade or two, have brought about the lifting of the peon element out of bondage and placed the nation on a substantial and prosperous footing.

Going hand in hand with the foreign industrial invasion was the improvement of the educational facilities of the children of the masses. At many of the large American industrial plants and upon many of the farms are today excellent schools, which are conducted by these foreign investors for the special benefit of the children of their employees.

Whatever anti-American sentiment there may be in different parts of Mexico is confined, it is said, to the lower element that is led by agitators. Some of this is due, perhaps, to the fact that Americans have held most of the responsible positions upon the railways. The middle and upper classes of Mexicans seem to have due appreciation for what foreign men of capital have done for the country. In recent years there has been a considerable amalgamation of American and Mexican interests in the forming of companies that are engaged in various lines of business enterprises.

THE SOUTH POLE.

We think it positively indecent the way the two poles allow themselves to be frequently and indiscriminately discovered. It will be a very good thing for the scientific world when these poles settle down to a common work-a-day basis. Nothing more than imaginary points in seas of ice, they have made quite a sufficient disturbance.

A GOOD SORT.

In spite of the fact that he has just celebrated his 75th birthday, William Dean Howells has two new novels under way. We like the Howells sort of realism, because, while he makes photographs of life as it is, he does not always hunt the garbage dump as a place to take his views. The average "realist" thinks he is not being real unless he is being unclean.

PLENTY COMING.

Within the last week the world has been respectfully notified that Vasquez Gomez, Orosco and Trevino are each about to become President of Mexico. We hope they will not all decide to occupy the office simultaneously. On the other hand, if they decide to be President alternately, without any mutual arrangement to that effect, we see where the sister republic enjoys two or three handsome new revolutions in the near future. Our dark-eyed sister across the line certainly does enjoy flirting with excitement.

HEALTH AND WEALTH.

Of instances of retrieved fortunes, recovered health and renewed youth brought about by residence in Southern California there are no end, but the experiences of some stand out with particular vividness because of the extraordinary pluck displayed or the rarity of the miracle wrought. Miss Sue Beville, an invalid, purchased five acres of land near Covina six years ago. Unaided, she cultivated a run-down orchard and last week sold the five acres for $14,000. In addition to regained physical vigor, she made her living and cleared nearly $7000 in the half-dozen years she owned the land. While a large share of the credit for the success must be accorded to Miss Beville, it is also fitting to point to the fact that in no other section of the globe could the same results be achieved.

SUCCESS THAT SUCCEEDS.

Over a million extra gallons daily is the last addition to the great river of water that will soon be pouring through the aqueduct into the City of Los Angeles. The addition of 12,000 acres of artesian land adjacent to the aqueduct, through the granting of the application for same by the Department of the Interior, is the last great victory for our progressive citizens.

One of the most gratifying features of this achievement is that the gain to the city will entail no loss on the property owners in the Owens Valley. For, as Engineer Mulholland explains: "The short period for which the city might have use for its wells would not be sufficient to deplete the water level below the point where evaporation has its effect."

That the city engineers will also work henceforth to conserve the water at present going to waste will prove advantageous to the whole valley interests. Already the attitude taken by the officials and the exhaustive explanations of Mr. Mulholland on the witness stand have disarmed most of the opposition to the city plans formerly raised by the ranchers in the neighborhood of Bishop and Independence. Many new sources of revenue have already been opened to them by this enterprise and these will increase as time goes on. In fact, everybody in Southern California is going to benefit eventually by this gigantic undertaking, since not only Los Angeles herself, but the whole of the Southland will be enriched through its successful completion. Land values will rise to a height almost beyond the hopes of even our sanguine citizens, and Los Angeles will become a leading example for the whole world of the brand of success that succeeds.

WE ARE THE WORLD BANKERS.

The wealth of the United States is incomparably greater than that of any other nation. Our population is larger than that of any, with but two or three exceptions. When the purchasing capacity of our people is considered, we furnish the world with the largest market on earth. The crops of the United States aggregate in value from $8,000,000,000 to $9,000,000,000 per year, and the wealth dug from the mines of the United States requires also ten figures with the dollar mark before them to express its magnitude. Only one other region of the earth surpasses the United States in the amount of gold produced annually and that is the development of the last ten years. If we go back to the middle of the last century we will find that the gold mines of the United States produced more of the king of metals than any other mines in the world. In our export and import trade we have reached a point where we barely fall behind the colossal business done by Great Britain.

From these conditions we are rapidly coming to be the bankers of the world. New York threatens at once to become the clearinghouse of the world, usurping this function from London. This is one of the strongest arguments in favor of the establishment of a central financial agency on some basis within the United States. One can go into a London bank and buy a bill of exchange directly on any corner of the world. This cannot be done in New York. English business men have a great advantage over ours in this respect. Shall we, in narrow obstinacy, permit this condition to continue?

THE PIPE-LINE ERA.

Evidence is accumulating of the dawn of a new era—the pipe-line era—in the oil industry of California. The great fields of the Golden State, with an annual production of approximately 85,000,000 barrels, have at last attracted the attention of the wide world. The California operators have demonstrated the prolific nature of the great oil pools; the refined product is being shipped to the Orient, to Honolulu, to the countries of South America, to the Panama Canal zone; and now the big marketers are looking for new markets to conquer.

The present coal strike crisis in England has called attention to the occasional instability of that product as a world fuel, and it is high time that the great oil interests of this State should get into a position to substitute their crude product for the coal of Europe. That the awakening is here is indicated on all sides. Already ships of the navies of the world are being equipped to burn oil as a fuel, and some of the big trans-Atlantic companies are falling into line. Los Angeles interests, controlling a large oil output in California and the Mexican Gulf coast, are now engaged in establishing oil fuel stations on the Atlantic coast of America, and the same interests are having tank vessels built at this time to carry oil to all parts of the globe.

The use of crude oil by the railroads of the West is saving them millions of dollars annually, and the elimination of coal soot has added greatly to the comfort of travelers, to say nothing of reducing the danger of forest fires to a minimum. Even in far-off Alaska—land of mountainous glaciers—California oil has proved a profitable substitute for coal and wood as a fuel for mines, railroads and steamers.

These developments have been a part of the evolution of the great oil industry of California and have served to bring the entire world to our doors. Recently Los Angeles entertained for a day M. Casimir Perier of Paris, son of a former President of the French republic, and himself a representative of great trade associations. While here his attention was called to the possibilities of California oil as a world fuel, especially after the opening of the Panama Canal, and he promised to aid in all legitimate efforts to extend the local oil market to European shores.

These conditions call for a consideration of the present status of the industry. The oil is here in great abundance and is rapidly being placed above ground. The next thing is to move it. As indicated in the striking news article published on Page 1, Part 6, of today's Times, the constructive era is at hand, following closely on the heels of promotion and experiment, and within two years more millions will be expended in providing the means of getting the oil to the markets of the world.

It is estimated that approximately $15,000,000 is now invested in oil pipe lines in California, and at this time several corporations, backed by sufficient capital to carry their enterprise to fruition, are preparing to expend at least $10,000,000 in the next few years in constructing more pipe lines and storage tanks. These companies have in mind the building of tank fleets to carry their product to the world's seaports, and all the big interests allied with the industry are stirring themselves. Soon the lowly tank ships leaving the ports of California will carry the proud banner of supremacy throughout the sea's wide domain.

A STRONG, BRAVE SPEECH.

President Taft, in his Toledo speech, clearly and candidly discusses the objections to the Rooseveltian plan of meddling and muddling with the relation of the judicial to the legislative and executive departments of government. "A constitution," says the President, "is intended to protect the individual and the minority of the electorate and the non-voting majority of the people against the unjust or arbitrary action of the majority of the electorate."

Suppose that a legislature should enact a law providing that all persons whose property exceeded ten thousand dollars in value should pay double the tax on assessed valuation that was required of those whose possessions were of less value than ten thousand dollars. This would be a flagrant violation of that section of the Constitution which requires that taxation shall be equal and uniform. The court would so decide, but as a large majority of the voters are worth less than ten thousand dollars, they might recall the decision and subject the property of the solvent to pillage under cover of law.

The recall of judges will have a tendency to lead judges to read more newspapers and fewer law books. It may cause them to keep their judicial ears close to the ground and consult public opinion before ruling with respect to the admission or exclusion of evidence. If the case were tried without a jury, and the judge took it under advisement, he might, before deciding it, take a straw vote of the public on the case. When a jury had passed upon it, he might leave it to a mass meeting to determine whether a new trial should be granted.

The proposition to recall judges who make unpopular decisions, radical and revolutionary as it is, is conservative compared with the Rooseveltian proposition to recall, or rather reverse, judicial decisions upon constitutional questions by popular vote. It is in effect a peremptory method of amending a constitution by giving it a construction devitalizing and overthrowing it, despite the efforts of a court to sustain it according to its letter and spirit. Suppose an initiative law should be enacted authorizing the city of Los Angeles to seize the Arcade Depot, convert it into a free skating rink for the benefit of the public, and pay the railroad company nothing for its property. The court would hold that the law was unconstitutional in that it provided for taking private property for public uses without compensation being first made or secured. And the skating public might say: "Away with the Constitution; we want to skate," and recall the decision.

It may be said that these illustrations are far-fetched. But the reductio ad absurdum is often the very best form of argument by illustration.

President Taft well says of Roosevelt's "recalling decisions" plan, "It is a remarkable suggestion and one that is so contrary to anything in government heretofore proposed that it is hard to give it serious consideration."

Ups and Downs of Woman's Suffrage.

THE ONE WAY OUT.

A burglar who was arrested at Spokane grew cynical and said that the police never get anybody except by accident. In the end the police get criminals because the police stand for the law and the criminal stands for the law's violation. The best-trained burglar overlooks some detail which leads to his betrayal. He may call this an accident, but it is the inexorable emphasis which Life never fails to place upon the weak points of the individual and of humanity. People are forced to take some account of the reason for being out of the mistakes they make. When physical comfort is making a man insensible to the Eternal Why along comes poverty, sickness or sorrow to fill his mind with doubt and his heart with unrest. At every step of the way a man's vision is turned to the invisible and his questions to the unanswerable, and yet, step by step, every man who tries to make something of his life believes himself on the way to comparative satisfaction and always feels himself upon the verge of answering the great riddle. It is only the man who tries to dodge issues instead of facing them who really misses his opportunities through stubbornness and deceit. The criminal believes at first that he can only be caught by accident, but anxiety, unrest and the strain of being constantly on the alert make the world a tortuous prison until he voluntarily faces the law he has outraged. The same law applies to men who are not criminals but who seek to elude the facts of their lives by artifice and who can feel no sense of permanence in their position while they build their lives upon such sand. Great and good is that person who knows himself responsible for his every act, his every word and every thought and who never for one moment seeks to evade the consequences of his own conduct. The wise man does not expect to avoid the issues of his own life. The only wisdom worth while knows that there is no such thing as taking advantage either by reaping where a man has not sown or by escaping the complete harvest of what he has sown. Lying to the world has no value to any man since each is keeping accounts with his own self.

For all this, life is not hard, and it is the business of every man to find what it is that makes it seem so to him. Life is natural and spontaneous. It came without effort to any of us. It came even without our will. Its forms are as natural in function as they are spontaneous in origin, and sustaining the life which has come to us all in this free and spontaneous manner ought to be no burden, but a joy. Men should find living as natural and peaceful as the flowers seem to find it. Living should be as simple as being born. Perhaps to quit lying about things and straining after them might put us all a little more in the way of natural inspiration, but the truly happy men in the world seem to be those who have found some work which it is natural for them to do and who have followed that work to the richest conclusion within the reach of their ability. Men must express themselves to live and finding the work that really expresses a man's best nature ought to contribute his share of production to society and ought to support him. It generally does so to an inspiring degree, except perhaps in the cases of some poets and painters, and they probably suffer more in the minds of others than they do in fact.

The real problem of life is not economic in so far as the system of government or society is concerned, but is the simple question of what a man shall do to make himself the most useful. It is a question of swimming with the current of one's own life instead of swimming against it. It is better to be borne aloft with ease and joy upon the crest of life's tide than to be fighting the shoals. The great book, the masterful painting, and the wonderful song are always expressions which have been easy and natural to their creators. Back of such a work is a power and beauty which no form can ever express, and to find that quality which makes for inspiration in natural directions is the one sure salvation for any man.

WHY ENGLISH WOMEN CAN'T VOTE.

Militant suffragettes in London who are out of jail are smashing windows. Militant suffragettes in jail are tearing the clothes off prison matrons. Blonde Christabels and brunette Sylvias are threatening to tear down the palaces of the King. And why? Merely because they can't vote.

Why can't they get the suffrage? There's just one all-important reason. If they did obtain it they would break up the British Cabinet. The main question now really is: Shall Asquith hold his job as Premier? While he is at the helm in Great Britain the women must stay voteless. Practically this grim lawyer is fighting the whole militant suffragette forces. He is the head and front of the opposition to votes for women.

Lloyd George, the militant man from the little principality of Wales, gave the thing away when he addressed a huge suffragette meeting in the monster Albert Hall in London the other night. The hall is named for Albert the Good, the Prince Consort, the man who all his married life was under the petticoat government of Queen Victoria.

Lloyd George is Chancellor of the Exchequer and prides himself on being a progressive. He would just as soon see women vote as not, although the suffragettes don't believe him when he says so. The militant women don't like Lloyd George, despite his masterful ways.

Between the hoots and shrill jeers of the suffragettes at the Albert Hall meeting Lloyd George told the real story of why the present British government is against the granting of votes for women. A government measure giving the women the right of the franchise would hopelessly shatter the Asquith administration, he declared.

Thus he openly confessed while the fair ones tried to shout him down. In other words the members of the Asquith administration are hopelessly divided among themselves on the subject. Moreover, they prefer to hang onto their offices sooner than give the women what they want.

Were those members of the British Cabinet who are in sympathy with the feminine demand to insist that Asquith bring down a government bill extending to women the right to vote Premier Asquith would say them nay. In that case those who, like Lloyd George, see no harm in extending the voting power to the fair sex would have to resign. But the taste of the fleshpots of office is too pleasant to allow of them taking such an extreme step. They have no desire to be relegated to the cool shades of opposition where nobody draws down any government pay.

Of course, they don't put it that way publicly. They argue instead that they would be derelict in their duty toward the nation were they, in these critical times, to precipitate a crisis which would "shatter the government." Rather let windows be shattered and petticoats be rent.

Therefore the merchants of the aristocratic West End must keep the shutters up in front of their handsome stores; therefore the magistrates must work overtime sending the militant suffragettes to "quad"; therefore the London "bobbies" must battle with the sisterhood; and therefore the matrons of the jails must replenish their tattered wardrobes.

WATCH HER GROW.

South Pasadena was incorporated as a city of the sixth class in 1886 and has made notable progress in material wealth and in population. In acquiring what are considered modern municipal essentials, however, it has been lamentably slow. Citizens have discovered that the town lacks a sewer system, has a limited water supply, has not kept pace in street improvements and has an inadequate fire department. Now the people of the town are stirred and a mass convention will be held Thursday night to select a municipal ticket, and every man or woman who appears thereon will be pledged to immediately set about correcting present conditions. The city is to be felicitated on its awakening to the necessity of keeping step with its neighbors. Accelerated growth and advancing realty values will doubtless follow the adoption of the more energetic policy.

ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTES.

Smashing store windows, destroying property, fighting the police, threatening national art treasures, attempting to burn postoffices are not the surest and sanest methods of advertising the righteousness and holiness of any cause. The London militant suffragettes are on the wrong tack. The male, and less deadly, species can be wheedled by the female, and more deadly, as easily as coaxing a canary to sing with a piece of lump sugar; but in attempting to drive him with a big bludgeon, he is apt to prove as contrary as a Florida razor-back.

Some perverse fury must have blinded these street window-smashers to the true interests of the sex. To threaten national art treasures is a poor method of winning public sympathy. To destroy the property of business men and merchants, because certain statesmen have turned deaf ears to their appeals, is neither valiant nor logical on the part of the suffragettes. Many of their victims may have been sympathizers with the cause before this wanton attack was made on property. It is not in human nature to suppose that that sympathy will be very lively after they view the wreck of their plate-glass windows and begin to figure up the amount of the damage inflicted.

Even supposing that the present coal strike may for a time paralyze the country, the suffragettes will not advance their cause by attempting to follow labor-union tactics. The strikers, if they fail to listen to reason, will be the worst sufferers in the long run. The suffragettes are putting back their cause a hundred years in the British metropolis by their burst of violence. The chief result will be to make the merchants along Piccadilly and the Strand believe that, after all, there was considerable truth in Rudyard Kipling's latest poem.

HEARTILY WELCOME.

The festive crab has arrived. For once the country editor is correct in referring to this genial visitor as being "in our midst." We try to be enthusiastic about the mushrooms, hay fever, wild flowers and influenza which spring always brings; but the real concentrated essence of joy in this season lies in the delicate meat of what the dictionary describes as a short-tailed, stalk-eyed, ten-footed crustacean. Our one regret with regard to the Pacific Coast crab is that it hasn't as many legs as a centipede.

STREAKS OF WIT

Don't Know His Friend.

[Boston Transcript:] Mrs. Peck: Really, we never know who our best friends are.

Peck: That's true. There's the fellow I won you away from. He hasn't spoken to me since.

Undoubtedly Honest.

[London Tatler:] Loquacious Visitor (who has been describing in great detail her bridal trousseau:) And you ought to see me in my going-away frock.

Hostess (wearily:) I—er—wish I could.

The Cook's Way.

[New York Sun:] "Did your cook say right out that she wanted you all to stay at home that evening?"

"No; but she put onions in every mouthful of food we had to eat that day."

The Woman's Viewpoint.

[Pathfinder:] Mr. Call: What do you think of Henry George's single tax idea?

Miss Coy: Well, I see no reason why he should not tax single men, but I don't think he ought to tax single women—it isn't our fault.

Making Herself a Place.

[Louisville Courier Journal:] "I hear your son has brought home a timid little bride."

"Well, she isn't so awfully backward, at that. She started in right away to improve mother's game of bridge and show the girls how to dress."

First Automobile Lesson.

[Yonkers Statesman:] Reed: Do you know what the chassis is?

Greene: Yes. It's the nude in automobiles.

An Abridged Right.

[Judge:] Benham: We need a reform in our banking system.

Mrs. Benham: Yes; it's a shame that a wife can't overdraw her husband's account!

Not Up to Date.

[Pele Mele:] "Fancy letting himself be run over by a cab in these days of automobiles and motor buses."

"Yes; he must be an old-fashioned old cuss."

Drew the Line.

[Fliegende Blatter:] "And so your young wife served you as a model. How flattering! She must be immensely pleased."

"Well, she was at first; but when we had a spat and I painted her as the goddess of war, she went home to mother."

An Awful Possibility.

[Harper's Weekly:] "I have always been interested," said little Binks, "in the utilization of waste. Now, where do you suppose all these busted tires go to in the end?"

"I don't know," said the Genial Philosopher, "but if they go where most people consign 'em there must be a terrible smell of rubber in the hereafter."

ROOSEVELT'S FLOP.

[The Argonaut:] The change in Mr. Roosevelt toward Mr. Taft, out of which various other changes have developed, is essentially a personal one. It proceeds from no worthy public motive, but wholly from private resentment. If from the hour of his election to the Presidency Mr. Taft had submitted himself to the direction of Mr. Roosevelt, if, disregarding his own high mandate, he had taken Mr. Roosevelt's orders and carried forward his purposes, if, in short, he had been what Mr. Roosevelt wished him to be, namely, a mere agent and servant in the Presidential office, we should have heard nothing of these changes. Mr. Roosevelt would have been glad enough if mastery had been in his own hands to have proceeded along moderately conservative lines to reasonably conservative ends. What he wanted was to be the central figure in the play, the big injun of the game, the master and the boss of the government of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt cannot possibly expect to win the Republican nomination in the face of his manifold changes, his floppings, his abandonments. Great as is his vanity, it is not possible that he can hope to do more than to defeat Taft. And this, we are convinced, is his real purpose. With him today it is anything to beat Taft. His is the type of mind which becomes possessed of an idea or a motive to the exclusion of all other ideas and motives. Now the bitterness of his resentment toward Mr. Taft has made him indifferent even to all the hazards of a third candidacy

25 TO LABOR! The Times is the undeviating friend of all honest toilers—of all unshackled law-abiding workers everywhere; and while never denying the right of workmen to organize lawfully, it is the unyielding foe of lawless, proscriptive, monopolistic and exclusive labor organizations, because they are the selfish enemies of their own class and of the common industrial weal. Our position is unimpeachable and shall be maintained. The long record of THE Times as a fearless, reliable paymaster is unassailable. During the period between August 4, 1890, and September 30, 1911, there was paid to our loyal and well-satisfied employees, in salaries and wages, the telling aggregate cash sum of $4,266,819.17—mainly to skilled labor.

In one of his several speeches at the formation of the Roosevelt third term Club, here yesterday, Senator Gates explained that "this is still a momvement to get the government back to the people." Being such, he declared that Gov. Johnson and the "progressives" had yielded a great political advantage when they passed the primary Presidential nomination law, in December.

"We could have arbitrarily named all the delegates from California, but Gov. Johnson insisted on giving the people the right to name their delegates," said Gates.

Is that so, Senator? The record contradicts. At the famous San Francisco conference, a few days before the regular session of the Legislature, a Presidential primary law was reported favorably by one of Lissner's appointed chairmen and it was regarded as necessary to adopt this "reform," with others more revolutionary, at the session. Immediately the point was raised that the platform didn't call for it and the "progressives" of both houses declined to take it seriously. They held, upon good advice, that the Wright law gave them control of the State convention to pick a delegation and that this was enough. Consequently all attempts to amend he primary law, too, were subdued among progressives and defeated by them when proposed by others, including the efforts of Senator Wright. Some of those members who favored Presidential primaries, as well as Senatorial, had to be choked off in their support of such a measure on the ground that it would prevent insurgent control of the delegation.

The regular session adjourned and after it was over Lissner, Johnson and the rest found out that if they assembled the delegates chosen in August, 1910, as the Wright law required, Taft would win. So they piously took a new hitch in "getting the government back to the people" tactics and demanded a Presidential primary. And this did not receive the Governor's sanction until after he had been petitioned by many elements for it, there still being a belief in this region that San Francisco, which is pro-Taft, could be controlled by him.

Senator Gates is making the best of the Presidential primary for present purposes, but he seems to misunderstand the fact that it was progressive necessity and not Johnson's democratic devotion that brought about the enactment of the Young bill.

Strange things are happening in the insurgent ranks in Riverside county. Because two men have announced their candidacy for Congress in the new Eleventh District, a committee of seven has been decided on to say which shall run. The two contestants are Francis Cuttle and Mayor Sam C. Evans of Riverside, and each claims the backing of Johnson and his machine.

Now there is a primary nominating law which is to be in operation in September which is supposed to give voters of each party a free expression as to candidates. It is a long way to September and candidacies that are announced and determined in a few days, six months ahead of the legal date, excite some suspicion. In Riverside, not the primary but the Johnson politicians are to determine the right to run, and it is assumed at the start by Cuttle and Evans that their contest is a mere suit to quiet title to Riverside's support, and they are getting out their jury.

This, of course, rather squeezes out the aspirations of the obese Estudillo, which weren't much anyhow, the associated "Slats" Clarke, who are of the Johnson elect, not to say anything

They held, upon good action, that the Wright law gave them control of the State convention to pick a delegation and that this was enough. Consequently all attempts to amend the primary law, too, were defeated among progressives and defeated by them when proposed by others, including the efforts of Senator Wright. Some of those members who favored Presidential primaries, as well as Senatorial, had to be talked off in their support of such measures on the ground that it would prevent insurgent control of the delegation.

The regular session adjourned and after it was over Lissner, Johnson and the rest found out that if they assisted the delegates chosen in August, 1910, as the Wright law required, Taft would win. So they pious- ly took a new hitch in "getting the government back to the people" tactics and demanded a Presidential primary. And this did not receive the governor's sanction until after he had been petitioned by many elements for it, there still being a belief in this region that San Francisco, which is pro- Taft, could be controlled by him.

Senator Gates is making the best of the Presidential primary for present purposes, but he seems to misunderstand the fact that it was progressive insincerity and not Johnson's democratic devotion that brought about the enactment of the Young bill.

Strange things are happening in the insurgent ranks in Riverside county. Because two men have announced their candidacy for Congress in the Eleventh District, a committee of seven has been decided on to say which shall run. The two contestants are Francis Cuttle and Mayor Sam C. Evans of Riverside, and each claims the backing of Johnson and his machine.

Now there is a primary nominating law which is to be in operation in October which is supposed to give the voters of each party a free expression of their candidates. It is a long way to October and candidacies that are announced that they must be announced determined in a few months ahead of the legal primary but the Johnson politicians are to determine the matter in secret and it is assumed at the present that Cuttle and Evans that their contest is a mere suit to quiet title to the Johnson support, and they are getting their jury.

The jury, of course, rather squeezes out the persons of the obese Estudillo, who doesn't much anyhow, the "Kid" Clarke, who are of the Johnson sheet, not to say anything of A. F. Call of Corona, or the other candidates in embryo.

It is proposed to eliminate everybody and leave a postal card vote among the "select" determine who is to stand for Riverside county. It is of course assumed that Riverside county is to furnish the congressional timber for the whole district.

The suggestion of an elimination process came from three Orange county insurgents, E. E. Keech, J. P. Baumgartner and E. R. Amerige. They are Cuttle supporters. Baumgartner travelled with Cuttle through the district before Cuttle announced his candidacy. Baumgartner, like Cuttle, is an appointee of Gov. Johnson on a commission. Hence it looks from this viewpoint like a move of the State machine to help Cuttle.

Incidentally State Treasurer E. D. Roberts, of San Bernardino, who has been looked on as the Johnson candidate for Congress in this district, suddenly appears at Riverside and openly indorses the candidacy of Mayor Evans, who beat Cuttle to the entry list by a day or so, and who became unexpectedly insurgent in everything, including third terms. Roberts is also a Johnson appointee and has been regarded as the Johnson choice for Congress.

The present situation is complex and hardly capable of understanding unless Johnson has uttered the ultimatum that the new Congressman from the Eleventh must be from Riverside county. This seems the most rational explanation because Riverside has the heaviest administration support and it is geographically in line for the nomination.

But such a programme, engineered by the wily Baumgartner and his Orange county cohorts, certainly squeezes the obese Estudillo, who would again a Senator be, if he cannot go to Washington. If Riverside gets the Congressman the county cannot also have the nominee for Senator in the new Thirty-ninth district, composed of Riverside, Orange and Imperial. Hence Orange is in line for the Senatorship and a vision through a knot hole finds J. P. Baumgartner calmly astride of the nomination as an insurgent.

In his letter to the Riverside Republicans Baumgartner thus states things: "In a word our attitude is that we concede the congressional nomination to Riverside." By this process the candidacy of J. P. Baumgartner is enhanced. Why not? Johnson's machine must keep control of the Legislature at the next session and its long suit just now is to elect holdover Senators for the session of 1915, when a successor to Senator Perkins must be chosen. Baumgartner has been a stand-patter of the Johnson State machine, including Works, La Follette and the third-termer and is truly representative of its best or worst advances.

With all the noise of the ballyhoo it is announced that Secretary Detrick of the Lincoln-Roosevelt-La Follette-Roosevelt chameleon organization, has received 998 replies to postal inquiries among La Follette leaguers as to whether they prefer La Follette or Roosevelt, and that the returns show 813 for a third term and 185 for La Follette. In other words, the La Follette organization, with Johnson and the radicals at the head of it, switches at a minute's notice. If they were ever for La Follette they have no reason to change—he hasn't and he hasn't withdrawn as a candidate.

The impudence of the display is that it is intended to convince Republicans that the party in California is overwhelmingly for Roosevelt. The La Follette organization was an accumulation of all the docility and servility of the Johnson self-seeking machine and the vote was taken after Johnson had, with truculence, announced what kind of a vote was expected.

The big wonder is that 185 were permitted to participate in the organization who are enough themselves not to be bossed by Johnson and Rowell.

Dr. E. M. Butler, who is now Assemblyman from the Seventieth District, confirms all rumors that he will be a candidate for the Senate in the new Thirty-first District. The doctor finds that Albert G. Kuck has slipped in his Assembly district, now the Seventy-second, and locked the gate so the doctor can't "come back."

HAS MARKED TALENT.

Glendale Youth, Who Is to Appear in Recital, Gives Promise of a Brilliant Career.

GLENDALE, March 9.—A concert of special interest will be given by Julius Kranz, a talented young violinist of this place, at the Glendale High School on the evening of March 16.

It will be given under the auspices of the High School, where he discontinued his studies in order to devote his time to music. The young man has made remarkable progress in his art. He is a pupil of Prof. Arnold Krauss, who predicts a brilliant future for him.

His programme will include the Bruch concerto, in G minor. He will be assisted by Miss Grace James, a soprano, of much ability, and Will Garroway will be the accompanist, both of Los Angeles.

CLAREMONT.

CLAREMONT, March 9.—Dr. Arthur H. Smith, an authority on China, and the dean of Chinese missionaries, leaves Claremont next week to sail for China to resume his work there. He was tendered a reception by the people of the church Wednesday night.

The Pomona College open-air theater for which plans have been drawn by Myron Hunt, was commenced this week. There is a great deal of excavation to be done and the stage, retaining walls and first tier of seats will be completed by commencement week. The theater, when completed, will cost about $140,000, but will be built by degrees as the funds warrant. The weekly paper, the Claremont Courier, has been conducting a contest for the best slogan to be used in advertising the town. Miss Erma C. Brown's slogan of Claremont, "The Best in the West," was awarded the prize, and henceforth will be the catch-word for Claremont.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Councilmen Betkouski, Topham, McKenzie and Langdon returned yesterday from their trip of inspection of the aqueduct, delighted with the great progress made. The other members of the party are expected home this morning.

The first skirmish in a fight to vacate a judgment and secure the books of a corporation occurred in the Superior Court yesterday when a restraining order was issued enjoining a meeting of the stockholders of the Ord Mountain Gold Company called to elect a new board of directors.

At the City Hall.

AQUEDUCT WORK AMAZES COUNCIL.

PROGRESS RAPID IN EVERY ONE OF DIVISIONS.

Four Members of Investigation Party Return Full of Praise for Manner in Which Great Municipal Project Is Pushed to Completion. Intake and Headworks Visited.

Back from their trip of inspection along the aqueduct, Councilmen Betkouski, Topham, McKenzie and Langdon reached Los Angeles at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, having left the rest of the inspection party at Mojave.

"We did not wake the others up," said Betkouski, as he shook hands in the City Clerk's office, "and they would not know that we had given them the slip until they got up. It was raining and the day was not going to be a good one, so I could not see any use in remaining there. Besides, they were to inspect the cement mill and the north portal of the Elizabeth tunnel today, and I've seen them already three times."

The progress made on the aqueduct since a year ago when he made his last visit of inspection, Betkouski declared, was stounding.

"All the important problems have now been solved," he said, "and there is no doubt as to the ability of the city to solve any of the small questions that are left. They are moving along very fast on all the work. The in-take and headworks are all completed. The dredged canal is finished and the cemented open ditch is progressing very well, indeed. This is through the Alabama hills and is the roughest ground encountered anywhere through which an open ditch has been constructed. Despite its roughness, though, there is no delay and the rapidity with which the work is going ahead would astonish anyone who has not seen it.

"The gas tunnel, which caused so much trouble and some delay, has now been cemented off. On Thursday night we reached the Haiwee dam. Fast, but sure work is characteristic of everything being done there, too. It will be finished by July 1. Three trains of cars are being continually employed in dumping and these three trains are emptied every ten minutes, so you can get an idea of how quickly everything is being pushed. The splendid organization and discipline is one of the striking features. We went over Little Lake, Grapevine, Indian Wells, Freeman, Dove Springs and Jawbone Canyon divisions. In Jawbone division they are now preparing to erect the largest siphon in the world. The siphons are all in at Nine-Mile and No Man canyons and the tunnel at Sand Canyon is finished."

Betkouski said the trip had been without a mishap and so well planned that every point of the aqueduct was visited and inspected without delay. Councilman Reed, with the city officials and Engineer Davis of the United States Reclamation Service will be back today.

"The question of the water supply interested me to a great extent," said Betkouski, "and I asked Engineer Davis about it. He is a quiet man, but his reputation for knowing his profession is very high. There was no water in Cottonwood Creek, as the sources of supply in the mountains were frozen tight. At Division Creek, where the water flows under a lava cap, there is a constant supply. There is little water in the river just now. I asked Davis what he thought about it, and he said there need be no anxiety on that score—that even if there were no water in the river at all, a steady and large supply could always be relied upon from the surrounding hills through the rivers and creeks that flow down to the ditch."

The Councilman thinks the scenic resources of the Owens River Valley have not been dilated upon to a large enough degree. He says the sight of the sun's rays on the towering mountain tops, crowned with snow, at dawn and again at sundown, is worth going a thousand miles to see. The peaks are glimmering and scintillating in the morning light when the deep-lying valley is still in the depths of shadow, while off to the east and west ridge after ridge of mountain range sparkles and shines.

BIG BIDS LOOKED FOR.

HUNINGTON FILL PLANS.

Tomorrow morning the Board of Public Works at 9:30 o'clock will open bids for filling the Huntington concession. Representatives from all the great contruction companies in the country are expected to be present and lay their own plans before the board, as well as make their bids. They do not have to lay their own designs and specifications before the members for a week, but it is believed that many of them will be ready on this occasion. The plans will go to the City Engineer in all likelihood for a detailed report, which is expected to be comprehensive and of great value.

The Harbor Commission, yesterday, in view of the receipt of bids tomorrow, wrote a formal communication to the Board of Public Works drawing its attention to the fact that the commission has a tentative agreement with the Standard American Company, the contractor for the government work and for the Minor Fill dredging, to dredge the east channel at the rate of 20 cents a yard and to fill in with the earth at 15 cents. This is a total of 7 cents less than the government is paying for the work. The agreement is only to be effective in case the government shall not dredge the 150 feet of the channel on the east side of the fill. This 150 feet of frontage, the commission thinks, can wait until other work is done, as it would not be of much value until the government shall contruct a breakwater south from Dead Man's Island in connection with the proposed quarantine station.

TO HEAR TOMORROW.

LAST WORD ON BONDS.

The final word of Speyer & Co.'s counsel on the desirability of the municipal bonds of Los Angeles—aqueduct, aqueduct power and harbor issues—is due at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. There is very little likelihood of the lawyers pronouncing against the securities, city officials think, and "city officials" in this case means especially Mayor Alexander, who is quite confident of what the answer will be.

"Yesterday was the first day in some time," he said yesterday morning, as he was leaving his office, "that I did not receive some question or something over the wires from New York that I had to answer. The questionings have ceased."

That Speyer & Co., are well satisfied with the speculation from their point of view, is well known, and their local correspondents have been made aware of that fact. The lawyers' only part in he transaction is to pass upon the legality of the bonds, which is so firmly established that it cannot be questioned, and upon the resources of the city. These are well understood. So tomorrow afternoon word is firmly expected that the entire three issues have been approved.

WOULD CLOSE STREETS.

PARK COMMISSION'S PLEA.

The Park Commission is handicapped in its efforts to reconstruct Exposition Park, it told the Board of Public Works yesterday in a communication, by the practice of drivers of heavy teams. These men insist on driving across the park grounds, thus interfering with the work of road construction and the building of foot-walks. The commission considered that the only way to stop the practice is to have the following streets closed for six months: Santa Monica avenue at Figueroa, Santa Moeica at University, Santa Monica at Hoover and Thirty-ninth at Hooyer. The Park Commission's ideas were not understood by Commissioners Hubbard and Humphreys of the Board of Public Works and Inspector Hansen was directed to investigate. President Hubbard of the board said he could not see why the Park Commission would not achieve what it desired by closing all the driveways in the park itself without closing the streets. The board is loth to blockade generally used highways.

Patrol Boat for Harbor.

Complaints of petty thievery at the harbor have been made to the Harbor Commission by owners of small craft and they ask that something be done. The Harbor Commission yesterday, therefore, directed Secretary Fleming to ask the City Council to provide funds for a patrol boat.

"In some cases," the secretary said in explanation, "the thefts have been of considerable amount. The police at the harbor are handicapped because they cannot reach these miniature pirates, whose work is all done on the water. A patrol boat is provided in all harbors of any importance, and we should have one here."

At the Courthouse.

HALTS ELECTION OF DIRECTORS.

FIRST SKIRMISH IN FIGHT TO SECURE BOOKS.

Restraining Order Is Granted Enjoining Meeting of Stockholders of Mining Company to Elect New Board of Directors — Promissory Notes Figure.

A restraining order issued by Judge Craig yesterday enjoined a meeting of the stockholders of the Ord Mountain Gold Company which had been called by T. N. Hasson, president, at 406 Byrne building, to elect a new board of directors.

The order was made returnable before Judge Hutton at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for argument whether the injunction shall be permanent.

This is the first skirmish in a suit filed by S. T. Stagg, John Van Dam, Dr. Ludwig Gossman, E. M. Altland and W. E. Steadman against T. N. Hasson, W. J. Stansbury, Mrs. Nora Hasson, executrix of the estate of George L. Hasson, the Ord Mountain Gold Company, incorporated in Arizona, and others.

The suit covers several points, one of which is to vacate a judgment and another a demand on the Sheriff for the release of the corporation books, W. C. Durrent is assignee for Hasson Brothers, Mrs. C. N. Hasson and Grace E. Hasson, who hold promissory notes against the company aggregating $34,128.

The motion to vacate the judgment was brought in behalf of four directors. There are five on the board, the fifth being T. N. Hasson, president of the company.

Durrent obtained a judgment in default, based on these promissory notes. The affidavit sets forth that the notes were issued without authority from the board of directors and without consideration. Execution was issued on the judgment and the corporation books taken possession of by the Sheriff.

The plaintiffs allege that they had no notice of the suit pending nor did they know that a default judgment had been taken until after the judgment was entered, and further allege that Durrent acted for the Hassons.

It is also charged that Hasson never communicated to the other directors the pendency of this suit. The object of the restraining order was to prevent Hasson obtaining control of the board. The appointment of a referee is asked in order to determine the status of the stock of the company.

RARE LEGAD POINT.

UP IN PROBATE COURT.

A legal point which hase come before the courts only twice in this State is now before Judge Rivers for solution. It is a vexatious thing, as it involves a conflict in the law of different States in determining separate and community property.

The case came into the Probate Court yesterday. George McCown, a farmer, accumulated considerable property in Missouri. After his death the property was sold and the cash, aggregating $15,000, was brought to this city. The question was raised yesterday whether the distribution of the estate shall be decided on the theory of community property under the law of this State or separate property.

If it is community propetty, the widow, Mrs. Cynthia L. McCown, is entitled to one-half. If separate property, she will receive one-third but if it is decided according to the law of Missouri, her share will be a dower of $400.

The heirs represent the widow and eight children of her own, four stepchildren and three grandchildren. The estate is represented by Attorney Copp. The petition for distribution is represented by Attorney Smyser.

MOTHER KEEPS CHILD.

COURT MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT.

An announcement was made by Judge Monroe yesterday in the divorce suit of Lieut. Louis Norton, which brought smiles to the face of his wife but saddened his own features. The 5-year-old child of the couple will not be taken from the mother, no matter what the verdict.

The concluding testimony in the case will be taken tomorrow. Norton is a member of the Fire Department. The correspondent named in the case is Lieut. Arthur L. Neitzke, also a member of the department. The custody of the child is the prize for which the parents are contending.

MONEY IN HIS MIND.

INSANE MAN'S VAGARIES.

Peter Goethals, whose dealings in finance led to his arrest originally on the charge of having passed fictitious checks, was declared insane by a jury in Judge Cabaniss' Court yesterday.

Goethals came to Los Angeles representing a stock dealer, he said, and reported that he had sold $22,000 worth of cattle. He went to Dr. F. D. Carney to have his teeth fixed, and remarked casually he was in the market to invest his money.

Carney had a piece of land and a deal was made, Goethals drawing a check for $2000. Then with more money to invest, Carney introduced Goethals to a friend in the real estate business and another deal was made, Goethals giving a $11,000 check.

About this time Goethals intimated to Carney that he was short of small change and obtained $8 in exchange for his check. Meantime, the real estate man slipped over to the First National Bank where the checks had been drawn and learned that Goethals had no funds there. Carney was notified, nd under the pretence of treating Goethals to a cigar, he led him to a deputy constable.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

Millionaire's estate. An inventory of the estate of William Morgan, who died recently in Pasadena, shows that the value of his property in California is $547,308. The largest item of personal property is 2020 shares of stock of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce, valued at $350,000. The total value of the personal property is $430,000. The value of the estate Morgan left in Illinois is $2,000,000.

VACATION PERIOD. The Superior Court judges at their recent meeting decided that the vacation period shall begin Monday, August 19, and end September 30. There will be no contested civil cases during that time

Six Energetic Society Women,

Working for the success of the brilliant benefit ball to be given April 10, for the Barlow Sanatorium. Shrine Auditorium will be the scene of the function, which is planned for one of the most worthy charities. In the center is a view of the institution itself.

tional subscriptions for the notable social event to be held at Shrine Auditorium on the night of April 10.

Every member of the several committees is hard at work perfecting the many details involved in the work of carrying the elaborate plan of decoration and entertainment to a successful conclusion.

The cause for which the dance is given is a worthy one and one that should appeal to every citizen. The number of the needy who weekly ask for admission to the sanatorium, which has been set apart for the care of the tuberculosis poor far exceeds the number that can now be taken care of.

A charitable person, deeply interested in the noble work started by Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow, has offered to give, in addition to the amount received at the ball, a sum equal to the proceeds of the entertainment. Other friends of Dr. and Mrs. Barlow have donated the building, music, refreshments, and decorations for the function. It means a great deal to the cause of saving Los Angeles' poor from the ravages of the white plague.

A meeting to further consider arrangements and details will be held at the residence of Dr. Barlow on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. William W. Mines, who is chairman of the Cigar and Cigarette Booth Committee has asked to assist her, Miss Pauline Vollmer, Miss Dorothy Jackins, Miss Ruth Larned, Miss Mary Belle Peyton, Miss Alice Groff, Miss Eileen Canfield, Miss Katherine Stearns, Miss Ella Gardner, Miss Virginia Walsh, Miss Josephine Lacy, Miss Cora Auten, Mrs. J. D. Foster, Mrs. Walter Perry Story, Mrs. Edwin Janss, Mrs. C. M. O'Leary, Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Willard J. Doran, Mrs. W. A. Innes, Mrs. Walter Comstock and Mrs. C. G. Andrews.

The Gypsy Camp will be presided over by Mrs. Robert Marsh and Mrs. Isaac Milbank. They have chosen to assist them, Mrs. Spencer H. Smith, Mrs. Gail B. Johnson, Mrs. Lyman Ross McFie, Mrs. Dan Murphy, Mrs. Borden Johnson, Mrs. Donald Frick, Mrs. Milbank Johnson, Mrs. Albert Crutcher, Mrs. Edwin S. Rowley, Mrs. Lewis G. Morris, Mrs. John B. Miller, Mrs. William C. Bakes, Mrs. Robert Gillis, Mrs. L. J. Selby, Mrs. William Lacy, Mrs. William Breckenridge, Mrs. William R. Staats, Mrs. Lawrence B. The Floor Committee, under the able direction of William May Garland, will include Dr. Guy Cochran, Dr. Rea Smith, R. L. Rogers, Chester Montgomery, Charles Seyler, Gurney Newlin, Charles G. Andrews, Dr. J. J. A. Van Kasthoven, R. J. Schweepe and Russell McD. Taylor.

SUPREME COURT COMING.

Will Be Here in April to Hear Many Important Cases, Including Tide-Lands Suit.

The State Supreme Court will be in Los Angeles for a week, beginning Monday, April 15, for the consideration of cases.

The first day will be devoted to the entertainment of motions, and the court will sit en bank the Tuesday and Wednesday following, when fourteen cases will be heard according to the calendar.

Among these issues will be that of the famous tide-lands suit involving valuable property claimed by the city of Los Angeles and various railway interests, on appeal from the Superior Court.

Two Sides.

PUBLIC CAPRICE OFTEN HARMFUL.

RAILWAY REGULATIONS MAY BE SERIOUS HANDICAP.

General Manager of Pacific Electric Suggests that Only Way for Average Man to Act Intelligently Is to Thoroughly Study Intricate System of Operation.

That there are two sides to every question, even including the problem of the regulation of railroads, was the conclusion expressed by Paul Shoup, of the Pacific Electric, in an address yesterday afternoon at the Westminster, before the City Club.

"Regulation of public utilities can often be made of benefit to the public," said the speaker, "and on the other hand it is possible for the people so to regulate a corporation that it is seriously handicapped and business suffers in consequence.

"When the people of this city or State contemplate taking any action to reduce the net income of the Pacific Electric, they should stop to consider that thousands of people in the State, own stock in this corporation and that these stockholders are not all millionaries, by any means.

"Of course, it is quite natural for the people to want cheap carfare, but sometimes what a man deems reasonable and fair, simply because it suits his purse, is manifestly unfair to the railroad people. For instance, if Los Angeles were to extend its limits to the county boundary line and the people should still insist upon a five-cent fare to the city from every part of the municipality, the Pacific Electric would have no alternative except to turn its affairs oper to a receiver.

"We hear a great deal lately about regulation of railroads. We have regulations for breakfast, dinner and supper. That is all right, and I want to say right here for the information of the people at large, that any city official will always be welcomed at our offices if he comes for the purpose of inspecting our books. But does the public ever stop to consider the trouble and expense to which a railway corporation is put in order to make out the reports which the city, State and government require?

"The troubles of a railway company are manifold, and the general run of people know little of the trials of the management of a large corporation. For instance, the Pacific Electric is regulated in three ways. It is regulated by the city, by the State and by the government of the United States, and no matter how hard it tries to be good, the company is always in trouble with one or the other of its masters.

"Another trouble we have to face is the public whim. How can we tell that tomorrow 10,000 persons may take it into their heads to visit Pasadena and perhaps the next day make a grand rush for Venice or Long Beach? And yet the strap-hanger invariably invokes against us every word in his Sunday-school vocabulary because he has to stand. Why don't people notify the company a day or so ahead of time? If they would do that, we might be better able to accommodate them.

"The company which I represent wants to be fair to the people and it expects the people to be considerate also, and while it seems a hard thing to ask the average man to study the question of railroad regulation, I see no other way by which a just system of management can be accomplished."

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Treasurer McDougald has had a change of heart. A few days ago he positively refused to accept $22,000 in currency from the Tax Collector. He must have gold or nothing. The Tax Collector simply told the cleizens that he could not accept currency in payment of taxes because of the Treasurer's dictum. Rather than be unpopular McDougald at once relented and now taxes can be paid in any old way.

Under the ordinary rules of gallentry Postmaster Fisk ought to admit the charges two young women are making against him. But as his job depends on his disproving them he naturally says that the ladies are untruthful in accusing him of undue familiarity. He points with pride to his record for nine years as postmaster and he hopes the Senate will believe him in preference to employees discharged for dishonesty.

Our glorious climate cannot buck against the golden promise of Wall street. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., likes us and our delightful atmosphere but just the same he must needs heed the call of the street and so he leaves us to become a New York broker. The young fellow was a pleasant chap and we'll miss him very much. He is welcome to return at any time.

Greatly rejoiced at his acquittal, former Mayor Schmitz held out his hand to thank the jurors. Not one of them took it. It took them six minutes to bring in a verdict of acquittal and they might just as well have strained a point and taken a minute to congratulate their beneficiary. Abe Ruef was in the courtroom at the time, but he had nothing to say about the incident.

The welcome rain has been falling on the just and the unjust alike, and not a citizen had a complaint to make. Even the police, who were flooded in the Hall of Justice by the breaking of a sewer, arrested no one for excess precipitation. If there is to be a higher cost of living this year, some other excuse than lack of rain will have to be given.

No politics in the school department is the wish of President o'Ancona. Superintendent Roncovieri is against the rule and so are many of the teachers. The school directors are fighting the matter out and have postponed acting on it. It is believed that there has been politics in the department in the past and it is thought that there will be politics in it in the future.

Madame Tetrazzini, colorature singer, is with us again. Mayor Rolph and a bunch of flowers gave her a glad welcome. She says that she will not sing at Lotta's fountain again, as it would be tempting Providence. Her voice soars high and so does her fancy, for she says that some friends told her that the last time she sang at Kearney and Market streets they heard her from the roof of the St. Francis Hotel.

Some of the leading organizations of women are demanding that there be separate police courts for their sex. The police judges have given them a hearing but have given them no encouragement as to carrying out the plan. Of course women usually get what they go after and it is only a matter of time when the [illegible] will have to yield.

Mayor Rolph owns dogs and he hates to see any impositions put on canines in general. He opposed the plan of the health board to muzzle every dog running loose on the streets. He ridiculed the idea of an epidemic of rabies and cited the case of the pound men who are bitten hundreds of times without suffering any bad results. The Supervisors voted against the proposed ordinance and the Mayor was triumphant.

The visit of President Lovett of the Southern Pacific revives the hope that electric lines will be built down the Peninsula. The judge says nothing about it except that electric construction is very expensive. Those on the inside, however, felt sure that the matter is under consideration and that it will not be long before it is consummated.

No More Corns

The GUARANTEED Cure Is "Gets-It."

Pardon Me, Corns?

"GETS-IT," the guaranteed corn cure, is a wonder. It never irritates or turns the true flesh sore or raw. It can't. It is as safe as water. Stockings won't stick to it. Corn pains stop right off. The corn or callous or wart shrivels up, it comes out, and then blessed relief! Best for bunions, too.

Quit shaving your corn with a razor. You may draw blood and cause blood poisoning. "GETS-IT," the money-back corn cure, is sold at druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

He is a lonely artist, who spends his leisure and finds unique nomenclature for the orgrenna, which gives forth the tones deliciously original in nomenclature.

Confining himself entirely to the wood of the Yucca palm for material, Belcher has in at least two instances achieved results which border upon the sensational in harmonics. He has made a two-stringed instrument not more than thirty inches long, with a sounding board only three inches in diameter, which produces the tone and volume of a pipe organ. This he has called the orgrena and the few who have heard it have married at the immensity of sound coming from an instrument so diminutive. It is the last of Belcher's inventions after experiments of five years and it is perhaps the most wonderful of his many novel productions. Possessing two strings, it is played with an ordanary violin bow and from these slender strands there results a volume of unbelievable power, so vast and deep it is that a theater or the auditorium of a church might easily be filled with the depth and clarity of its vibrations. Its outpouring is more than sound. It is resonance, buoyance and threnody.

THIS SOUNDS HUMAN.

Another instrument which has required equal patience and originality in production is the violin, designed for the imitation of the human voice, to which it makes an approach that is startling. This instrument has only a single string and it, too, is played with a bow. It has much of the capacity of a violin when played upon with a skill equal to that required for the mastery of the sacred violin. With it Belcher can give an imitation of a phonograph announcement so real that those who hear it seem to catch each tone as though there were a word. It is so like the thing it imitates that it fairly staggers one. Perhaps a more marvelous effect was never obtained from a violin. To add a touch of the artistic to this instrument, Belcher has made it a mahogany neck.

Belcher began his work more than three years ago at Monrovia in seeking to provide something entirely exceptional for a local minstrel performance. His first effort was a little instrument which he called the orgrena, an instrument made from the bulb and stock of the yucca and played upon with a bow. It has two strings and the tone is that of a fine violoncello, which when played with other instruments sounds much like the human voice.

These notes are wonderfully sustained and is produced such a sensation among those who heard it that Belcher was moved to try a second experiment, this time with something of the banjo, and he called the new instrument a banjorena. This has three strings and is played with a pick. It is an elegant instrument to accompany the voice and for his own purposes Belcher admires it the most of all. Through more than three lonely years it has been his singing companion at twilight. It is the habit of the solitary artist to sing through the summer evenings as he sits alone, and this little instrument of his own lovely creation.

THE ARTIST AND SERENADER.

Besides his most ambitious undertaking with the yucca is the kumorena, an instrument three feet high and provided with five strings to provide an accompaniment for other instruments as well as for the voice. The tone

Small Instrument of Volume Like Big Organ.

Hopping lightly from the improvisation of a toy which he hoped would provide an hour of amusement for himself and a little circle of friends in a suburban village, Frederick G. Belcher, an artist in crayons and water colors, residing at No. 1133 Wilson street, South Pasadena, has invented eight stringed instruments distinct in tone, unique in form and similar to the mandolin and is played with an ivory pick. Its tones are exquisite, with a haunting fugitive note which seems always on the point of eluding the ear. This gives the instrument a touch of the quaint with the blend of the barbaric, which appeals to something half savage and half spirit, lying directly beneath the surface of almost every heart. It is a touch of that indefinable quality of the beyond-word which makes the subtle and irresistible charm of music and for which poets and musicians alike are ever striving.

Belcher has a theory with regard to the violin which is richly speculative and which he affirms he can readily demonstrate. He claims that he can take any violin and without taking it apart, so fashion it by secret process that it will produce any tone desired. In his opinion he has discovered a touch of magic which will transform any violin into a superb instrument, regardless of its original construction.

This humble artist, aspiring to be no more than a mere tinker, is a distinct discovery and in his modesty and simple happiness he appears to have no idea of transmitting his unique treasures into anything of commercial worth. He has made his instruments after the fashion of those who make pure poems—because it is his life and his light to do so. The music of life sounds within him.

vibrant and powerful and will sustain an entire orchestra, dominating the music with an overtone of great richness.

It is his serenader, however, which has made a peculiar appeal to the children who have heard this wizard of sounds in his quaint little shop. He never sells one of his precious inventions. He is engaged in manufacturing three graceful serenaders, which he is to present to three lucky little maidens who attend the South Pasadena High School and who have sometimes loitered at his door to listen with enchantment to the sweetness of the serenader's delicate intonations. So soft is this instrument in its lilting melodies that it is played with a flexible leather pick. It has four strings and is like nothing else in the world, unless it be the kukulina of the Hawaiians.

Another of these strange creations is the vocalodius, which is also made to play with the bow, having three strings and producing a tone both sweet and deep, which has the flow and vibrance of the cello, and exceeding that lovely instrument in its swelling volume. The vocalodius would be a distinct acquisition to any orchestra.

THE BEYOND-WORD.

Something in nature to the serenader is the mandola, which is made from the stock of the yucca and so constructed as to be held under the arm while playing. It has strings

Happy Young Folks.

JOY FOR BOYS AND GIRLS, WINNERS, REBECCA CONTEST

Will Have Best Seats at Great Show at Mason Operahouse on Opening Night—Two Tickets for Each of the Best Writers—A Long Roll of Honor—Seats to Be Given Out Monday Morning.

THE Times "Rebecca Essay Contest" is over.

Nearly three hundred essays received, from all points in Southern California. The letters were carefully examined by a competent committee, and out of the aggregate four first winners were chosen, and eighty-seven contributors entitled to honorable mention—and the reward of "seeing the show."

In selecting these best essays on "What Education Means to a Girl Like Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" the thought was considered first of all; then the form, and then the carefulness with which the essay was executed. The age of the applicant was also a recommendation—provided the contender for literary honors was of unusually tender years.

In selecting these eighty-seven young folks for reward The Times has chosen them because in every instance their letters were executed with care, and showed thought, seriousness and a really earnest ambition to write an intelligent composition on a commendable subject.

Dirty, blotted, badly-worded, ungrammatical and hasty attempts were thrown into the discard.

Not all can be expected to write with the fluency of an Emerson, or the mere mechanical grace of the Spencerian penmanship system, but each and every one who attempts a composition may show his or her careful best in thought, and a certain amount of legibility and pains in pen-execution.

Each of the young persons named below may call at The Times Information Bureau, Times office, No. 531 South Spring street, at any time after 9 o'clock tomorrow (Monday) morning and, upon giving a signature which compares correctly with the signature upon the letter or brief essay, will receive not one, but two tickets, to Monday evening's performance of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," by the New York company, at the Mason Operahouse tomorrow evening.

Each of the winners may be accompanied, you see, by father, mother, relative or friend.

These seats are in the best part of the house, on the opening night, and the attraction is one of the biggest, as well as the newest, of the year.

Apart from the four winners, the writer—who was one of the judges—would say that each one of these named below showed remarkable cleverness and originality, and what is perhaps more to the point, an unusual, and one might say almost unprecedented command of and clarity in the use of the English language, which speaks wonderfully for the educational system of our public schools here in Los Angeles.

It is the tendency of everyone to follow the beaten path—hence the judges made originality of idea the fundamental "big point" in judging these "Rebecca" essays. It is hard for a grown person to be original—therefore, how much more unusual is it to find originality of thought in a child?

Remembering this point, the judges decided that the most unique and original answer to the question, "What Does Education Mean to a Girl Like Rebecca?" was submitted by little Ruth Carpenter, 11 year of age, a pupil of the Fourteenth-street School, B7, and resident with her parents at No. 927 East Twentieth street.

Ruth made it personal—which, to our way of thinking, was immense. She said: "I am finding out what education means to a girl like Rebecca. I speak Spanish and English, and I am studying German, and I want more languages. Schoolhouses should be made of glass, for then one could see on all sides so much to get by hard study. If a tiny education like mine can make one so happy, what joy must it be for the educated grown-ups?"

Isn't that great?

Number 2 was a beautiful and poetic thought, submitted in copy as beautiful as the sentiment, by Marion Peairs, 16 years of age, resident at No. 165 East Thirty-sixth place, this city.

Miss Peairs wrote: "To a girl like Rebecca, education is as garden culture to a flower. Education changes her from a simple field rose to the cultivated beauty, which, unfolding its petals, sends forth from its heart the quaint fancies of childhood enriched and fraught with deeper meaning, yet retaining their pristine fragrance."

Some rhetorical construction for a 16-year-old, eh?

Number 3, from Halstead Kimball, a youngster living at No. 1708 South Hope street, makes this happy comparison: "Education to a girl like Rebecca is the key to a locked door opening from a small room to the beautiful outdoors. She has the intellect, but cannot use it until it is trained. Education will unlock the door and let her out into the sunshine."

Number 4 in this list of exceptional merit is from Ruth Holdredge of the Inglewood Grammar School. She says: "To a girl like Rebecca, education means the ability to realize the dreams that are stored up in the corners of every busy brain. It means that she can earn her own living and help support her family. It means self-dependence and self-maintenance."

The roll of honor, each one of which is entitled to two fine seats at the Mason Operahouse tomorrow night under the conditions named above, is as follows:

Louis Wiebusch, Jr., 1533 Orange street.
Vivian L. Robbins, aged 12, Huntington Park.

COURTED AS A RULER WAS T. R.

TRUMPETER HERALDED COMING OF AMBITIOUS ONE.

Democratic Customs Dear to All Americans Who Love the Republic Were Discarded for Royal Pomp. A Menace to Popular Rule He Liked to Show Power.

BY RICHARD LEW DAWSON.

At the height of his career Theodore Roosevelt announced his loyalty to the unwritten law, established by Washington, confirmed by all his successors, and as binding as the written Constitution, or the unwritten British constitution, that no man, of whatever eminent worth, shall occupy the Presidency longer than eight years.

If the contention that Roosevelt had only one elective term is a quibble, then the present argument that objections to a third term only apply to consecutive terms is a worse quibble. The real objection is to the long lease of power given to one man in his occupying the Presidency longer than one term, when there are numbers of able men entitled to their turns in the office.

The day before the nomination of Taft, when a demonstration for Roosevelt was in progress in the convention, I was in Washington and sent this message to President Roosevelt: "You understand that my motive is not presumptuous or disrespectful in urging that you should at once, in words that can not be mistaken or overridden, put a quietus forever to the clamor of thoughtless zealots for a third term, or a term that would bring any President's administration beyond eight years. Will you not lay this ghost so effectually for all time, as it is in your power alone to do now, that it can never for very shame walk again on American soil? You doubtless believe with me that it is not patriotic, but is traitorous to the spirit of American institutions, to propose, promote or consummate the renomination of any President for a third term, and equally so for him to accept it.

"The history of the world's republics warns us that when once the bounds of office set by wise custom are broken through, the end of republican institutions and liberty is not far distant. Though one of wisdom, integrity and patriotism might in a prolonged term of office cherish and conserve the people's rights the, real peril lies in that some less scrupulous and more overweening ambition of the future might by this precedent find the way open and easy to a dictatorship and lastly to a monarchy.

MUST NOT BE SWAYED.

"Mr. President, the people must not be permitted to forget or to be swayed by a momentary enthusiasm and a rash and ruinous eclipse of reason into an act of self-betrayal they would bitterly repent when they found they had weakened the barriers and safeguards of popular sovereignty, of which this prescribed limit to the Presidential office is one of the gravest importance."

But not for Teddy! Oh, no, he was sitting with bated breath waiting for the tidal wave to break over his head expecting that this convention would be swept off its feet and that he would be lauded for his modest renunciation in favor of Taft—and have the nomination thrust upon himself. How chagrined he must have been when the convention took him at his word, and how his conspicuous teeth must have gnashed in rage and disappointment! The fact that he had always previously given me courteous answers to communications, but gave no reply to the above letter, confirmed my suspicions of his secret ambitions.

All his subsequent career and expressions have betrayed his designs still more clearly, and they are not those which loyal Americans should approve. It is reported that he laughed boisterously over Representative Slayden's resolution in Congress declaring against third terms. Such ambitious men have always laughed and ridiculed those who have sounded the note of warning when they saw breakers ahead for a republic, and they have always hidden their real purpose under the slogan of "popular rule."

This man's whole career shows him as a menace to America. This menace looms up today in the form of his cunning scheme for a "new nationalism," a concentration of power in one man's hands at Washington. The trusts and grafts, the corporations and moneyed aristocracy that this ambitious man in his heart favors, are fast ruining the republic and substituting for popular government the arrogance of class and monarchial forms and pomps inaugurated by Roosevelt during his administration.

For the first time a President was elected from the ranks of wealth and fashionable society. Formerly the Presidents had been men who won their way up from poverty, but at last through the mutations of politics one was chosen who had been born rich and had never known privation. However popular and winning, of much vaunted honesty and rugged Americanism, yet from his social and financial position he was courted as a ruler, rather than the public servant he is theoretically made by law.

Instead of the simplicity of Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln, his appearance at receptions was heralded by a trumpeter, these receptions were given only to diplomats and favored society, and no longer to the people with the Democratic hand shakings to which all citizens are entitled and accustomed. When he went out to drive, the way was cleared of the plebeian rabble by outriders and secret service men; and a coachman who unwittingly obstructed his passage and roused the Presidential royal wrath was discharged, although a poor fellow with a dependent family.

In Washington it was regarded as treason, to criticise the President in any degree, and local orators lauded this muzzling of free speech. Newspaper men were intimidated and permitted only to give out the class of news dictated from the White House. A correspondent who dared to note the persecution of the Christmas turkey by the President's children was for this "lese majeste" forbidden further entrance to the White House.

Yet we rage about censorship of the press and autocratic royalty in foreign countries When the President was to visit a building at the World's Fair in St. Louis, it was cleared of the vulgar herd that his Majesty might view the show exclusively. Think of Lincoln or McKinley, the men of and from the plain people, consenting to such a thing.

This President permitted his daughter to be received abroad with royal honors and be recognized as a princess, when neither she nor any other American girl has any right to such a distinction, which is questionable and vulgar at the best, and really an insult to American institutions. A sound and wise President would have forbidden his daughter's acceptance of such false honors as pernicious in effect.

Hero worship is the same in all lands, whatever form the government may take, and the uncultured crowd will always stand in awe of a circus with its tawdry tinsel, coarse bigness and raucous clamor. Royalty and high sounding titles are of the circus grade, and it is amazing that a gently bred American girl should submerge her native queenship and countenance the barbarian ceremonies and idolatry of monarchical systems which are banished from the presence and approval of modern enlightenment.

Great praise was sounded, too, for the President because of his superfluous announcement after the election in 1904 that he would not be a candidate for a third term. Washington set the example and fixed the law of custom, and no other man has found himself big enough to change this wise and safe precedent, not even Grant, with his tremendous popularity, when his fool friends attempted it to his humiliation.

Let all others beware of the venture, for the American people will never permit it while they retain their sovereignty; should they ever do so, they would then open the way for the same calamity that has befallen every other republic of history under the unceasing machinations of other nations, aided by conspirators at home.

The tidal wave of popularity must recede from rash and insatiate ambition. Here is a man of ordinary talents, posing during the last twenty-five years for theatrical effect in order to keep himself in office and power. He organized a troop for Cuban service, giving them a name long-used by Buffalo Bill, although they had to go to Cuba on foot, and accepted coolly for them the credit deserved at least as fully by other regiments engaged in the battles. He used this prestige in order to boom himself for Governor of New York.

When a fatality made him the nation's President, he meddled with everything, and acted on rash impulse, made sophomoric speeches with never a striking or original sentence in them, and amazed the slow world.

Then on his return from his foreign trip he would seize the entire control of New York politics, assuming all the credit for every existing good and denying his responsibility for his blunders and rash contradictory assertions. He, year after year, refuses to reassert his resolve to decline the third nomination as President, he permits sycophants to proclaim him for that candidacy without denial, and has been going about the country with the one set purpose of effecting his own nomination regardless of its pernicious results.

For every emergency the one man arises. In every national crisis or revolution of history, the Moses has appeared to lead the people out of bondage. But the man of the people is always a man from the people, and not from the self-constituted aristocracy or moneyed royalty. When he comes and the work he has to do is accomplished, he knows how to return quietly to the ranks, leaving the work of peace to the ordinary representatives of the people. This is as it should be, for the leadership of one man is unnatural after the emergency ceases.

But this will not do for Roosevelt, he must keep himself in the limelight for the gratification of his own vanity and love of applause. He is a disturber and a demagogue of the pernicious kind. He is insincere in his patriotic assertions. The attitude he assumes on centralization of power and his designing silence on third term talk only make more imminent and noticeable the peril of some clique of aspiring and sycophantic conspirators plotting for a return to the original monarchical form. Let Roosevelt talk as he pleases of "the twaddle of this king business," but the people of other nations have been lulled into false security and found themselves bound hand and foot by a sudden coup of just such an ambitious man.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Dr. Frances Hollingshead has been appointed assistant superintendent of the House of Refuge in Chicago. The institution is not only a home for youthful offenders, but also a refuge for neglected children. Heretofore, the offices in the institution have been given to men.

Miss Esther Allstrom, who is an inspector of Tacoma, Wash., is a business woman who is not interested in any way by suffrage, but who finds food to be clean for its money value. She is a practical woman, knowing all about the weights and keeping the books to prevent overpresses.

The Marchioness of Dufferin, known as Flora Davis, was a reigning belle of New York before her marriage. It is announced that she will go to Ireland now that her husband's fortunes are at a low ebb. She favors the music halls for the salaries that they pay.

Miss Florence Preis, daughter of Billiken, the god of things as they ought to be, is the bride of Frank Smalley, an automobile dealer of Lincoln, Neb.

Miss Sui Wang, a Chinese girl, will represent Albion College in the Michigan Intercollegiate oratorical contest on March 1. She is a thorough believer in the principles of the revolutionary uprising in China, and her oration bears the title, "The Chinese Crisis."

Mrs. William Vincent, the young widow of the late vice president, is sponsor in the University of Chicago for the only nominee for one of the two vacancies among the sophomore class of Cornell University, which will occur this year. The two vacancies in terms expire are not subject to re-election

San Francisco Delegation to Attend Fashion Show.

Retail Dry Goods Men Guests of Local Association.

Visit Highly Appreciated and Good Time Promised.

Twenty members of San Francisco's Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association will pay a visit to the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association of Los Angeles, arriving here the first day of the Fashion Show.

Not only is this an event of great importance to our merchants, who look forward with much pleasure to the entertainment of their brethren from the northern city, but the visit is one which must interest every Angeleno.

The local committee which is preparing for the entertainment of the distinguished guests will leave nothing undone for their pleasure while in the city.

W. E. Chamberlain, assistant president of Hamburger's, is chairman of the entertainment committee, which is composed of five members.

"I doubt," said Mr. Chamberlain, "if there is a place in the United States where so friendly a feeling exists as on the Pacific Coast among the merchants. I know of no two eastern cities where such courtesies are exchanged as those between San Francisco and Los Angeles. I know of no place where the merchants would do honor to a sister city's business people as the San Francisco merchants are doing in paying us this visit. I assure you that the visit is highly appreciated by us."

The party which will arrive here on Thursday morning next, will represent $150,000,000 of retail merchandising business in San Francisco. The delegation will reach here on the "Lark" at 9:30 and will be greeted at the Arcade station by the entertainment committee of the Los Angeles Retail Merchants' Association.

After being shown some of the sights of the city, the San Francisco merchants will be invited to partake of an elaborate luncheon at the Alexandria, during which toasts will be given and the acquaintance, happily begun, will be still more closely cemented.

ESKIMOS TAUGHT IDEALS OF LIFE.

TWO SOCIAL WORKERS IN FAR ALASKA VISIT HERE.

Thrilling Tale Told After Eleven Years Spent on Isolated Government Reservation—Reindeer Industry Good and Meat for Coast Promised.

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar O. Campbell of St. Lawrence Island, Alaska, who have been spending a few days in the city, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Johnson, are enjoying their second vacation since 1901, when they went there to engage in social work among the Eskimos. Their work is similar to that of Dr. Grenfell, though their isolation is even greater than that of the workers on the coast of Labrador.

Situated in the Behring Sea, two hundred miles from Nome and forty miles from Siberia, in the shadow of the Arctic Circle, St. Lawrence is inaccessible eight months in the year, and the other four the only connection with the outside world is the arrival of the United States revenue cutter, the supply ship, and a chance whaler now and then, and on one or two occasions a gasoline boat from Nome.

The island is a government reindeer reservation and the most remote station of Alaska except Point Barrow, which is the northernmost post office in the world. Yet Point Barrow has a reindeer mail service three times in the winter, while St. Lawrence has but one regular mail a year.

"As you know," said Dr. Campbell, a Berkeley graduate from Santa Barbara, "I am employed by the government to teach the Eskimos and superintend the care of the reindeer. For five years my wife, who had been reared in Southern California where she never saw a snow fall, was the only white woman on the island, but when we returned from our first vacation the government sent with us a lady assistant teacher. Then he related a tale as thrilling as Robinson Crusoe or Swiss Family Robinson.

"There is no authority on the island," continued the doctor, "religious or civil." The man who catches the most whale may be called chief, but he has no more control than others. The devil-doctors have a certain kind of power through their sorceries, by working on the fears and superstitions of the people, but not otherwise. The language is not that of the Eskimos of the mainland, but of Siberia."

Dr. Campbell has done what no man has ever done before, for he has reduced their vocabulary to a written language—and has published a booklet containing the alphabet, pictures of simple objects and translations from the Bible. It is a language of many syllables. A sentence of six English words of one syllable each, has twenty-three syllables in Eskimo.

In the absence of Mayor, council, school board, police force, lighting, water and sanitary commissioners, banker, architect and builder, blacksmith and the rest, Dr. Campbell attends to any such matters as may arise in addition to being physician, surgeon, school teacher, preacher, and reindeer superintendent. He has a most able assistant in Mrs. Campbell, who has thrown herself, heart and soul into the work.

"What do we teach the natives?" asked Mrs. Campbell, who is a member of the well-known Kellogg family of Santa Barbara. "O, everything, from how to wash their faces, to a knowledge of God," she explained. "They must be taught the simplest things—to cook and sew and wash their clothes and care for the children and clean their houses and keep their bodies free from vermin.

"But few of them have stoves in which bread can be baked, and for fuel for these the men go in their boats fifty or seventy-five miles for drift wood."

Mrs. Campbell was trying one time to persuade the women to discard the Salome indoor costume—which, in their case often consisted of little more than a string of beads, in favor of the American custom. She was told "we're too poor, if you'll give us clothes we'll wear them." Upon being told they should trade their water boots to the whalers for clothing instead of tobacco, they said "well, our stomachs like tobacco."

"Besides the time and peril of securing the seal skins, and curing them, and making the thread, it takes a woman two or three days to make a pair of boots and five pair of these they will trade for a box of tobacco," said Mrs. Campbell.

"The first few years there was a great deal of drunkenness, but between the doctor and the government it has been almost entirely eliminated.

Once when Dr. Campbell searched a boat in which some Siberian Eskimos had arrived, he found a quantity of whisky which he poured on the ground. Before he knew what was happening he was struck down, trampled upon and several ribs and his nose were broken. It might have been very serious for the doctor, had it not been for a shipwrecked whaling crew in camp on the island, which came to his assistance.

"It was in the night time, and the Siberians had brought some of their people who were sick, over to the doctor for medical treatment. And when I awoke to see my husband standing in the door, covered with blood, surrounded by stranger Eskimos, I was very much alarmed for a moment, until he assured me it was all right."

In regard to the reindeer industry Dr. Campbell is very optimistic, not withstanding an effort was made a few years ago to discredit the whole venture.

"The government established a herd of seventy deer on the island in 1900," he says "and it now numbers six hundred and eighty, and many have been killed for food and clothing. This may not be done at will, but is entirely under government regulation.

"Only about thirty-five at present belong to the government, the rest having been given out to the herders in lieu of wages. Our chief herder, Sapillu has 200 head from his earnings and their increase."

"It will not be long until there will be plenty for food for the Eskimos, and reindeer steak will be on sale in the markets of the Pacific Coast.

"The last two years, however, the sea has not yielded sufficient food for the island natives who do not own reindeer, and some of them have had to be helped. They would have suffered from cold had it not been for two hundred cases of coal oil sent up by Los Angeles friends, which was used to warm the houses.

"In educational matters, St. Lawrence already has what Los Angeles is achieving. The teaching in the public school is not unlike ours, including industrial training and music. In addition to this the schoolhouse which is also our home, is open to the public evenings and is a social center in the fullest sense. From it emanates the industrial, educational, business, social and religious life of the people.

"Besides the regular school course there is a good work bench, blacksmith outfit, grindstone, stocks and dies, polishing lathe (for polishing ivory), fur-sewing machine, laundry and organ always ready for any one to use."

One of Dr. Campbell's pet schemes is the Building and Loan Association, which several young men have already established and built sanitary cabins for themselves and wives.

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell are social workers of the most approved standard, developing the native and domestic arts, teaching sanitation and hygienic living and inculcating moral principles, in addition to public school instruction and medical care. What this means to this most restricted and wretched of peoples, is beyond our comprehension, they say.

"It is so cold the ocean freezes up and ice hummocks pile high around the island. Sometimes the drifted snow covers the schoolhouse. This winter, during the doctor's absence, the former assistant teacher and a friend have taken charge of affairs. They are the only white women on the island. The women and the government are responsible for this seemingly hasardous arrangement—not the doctor and no one can know the outcome till the ice breaks up next summer, but no trouble is anticipated.

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell addressed the Los Angeles Presbyterial Society while here. They will spend a day or two at Redlands and return to Santa Barbara Monday.

Stubborn Colds May Lead to Consumption.

Did you ever have a cold that would not let go; a cough that persisted, that prevented sleep, and made waking hours miserable? Eckman's Alterative is the proper remedy in such cases. Perhaps some simple medicine may be effective where it is only a tickling in the throat; but when your chest is sore and simple remedies don't answer—then take Eckman's Alterative. Neglect often leads to more serious trouble; a case in point follows: 716 Cherry St., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen: In July, 1905, I first noticed the conditions that showed I had Consumption. I lost weight rapidly; had a hollow cough, hemorrhages and very severe night sweats. My brother recommended Eckman's Alterative. In the Fall of 1905 I began to take it. At this time I am perfectly well and robust. My appetite is good and my weight has increased from 116 to 140 pounds. Not a trace of my old trouble remains. I will gladly express the merits of this medicine to anyone."

(Signed) M. L. GERHARDT.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co.'s Stores and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to Eckman's Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

FOR THE DEFENDANT.

The Supreme Court has denied a rehearing in the case of R. W. Campbell against Z. R. Another Crop.

"ALL IS NOT GOLD THAT GLITTERS" BUT REAL THING IS PICKED UP HERE.

"EUREKA!" This exclamation, which has resounded in the hills of California since the days of '49, came exultantly from the lips of an "old-timer" yesterday. He was stooping over a pan half filled with pebbles in the the Arroyo Seco within the city limits. Gold, bright glittering particles, lay at the bottom of the pan. It had washed down from the San Gabriel range by the past week's rains.

He searched further, panned more handfuls of gravel in the stream, and soon had a collection of small nuggets. His good luck soon became noised about and residents along the Arroyo started searching. Most of the panners were dissappointed, but a few gleaned small particles of the real yellow metal.

Every rain washes down a certain amount of gold from the hills, according to a local minerologist. The downpours act as hydraulic streams on the decomposed granite, and the flaky treasure comes down the streams with the pebbles, to sink to the bottom. There is not enough to warrant the establishment of a placer mining equipment. One might find only a dollars worth of gold in half a day's search. But the gold is there.

After the winter rains, Lytle Creek, inSan Bernardino county, is the scene of much panning for gold by San Bernardino and Rialto people since the memorable February of four years ago, when nuggets of considerable size were picked up in the gutters of the former city. The precious metal was traced to the creek, and the bed of the stream was staked for placer claims for five miles. Most of these claims have been abandoned, but residents still repair to the creek bed after the rains to glean gold from the sand and gravel.

LEMON-RATE ARGUMENTS.

Judge of United States Commerce Court Coming to Take Testimony in Suit Brought by Railroads.

Judge Mack of the United States Commerce Court, will be in Los Angeles on March 21, to take testimony in the suit brought some time ago by the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Salt Lake and other railroads, against the United States, to annul and set aside the freight rate on lemons at $1 per hundred pounds, to points in the United States and Canada east of the Rocky Mountains. The suit will be defended by the Attorney-General, and both the Interstate Commerce Commission and the citrus growers will appear in the case—the latter through A. F. Call, attorney for the Citrus Protective League.

The dollar rate became effective on February 15, the Commerce Court having refused to grant a temporary injunction, and the case now goes to hearing on its merits. The railroads contesting the rate, as fixed by the commission, give the following three reasons for their action:

"(1.) Because the authority of the commission was exercised in such an unreasonable manner as to bring the case within the elementary rule that the substance and not the shadow determines the validity of the exercise of power.

"(2.) Because the commission acted so arbitrarily and unjustly as to fix the rate contrary to the evidence, and in fact without evidence to support it; there being no evidence that the carriers' rate of $1.15 on lemons was extortionate, in the absence of which the commission was without legislative authority to fix any rate at all.

"(3.) Because the rate is so low as to be confiscatory and in violation of the constitutional prohibition against taking property without due process of law."

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Downing street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.—[Adv.

LAND VALUES. A special inventory in the reappraisements of nine parcels of real property was returned in the Probate Court yesterday by J. A. Fairchild and Johnstone Jones in the E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin estate. The total value was $153,816, representing land at El Monte Walnut Place, Ranchos La Puente, Potrero Grande and La Mercede. The largest item was $116,830.

AFTER MANY YEARS. Deputy Sheriff C. F. Clark, bailiff in Judge Finlayson's Court, was tapped on the shoulder by a man yesterday and called by name. The stranger, S. Y. Hill of Detroit, was obliged to go back twenty-five years before Clark recognized him as a schoolmate in Hillsdale county, Mich.

The Inferior Courts.

WIVES AND TOTS THE SUFFERERS.

AFFECTING SCENE IN COURT IS CLIMAX OF SENTENCE.

Three Young Men Will Spend Three Months in Jail Because They Stole Rifles from Freight Car—One Fined, One Released, Two Yet to Be Tried.

The innocent prattle of little children, sobs of heartbroken wives, pleadings for mercy by the defendants and their attorneys, and the idle comments of court loungers were discordantly intermingled in Police Judge Rose's court yesterday, when he sentenced four of the seven young men arrested by Detectives Murphy and Hawley for having looted a Southern Pacific freight car of a number of automatic repeating rifles.

After sentence had been imposed and the men led away, there was an exodus of wives and sympathizing women friends to the corridor, where it was possible to give vent to pent-up emotions. The children, ignorant of what it all meant, were taken in hand temporarily by male relatives.

Robert Frederick, T. J. Brown and William Antone were each sentenced to serve ninety days in jail, and John F. Penn was fined $50 or fifty days. The fine was paid. It was his children who were in court. Attorneys induced the Southern Pacific officials not to prefer burglarly charges against the quartette upon their agreement to plead guilty to petty larceny. Under the statutes it was a burglary offense for the men to enter the car to commit larceny. And a burglary charge could mean a penitentiary sentence.

Antone could not hold back the tears as he begged for a suspended sentence.

"I have an aged mother and sister in Iowa," he said. "I am their sole support. I'm not as guilty as it would seem, for I did not take any of the rifles, neither did I profit by them. I will be good if you will give me another chance."

"I am sorry for your mother and sister, my boy," replied Judge Rose, "but you should have thought of them at the time. You ought to be thankful that the sentence I have imposed is no greater, or that you are not facing a term in the penitentiary."

There were so many extenuating circumstances in Penn's case that he was punished simply by a fine.

The quartette were employees of the Southern Pacific as car checkers. It was shown that the car they burglarized was found with the seal broken and the door open. Penn acted as a lookout for the others, refusing any of the loot when it was offered him. There are two other young men yet to be arraigned. The seventh has been released.

There is nothing to show that these young men constitute the gang or form a part of it, that has been looting freight cars standing in the Southern Pacific yards.

OLD, OLD STORY.

WIVES AND OTHER WOMEN.

Irate wives, fascinating women and berated husbands were arrayed before Police Judge Rose under such unusual conditions yesterday he said it takes his Solomonic wisdom to decide just how to deal with the defendants.

Mrs. Silverio Perez, No. 425½ North Main street, was arrested on a battery complaint sworn to by Mrs. Helen Rice, a prepossessing woman, who lives at No. 515 Aliso street. Frank Perez, the cause of the assault, was also in court. The wife testified she found her husband and Mrs. Rice enjoying an afternoon stroll. When she got through with him he was minus half his clothes, and Mrs. Rice showed the effects of the encounter. Mrs. Perez was fined $10, which was suspended.

Mrs. A. Rodriques, who has never assumed her husband's name, had a similar tale of woe to recount. She declares she caught Mrs. A. Olivo walking along the street with Juan Garcia, the husband.

The testimony elicited the fact that both women came to blows, the fight terminating in Mrs. Rodriquez getting her husband back, knocking Mrs. Olivo down with a rock, cutting her scalp so deep and long it required nine stitches to draw it together. Judge Rose said he thought each was equally guilty and imposed fines of $10 each.

CAN'T LOCATE RELATIVES.

The Coroner is unable to locate the widow of C. W. Bryant, the negro real estate dealer who died at the Receiving Hospital Friday after a hemorrage of the stomach. At No. 2400 Bay street, where Bryant once lived, it was not known where he had moved, except that he had recently acquired a small ranch on the outskirts of the city and had gone there with his wife. Bryant was six feet two inches tall, weighed about 215 pounds, was about 55 years old, wore a dark gray suit, and had a small black mustache.

An Overworked Excuse.

W. McDonald was before Police Judge Rose on a vagrancy charge yesterday.

"I've only been in from the aqueduct but a few days, and—began the defendant, when he was interrupted by the court.

"I don't know what you fellows are going to do for excuses when that aqueduct has been completed. The story is pretty threadbare."

McDonald promised to walk out of town at once and was given a suspended sentence.

Joseph Hockney Evans,
Who is dead in this city at the age of ninety-two years.

SUNNY LIFE PASSES OUT.

California Pioneer, Having Approached the Century Mark, Called to His Reward at His Home Here.

The death of Joseph Hockney Evans, which occurred in this city on Thursday morning, after having reached the age of 92 years, has removed a well-known and estimable man. The deceased first came to California by ox-team in 1850, and after spending three years in mining, returned to Iowa. In 1901 he brought his family to Los Angeles and became a permanent resident.

Evans was born in Virginia in 1820 and in his long career was soldier, miner, farmer and lumberman. At the age of 20 he became a resident of Burlington, Iowa, where he cast his first ballot for Fremont, and in 1846 he enlisted as a volunteer in the Mexican War, as a member of the First Indiana Volunteers under Gen. Taylor. At the close of his service he married, and three years later made his first trip across the desert to California. In 1853 he went back to Iowa and engaged in farming, three years later becoming the partner of his brother, Evan Evans, in the lumber business. In 1861 he again became a farmer, in which he spent all the remaining days of his active life. His wife died in 1871 and he later married again, his second wife having died in this city, February 11, 1910.

The deceased lived a beautiful life as a member of the First Methodist Church and his death was like the passing of a sunbeam. He leaves a son by his first marriage, John W. Evans of Livingston, Mont., who is en route here to attend the funeral, and also a son by the second marriage, Benjamin Gregg Evans of this city.

The funeral will be held on Monday at 10 o'clock a.m., at the chapel of Peck & Chase.

Fine Absorbs Bail.

"You are under arrest," said Clerk Martin to F. Baird as he walked into Police Judge Chambers's Court yesterday.

Martin explained that the $25 check which Baird's father gave for his son's bail when arraigned on February 27, had been returned by the Alhambra bank marked "not sufficient funds." The boy immediately produced the money.

The son was fined $25, the bail applying

WABASH MEN ORGANIZE.

Some Oldtimers Help Form Association in Honor of Their Alma Mater—Professional and Business Men.

The Wabash College Association was formed on Friday evening at the home of Charles B. Moore, Highland Park. There are twenty-five living alumni of the college whose graduation antedates 1860, and of these three are residents of this section and became members of the new association. They are Rev. Samuel D. Wishard, D. D., class of 1853, who was chosen, president; Col. Robert McNeill of Long Beach, class of 1851, commander of the Department of California and Nevada, G. A. R.; Rev. Martin Post, D. D., Eagle Rock, class of 1858. Other charter members are Newman Essick, Commercial National Bank; Luke Wood, Security Savings Bank; Prof. William Ward, head of Latin department, Occidental College; Charles B. Moore, principal of Occidental Academy; Rev. Lawrence Ward, Glendale; Dr. Shokichi Hata, Pasadena; Dr. Joseph Moore, Charles B. Moore, Ladd Yaple, John Booe and Robert Nye.

Too Much Talk.

E. L. Howerter, who is a solicitor for a company selling a patent iron, was fined by Police Judge Chambers yesterday for having created a disturbance with colored woman when she complained the iron was not as represented and wanted to return it. She refused to accept it, demanding the balance due. When the woman declined to pay, he became abusive.

CONDITION IMPROVING.

It is reported from the Clara Barton Hospital, where he is a patient, that William L. Warren, clerk in Department Two of the Superior Court, has rallied and is improving. Warren has been sick for several months, and recently had an attack of heart failure. There is also an anaemic condition of the brain.

The Best Cough Syrup is Easily Made at Home

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Refunded If It Fails.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup, and saves you about $2.00 over ready-prepared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs, relieves the throat, chest and lungs—in a hurry, and is pleasant to take. Splendid for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, grippe, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. A dose or two usually relieves.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It is slightly laxative, helps the appetite, and is slightly stimulative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is one of the most valuable concentrated compounds of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although syrups or honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. The plan has often been imitated, but the successful formula has never been equalled for low cost and quick results. It keeps perfectly and is immensely popular.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The Drama.

DAZEY, THE MODEST AUTHOR.

CREATOR OF "IN OLD KENTUCKY" SOJOURNS QUIETLY.

Out Here to Do "Capt. Lafitt," His Latest Piece, at the Burbank Theater—Reminiscences of Genesis of One of the Most Famous American Dramatic Successes.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

I defy anyone to pick Charles T. Dazey as a playwright.

Dramatists always fall under two classifications.

They either look as if they were tremendously, universally intellectual.

Or they look as if they knew nothing at all. Farmers, rubes, beam-ceilings.

The trouble with Dazey is that he measures up to neither specification.

Mr. Dazey is a brisk, alert, soft-voiced gentleman of middle age, whom you might take for a retired capitalist, a tourist from the Middle West, or even a progressive educator on a trip of observation and recreation. He resides at the Hershey Arms.

Mr. Dazey has been in Los Angeles about a month now. He came out here—accompanied by his always-companion, Mrs. Dazey—to stage his newest play, "Captain Lafitte," for Oliver Morosco.

The Belasco Theater will soon do "The Stranger," which has been Wilton Lackaye's starring vehicle during the present season.

So with "A Night Out" which May Robson played at the Mason Operahouse during the week just closed, Mr. Dazey, a benevolent and self-deprecative gentleman, was indeed well represented.

Everybody in the world knows that Charles T. Dazey wrote "In Old Kentucky." In the way of money, and in continued popularity, there has never been so successful a piece on the American boards.

It has been going for twenty years, is running stronger than ever, and all those who stop to give the matter any thought at all probably consider that Mr. Dazey wrote the piece by accident—or that it wrote itself—and that this ended flatly and finally his connection with the stage.

Not at all.

"In Old Kentucky" is merely the big episode, the large, round, juicy episode, in a happy and energetic career.

Mr. Dazey is so young, so pink-cheeked, so springy in step, that one fairly gasps on learning that Harvard made him an A.B. in 1881. Some years later, at Illinois College, he won the degree of Master of Arts.

He wrote verse and prose for the Century Magazine, "pieces" for the papers, and was elected class poet by acclamation.

Yet he was a great man.

For he survived that ignominy, and is with us even unto this day.

Notwithstanding these flights upon Pegasus, and these Emersonian excursions into the analytical and didactic, the tape-worm dramaticus was boring away into his vitals, and was destined to become, and soon, too, the dominant ailment.

For Dazey at college had done a play called "Rustication." No one knows now how had it was, but at any rate it got by when done by the college dramatic society, and was even of such caliber that it was afterwards produced professionally in Boston.

His first "regular" play was "An American King," in which James O'Neill made his first starring tour. Then several plays were written for the one-time popular star, Katie Putnam, who visited Los Angeles only a few months ago, in "Mother."

"For a Brother's Life," was produced by J. M. Hill, and another veteran actor, John Dillon, starred for several seasons in "A Model Husband."

Shortly after the production of "A Model Husband," "In Old Kentucky" was produced by Jacob Litt.

And here we pause at what is not only the biggest event in the career of Mr. Dazey, but one of the big events in the history of the American stage.

"In Old Kentucky" was written on order for Katie Putnam. Then Miss Putnam would not accept the manuscript. She didn't like to wear Madge's riding togs; she didn't like the idea of the pickaninny band.

The usual humorous early history attends this drama. The early history of all big plays is humorous—generally.

After having it peremptorily refused by Katie Putnam, Mr. Dazey felt so hopeless over the piece that he offered to sell it for $2500. Managers laughed at him.

It was produced, and a few months afterward, Mr. Dazey was offered $25,000 for his rights. Then he laughed.

And the laugh was well placed, for that first year his royalties were $20,000.

Ten years later—or, to be exact, just ten years ago—Mr. Dazey was buying a little real estate, and needed some ready money. So he offered the rest of his rights in the play, which had already been going ten years, for $10,000. He was offered $5000. And that year the piece made him $9000.

The present season has been the most profitable "In Old Kentucky" has had in five years.

In all, "In Old Kentucky" has made its producers more than $1,000,000, its author a little over $150,000, and it is still going on and on, without a sign of being released for stock uses for years to come. At least half a dozen of the most famous actresses on the American stage today put their foot on a Kentucky stirrup as the first round of the ladder of greatness.

Many have been the attendant humors of "In Old Kentucky."

It has been done in every city, hamlet and town in the United States, and has even invaded Europe.

When it was first performed in London the proper type of actor was missing, when it came to casting up the Kentucky colonel's part—so the blaswted British manager got a Yankee dialect "artist" for the role. The fellow was from some part of America, anyway, y'know—just which part made little difference, old chap.

"Capt. Lafitte," Dazey's newest play, is a stirring drama of the great New Orleans pirate who flourished at the time of Gen. Jackson, and was a contemporary of his Charles T. Dazey— Figgering. He looks more like the theater-goer than one who makes others go.

The Week.

"REBECCA" AT THE MASON.

"SEVEN DAYS," FIRST TIME IN STOCK PRODUCTION.

"Madame X" Returns to the Hamburger Majestic—"Cameo Kirby" Revived—"Girl and Boy" Continuing—Various Vaudeville Announcements and Future Attractions.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Klaw and Erlanger's big production, headed by Ursula St. George, will be the attraction at the Mason Operahouse for one week, beginning tomorrow night, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

"Rebecca" comes to this city following its eastern engagements, it having played in New York, Chicago and Boston for the last two years. It is a play which everyone will enjoy, man, woman or child.

It were idle to waste words to recite the story of "Rebecca" and thereby hope to convey any idea of its subtile appeal. Its atmosphere is so illusive that one must see it to feel its charm.

Ursula St. George, who plays the character of Rebecca, is a girl with rare beauty, and the charm of perfect naturalness, which makes the part vibrant with youth and freshness.

The cast presenting "Rebecca" is one of Klaw and Erlanger's best, and the types presented are those we see every day if we look for them. The scenery is elaborate and beautiful.

One of the properties used in the production is the old stage coach, in which Rebecca makes her entrance with Jeremiah Cobb, the tender-hearted old philosopher of Riverboro. He drives his two trusty horses to this coach which was driven during the period of its active service, by Harry Seavey, between Prout's Neck and Scarboro Beach.

However, automobiles and the building of railroads put the old coach out of commission, and it had lain for many years in its barn at Prout's Neck, when Kate Douglas Wiggin, author of "Rebecca," found it there, and coveted it for use in her comedy. It had a history of its own. After years of valued service, it had been exhibited at ten county fairs. Now, in spite of its sixty years of age, it is still in splendid condition, with its braces of leather, a brake in good working order and a hurricane deck on top.

Mrs. Wiggin longed to buy it. Timidly she drote to Mr. Brooks, explaining the advantage of having this actual stage coach for use in the play.

She expected to hear that the inexpensive rumble of a stage in the wings, would do very well for an author with her first play, and that Miss Rebecca would come in on her own feet. He telegraphed "Get the stage by all means, at any figure you consider reasonable." The cost was $500.

Burbank.

"Seven Days," the Hopgood-Rheinhart farce, will have its first stock company production this week at the Burbank Theater.

Not alone content with giving to the Burbank patrons this greatest of all modern farce successes, the Burbank management proposes to make the presentation of "Seven Days" all the more eventful by introducing Genevieve Blinn, the new leading woman of the Burbank company, in the part of Ann Brown, an enthusiastic young woman who is mightily interested in theosophic affairs and about whom much of the fun in the piece revolves. It is the part that was originally played by Florence Reed, and should afford Miss Blinn a fine chance to display her well-known cleverness as a comedienne.

The authors of "Seven Days" have taken a houseful of people, several of whom have been previously married and later separated by the courts, and quarantined the entire party, along with a burglar, for an entire week on account of a suspected case of small pox in the house. There is never a let-up in the laughter, and there is no diminution in the fun, and it is of the cleanest sort imaginable. There is never the slightest suggestion of salaciousness so frequently found in fun plays that reach us from French sources.

All the popular Burbank players will be found in the big cast of "Seven Days" and as the prolonged run of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" has given ample time for rehearsals of the farce, a performance of rare excellence is assured.

Hamburger's Majestic.

The announcement that Henry W. Savage will present Alexander Bisson's famous Parisian triumph, "Madame X" at the Majestic Theater, tonight and all this week, will be delightful news to those who take pleasure in the legitimate drama.

This truly famous drama, "Madame X," is more than a "strong" play, suffused with elementary human emotion. It is more than this, because it discloses the truth of that phrase which Kipling coined—"the cruelty of love."

To see the conduct of Louis Fioriot (the forsaken husband, who casts out his unfaithful, though repentant, wife,) only a melodramatic episode, is to fail to see, that what men call wounded love is but wounded vanity—and that nothing is so cruel as pride treated with contempt.

On the other hand, to see in the conduct of the unfaithful wife, in the separate life which leads to social degradation, murder, and finally to the rekindling of motherly affection, only the usual illustration of the familiar formula that when a woman goes wrong and is spurned she falls lower than man, is to miss again the truth that love, when it is real, is the most enduring and subtle saving power on earth. This is the meaning of "Madame X."

The story in brief is that of an unfaithful wife, who, after two years of infidelity, returns to her husband to be spurned and rejected. Thereafter she rapidly descends life's ladder, to return to her native city one day as her paramour's murderess, to be tried in the presence of her own husband, and to be defended by her own son, although neither mother or son are aware of their relationship. The eloquence of her youthful pleader wins her case, and reconciliation follows, but the joy of the poor fallen woman is of short duration, for the stern hand of death intervenes.

Adeline Dunlap portrays the role of Jacqueline, the faithless but repentant wife; Byron Douglas, that of Louis Fioriot, the husband; and Harry Mainhall, the son and young lawyer who defends her.

Belasco.

Henry Leon Wilson and Booth Tarkington's delightful southern romantic drama, "Cameo Kirby," will be the offering of the Belasco Theater Stock Company commencing tomorrow night.

"Cameo Kirby" served for two seasons as a most successful starring vehicle for Dustin Farnum, and the announcement of its presentation by the Belasco company will doubtless be received with genuine pleasure by local theatergoers, as this play is generally regarded as an extraordinarily fine stock offering.

The play is a picture of the South at the beginning of the last century. Louisiana in the early 30's was a place and a time wherein pictorial romance mingled with surprising adventure.

The wholesome and uncommonly interesting story of "Cameo Kirby" makes plausible an argument that, in those days, the hero, representing a superior type of the polished gentleman gambler, might easily amend his ways and rise to the level of his modest lady love.

Meantime the imminent and deadly danger to which this heroic Cameo Kirby exposes himself for love of a young southern girl is kept tensely in evidence until the last curtain. The play contains a genuine love interest, plenty of action, an abundance of clever comedy, and a romantic, adventurous atmosphere that is thoroughly fascinating.

In the Dustin Farnum role of Cameo Kirby, William Gibson has a role very much to his liking, and one in which he has almost unlimited opportunities for fine acting; while another notable characterization is that of his companion, Larkin Bunce, which will be played by John Burton. Mr. Burton has appeared in this role before and it is generally considered the very best thing this veteran character actor has ever given the local stage. Bessie Barriscale will be found in the part of the little southern heroine, Adele Randall; while Helene Sullivan, Robert Ober, Thomas MacLarnie, Emelie Melville and all the others will be seen to advantage.

Grand Operahouse.

With each succeeding performance the demand for seats for "The Girl and the Boy," Walter DeLeon's latest musical comedy success, the current attraction at the Grand Operahouse has grown greater and greater. It is for this reason that the management of the Grand announces a fourth week of "The Girl and the Boy," starting with the matinee performance this afternoon. Indications now are that the fourth week will be the banner one in point of attendance.

"The Girl and the Boy" is the most successful production ever made by the Ferris Hartman Company, and this is the universal opinion of everyone who has seen it. In costuming and scenic investiture, it is better than any former Hartman offering and is equal to anything a traveling company has offered in Los Angeles in many a day.

Ferris Hartman himself, with his droll Scotch dialect and mannerisms, and Walter DeLeon, with characteristic dancing, lead the men. Of the women it is only necessary to mention dainty "Muggins" Davies, sweet-voiced Myrtle Dingwall, and handsome Josie Hart in order to prove the statement that Hartman casts are always perfect.

Pantages.

The new bill opening at Pantages tomorrow is a congress of globe trotters gathered in from every quarter of the globe to unite in the Pantages show that took the road out of Chicago three months ago and is now nearing Los Angeles.

The Great Bartz Trio of flying acrobats and slack wire performers comes direct to the Pantages circuit from Moscow, where they were seen by the Pantages representative. This is their first visit to America, but if a European reputation can be accepted at par they are something very much out of the ordinary.

The long arm of the Pantages booking office overtook Hamlin and Mack in Australia and these two favorites of the Pantages patronage answered with gratifying promptitude. These two singers and dancers are always just a little ahead of the times in the matter of songs and dancing novelties and down-to-the-minute vaudeville will be on draught when they appear.

Over in England the Pantages agent gathered in those favorities of the London 'alls, Kloof and Ramsey, the musical novelists, parodists, burlesquers and travesty experts. They have justified all expectations in their tour of the circuit to date, and hope to add the real seal of vaudeville approval to their commission during their visit in Los Angeles.

America contributes three acts. The Navajo girls' band of nearly a score of musicians were snatched away from the eastern circuits, where they are well-known favorites. They are claimants for the the headline honors. Their act is spectacular as well as musical.

In San Francisco the show was enriched by the addition of Willard Mack and Maude Leone, who have just finished a fortnight there, following their week here in "The Getaway." They will repeat that intensely dramatic playlet here for their return engagement. They are still assisted by W. J. Dyer, whose presentation of "Inspector McDavitt" is a piece of work to be remember by all who have seen it.

There will be new motion-pictures and a special programe of popular music.

Orpheum.

Beginning Monday matinee the Orpheum will take pleasure in offering the first sketch ever written by Richard Harding Davis for vaudeville—a sketch produced especially at the request of this circuit by Mr. Davis, and played so far with the greatest success—"Blackmail." It is a strong and virile play, just as the author's stories and writings always are—red-blooded and manly, with a punch and a purpose throughout.

It is interpreted by a company headed by Walter Hampden, an actor well and most favorably known, and whose art is of the best. Mr. Hampden is best remembered for his remarkable characterization of Masson in "The Servant in the House."

Surrounding this act comes a bill fit in every way to keep it company. Eunice Burnham and Charlotte Greenwood, "two girls and a piano," are as different from the usual musical combination as could be imagined. Miss Burnham is a pianiste of ability and Miss Greenwood is a singer of parts, who has a grotesque personality, all legs, which, combined with a naturally comic ability to segregate her from her sex and make her a delight in every way.

Leona Thurber and Harry Madison, with a continuance of their "Shopping Tour" stunt, will add new joy to life by depicting the ways and woes of up-to-date shopping, with touches of quaint fun now and then, together with superb gowns by Miss Thurber, who has the beauty to set them off.

Millet's models are a collection of beautiful posesurs, who depict, with suitable artistic backgrounds and effects, great paintings and sculptures.

Player folk who will be seen during the coming week in productions of various sorts.

The Romany Opera Company, Miss Norton and Paul Nicholson, Dolan & Lenharr and Mullen & Coogan remain. The orchestra has a programme of symphonic music, and the pictures will show the world's news of today.

Empress.

The famous Etta Leon Troupe of wire walkers; Carlisle's Dog and Pony Circus and Caine and Odom will be the three fine features of the new seven-act Sullivan and Considine bill which opens at the Empress Theater tomorrow afternoon. This new bill is splendidly diversified and should prove most attractive and inviting.

The Etta Leon troupe is work on the tight wire and is distinctly different in every way from that of the usual run of acts of this character and thrilling in every sense of the word. The act consists of five pretty young women and two men, all costumed in an unusually brilliant manner.

Carlisle's Dog and Pony Circus, while an entertaining and interesting offering for everybody, should prove particularly attractive to the little folks. This act serves to introduce "Tom," the famous talking pony, said to be one of the most talented animals before the public today.

Caine and Odom may be favorably remembered from their appearance at the Empress Theater last year when they scored a hit of no small proportions. Their offering combines clever and original songs, pianologue, an abundance of bright patter talk and witty sayings.

Blowing soap bubbles and then juggling them is a feat that has not yet been accomplished, but nevertheless this is one of the many unusual tricks to be provided by Ollie Young and April, who will be seen in a series of genuine juggling surprises.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dowling will be seen in two of their most successful comedy sketches during their week's stay at the Empress. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday they will offer "An Arizona Wooing," while on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday they will be seen in "The Kodak Fiend," a new one-act comedy in which they recently achieved a decided hit in the East.

Another bright and popular attraction on the bill will be Georgia, a clever young woman who is a recent recruit from the musical comedy stage. She will be heard in a number of new songs written especially for her use and will also offer some humorous characterizations. Exclusive of these new acts will be the new comedy motion pictures.

Adolphus.

A bill that is both entertaining and instructive is a rarity, but the new bill at the Adolphus Theater, which will start a new week tomorrow matinee, has the distinction of being both, and therefore of a quality calculated to satisfy any taste.

The headline feature is Effie, the mental marvel. Effie comes to the Adolphus with a store of ripe experience as a mind reader. She has achieved considerable success over eastern circuits and comes to the CREATORE IN THE LAND SHOW.

FAMOUS DIRECTOR WILL BRING HIS BIG BAND.

Thomas Taylor Drill to Lead Chorus—Harold Bauer to Be Heard—Paloma Schramm in Concert—Incidental Musical News of Studios and Halls.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

Giuseppe Creatore, who has not visited Los Angeles in six or seven years, will return this week and will be the spectacular music feature of the Land Show.

It has been several seasons, in fact, since any really big Italian band has played in these parts, and the return of Creatore will doubtless be a welcome event to many people.

He is bringing with him fifty men, some of them fine soloists, and his programmes reflect really excellent taste.

As, for instance, at his opening, Tuesday evening, he will begin his programme with a new march, written for the occasion, which he calls "Land Show Beautiful," and will follow it with the "William Tell" overture, a cornet solo, "Dear" (his own composition,) the sextette from "Lucia," the "Blue Danube" waltz of Strauss, Schumann's "Traumerei," the Von Westerhout "Rondo d'amour," and a grand selection from "Carmen."

Afternoon and evening programmes will be continued throughout the week by the Creatore Band.

This, however, is only half the musical attraction at the Land Show, as there will also be the huge chorus of 300 voices, under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill.

Creatore himself will lead only at night, the second conductor taking the band in the afternoons.

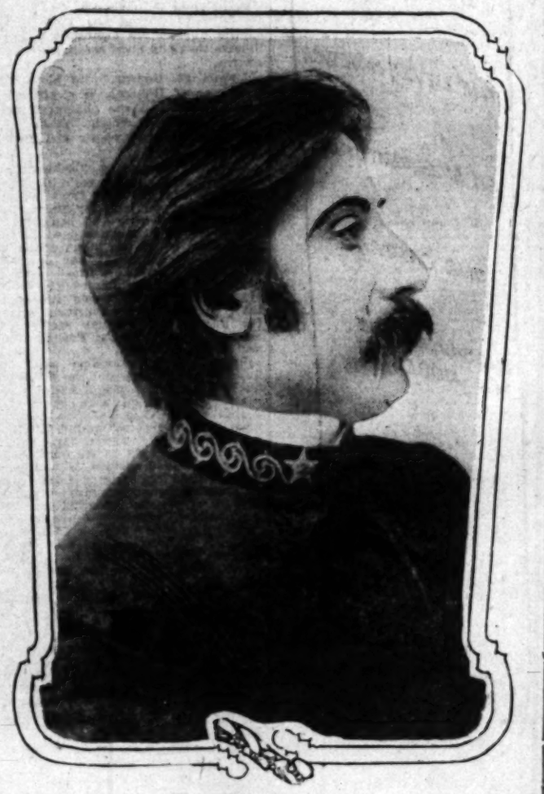
Bauer Again.

Of all the pianists who visit us, none are of greater musical importance than Harold Bauer, and there is hardly another who can evoke from the much-abused pianoforte such a variety of tonal coloring. It was indeed a pleasure to hear Bauer at the Symphony concert last Friday afternoon, and his splendid work only whetted the musical appetite of those present for the feast of piano compositions which will be spread before the auditors next Tuesday night, when Bauer plays in the Philharmonic series, his only recital to be given in this city.

tuoso and appeared as such at the tuoso and appeared as such at the age of 8; he was 20 years old when Paderewski prophesied that he would become one of the world's greatest pianists if he would devote his talents to that instrument, and Paderewski is very proud of having given Bauer this advice, for in certain ways Bauer has become one of the very greatest. This applies particularly to his playing of the Schumann compositions.

His programme in Los Angeles is one which indicates that Bauer is the pianists' pianist when you consider the calm of the opening measure of the Mendelssohn prelude to the E Minor Fugue at one end of the programme, and the diabolical difficulty of the Mephisto Waltz at the other, while between runs the gamut of piano literature.

Tuesday night's programme follows: Prelude and Fugue in E Minor, Op. 35 (Mendelssohn;) Sonata in F Major (Mozart;) Etudes Symphoniques, Op. 13 (Schumann;) Nocturne in E Major and Scherzo in E Sharp Minor (Chopin;) Melody (Gluck-Sgambati;) Mephisto Waltz (Lisst.)



Creatore,

The musical sensationalist of the Land Show, and one of the most famous bandmasters of modern times.

Paloma Schramm.

It has been a number of years since Paloma Schramm, the first of the Los Angeles child prodigies, has been heard in a piano recital in Los Angeles.

Paloma Schramm made her first public appearance in Los Angeles at the age of five in old Hazard's Pavilion, playing to an audience of nearly 3000 people; she was then hailed as the reincarnation of Mozart, and for three seasons toured throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, making a wonderful impression upon the critics of those sections. After a few years spent in study, Miss Schramm toured Europe, making a name for herself as a serious artist wherever she appeared. Another tour of America, and then seven years of serious study embracing art, literature, musical theory and composition fitted her for the present tour of the world which she is to make at the beginning of next season.

Next Thursday night at the Auditorium is her re-appearance before the public which she loves, and which loves her.

To the teachers and pupils of Los Angeles she extends a special invitation and a reduced rate, if they care to avail themselves of the opportunity. Her programme has been most carefully selected so that the best of her artistry will be brought forward.

The programme numbers follow: Chaconne (Badr-Busoni;) Sonata, B Minor (Chopin;) Nachstuck, F Major, Vogel als Prophet (Schumann;) Freishlingsnacht (Schumann-Lisst;) Rhapsodie, B Minor (Brahms;) "Waldesrauschen," "Eglogue" and "St. Francis Talking to the Birds" (Lisst;) Wedding March and Elfin Chorus (Lisst-Mendelssohn.)

Orchestra Talk.

Besley, Tom Weiss, Reggie Weiss, Burr McIntosh, J. D. Spreckels, Claus Spreckels, Maj. Ross and others.

Lord Tweedmouth celebrated his birthday anniversary Saturday evening by giving a dinner party at Hotel del Coronado. Sixty guests were entertained in the grill room, which was decorated with American and English flags. John Dupee's birthday greeting was a massive loving cup. Mrs. Walter Dupee offered a huge bouquet of 100 roses.

Complimented Guest.

One of the brilliant social functions of the season, a musical and dancing party, was given by Mrs. Julius Weyandt at her home, No. 324 Hartford avenue as a farewell to Jasper Doolittle of Winnipeg. Mr. Doolittle has been the house guest of his aunt, Mrs. N. A. McFaul, No. 324 Hartford avenue, and left for his home Tuesday.

An elaborate decorative scheme was carried out in the living-room by the use of ferns, smilax, carnations and roses, and in the music-room pink enchantress carnations were combined with ferns. The dining-room was bright with the brilliant poinsettias and red roses. Garlands of red ribbon were suspended from the electrolier overhead to the table on which was an elaborate center-piece of poinsettias.

Dainty refreshments were served here, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Whitelow and Miss Catherine Dew. The musical programme was presented by Mrs. Whitelow and Miss Nolan, violinists; Prof. Lewis A. Kerwin, Alfred Wilkie, Mrs. Hensley and Miss Stewart, vocal and piano selections.

Guests included were Mmes. McFaul, Barron, Lehman, Whitelow, Dutton, Tinley, Hobbi, Misses Hobbi, Miss Hackett of Detroit, Miss Stewart of Kansas City, Miss Dorn of Chicago, Misses Blanche Hennessey, Lillian Nolan, Claire Dutton, Dora Neeb, Mary Godde, Eileen Hennessey, Gertrude Cogan, Rose Gherkin and the Misses Jasper Doolittle, J. Former Guest.

Miss Marguerite M. Eng of Denver is a guest in this city at No. 1204 South Figueroa street.

Whist Club.

The Buena Park Progressive Whist Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. James Watson recently. A pink and green color scheme was utilized and handsome prizes awarded the winners. Honor guests were Mrs. Schuneman of Corona and Miss Anna Watson of Los Angeles, and club members Mrs. C. Chamberlain, Mrs. George Warren, Mrs. Henry Warren and Mmes. Cady, Thomas, Jaynes, Dugan and C. McCombers.

Returned Home.

Miss Augusta Louise Suess of Chicago and Miss Antoinette Schwein of St. Joseph, Mo., have returned home after having been the guests of Mrs. Richard Garstang, No. 2234 West Thirtieth street, for two months.

Scotch-McMurray Wedding.

Plymouth Congregational Church was the scene of an elaborate wedding Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Regna Belle McMurray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McMurray of Big Pine, became the bride of Raymond E. Burdick of this city, Rev. Horace Mallows, pastor of the church, officiating. While the guests were assembling Miss E. R. McGlashen played appropriate selections on the organ and later the wedding march, and just before the ceremony Prof. Arnold Krauss rendered a violin solo. Miss Alvira McMurray, a sister of the bride, gowned in a dainty white lingerie and carrying enchantress carnations, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Ethel Fullmore and Mrs. Wallace Tanner, also in white gowns, and carrying pink flowers, assisted. The best man was Vincent H. Burdick, brother of the groom, and ushers were Dr. Norman A. Lake and Wallace Tanner.

The bridal gown was a dainty creation of white messaline, with which was worn a tulle veil caught in place by orange blossoms, and shower bouquet of lillies of the valley and bride's roses was carried. Pink tulle streamers and bows combined with smilax and palms were used in an effective decoration throughout the church, and the same color scheme was used at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Burdick, the father and mother of the groom, where the wedding supper was served immediately after the ceremony.

After a visit in the city, the young couple will return to Big Pine, in the northern part of the State, where Mr. Burdick is manager of a large ranch.

"A June Bride."

Miss Manonah Phelps, Brizzolari, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brizzolari of West Thirty-fifth place, whose engagement to Rev. David Todd Gilmore of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, was announced in January, has chosen June as the month for the wedding. During April and May this charming young woman will be the recipient of many social honors as she is very popular in pro-cathedral circles. Her betrothed, who is the son of former Mayor Todd Gilmor, of Patterson, N. J., is a graduate of the San Mateo Divinity School and has been an assistant to Dean MacCormack for longer than two years.

House Guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Tenant Gray have as their house guests their brother, William Gray, and family of Detroit, Mich.

Koh-I-Noor Club.

Members of the Koh-I-Noor Club were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Covington on West Thirty-eighth street, Wednesday evening. Five hundred was the game of the evening and after prizes were awarded dainty refreshments were served. Members present were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reach, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Santee, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fargo, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Covington, Miss Catherine Wagner and Ralph Reese.

Home from Bay City.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Janss of Beacon street have returned from a visit with Mrs. Janss's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cluff of the Fairmount Hotel, San Francisco.

Invitations Extended.

Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, No. 806 Avenue Sixty-six, have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Neva Marguerite Myers to William Donelson Jones, the ceremony to be conducted Monday morning, March 18, at 11 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents.

Last evening Mrs. Myers entertained with a handsome dinner party for her daughter and her fiance, and the guests included were members of the bridal party. The appointments for same were in blue and yellow, the jonquil gracing the cented of the table and the blue violet being scattered over the cloth, these colors being particularly effective in the deep blue dining-room.

Hand-painted cards ornamented with yellow butterflies marked covers for Miss Marguerite Myers, Miss Mary Howell, Miss Helen Howell, Miss Evelyn Slyfield, Miss Sadie Leeson, Miss Nell Rice, Miss Helen Myers and Messrs. William Jones, Donald Davis, Donald Jones, Millard Jones, Prof. F. A. Peterson, Emerson Slyfield and William Myers.

Visiting in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McNaghten are at Columbus on their honeymoon, the guests of Mr. McNaghten's parents. Mrs. McNaghten was Miss Edna Letts.

Musical Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Massey and Mrs. Bertha Bent of Kansas City, and Fred G. Andrews, manager of the "Graustark" company playing here this week, were the honorees at a musical reception given by Mrs. William Irving Warner and her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Libby Hardison, Thursday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock, at their home, No. 846 West Washington street. The rooms were artistically decorated with sweet peas, freesias and iris. Red was the color scheme in the dining-room, where a delicious supper was served following the programme. Covers were laid for fifty, after which all the guests were taken to the Belasco Theater.

Mills Alumnae.

The Mills College Alumnae passed a delightful afternoon, Monday, at the home of Mrs. C. H. Sawyer, No. 2727 Normandie avenue. Mrs. Amy Leslie, a cousin of the hostess and her house guest, gave an outline of a cruise around the world which she had just completed. Mrs. P. B. McCabe presented an original and spicy paper on "The Most Interesting Place I Have Been." Miss H. A. Brooks took those present on an imaginary trip through Switzerland and Mrs. Milton Young read a description of her trip to Alaska, completing a travelogue programme, after which dainty refreshments were served.

Aurora Guest.

Mrs. Douglass Long of Hollywood and Mrs. Luzerne Stevenson of Hotel New Marryton are entertaining their sister and cousin, respectively, Mrs. Lou Constantine, wife of the Aurora postmaster. Mrs. Constantine will remain until after the Shriners have been here in May.

Childs-Brugman Wedding.

A very pretty wedding which occurred recently was that of Miss Emily Seymour Brugman, daughter of

MELODIGRAND PIANOS USED

Thomas Taylor Drill

Now in charge of the Vocal Department of the Egan School of Music and Drama, has been selected to direct the great chorus at the Land Show, which opens Tuesday, March 12th.

Mr. Drill, in commenting on the Melodigrand Piano, which has been selected as the official piano for the Land Show, says: "In tone, it is the most finished product in the piano world today."

The Melodigrand Piano

WHY has this piano gained its position as a standard leader in much less time than the same position has ever before been acquired?

BECAUSE its inventor has accomplished that which other leading makers have failed to do, i. e., produce perfect tone reflection and permanent vitality of tone, by maintaining the crown center of the sounding board for all time, thus increasing the strength and durability of the instrument to a phenomenal extent.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. William Frederick Brugman of Sierra Madre and James Henderson Childs of Forsyth, Ga. The wedding occurred in the Church of the Ascension, Sierra Madre, with the Rev. Dr. C. H. Cornell officiating. C. H. Perry played the wedding march during the ceremony and Mrs. Harry Hawxhurst sang "There Let Me Rest." The church was beautified with pink carnations and ferns. The bride, who was given away by her mother, was beautifully gowned in dewdrop net over marquisette and messaline, wearing the conventional veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas.

Miss Vega Brugman, a sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor, wearing pink messaline and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. The bridesmaids, gowned in white lingerie and carrying the same flower, were the Misses Edith Phillips and Edith Steinberger. Walter S. Childs served his brother as best man, and the ushers, Yale friends of the bridegroom, were Charles M. Latimer and J. Lair Brown of Los Angeles. A reception for about 100 friends was held at the family home after the ceremony. Mr. Childs, who is a Yale graduate and a Kappa Sigma fraternity man, is located near Phoenix, Ariz., where the young couple will make their home.

At Home.

To Occupy New Home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Hollister, will move the first of the week into their new home, Vermont avenue and Adams street, formerly the residence of Mrs. W. S. Hook. The Hollisters are now living at No. 605 North Avenue Sixty-six.

Returned from the East.

Miss Helen Brant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Brant, who accompanied her young sister back to Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington, and who since that time has been visiting friends, has returned to her home on South Figueroa street.

Eastern Trip.

Mrs. Franklin Howard Nichols, No. 977 Menlo avenue, is to leave today for a four weeks' trip through the East.

Arrowhead Guests.

Mrs. Charles M. Cotton, accompanied by her sister, Miss Maybelle Peyton, are enjoying a week's visit at Arrowhead.

Returns from Hawaii.

Byron de Roy Stanley, vice-president of the Honolulu Investment Company, who has been for the past year located in Honolulu, Hawaii, arrived on the Sierra Wednesday. Mr. Stanley will remain in the city from three to four weeks on a business and pleasure trip.

Santa Barbara News.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Leadbetter entertained a large number of friends at dinner in the Santa Barbara Country Club, Saturday night. The table was in the shape of an immense horseshoe, and was prettily decorated with daffodils, yellow tulips and greenery and the lights overhead carried out the color scheme of green and gold. The ballroom was beautifully decorated, having a background of potted palms.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Beale, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Felton, Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jones, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Wetmore, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Fashion Holds Sway This Week

Never before have we displayed models so attractive in Tailored Suits, Wraps, Gowns, Blouses and Millinery. Styles are here from the most noted ateliers of Paris, besides the smartest of the smart creations from America's foremost designers.

Paris

Sends Blouses of the most beautiful types imaginable. Foremost among them are those of the softer fabrics, the Voiles, Batistes and Crepes, beautifully decorated with laces of the most fashionable character—Venise, filet, baby Irish, etc.

But the materials, of which these blouses are made are of small consequence compared with the positive newness of the models and general effect.

—Second Floor—

Gowns

Not since our grandmothers' day have gowns possessed the charm, the daintiness, the quaintness of this season's fashions. Here are specimens from every fashion center, styles that are not only authoritative, but exclusive. Those of Chiffon Taffetas, Laces, Crepe Meteors, Nets, Batistes and kindred soft fabrics are noteworthy successes. The variety of models and color effect is seemingly endless.

Gives Elaborate Musical.

Mrs. Charles Howard Lippincott of No. 231 Crown avenue, Hollywood, was the charming hostess, Thursday afternoon, at a delightful musical given in honor of Mrs. Frank Gates Allen and Mrs. John Hossack Porter. About 150 guests from Los Angeles and Hollywood were present. Assisting Mrs. Lippincott were Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Frederick W. Stith, Mrs. Harmon D. Ryus, Mrs. A. G. Bartlett, Mrs. H. J. Whitley, rMs. Charles R. Stephens of Moline, Ill., Mrs. William R. Blackburn, Mrs. Charles S. Whittlesey, Mrs. Edith Gaines and the Misses Mundy, Figins and Roen.

The house was elaborately decorated for the occasion. In the hall and reception room, pink carnations and peach blossoms were artistically grouped with asparagus plumosus fern, American Beauty roses in graceful profusion were used on the piano and table in the music and living rooms. Violets and American Beauty roses were effective in the dining-room. Smilax, which was used in all of the rooms, added much to the decorative scheme.

Mme. Katherine Fisk, contralto; Mrs. Celeste Nellis-Ryus, pianist; Mr. Axel Simonsen, violin-cellist, and Mr. Adolph Tandler, were the artists for the afternoon and rendered a delightful programme. The following numbers were given: Trio, "Allegro Agitato," M. Simonsen, Mr. Tandler and Mrs. Ryus; "Die Lorelei," "Schlagende Herzen," L'Esclave" and "Le Marriage des Roses," Mrs. Fisk; "Le Cygne," "Slavic Dance," Mr. Somonsen; "La Ballade du Desepere," Mrs. Fiske; "Adagio and "Rhapsodie Hongroise," Mr. Simonsen, and a group of songs by Mrs. Fisk.

OUT-OF-TOWN-SOCIETY.

Hollywood.

IN HONOR of Mrs. J. O. Churchill of Berkeley, who is the guest of Mrs. W. H. Code of Whitley avenue, Mrs. Freeman S. Godfrey of 507 West Hollywood boulevard recently gave a beautiful yellow luncheon in the sun parlor of Hotel Hollywood. Jonquils and ferns effected a handsome table centerpiece. Yellow shaded candelabras, gold lettered place cards and yellow favor baskets were used to carry out the color scheme. Covers were laid for twenty guests. During the afternoon Mrs. Jaminson a talented musician gave several beautiful piano numbers. Several days ago Mrs. Churchhill was the complimented guest at a luncheon given by Mrs. A. B. A. Briggs of 317 South Hartford avenue.

Mrs. Frederick W. Stith of North Cahuenga avenue entertained several guests in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thomas of Honolulu with a dinner party at their handsome home Friday evening.

One of the most enjoyable events in P. E. O. Circles occurred Saturday evening, when Mrs. F. M. Douglas and daughter, Miss Leia were hostesses to Chapter Q of Hollywood and their escorts. Dinner was served about 8 o'clock at small tables, each being daintily decorated with flowers and fern. An advertising contest, games and charades furnished the evening's amusement. The guests included, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. Philo Beveridge, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Cade, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Cris Eckles, Mr. and Mrs. Cassius Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Toberman, Mrs. Myra Snyder, Miss Anna Hoff, Miss Wilson, Miss Mamie Douglas, Mr. Rheicard, Mr. F. M. Douglas and Mr. Frank Douglas.

Mrs. Thomas H. Pollock delightfully entertained the Monday Five Hundred Club at her home on Palm avenue and Emmet Terrace. A scheme of yellow was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. The first prize went to Mrs. M. C. Nason and the second to Mrs. H. D. Newcomb.

Mrs. Walter A. Boeck was happily surprised Friday afternoon when her friends and neighbors gave her a party and violet shower at her home on Morgan place in honor of her birthday. After conversation was enjoyed, a dainty lunch was served.

Mrs. Julius G. Weygant gave a delightful evening Thursday, in compliment to Jasper Doolittle of Winnipeg, Canada, who has been the house guest of his aunt Mrs. N. A. McFaul of 324 North Hartford. White carnations, roses and quantities of greenery effected pretty decorations for the living-room. Pink carnations and fern were attractively grouped in the music-room while red roses and poinsettias made handsome decorations for the dining-room. Dancing and music furnished enjoyable entertainment for the evening. Among the guests present were Mmes. N. A. McFaul, Hensley, Hobbi Weygant, Misses Beckett of Detroit, Lillian Nolan, Blanche Hennessey, May Stewart, Dora Neeb, Gertrude Cogan, Rose Gherkin, Mary Godde, Eileen Hennessey, Claire Dutton, Messrs Jasper Doolittle, N. A. McPaul, J. G. Weygant, Barron, Whitelow, J. Hennaberry, Alfred Wilkie, Carl Fleisher, Will Fleisher, Prof. Lewis A. Kerwin, E. A. Tinley and Elmer E. Dutton.

Miss Elizabeth Sanborn of 142 South Vine street was pleasantly surprised last Thursday in honor of her birthday. A merry afternoon was spent in playing games. Among those present were Margarett Jorgenson, Helen M. Stern, Julia Jorgenson, Helen Noble, Arlie Boles, Mary D. Linton, Gertrude Parrin, Elaine Horton, Mary Hubbard, Alice Wilkinson and Mateah Smartt.

The Um Zoo Ee Girls were the honored guests last Friday afternoon at a tea given by Miss Myrtle Burns of Oak Knoll, Pasadena. The club girls include the Misses Florence Isaacs, Lillian Grass, Serilla Jones, Irene Combs, Mildred Isaacs, Phyllis Richardson, Ruth Hoegee and Eulalie Grass.

At their home "Ozcot" on North Magnolia avenue, Mr. and Mrs. L. Frank Baum gave a pleasant dinner party Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Conover, daughter Miss Helen Conover and also Miss Shenandoah Edwards, all of Chicago. The party have been spending the Black Evening Wraps Just in from Paris

During the past week our Misses' Department received a wealth of sumptuous black silk wraps direct from Paris. You didn't know that Fashion favors black wraps for misses as well as for adult women?

When you see how bewitching they look in these luxurious garments you'll wonder why the innovation wasn't tried long ago.

Both three-quarter and full length wraps in heavy silk crepes, richly embroidered voiles, brocaded silks, pure silk nets and Irish poplins with green, purple or white silk linings. Many of them with broad bands of heavy silk embroidery and net at bottom.

Some with very heavy silk cords, tassels and fringes.

Prices range from fifteen to a hundred dollars.

Many of them ideal for adult women who are not above average stature.

(Shown in the Misses' Dept., 2nd floor, rear)

Imported Robe Patterns $12.50

Imported Robe Patterns of white batiste with exquisite hand-loom embroidery—festoons of rosebuds in pink, and dots and figures in other colors—very exceptional values at $12.50

Women's Tailored Suits Rare values at $25 to $85

Among the many arrivals during the past week are—Dark blue serges and whipcords in the semi-fancy models, the cutaway coats being trimmed with the fashionable cotton ratine collars and cuffs, and pearl buttons; others with white moire or bengaline collars and facings.

Some of the skirts are in the new draped effects; others the simple gored models.

AT $25 & $35—Tweeds and homespuns in gray and tan effects. Strictly tailored models.

AT $25 to $75—White serges, whipcords and basket weaves in tailored and semi-tailored models—some perfectly plain, others elaborately trimmed with lace or bengaline silk on the collars and cuffs and draped revers.

AT $40 to $85—In the ultra-fashionable taffeta and moire suits we have the changeable effects as well as navy, plum, brown and black. Coats trimmed with lace and bengaline. Skirts in the draped models or tunic effects.

SILK DRESSES $25 to $95—Our taffeta dresses show the quaint fischu effects of soft lace and the old-time scallops on peplums and skirts—made of the soft changeable chiffon taffetas in tan-and-blue, copper-and-blue, gray-and-pink and many other pretty combinations.

Alhambra.

ONE of the pleasant social events of the past week was the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Harve Kindrick, at their home, No. 1804 Vine street, Friday evening of last week, the occasion being in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Kindrick. Music was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The host and hostess were the recipients of many useful and ornamental pieces of silverware. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Studley, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Trump, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wigle, Mrs. D. W. Fargo, Mrs. Ella Baker, William Stinebaugh, H. B. Balmer and Clarence McCoy of Alhambra, H. M. Gordan of Whittier, Mrs. Anna E. McCord, Miss Julia McCord and L. R. Gray of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lontz of Wenatche, Wash., and J. R. Leonard of Newcastle, Ind.

Miss Louise Sexton entertained informally at her home last Friday evening. Singing, music, dancing and candy making were enjoyed. Those present were: Misses Thelma Prichard, Leone Prichard, Gladys Sikes; Karl Hovey, James Williams, William Elliot and Charles Cooper.

The monthly business meeting of the Wednesday Afternoon Club was of great interest to members. A large volume of routine business was transacted, the most important being the revision of the constitution and by-laws. This was put in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. William M. Northrup, Mrs. F. M. Fowler and Miss Swanwick, who reported to the club, and, with a few minor changes, the revision was laid over one month, and will come up for adoption the first meeting in April. A dainty tea, presided over by the Hospitality Committee, was enjoyed at the close of the meeting. Rev. Stanton E. Hodgin of Los Angeles will lecture next week on "Clothes." Mr. Hodgin has spoken twice before the Friday Morning Club of Los Angeles, and was one of the chief speakers at the convention held in Long Beach at the Virginia Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Webb of No. 817 East Main street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clarence van Graham and Mrs. Gertrude M. Smucker at the New Oriental Cafe, Los Angeles, on Friday night. Corsage bouquets of violets marked each place, and chop suey was a prominent feature of the menu.

The programme to be given at the Woman's Afternoon Clubhouse Thursday evening, March 14, will be presented by the Matinee Musical Club of Los Angeles, and will be a very fine one. Every club member and the men of their families are invited to be in attendance.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Los Angeles, at 1:30 p.m. Friday of last week, by prominent Alhambra young people, when Douglas D. Nairne, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Nairne, No. 128 South Chapel street, and Miss Muriel Chaplin, daughter of Mrs. David H. Chaplin, No. 202 South Curtis avenue, were united in marriage. The young couple left immediately for a short wedding trip to San Diego, and will make their home at No. 202 South Curtis avenue. Both the bride and groom have many friends in Alhambra, who will be pleased to hear of the bargain they have made with D. Cupid.

Mrs. Bush and Miss Pearl Bush entertained last Saturday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Chambers and Miss Stella Chambers, at their home on South Raymond avenue. The rooms were decorated with roses, and a very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed. Refreshments were served. Those present besides the honored guests were: Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Pickard., Mrs. Bracket, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Dutton, Mrs. Marple, Mrs. Hovey, Mrs. Beissell and Miss Caulk.

Mrs. J. B. Teagarden entertained Thursday afternoon of last week at her home, No. 1901 West Main street. After a very enjoyable afternoon was passed, novel refreshments were served, huckleberry pie being on the menu. The guests were: Mrs. Behlow, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Caulk, Mrs. Hovey, Mrs. Dutton and Mrs. Beissell.

Miss Marguerite Hall was happily surprised at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall, No. 123 North Fourth street, last Monday evening. Games were played and refreshments served, and a very enjoyable evening was passed by all present. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stinson, Miss Elizabeth Dean, Miss Ellen McCawley, Miss Belle Anderson, Miss Veva Langley, Miss Katherine Warner, Miss Ruth Moe, Robert Smither, James Wolford, Charles Griffen, Harvey Darlington, Myron Harper and Guy Wilson.

Mrs. J. B. Sexton, Mrs. Stearns Hutchins and Mrs. M. A. Galt took luncheon with Mrs. Eshelman of Los Angeles last Thursday.

Robert McCoy, a former resident of Alhambra, who has returned from an extended visit from his old home in Illinois, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bohlken, on South Almansor, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Almon C. Sikes gave a delightful party at their home, No. 811 South Third street, Monday evening, complimentary to Virgil Cockrell, who left Wednesday for Jerome, Ariz., where he has accepted a position. Richard Chaplin entertained those present with some delightful violin music, and Miss Gladys Sikes, Miss Leone Prichard and Charles Cooper rendered piano solos that were appreciated. Scudding was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Included were: Miss Gladys Sikes, Miss Thelma Prichard, Miss Josephine Dunbar, Miss Hersel Feuts, Miss Leone Prichard, Miss Lois Dunbar, Virgil Cockrell, William Graham, Jack Haig, James Williams, Carl Hovey, Charles Cooper, Clarence Hatch, Richard Chaplin and Kenneth Kneesel.

Monrovia.

ONE OF THE events of the week was the smart function given by Mrs. Frank O. Eager Saturday afternoon at her artistic bungalow on East Greystone avenue. Twenty guests were entertained at Five Hundred. This was the first of a series of afternoons planned by the hostess. The invitations for the occasion were handsomely mounted photographs of Mrs. Eager accompanied by an "At Home" card. The appointments for the afternoon corresponded in tone with the decorations of lovely pink carnations and the color note of pink appeared again at the refreshment tables. The guests were Mrs. Charles H. Reed, Jr., Mrs. Montague H. Graham, Mrs. Charles E. Winslow, Mrs. Thomas Neville, Mrs. Scott Lee Boyd, Mrs. F. M. Pottenger, Mrs. A. W. Hazen, Mrs. Kirk E. Lawrence, Mrs. A. M. Shrode, Mrs. Ira Pulliam, Mrs. Hal M. Siemmon, Mrs. Charles Abbott, Mrs. Clarence C. Bowerman, Mrs. L. N. Wheeler, Mrs. McCament, Mrs. E. D. Northup, Mrs. John C. Rupp, Mrs. Newcomb, Miss Bess Johnson, Miss Northup and Miss Laura Newcomb.

Lewis R. Works of Los Angeles was the honored guest at a dinner party given by the Merchants Association at Leven Oaks Hotel Tuesday evening. Covers were laid for fifty in the main dining-room which was handsomely decorated for the occasion. W. R. Neelands, president of the Association, acted as toastmaster and responses were made by W. B. March, George A. Barry, Judge W. H. Evans. Mr. Works responded to the toast "Commission Government for Municipalities" and delivered an eloquent address upon the subject, which he has very much at heart.

Mrs. George Lord opened her pleasant home on South Primrose avenue Thursday afternoon to the ladies of the congregation of the First Baptist Church in compliment to Miss Miller. The honored guest has been assigned to missionary work among the Mexicans of this vicinity under the direction of the Baptist Church and gave a charming talk upon the requirements for the undertaking. At five o'clock buffet refreshments were served from the dining-room.

Mrs. C. A. Wright of North Ivy avenue, was the hostess at Five Hundred Saturday afternoon in honor of her daughter-in-law Mrs. Ernest Wright. Baskets tied with yellow ribbons and filled with cream bon bons formed the centerpieces of the card tables and the first prize was a lovely basket of jonquils. The tonal yellow also appeared in the refreshments. The guests were Mmes. M. P. Kirkpatrick, C. A. Sargeant and A. H. Riddell and Misses Clara Cronenwett, Edna Chess, Marie Smith, Jeannette Grant, Laura King Solomon and Ida Solomon.

Mrs. A. W. Hazen of North Encinitas was the hostess Friday afternoon of the P.E.O. Chapter at its March session. The living-room of Mrs. Hazen's pretty bungalow was aglow with scarlet roses and as the daylight waned, illuminated with rose colored lights. Following the business meeting a musical programme of merit was given. At four o'clock a buffet collation was served from a central table placed in the dining-room.

Miss Mary Atwood of North Encinitas avenue was the hostess of a needle and thimble party Thursday afternoon given in honor of the Hatchett Club of which she is a member. Spring blossoms artistically arranged in handsome vases were employed in decorations and refreshments were enjoyed at five o'clock.

The Octo Club of charming girls, was entertained at whist Tuesday evening by Miss Pearl Post at her pleasant home on North Myrtle avenue. Following the games the guests gathered around a prettily appointed refreshment table for a merry supper hour.

The Misses Ella and Nettie Miller were the hostesses of the S.H.R. girls Wednesday evening at their home on East Orange avenue. A jolly programme entertained the party for the early portion of the evening after which a delicious little supper was served.

Dr. and Mrs. John S. Allison had as guests for the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Finch Page of Victoria, B. C., who are paying a visit to Southern California. The guests enjoyed a motoring trip to points of interest and a dinner party was given in their honor at one o'clock Sunday.

Mrs. E. H. Grassett was the hostess Thursday of St. Luke's Guild entertaining at luncheon at her charming bungalow in Oak Park Tract. About twenty members attended and the afternoon was devoted to sewing for charitable causes.

Mrs. E. C. Griffith of East Orange avenue was the hostess of the Ladies Aid Society of the Congregational Church Thursday afternoon. Tables were arranged for needle work. A daintily appointed tea was served at five o'clock. The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Miss Anna Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Hawes gave a handsomely appointed dinner Friday evening complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Mullia of Sacramento. Covers were laid for the host and hostess, the honored guests and Mr and Mrs. J. M. Rugg, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Everest, Mrs. Harriot Snow and W. W. Mann.

Glendale.

ONE of the pleasant affairs of the week was the birthday anniversary dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Peterson, complimentary to David Filger of Los Angeles, Monday evening. The affair was an entire surprise to the honored guest. Pale pink carnations and maiden hair fern were utilized to unusually Beautiful effect in the various rooms. A huge birthday cake on which were seventy-eight candles was the feature of the affair. Dainty favors and place cards were at each plate. Miss Estelle Filger assisted Mrs. Peterson in receiving and entertaining during the evening.

A "Ladies' Night" was given by Unity Lodge, No. 368, F. and A.M., in its hall on Brand boulevard Tuesday. Many enjoyable games were played. Blanks for the most popular man were issued and the prizes, a lemon and a lemon squeezer, were awarded to A. W. Tower. During the evening a number of selections were rendered by Ellis Club Quartette of Los Angeles.

More than 200 delegates from various federations throughout California attended the State reciprocity day of the California Congress of Mothers,

Magnificent Exhibition and Sale of Real Irish Laces Monday

In Our Irish Lace Class Room on the 2nd Floor.

$3000 worth of these exquisite Irish type laces that come to us direct from Amin Beder Freres, 10 Rue des Jeuneurs, Paris, France, a house that deals in them more largely than any other firm. These laces were made in Ireland, France and Austria—notably choice specimens showing the different types of Irish lace made in these countries. There's every article or garment for which the lace can be used—no two pieces alike! Truly a wonderful display—beautiful—and exclusive.

These Specimens Are on Sale at Fully 25% Less Than You'd Ordinarily Pay.

Our entire class-room in the Art Department, on the second floor, will be devoted to this exhibit and sale, and expert makers of Irish lace will be at your service, to give information or teach you without charge, if you wish to learn the art of lace making.

This Exhibition Includes:

Collars at	$1.50, $2.00 to $3.00	Pierrot Collars	$3.50 to $6.00

held in this city Friday. Two sessions were held, the morning meeting starting at 10:15 o'clock and the afternoon session at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Mary H. Gridley, State chairman of reciprocity, had complete charge of the day, assisted by about fifty Glendale ladies. At both sessions splendid programmes were rendered. Lunch was served at noon to the guests in the High School gymnasium. The meetings were held in the High School auditorium.

An enjoyable event was the Japanese afternoon given by the Philanthropic Committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club in the K. of P. Hall on Brand boulevard. Decorations of the hall consisted of Japanese parasols and dainty pink blossoms. The members of the committee appeared in Japanese costumes. A Japanese love song was rendered by Miss Cutler. Dr. Soper, for thirty-one years a missionary from Japan, gave an address on the customs of the Japanese people. Tea and Japanese wafers were served by the ladies.

Miss Cora Austin Rigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rigg of 1120 East Molino street, Los Angeles, and Albert Marple of this place, were quietly married at the home of the bride, Friday evening, Rev. Hugh Gibson of Los Angeles, officiating. The bride is a graduate of the Marshalltown (Iowa) High School, while the groom is a well-known newspaper man of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Marple will reside in a pretty bungalow on Reposia Court, Tropico.

A pretty wedding occurring here recently was that of Miss Annice Freeman and Ellery Pollock, both of this city, Rev. Greene of Burbank conducting the service. Mr. and Mrs. Pollock will reside in Burbank, where the groom has provided a ranch home.

A concert was given by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in I.O.O.F. Hall Friday evening. The following programme was rendered: Piano solo, Prof. Clarence Krinball; vocal solo, Owen Emery; address, "Assets of a Dry Year," M. V. Hartranft; violin solo, Miss Frances Payne; vocal solo, Frank Geiger of Los Angeles; address, "Civic Betterment," Supervisor R. W. Pridham; vocal solo, Miss Estella May Orth.

An afternoon of needlework was given Monday by Miss George Duffet of 1008 Chestnut street. Table decorations were in Parma violets, white cherokee roses and ferns. Dainty flower place cards marked covers arranged for Miss Alpha Clemment, Miss Ruth Brown, Miss Marjoria Duncan, Miss Nona Thomas, Miss Maud East, Miss Harriet Baird and Miss Pearl Goode.

Miss Rachel M. Sherer of Fourth and Adams streets, gave a prettily appointed luncheon at her home Tuesday evening complimentary to her sister, Mrs. J. C. Thomas. Guests present included Mrs. E. T. Byram, Mrs. S. M. Galloway, Mrs. Alice M. Ayers, Mrs. Minnie Ayers, Miss Sarah Fitzwater, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sherer and the guest of honor.

A pleasant meeting of Chapter L, P.E.O., was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Bertha Fuller on Kenneth road. The affair was in charge of Mrs. C. E. Russell, the topic for the programme being "A Day With Riley and Field."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stamps of Lomita avenue, entertained at dinner early this week, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lloyd, Miss Marguerite Lloyd, Miss Ruth Lloyd, Mrs. E. A. Perry, Mrs. Horace C. Chace of San Francisco.

Downey.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BURKE were the guests of C. E. Smith and family of Pomona last Sunday.

C. R. Church of Florencita Park was in town last Saturday.

George Butler, a Supervisor of San Bernardino, and wife, were visiting his mother, Mrs. Julia Butler, last week.

Miss Sue Greening spent the week-end as guest of Miss Ruth Steele.

Miss Nellie Greenleaf was visiting with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cooke, last week.

Will Cooke and Galey Dwire were quietly married at noon, Wednesday, at the home of the bride's father. They are spending their honeymoon in San Francisco.

Pasadena.

NEW SOCIAL functions of importance enlivened last week in pasadena, but that conspicuously noteworthy was the dance given Wednesday evening at the Altadena Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. M. Crichton of "White Friars," complimentary to their house guests, Earl of Rothas, Hon. B. B. Fitzalan-Howard, son of Lord Howard, of Gossop, and H. G. Scott of Toronto. Acacia and daffodils gave brilliant color in decorations, in which Scotch heather was used in profusion. Music was furnished by an orchestra and a collation was served during the evening. There were 100 guests present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Hampton L. Story, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Strafford, Mr. and Mrs. William Park, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George Mason Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilcrist, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coulston, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Breakey, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton C. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Vance Martin, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wright, Judge and Mrs. William Ward Spinks, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Duer, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Grattan, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mansar, Mmes. George Gerald Guyer, D. H. Girouard, Mrs. Wilkinson, M. W. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neustadt, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Davis, Misses Agnew, Wright, Butman, Noble, Messrs. J. E. Story, Mode Weineman, Leigh and Lloyd Guyer and others.

The wedding of Miss Marjorie Bolt, daughter of Frank C. Bolt and DeWitt Lacey Thursday evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John W. Hugus, South Grand avenue, was of social interest to 100 guests, who were present at the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Robert Freeman at 9 o'clock. Miss Maud Daggett acted as maid-of-honor, and Sumner Cristy was best man. There were no other attendants. Arends orchestra furnished music, and supper was served at small, flower-decorated tables in the dining-room. Mr. and Mrs. Lacey are enjoying a two-weeks' trip and will be at home after April 1 in Drexel place.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Jones Burdette entertained Tuesday with their regular monthly salon at their home, "Sunnycrest," South Orange Grove avenue, when Dr. George Spinning gave a most interesting talk on "A Yankee's Visit to Rome." Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Sprague of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bartlett and Miss Zona Gale.

Mrs. Artemus Lamb was the hostess Tuesday at a prettily-appointed luncheon given at Hotel Green for old friends from Cedar Rapids, and Clinton, Iowa. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Stickley, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Onley, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Howes, Mmes. Margaret Bonney, Pritchard, George Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Curtis, Mmes. Marsh, Hatton and Tine.

Mrs. Fred C. Nash entertained Monday afternoon with a luncheon followed by five hundred at her home on South Madison avenue. Refreshments were served also after the games, Mrs. Carrie Goodrich and Miss Abbie McHenry presiding at the tea table. There were twelve guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jamieson of North Lake avenue entertained the New York Avenue Card Club Monday evening, St. Patrick's Day was suggested in the decorations and appointments. Score cards and prizes carried out this central idea and the prize winners were Miss Alice Kruger, Mrs. Alvick A. Pearson, Messrs. Ward Lindsay and Frank Pearson. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton J. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Alvick A. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coulston, Commander and Mrs. Ford Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Bustin, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McPherson, Misses Olive and Alice Kruger, Mabel Pearson, Jane Griffith, Messrs. Clarence Valentine, and Frank Pearson.

Mrs. William E. Grattan was the hostess Sunday afternoon at a prettily-appointed tea given at her home, Hotel Green bungalow, complimentary to Mrs. Frank Stevens and Miss Stevens of Jersey City. Pink carnations and pink stock were used in ornamentation of the rooms and tea table. Mrs. B. F. Soper and Mrs. L. L. Barth presided over the tea cups.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Jones Burdette entertained recently with a dinner given for a well-known group of artistic and literary folk, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pixley, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Benough, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Travers Clover, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bradley Wheeler, Mrs. Clara Bussing, Miss Zona Gale, J. W. Foley and Walter Prichard. An interesting feature of the evening came from original poems written by Dr. Burdette for each guest, and the evening's pleasure was added to by a chalk talk from Mr. Benough and vocal solos contributed by Mrs. Bussing.

THE COMMITTEE appointed, Mrs. Robert Gortner and Mrs. John D. Roberts, planned a jolly party for the members of the Sunday Saturday evening. They met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adams and from there were chauffeured to the Burbank in Los Angeles, where they saw a performance of "Mrs. Temple's Cabbage Patch." They then returned to the home of Mrs. Gortner, No. 1962 La Loma, where a delicious supper was served on the lawn. A fish net had been strung across the ceiling, and interwoven pepper boughs, interspersed with the red and yellow of the American and Spanish flags, and the walls covered with the Spanish colors was the table graced by a mound of carnations, and lighted by red candlesticks. Special guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harrison of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. John D. [illegible] and Mrs. William Axt, Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, Mr. and Mrs. F. Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hunting and Mr. and Mrs. George Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gillette.

Mrs. Ida Mehrtens, a charming visitor from Grand Rapids, Mich., was the honoree at a bridge affair given Saturday afternoon by the Misses Mae and Dorothy Foster, at their home on Brent avenue. California poppies arranged in baskets, the handles tied with yellow satin bows, brightened the rooms where the card tables were arranged. Tea was served in the dining-room following the games, and here also the appointments were carried out in yellow. A cut glass bowl filled with poppies ornamented the center of the table, and from this extended broad yellow satin ribbon, ending in perky bows on either end of the table. Candelabra with yellow shades also entered into the artistic scheme. Present were Miss Gertrude Mehrtens, Miss Amy Davenport, Miss Ethel Palmer, Mrs. W. W. Wilson, Mrs. Charles S. Machin, Miss Sophie Allen, Miss Gladys Taylor, Mrs. William Tompkins, Mrs. George Lawrence Stimpson and Miss Helen Paremoure of Pasadena. Mrs. David Vail and Mrs. Clarendon Foster assisted in entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius V. Seyler of Edgewood Drive are entertaining for the winter, Mrs. Seyler's sister, Mrs. Henrietta H. Schemm of Michigan.

The members of the Wednesday Afternoon Thimble Club were delightfully entertained with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. M. Z. McQuigg, in her beautiful new home, "Lone Oak," North Pasadena. Poppies were used to brighten the rooms and included were Mrs. Marcus Godfrey, Mrs. E. L. B. Godfrey, Mrs. I. L. Spencer, Mrs. W. H. Council, Mrs. P. A. Lord, Mrs. Jay Harter, Mrs. J. E. Pierce, Mrs. E. Schermerhorn, Mrs. W. Filley and Mrs. H. E. Kehler.

Mrs. Thomas Shepard, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shepard, Jr., and their son LeRoy of Platteville, Wis., are the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. T. W. Bishop of Meridian avenue.

Mrs. George Patterson, No. 1797 Oak street entertained the members of the Tuesday Afternoon Luncheon and Whist Club at her home. Pink enchantress carnations embellished the tables and handsome luncheon cloths were used. The drawing-room was brightened with yellow acacia, while pink stock was used in the large living-room. Following the games prizes were awarded to Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Rhone and the guest prize to Mrs. Council. Special guests present were Mrs. M. B. Patterson and Mrs. Richard Mahon of Steubenville, O., Mrs. O. B. Manchester, Mrs. Ernest Sutton, Mrs. William Council and Mrs. James P. Bryan of Philadelphia.

Rivera Corsets

Model No. 70 of Our Noted Rivera Corset, $1.50 Pair.

Have arrived—and they are charming. There's a variety of styles for slender, medium and stout figures in dainty batiste, coutil, pecan, broche and silk brocade. So varied are they that you can secure any length from the girdle effect to the extreme high bust and ultra long hip. And here is the surprising part—one of the big, strong business bringing features of this corset — they're most moderate in price and satisfactory in wear and service.

$1.00, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00, $2.19, $2.50, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00, $6.00 and $6.50 the pair. Sent anywhere postage paid.

Why the Woman With a Moderate Sum to Spend Should by all Means Purchase One of These Handsome Tailored Suits at $25

Because by actual comparison you'll find them to be the best Suit values shown on Broadway. Because the styles are authoritative—you'll find none smarter, more pleasing or more becoming. Because the woman with $25 to spend for a Suit has a wider choice, will get better value and better service by making her selection NOW than by waiting until the Fashion Show, when the more expensive and ultra effects are the center of attraction.

Here are fine whipcords, hairline and invisible stripes, solid colors and fancy light mixtures in side effects, chic cut-aways and styles featuring the broad tuxedo collar of white English Bedford cord, with turn-back cuffs to match. The assortment just now is such as to please the most exacting—and the biggest $25 Spring Suit value you'll find anywhere in the city.

Dainty Linen Dresses

Of the many charming effects brought out by makers of women's wear, none are to be so strongly featured for spring as the jaunty linen frock. These are in white, natural linen, pink, light blue and lavender. Some have sailor collars, some have the cutaway coat effect, many are elaborated with rich Macrame lace bands and pretty English eyelet embroidery. Actually there's almost no end to the variation of trimmings and novelty effects. Many as inexpensive as $7.50.

From that prices range by every graduation to $25.00, $30.00 and $35.00.

Junior Suits

Our Junior Suit Department is showing a big variety of most attractive little suits in fancy mixtures, plain, cream and navy serges. Smart effects for school wear for girls 13, 15 and 17, at $12.50, $14.50, $17.50 and $10.50. We surely want to see these.

You'll be delighted with the simple beauty of the

New Spring Waists at $5.00

Dainty chiffons effectively trimmed with rich antique laces.

INVEST AT ONCE IN A BOTTLE OF

Gouraud's Oriental Cream

and enjoy the charms that are so admired in a fashionable woman.

GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM is a liquid powder, far surpassing the dry powders that have to be applied so frequently to gain the desired effect. It whitens, softens and clears the skin. It is absolutely free from grease, thus preventing it from encouraging the growth of hair.

GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM has been in actual use for nearly three-quarters of a century, which is the surest guarantee of its superiority. If you will use it regularly, you will know why it has been popular for so many years. Any first-class druggist or department store can supply you, or on receipt of $1.50 we will send you a bottle, direct.

A soft, velvety sponge must always be used for applying GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM. It is wise to procure one of

Gouraud's Oriental Velvet Sponges

In dust-proof boxes, ready for use. Price 50c each direct.

Ten cents in stamps will bring you a book of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves.

This charming little booklet of perfumed powder leaves may be slipped into the purse to use on all occasions. They are amazingly refreshing after exposure to wind, snow or dust.

One of the pleasing events of the week was the evening of Five Hundred Thursday given by Mrs. J. C. Osborne, at her home on East Seventh street, complimentary to Mrs. Orville Penwell of Para, Ill.

At the home of Mrs. J. C. Barber Thursday Miss Gertrude Huff was united in marriage to William Lang, Rev. J. M. Schaeffle of Los Angeles officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lang will reside in Los Angeles.

Inglewood.

FRANK NOYES, the violin-maker, who recently moved from this place to Los Angeles, was a visitor Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. R. Thomas.

Miss Hattie E. Rounds and mother, of Los Angeles, were Inglewood guests Sunday and Monday, last, at the home of Mrs. Rose V. Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Blonfield of Hotel Panama, Seattle, Wash., were Inglewood visitors during the past week at the homes of their old-time friends, the W. C. Kelleys, Carl Matsons and Theodore Lindburgs. Mr. and Mrs. Blonfield were delighted with Inglewood and contemplate locating somewhere in Southern California.

Alfred White of San Bernardino is an Inglewood visitor at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. I. Simmons.

Under the supervision of Miss Helen McKeever, teacher of English, and Prof. Milton Kerr, principal of the High School, a number of High School pupils gave a "Nigger Minstrel" show last Saturday night at the High School auditorium to a very appreciative audience.

Tuesday afternoon the first, second and third grade grammar-school pupils entertained the Parent-Teacher Association at our Grammar School building. The first grade pupils of Mrs. Shea gave lullaby songs and a number of recitations from Robert Louis Stevenson. The second grade pupils of Miss Farmer gave a dramatization, in costume, of "Longfellows' Arm Chair," in three acts, besides a concert recitation of "The Village Blacksmith." The third and last part of the programme was furnished by the third-grade pupils of Miss Mabon, who gave, in costume, a dramatization of Longfellow's "Hiawatha's Childhood." The entire programme was thoroughly enjoyed by the parents and other visitors present.

The Dickens Literary Club held an interesting meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. O. Calkins.

Some time ago the Baraca boys of the Presbyterian Church began planning an entertainment. They finally hit upon the novel and original idea of giving a "mock meeting of our local City Council." This proved such a success that there was a constant demand for it to be repeated and "The Who City Council," as it were, were recalled to give their entertainment again last Tuesday evening at Masonic Auditorium. The thirty-six boys, under the supervision of Rev. Thomas Stevenson, teacher of the Baraca boys, gave a most creditable and enjoyable evening's amusement.

Prof. Milton Kerr, of our High School, gave a lecture Wednesday evening at the High School auditorium on the subject of astronomy.

THE coats at $14.50 pay a dividend of from $4.50 to $7.50.
—The coats at $18.50 pay a dividend of from $6.50 to $9.50.
—Yes, every coat in the two lots is really worth several dollars on top of its marked selling price.
—Coats for every sort of wear—street, dress, beach and traveling, etc.
—The popular tan in every conceivable tint. Both plain and mixture materials.
—If you want a dressy coat for matinee wear or a snappy business-like coat for down-town, we have them to show you.
—And when it comes to style and value they do most of the talking.

—The Dresses $9.95—$13.95

THE dresses at $9.95 pay a dividend of $2.50 or $3.00.
—The dresses at $13.95 pay a dividend of from $3.50 to $5.00.
—It is an incontrovertible fact that you would have to pay as much as we ask for the dressmaking alone if you were having such exquisite little frocks made.
—Made of very fine French serge with graceful and becoming lines that add height and dignity to the figure.
—The young debutante will go into ecstacies over the charming models and delicate, high shades for party and evening wear to be found in the group, $13.95.
—A wonderful variety.
—Two more than wonderful prices.

My! What Wonderful Cream Serge Dresses to Sell at $5.00

—Who would ever guess that these dresses were to be sold at $5?
—If you had picked one of them up in the Receiving room, as they came from their express boxes you would have at least, judged them as dresses worth many dollars more.
—Consider that they are the very newest models, right at the opening of the season.
—Consider also that the quantity is limited and that those who wish to share in this timely news should be here early.
—One model is in the low neck style with short sleeves, high waisted effect, with the yoke and cuffs prettily braided.
—The other model low neck, wide collar, and lapels, inlaid with black and white striped material. Yoke and cuffs also trimmed with the black and white material and with buttons.
—Front opening. Considering the price what woman can resist?

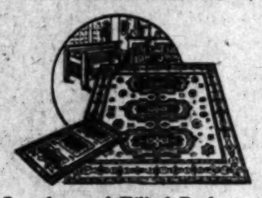
Important Purchase Suitings 54 and 56 Inch Spring Weights Far Under Real Worth, 98c

—Because of the fact that we are able to dispose of large quanitities of dress goods these value-opportunities are presented to us.
—Here we have spring weight suitings, that under ordinary conditions would bring $1.50 to $2.00. For example:
—Fine storm serges, —Fine French serges, —Splendid voiles, panamas, —White and black stripes.
—Novelty checks, and the assortment includes creams, grays, tans, browns and champagne—98c is a very low price.

Irish Point and Novelty Lace Curtains $1.69

That Should Bring From $2.95 to $3.75

—We bought them under advantageous conditions that enabled us to mark $2.95 to $3.75, then reduced to $2.50. Now for Monday we specialize in both Ivory and Arabian shades at $1.69, while they last.



Lambswool Filled Bed Comforts $3.65

Charming

—This new and beautiful hat that has been selected from one of a host of new Spring styles, that have brought this Millinery Department into such great prominence this season.
—Indeed, Broadway Millinery is becoming the talk of the town. It's the wonder of all how we can sell such pretty hats, such original designs and at such moderate prices.

This Model $20

—Is of Java braid with an underfacing of king's blue hemp. A high spray of blue flowers on the right side and touch of velvet ribbon completes the artistic effect.

These Waists--A Mfrs. Surplus--$2.00 Each

—Would anyone ever guess the price to be $2?
—612 of them, lingerie styles in the models for Spring.
—Even though they were a surplus lot, this manufacturer would never have presented them to us if it were not for the fact that we had given him large orders in the past.
—High and low neck lingerie and allover embroidery waists. Any one of them would bring more under ordinary conditions. We are making $2 the magic price in this department, and these are indeed out of the ordinary. We picture a few of the styles. There are numerous others even more attractive. Second floor, in a great sale way, $2.

Can It Be Possible These Suits Are Only $25?

The Newest of the New in Styles and See How They F

—Just to merely tell you of the exceptional qualities of these suits sounds so prosaic. We wish there were some way for us to put the garments before every single reader, so that you might see for yourself how wonderfully good they are.
—They are not ordinary garments by any means; if they were we wouldn't be so enthusiastic.
—These suits have been arriving within the past ten days by fast express, and it seems as though every garment we open is better than the previous one. For example —Of navy mannish serge, with a black patent belt, finished with pearl buckle, patch pockets. Really a striking garment, that fits like a glove.

Just Unpacked, This New Norfolk Suit, $25

—ANOTHER MODEL that has just come to light is a tan and white Bedford cord, with collar and long revers of satin; cuffs of the same material.
—A CUTAWAY MODEL with large glass button skirt in the side effect.
—AND ANOTHER is a black and white Bedford with black satin trimming.

Delayed---10-Yard Bolts Longcloth,

Intended for Our 16th Anniversary Therefore, Special, ... 80c

—When we held our 16th Anniversary in February we had planned to bring out a quantity of Longcloth and sell it at the ridiculous price of 80c for the 10 yards. We thought so much of the feature that we had stamped upon each bolt "16th Anniversary, Broadway Department Store."
—The shipment came by water, was delayed, and has just been unpacked.
—200 bolts, and we're going to present it at the unheard-of price of 80c for the bolt. While they last. Don't miss this. (Third floor.)

Women's Silk Lisle Hosiery A Manufacturer's Overstock 35c

—We are justified in calling this 50c hosiery, for that's what we pay for it under ordinary circumstances.
—A manufacturer's overstock that we bought, therefore are able to mark it 35c for a feature.
—Made with double top, sole and spliced heel. Sale feature 35c pair, Aisle 1.

Broadway Leader Stockings for Children--Famous at 12½c

—Wherever you mention Broadway Leader Hose for children and you find a woman who has been in the habit of buying them, you'll find that woman enthusiastic, for she knows from the service the hosiery has given that they are worth recommending.
—Extra double knee, heel and toe, that means strong reinforcement where reinforcements are needed most.

Men's $1.00 Shirts--A Sale at 85c

—"Make a big feature of this item," said the department buyer, "for it's worthy of big space."
—We agree with him for coat style shirts made of such good material in either the pleated or plain bosoms are strong enough value to be given prominence at $1.00, but when we say 85c, surely the men everywhere in Los Angeles should be interested.

Cashmere Socks 19c

—Men's medium weight cashmere socks with strong merino heel and toe. Special price at 19c.

Men's Union Suits $1.77

—They're underpriced. Fine soft worsted yarns with enough cottons to make them laundry well. Good fitting, medium weight.

$1 Underwear 89c

Good grade of underwear at $1.00. Soft wool that won't scratch, with just enough cotton to keep them from shrinking. 89c.

Men's Sweater Coats $1.79

—They're really worth $2.50, though marked special at $1.79. Oxford gray, with two pockets. Mixed wool. Annex; $1.79.

Imported and Domestic Pongee Silks

A Sale of Marked Importance

—Just in the nick of time we are able to present some exceptional values in both the imported and domestic pongee silks in natural color.
—We say "in the nick of time" because it has just been disclosed in Paris that Shantung and Pongees are to be one of the strongest factors in silks for the coming season.
—Out of nine models shown by the famous Paris couturiers during an opening in the latter part of February, four of the models were in pongee. Therefore, see the importance of these values.

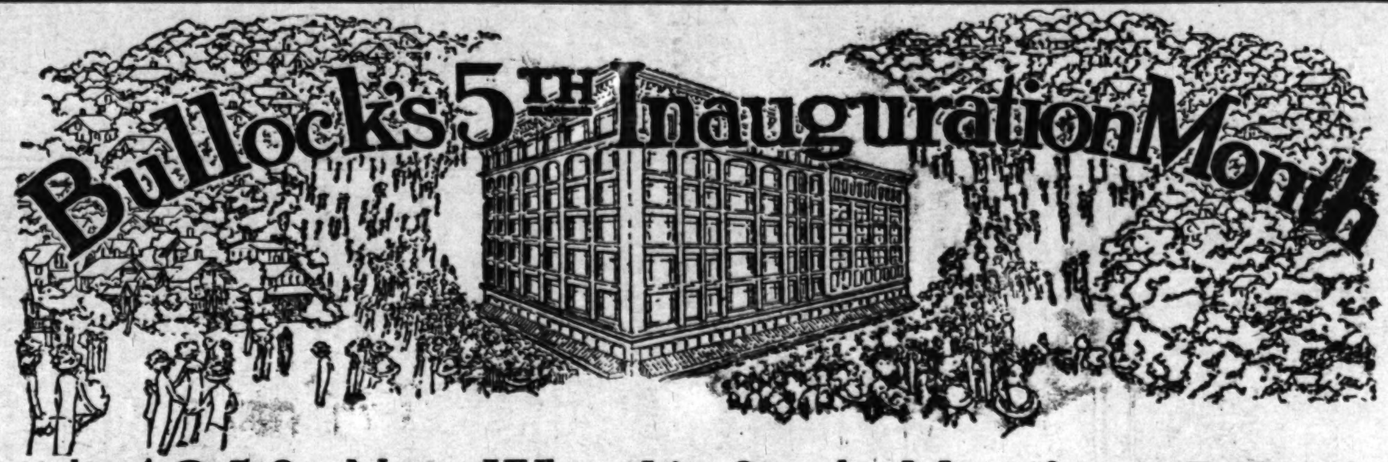
"Bullock's is to Sell Fine Laces at Astonishingly Low Prices

Into Many Hundreds of Southern California Homes

—has gone news of Bullock's 5th Inauguration Month—
—Out of hundreds of Southern California homes have come thousands of buyers straight to Bullock's—and women and men, and whole families, have become enthusiastic!—and have passed the word to others—so that

At the Threshold of the Second Week of This Great Month

—We stand prepared for an even greater business than that of the week just passed—
—Prepared with merchandise—a vast volume of which will be shown for the first time, Monday. New merchandise for spring. Merchandise of the better sort in every department. Merchandise that has been chosen with skill and care to provide you unusually attractive selections.
—Prepared with values, that in ever so many instances, are so much out of the ordinary, as to be extremely rare, values that rest upon a quality foundation that insures the satisfaction of those who share them—
—Prepared with service that has been strengthened at every point in order that it may be adequate.
—If you have shopping to do, on Monday, come to Bullock's, there is a welcome here for you whether you buy or not.
—We want you to know the store.
—We want you to know the impulses and purposes that control the activities of this business.
—We want you to feel the earnestness of the efforts we are putting forth in order to win the satisfaction of every customer.
—Inauguration Month—the first month of Bullock's sixth year—is a demonstration month in which expression is given unstintedly to the inspirations that are guiding the store to success.
—In the activities of this month, read the promise of greater activities still to come.
—In this advertisement, read a portion, and a portion only, of the merchandising interest for Monday.



"$49.50 No! Why, It's Simply Magnificent! I Never Saw Such a Fine Suit Value!

—"And this one only $85?—and that, $89.50?
—"I don't see how you can sell them for so little. Why, Mrs. Blank bought a suit last Monday for $75.00—that wasn't nearly as pretty as this one at $49.50—nor was it tailored a bit more handsomely"—

Monday—a Springtime Opportunity for Women to buy the most Beautiful of Exclusive Suit Creations at prices that are only a portion of regular worth—

—No woman who is planning to buy a New Spring Suit of unusual distinction should miss profiting by this event—
—Every woman who sees these Suits will be as surprised and enthusiastic as Mrs. ——, whom we quote above—and to whom we showed a few of the Suits, on Wednesday—
—But no woman can be more delighted than were we when Fortune enabled us to close this purchase for Inauguration Month—
—We knew what it meant to Southern California women. We knew what it meant to Bullock's to be able to put out the values we are quoting, for Monday.
—The one thing we regret is, that we cannot show the suits themselves in this advertisement so that every one who reads might see the splendid character of the materials, the masterliness of the designing and tailoring, the little style touches that give to every individual garment—a most magnetic individuality.
—We have reproduced two of the styles in the pictures.
—Nearly 50 suits all told. All the show models from New York's foremost creator of tailored garments for women—every suit bright with Fashion's best ideas for spring—$35, $39.50, $49.50. The surprise of the season, Monday.

An Extraordinary Happening—

—This Distribution of Women's Suits, on Monday, should not be confused with Ordinary Sales of Women's Suits—because of the Garments concerned——Their "difference," their extreme character and beauty entitles them to the utmost consideration at regular prices.
—At the prices which we have marked them, they should cause a flurry among women, and attract the attention of those not generally interested in undermarkings.
—Display Suits from the First Suit Maker of New York.

"Lovely!"

"Isn't this one just too Beautiful!"—
"They're really wonderful values"—
—"You can't find words to describe them in the paper"—

The styles are Lovely—Beautiful—Remarkable—and this advertisement does not do them justice—
—The second floor is bubbling over with enthusiasm over this Inauguration Garment Event—
—The Fashion Salons haven't been so attractive in months as they will be Monday—
—And

At $25.00

—will be one of the most astonishing groups of all—
—Tailored Suits—in Black and White Checks, in Gray, in Tan, in Cream with fine dark stripes.
—Suits notable for their extreme character—for the perfection of their tailoring—and for the marked lowness of the price at which we are to sell them—
—No woman who has a New Spring Suit in mind should miss visiting the second floor on Monday.

The Spirit of Spring Time

—rules the store.
—The air is filled with greenery and flowers.
—Sweet throated canaries warble and sing Inauguration melodies.
—Happiness is everywhere.
—Welcome to Inauguration Month—

"Open Stock Dinnerware a Specialty at Bullock's

—"That means that we can buy any set we want—any number of pieces at a time—and when we break a dish—we can replace it. Bullock's has some beautiful Dinnerware on the 5th Floor. It's wonderful how reasonably it is priced"—

—It will pay you to buy Dinnerware at Bullock's—Among the values—

—"One can always find use for such laces as these, even if one has to store them for awhile.
—"They will be in windows on Seventh street, today. Let's go down this afternoon and see them. Don't forget, at Bullock's."

"1500 Yards of Wonderful Dress Linen at 25c Yard

—"I saw samples of it, Friday. You know, I was buying that linen for my new skirt, and the saleswoman was so enthusiastic over this sale that was coming she simply had to show me—
"I won't say it's all Linen—but it looks as though it were—sturdy, slightly rough weave, 27 inches wide, and in very good colors. The biggest value I've seen in years.
—"Just 1500 yards. It shouldn't last long—for women are going to snap it up.
—"Bullock's has a beautiful variety of Dress Linens.
—"There's a 36-inch Natural Suiting at 25c that is remarkable; a Heavy Motor Linen in tan at 30c, 36-in.; a 36-in. White Linen at 40c; a French Costume Linen at 65c.
—"Ramie Linen, Crash Suitings, Ratines—ever so many New Dress Linens. And Monday, the greatest display will be made.

"Bullock Hats are so Pretty!

—"I don't know what it is about them—but they seem to have so much more 'chic' and 'spirit' than other Hats—
—"It doesn't matter whether they are simple or elaborate, Bullock hats are always 'becoming.'
—"You should see the beauties, they are going to have out Monday—some of them will be in a window today."
—Every woman should see the hats that will be shown on the 2nd floor, Monday—
—A very special Inauguration Exhibit—spring models from Kurzman, Litchenstein, Burby & Gerhardt, of New York.

"What's New in Women's Apparel"

Quaint Millinery Ideas
Borrowed from the Court of Louis the XV

THE most fascinating of the new creations from abroad hinge on the adaptations of picturesque styles in vogue during the reign of Louis the XIV and Louis the XV. Of course, Martha Washington insisted, womanlike, on wearing the "very latest" Parisian importation, hence the "colonial" effects all bear out the same general style idea.

The Pompadour styles, displaying the curiously beautiful applique embroidery and portraying the exquisite Watteau colorings of this period have lent wings to the fancy of the foreign millinery designers, and "The Paris" exposition of imported models is not to be excelled in the West. New and charming importations arriving daily.

Tailored Perfection in Spring Suits
Our Position in the Fashion World Prohibits Our Presenting a Style Which Is Not Correct

New Fabrics
FASHION is very keen about the new weaves for Spring, even the staple fabrics being woven differently, to lend them fresh beauty. Whipcords are decidedly in favor.

$35, $37.50, $42.50, $45 & up to $75
Very Stunning and Exclusive Novelties
THERE is a great diversity of trimming effects among the high-class suits for Spring, yet with such consummate tailoring art have these adornments been planned and applied that they seem intimately essential to the particular garment with which they are associated. Bright silk linings, perhaps, in the new cherry red, often matched by pipings and buttons on coat and skirt, rich braidings, cordings of self material, and handsome contrasting collar and cuffs of the new drap eponge, are among the novelties noted. Best Choice Always at "The Paris."

New Colors
VERY striking novelties in black-and-white are shown, but soft-toned effects in grays and tans, produced by skillful blending of shades in the weaving, often serve as a background for vivid trimmings.

Suits For Men At $15

We haven't the Audacity to declare our $15 suits are worth $25. In spite of the fact that some merchants sell "regular $25 suits for $15," we'll stake our fifty years' Reputation that our $15 suits are as good—or a bit better—than any in town claimed to be worth $25.

Prove it for yourself. Make the rounds and investigate the claims of them all. Then come here and compare. We're not too big nor too old at the game to meet and beat competition. Make the experiment tomorrow.

WORN BY WISE WOMEN

Nemo Corsets

DEAR MADAM: It isn't always fair to blame a dealer for trying to make you buy some other corset when you ask for the Nemo. Merchants are in business to make money, and as much of it as possible.

Furthermore, some merchants actually don't know their own stocks well enough to distinguish between REAL NEMO SERVICE and its imitations. Some others care only for the extra profit which generally goes with bogus merchandise.

On the other hand, we have worked for years—and very successfully, thank you—to give women better corsets and greater corset-values than they ever had before. It is our purpose to serve the public, and that's why we have fixed the retailer's profit at a fair living figure—so that YOU, madam, shall get FULLEST VALUE for your money.

As we have already told you, some dealers—fortunately not very many—attempt to defeat our purpose by trying to make you buy other makes, on which the dealer may collect 100 per cent. profit—from YOU.

If your dealer ever tries this on YOU—BE A WISE WOMAN!

Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets are the world's standard for stout women, with ABSOLUTELY NO SUBSTITUTE and not even a good imitation. A model for every type of stout figure $3.50, $4.00 and $5.00. (10) KOPS BROS., Mfgrs., New York

Duarte.

ONE of the notable society events of the week was the large company given Wednesday between the hours of 3 and 5 by Mrs. Joseph Fowler at her lovely country home on Duarte avenue. The function to which many society matrons and little maidens were asked was given in honor of Mrs. Fowler's twin daughters the Misses Marjorie and Doris Fowler in commemoration of the fifth anniversary of their natal day. The little maids who have reached the five time stage received with their charming young mother and were daintily attired in beautiful spring frocks. The large living-room hall and drawing-room were adorned with greenery and cut flowers of the spring's lovely offerings and presented quite a festive appearance. Games for the children and interesting diversions for the older friends were devised and music rounded out the entertainment. At half after four o'clock a birthday supper was served and a beautifully decorated birthday cake with lighted candles was presented each little girl. Many good wishes and congratulatory remarks were showered with other gifts on the twins and their mother alike.

Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Radabaugh opened their elegant new home on Falling Leaf avenue to the members of the Buena Vista Whist Club, who met in jolly conclave for a battle royal over the card tables. Cawston Ostrich Feathers
---the season's most fashionable hat trimming.

—More than ever is the ostrich feather shown on the new millinery this season.

—And not only is it popular for the dress hat, but a single plume on street and tailored hats is quite the thing.

—Our fashion window display shows the famous Cawston plumes in the new exquisite cherry shades. The gorgeousness of the coloring and the magnificence of the plumes make a display that for splendor can hardly be equaled.

—This perfection of coloring in Cawston plumes is due to the fact that our feathers are dyed and dried in the Southern California sunshine, which gives them nature's truest coloring.

—The supreme quality of the Cawston plumes won them first prize at the Paris Exposition. So when you buy a "Cawston" you are getting the best there is in the world—getting a plume that will wear practically a lifetime, and that can be recurled, redyed and remodeled time and again.

Duarte.

ONE of the notable society events of the week was the large company given Wednesday between the hours of 3 and 5 by Mrs. Joseph Fowler at her lovely country home on Duarte avenue. The function to which many society matrons and little maidens were asked was given in honor of Mrs. Fowler's twin daughters the Misses Marjorie and Doris Fowler in commemoration of the fifth anniversary of their natal day. The little maids who have reached the five times one stage received with their charming young mother and were daintily attired in beautiful spring frocks. The large living-room hall and drawing-room were adorned with greenery and cut flowers of the spring's lovely offerings and presented quite a festive appearance. Games for the children and interesting diversions for the older friends were devised and music rounded out the entertainment. At half after four o'clock a birthday supper was served and a beautifully decorated birthday cake with lighted candles was presented each little girl. Many good wishes and congratulatory remarks were showered with other gifts on the twins and their mother alike.

Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Radabaugh opened their elegant new home on Falling Leaf avenue to the members of the Buena Vista Whist Club, who met in jolly conclave for a battle royal over the card tables. Cawston Ostrich Feathers

---the season's most fashionable hat trimming.

—More than ever is the ostrich feather shown on the new millinery this season.

—And not only is it popular for the dress hat, but a single plume on street and tailored hats is quite the thing.

—Our fashion window display shows the famous Cawston plumes in the new exquisite cherry shades. The gorgeousness of the coloring and the magnificence of the plumes make a display that for splendor can hardly be equaled.

—This perfection of coloring in Cawston plumes is due to the fact that our feathers are dyed and dried in the Southern California sunshine, which gives them nature's truest coloring.

—The supreme quality of the Cawston plumes won them first prize at the Paris Exposition. So when you buy a "Cawston" you are getting the best there is in the world—getting a plume that will wear practically a lifetime, and that can be recurled, redyed and remodeled time and again.

The Shakespeare class of the Woman's Club was in charge of the general assembly of the club Tuesday afternoon and the attraction was Mrs. Elizabeth Cloud Miller, reader of Los Angeles. Mrs. Miller gave "Mrs. Wiggin's Village Gossip," two of Riley's children's stories and then the trio scene from the "Merchant of Venice" and one of the humorous scenes from "Twelfth Night." Later tea was served.

The College Corner Club enjoyed a Dickens social Tuesday evening. The young women, forty-two in all, gathered around the supper table at half after six and enjoyed supper together. The tables were decorated in Dickens's "ivy green" and his favorite scarlet geraniums. Afterward the following programme was given: Sketch of Dickens's Life, Miss Effie Clarke; duet, "What are the Wild Waves Saying?" Mrs. Burdette Marvin and Miss Mable Scott; magazine comments on Dickens, Mrs. George Seger; "Young People's Attitude Toward Dickens," Miss Ethel Smith; solo, "The Ivy Green," Miss Mable Scott; "Travels in Dickens's Land," Miss Eliza Perley; "Pictures from Dickens's Land," Dr. Louisa Harvey Clarke.

Mrs. Mattie Sears entertained a company of young ladies with a whist party Monday afternoon in compliment to Miss Carra Granger, whose engagement to Clarence Sears has recently been announced. Prizes were taken by Miss Stella Place and Miss Anne Simms. Miss Mable Scott contributed recitations and vocal numbers and Miss Stella Place gave piano numbers. The rooms were decorated in pink carnations and ferns, the score cards were in the shape of tiny pink cupids and hearts and the refreshments were carried out in the same dainty color.

Mrs. H. Webster entertained a dozen young girls Monday between 4 and 6 o'clock in honor of the twelfth birthday anniversary of Miss Hazel Webster. Games, music and refreshments were enjoyed, there being a large birthday cake on which flamed twelve little candles.

Miss Ilka Grotholdt celebrated the fifteenthh anniversary of her birth Saturday and in her honor Mrs. Grotholdt entertained a company of her young friends. In a guessing contest prizes were taken by Miss Edith James and Miss Josephine Chamblin. Merry games and contests were enjoyed until supper was announced and the feature of the feast was the beautifully dcorated cake bearing the fifteen candles. Mrs. Grotholdt was assisted by her daughter, Nora, and by Miss Martha Eigenbrod.

Miss Leora Upp and Miss Rita Gould entertained with a fancy dress party Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Piddington. The guests were in all sorts of fancy costumes an dafter the enjoyment of games and old-fashioned dances refreshments were served, Mrs. Piddington being assisted by Miss Anna Cooley.

Miss Lena Nelson of Chicago, a guest at the Mission Inn, entertained a company of girls at dinner Saturday evening prior to the dance. Covers were laid for Mrs. Rolf Newman, Mrs. Paul Day Williard, Misses Hersey, Lena Hersey, Florence Thompson, Ethel Smith, Jean Adair, Eloise Gundrum and Lena Nelson. The table was ornamented with a basket of sweet peas surrounded by low bowls of California violets.

The news has just leaked out of the marriage of Monte L. Carpenter and Miss Marian Reily, two well-known and popular people of this city, who went over to San Bernardino ostensibly to visit the orange show, but in reality to visit the marriage licens, bureau and the marrying parson. On Friday evening the bride's mother entertained a few friends in honor of her daughter and her new son-in-law. Games, music and refreshments made the evening a happy one. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter will continue to reside in Riverside.

Mrs. O. Papineau, who for twenty-two years has been a member of the Riverside Chapter of Eastern Star and is leaving soon for her future home in Oakland, was the honored guest at a party given Thursday afternoon by the local chapter, about forty ladies being present. It was a thimble party, the ladies having their sewing. During the afternoon Mrs. Henrietta Anderson presented to the honor guest, a handsome piece of cut glass on behalf of the Eastern Star ladies. Later refreshments were served.

The Woman's Club held a delightful Dickens day on Thursday afternoon. A programme of Dickens's sketches, and Dickens's poems and songs was given by ladies in costume and later refreshments were served. Many of the famous characters of Dickens were represeated, including, Mr. and Mrs. Micawber and the twins, Ada of Bleak House, Mrs. Jellepy, Mrs. Swiveler, Peggoty, Betsy Prig and Sairey Gamp and other notables from the pages of the great English novelist. The serving of refreshments closed the afternoon.

THE DRAMA.

Adolphus as the beginning of a short Pacific Coast tour. Effie has a wonderful mind and guarantees to answer any question put to her.

As a coadjutor on the bill, Dr. Breon, the eminent French hypnotist, presents the second act of the instructive as well as entertaining variety. Dr. Breon is a practicing physician with a diploma from the University of Paris, besides being a hypnotist, and holds diplomas from several European as well as American hospitals and clinics where he has performed miraculous healing feats with his power.

The Buckeye State Quartette is a treat. Popular as well as operatic selections make up this quartette's repertoire. The Youngers in a posing and hand-to-hand balancing act, offer something decidedly new in acrobatics. Lew Leever is the black-face Beau Brummel of the stage—and knows it. The Romany Duo, a gypsy harmony team, will sing melodies from the fastnesses of the Italian mountains, and the Littlejons, those Scotch jugglers, will do some legerdemain tricks in the most approved style.

Kinemacolor.

The first American film to be shown at the Kinemacolor Theater will be on view the week commencing Monday, and will illustrate Niagara Falls in color. As the falls are America's finest spectacle and a universal attraction to the whole world, this seems a fitting subject for the first display. Another American film shows Winnipeg, Can., and its environs, and as this city is much in the public eye, it certainly will be interesting.

Pictures of Lillie Smith swimming the English channel from England to France are a novel concept, and a Panama banana plantation will depict this industry. The comedy film, all in color, shows "A Gem of a Cook." Mme. Pianquette will sing, and lecturers will explain the pictures fully, all being in full color natural as life.

Lyceum.

For a week to come the Lyceum will be dark, though about the busiest place in town during that period, for this is the week of final preparation of the Fischer's Follies Company, which, beginning Sunday matinee, March 17—St. Patrick's Day—will be permanently installed in Fichter's Lyceum—the new name—the "house of a thousand lights"—where they will present musical comedy with the greatest galaxy of stars and a fine chorus.

Headed by May Boley, Texas Guinan, Herbert Cawthorn—each a star in their own right—Laura Oakley, Bob Lett, Lon Chaney, Mlle. Vanity, Ann Montgomery, and a host more, with a picked singing and dancing chorus, the company is the very extreme of excellence in talent and in combined excellence. With unlimited resources in the way of plays, it is the purpose to introduce here the very latest New York and Chicago successes, the while they are still playing in the cities named, and arrangements exist for the use of all the Joe Weber, Lew Field, Shubert and other New York productions intact, also the Harry Askin La Salle Theater, Chicago, plays, and all are to be given while yet running in their respective cities.

The opening bill, for instance, will consist of two shows, "The Neverhomes," a satire on suffrage, now running in Lew Fields's Theater, and "The Songbirds," another satire on grand opera, in which a special chorus will be employed.

In scenery, costumes and all accessories, the very finest possible will be utilized, and the whole intent and purpose is to give Los Angeles real Broadway shows. The cosy Lyceum is almost newly done over, and the future home of musical frolics could not be in better hands.

Everything looks as favorable as could be asked for a big opening and many years of success in the new venture. Popular prices will be the rule, with the productions at the top notch always, as the reputations of Messrs. Fisher and James would readily signify.

Elsie Janis Coming.

One of the really important engagements of the season is that of Miss Elsie Janis, who will be seen at the Mason Operahouse the week of March 18 in her latest and perhaps her greatest success, "The Slim Princess." Miss Janis comes direct to Los Angeles after a year's stay at Charles B. Dillingham's Globe Theater, New York City.

Miss Janis brings with her the entire original cast, which played in New York, headed by Joseph Cawthorn, one of the most unctuous German comedians on the American stage.

"The Slim Princess" is taken from George Ade's ludicrously funny novelette dealing with the adventures of a Turkish belle who found it impossible to accumulate sufficient avoirdupois to enter the beauty class among the women of her native country, where beauty and weight are synonymous.

Henry Blossom of "The Red Mill," "Mlle. Modiste" and other successes took this story and weaved it into a screamingly funny stage story. Leslie Stuart, composer of the music of "Floradora," has furnished a bewitchingly illustrative score. The costuming is colorful and unusual and the stage settings are of the most artistic character.

During Miss Janis's engagement here she will give but one matinee, which will occur on Saturday.

Alice Lloyd, the dainty and winsome comedienne, who has been one of the biggest drawing cards in high-class vaudeville ever since she came to this country, three seasons ago, will be the unusually strong attraction at the Mason, at an early date, appearing in the title role of Messrs. Werbe and Luescher's joyous musical gaiety, "Little Miss Fix-It," which was one of the big Broadway hits at the Globe Theater, New York, last winter, and packed the Chicago Operahouse all last summer.

Faversham in "The Faun."

A Faun, or wood-god, the deity of the shepherds and field creatures, strays from his native haunts of wilds and streams into modern London. The Faun is a joyous, undauntedly frank, blythesome, sane, full-blooded creature. Present-day society in London he finds confining, artificial, false.

People there worship money, strive for artificial social position, and conduct themselves according to a narrow set of conventions; in fact, the Faun discovers that they do not even marry for love, but for title or station.

And the Faun determines to turn all these persons with whom he comes in contact away from their petty, grubbing conventionalities and back to nature and naturalness of expression and living. The resulting constantly amusing and thoroughly original situations constitute the story of "The Faun," the comedy sensation of the season, which William Faversham will present at the Majestic Theater the week of March 18.

Githa Sowerby,
The English girl dramatist, who became famous in a day.

PRETTY AUTHOR OF GRIM PLAY.

Githa Sowerby, Who Became Famous in a Day in London, Doesn't Look Like Her Powerful Drama.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Miss Githa Sowerby, the girl-dramatist who has just become famous in a day through the astonishing success of her first play, "Rutherford & Son," is the last person in the world one would expect to find as the author of so grim, powerful and closely-thoughtout a drama of business. Instead of looking as if she wrote this play, she is a young, pretty, fair-haired girl, refined of speech and dainty in dress, who seems far better suited to a drawing-room than to the dramatist's work room.

Miss Sowerby, who was unknown to the general public on the afternoon of the trial performance of her play at the Court Theater, is now the subject of columns in the London dailies and weeklies. One of the big American magazines has just sent a writer to do an illustrated article about her, and the American, German, Danish, Norwegian and Swedish rights of her play have already been arranged for, with apparently more to follow. Yet apparently she had no one working for her, and no other reason for her surprising boom than the fact that her play was so well-constructed and the characters so human and untheatric.

The young author is pleased and surprised at what she calls the "kindness of the critics," but otherwise quite unmoved by her success. She had served no apprenticeship in the writing of other plays; "Rutherford & Son" had not been the usual round of journeys-to-managers with return tickets to its author; she just wrote it—and wrote most of it in pencil in a boat up the river!

This astonishing young woman is the daughter of John Sowerby, the artist. Miss Sowerby lives in London most of the year with her sister. She has a small reputation as writer of fairy stories for quite small children. One day she started writing the play, but thought so little of it that she designated the first two acts as "sawful rot," and put it aside. However, it was seen by an actress friend who ultimately persuaded her to finish the play. The characters were mostly drawn from Northumberland, where Miss Sowerby spent what she calls her "flapperhood."

Miss Sowerby is quite innocent of having any great lesson to teach, or of any underlying significance in what she has written. She has returned to her fairy story writing, and has no idea whether she will write another play or not, but says she "supposes" that she will.

FRANK EGAN RETURNS.

Head of School Back After Enforced Vacation—Miss Del Valle Wins Triumph.

After an extended vacation—enforced by a period of strenuous activity, during the earlier part of the winter—Frank Egan has returned to his desk in the Egan school, and is once more taking up actively the spring propaganda.

The biggest project now in sight as far as the Egan school is concerned is the pageant, which it will give at the Auditorium on April 23, the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

The entire school will participate, and under the general direction of Frank Egan, the stage management of Sedley Brown and the valuable assistance of those classical authorities Florence Dobinson and Alfred Allen, scenes from all of the principal plays will be given. The duelling bouts will be put on by Richard Kruger—the classical and greenwood dancing by Mme. Natildita.

There will be representations from "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "King Lear," "The Tempest," "Much Ado," "As You Like It," "The Merchant of Venice," "Romeo and Juliet," and other of the master-bard's works.

Lest those who read this extended forecast fear a cycle which shall last until morning, the management hastens to promise that the affair will be professionally stage-managed, will move with alacrity and only and other interior points, and brief and well-chosen excerpts will be given, the whole forming a rapidly changing pageant, without waits, scenes "in one" alternating with "full sets," and the actors in one-piece quite independent of the cast assigned to another.

Some excellent scenery is being prepared for this production, and the costuming will be historically correct. In all, there will be more than 150 players concerned, and an orchestra of good size.

Another Egan girl seems to have scored heavily in the recent leading woman's position to which she went from this school. This is Miss Lucretia Dell Valle, daughter of one of the best-known pioneer families in Southern California.

A few weeks ago Miss Del Valle was selected by Manager Ernest Shipman to head his "Barrier" company, playing eastward over the southern route. Miss Del Valle has made the hit of the play in Phoenix and other interior points, and the last week one of the leading Southwest journals wrote of her: "Miss Del Valle appears to come from the Egan school, in Los Angeles.—Her Necia, last night, was all that could be desired in technique, handling of lines, scenes and situations. She played both the comedy and pathos of little Necia with equal grace. If this Frank Egan can turn out such pupils as Miss Del Valle—if she is a fair proof—the success of his institution is assured."

The musical end of the Egan school is progressing finely. Thomas Taylor Drill, head of this department, is also general manager of the huge Land Show chorus, has formed this fine singing body out of comparatively raw materials, and now, as its director, is reaping the laurels of praise which is his due.

A number of interesting plays are being studied in the Egan school for representation during the coming spring.

Lillian Russell Recommends Turkish Baths at Home for Health and Beauty

MISS LILLIAN RUSSELL is a knowledged one of the most beautiful women in the world. She retains her radiant health by the knowledge of how to care for and preserve physical well-being and the confidence of it in good looks. And see "The Turkish Bath at Home" in Russell's latest recommendation to those who read her daily talks in the public press. Did you read Miss Russell's article on this subject last week? If you should get the paper containing it and read it. She tells why we need Turkish Bath in addition to the Plunge water bath. And Miss Russell tells how simple and easy it is to take the Turkish Bath right in your own home.

A Turkish Bath at Home Costs Only 2¢ With this Robinson Bath Cabinet

One Robinson Thermal or Turkish Bath for those of weakened vitality will do more good in a half hour than three months vacation on a farm—infinitely more than can be expected from any drug in the world. Prominent physicians are abandoning drugs in many cases for this new treatment. Those who have tried it, are astonished at the change in their condition.

Makes a New Being of You

The "Robinson" Turkish Bath Cabinet is wonderfully simple, a bath in it costs only 2 cents and takes only 15 minutes. How much better is this than having to go to some local or public Turkish Baths and pay out a lot of money for something not a whit better and not one-tenth as convenient. Have it in your own home and use it every time you feel like it. It will keep you from going "stale." It will keep you bright and carefree. The great physical luxury it affords will be a constant delight to you. It produces and preserves the clear, clean skin, good spirits and great physical exuberance that puts a sharper edge on the enjoyment of living.

That "tired feeling," exhaustion, lack of energy, aches and pains, nothing more than the effects of poisons which nature would have thrown off through the skin need to be opened up and cleansed. Disease germs, their natural foes. Inherited taint, these and other troubles remediably remedied, cured, driven out in a few minutes' time, by the use of Robinson's Turkish Thermal Bath Cabinet.

Abandon drugs and use this simple, pleasant method. If you would keep your whole system well now and then get time for physical exercise, you must take baths. Indoors all day; if you do not perspire freely you are inclined to chronic constipation. If you are inclined to chronic constipation. If you are capable of using this cabinet you should have it in your home, at a cost of 2c a bath.

The Sea Postoffice.

[Harper's Weekly:] Every one is aware that a large quantity of mail comes from Europe; probably most persons assume that it is dumped off the steamers in bulk and sorted and routed in the postoffice of the receiving port. Such a system would result in hopeless congestion and practically all of the fifteen million pounds of foreign mail matter received at New York, on an average of recent years, is ready, sorted and sacked when the steamers make port. This work is done in the sea postoffices aboard the ships, and means days saved in the time of delivery of mail matter intended for inland points.

In the huge mass of mail brought into New York each year there are, on an average, 50,000,000 separate pieces, many thousands with inadequate addresses; yet to such a degree of efficiency has the operation of the sea postoffices been brought, and so carefully is the work done, that not more than five hundred complaints are received annually. As the average number of pieces of ocean mail received in a year is about 2200 standard mail bags, the most incredible record of any kind—less than one error of any kind whatever for every four million pieces of mail.

MRS. WILLIAM SQUIRE KENYON.

Wife of the Senator from Iowa Appointed to Fill Out the Term of Jonathan P. Dolliver is a Progressive and Socially an Active Member of the Senatorial Set.

BY MARGARET B. DOWNING.

Mrs. Kenyon,
Wife of Senator from Iowa.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Among those who have taken part in the official gayeties for the first time this winter are Senator and Mrs. William Squire Kenyon of Fort Dodge, Iowa. Possessing the large hospitality which is part of the heritage to the Middle West, Senator and Mrs. Kenyon have already won a high regard and perform their duties with whole-hearted devotion. They are domiciled in a pleasant home in the extreme western part of the city, Park road, and almost adjoining the wood land of Rock Creek Park. Mrs. Kenyon has kept her Thursday at home weekly since January and has in addition given several notable entertainments.

"I feel that I am too inexperienced in Washington life to give impressions," said Mrs. Kenyon, "and anything I might say could be placed under the category of superficial observation, but still I can express my admiration of the Capital as a city in which to grow mentally and to add valuable and interesting additions to one's education. I delight in everything, especially in the beauty of the city. I am amazed to hear that Washington is considered a small burg. It takes a good hour to go from my home to the Capitol and that seems to me worthy of New York or Chicago distances. I have found visiting and receiving visits a pleasant experience and I am agreeably surprised to find so many Iowans resident here and in nearly every case having achieved notable success in their various vocations. I hope when I find more leisure and have dropped into the routine more easily to have a gathering of Iowans temporarily exiled. We shall all weep together and bemoan the good things of our fine old State and vote it the greatest in the remarkable family of States, which make up Uncle Sam's domain.

POLITICS.

"From my earliest memory I have heard politics discussed in my family so that to be in the Capital and right in the center of things, in a way fills out a long cherished ambition. I have studied politics and I believe I can say that I know the game and can understand it when it is played out before me. I spend a great deal of time in the Senate gallery and become completely absorbed in the debates. It seems almost as exciting as a serial romance and I look forward from day to day to what is being done at the Senate. I can think of no way more satisfying to pass the early afternoon than to have luncheon at the Senate and then to attend the debates until duty demands one to make some calls. I have my mother and sister visiting me and there are few evenings when the Upper House is in session which find us absent from our post. I believe in a woman studying every public question though I am not a champion of the new woman movement in all its phases. But the larger issues of life are so much more worthy of women than the trivial ones on which we are prone to spend so much time studying. Politics give an insight into affairs national and local, and if once a woman will begin to comprehend these things and to follow their progress, she will never be satisfied with filling her time with trifles. I should like to make a universal rule for women to discuss household matters only at home and with their cooks or those in charge of their affairs, their gowns with those who are either to sell or construct them and then to talk with their friends about the genuinely interesting topics of the day. I welcome the new woman movement in the light of broadening the feminine horizon and giving a taste of what we might achieve if properly trained, but I am not prepared to advocate a public career for the gentler sex.

IOWA HOME.

"My home has always been in Fort Dodge and contrary to the often repeated tale, my husband and I have maintained our home there continuously until we came to Washington. Business frequently took Mr. Kenyon to Chicago, but we were always pilgrims and travelers there and returned to our own roof tree in Fort Dodge whenever it was possible. I think that for a home, nothing is quite so adequate as the small city where every one is known by you and you know every one and his father and mother before him. This is the way in Fort Dodge. We have all that the great municipal centers can claim and more, because we can make a real home and be part of the community and not be swallowed up in the vastness as is in Chicago and New York. We lead busy lives in our community and no one need complain of lack of amusement and occupation. The historical clubs have accomplished a wonderful amount of excellent work and have been an inspiration to many isolated communities. Our State being a great farming commonwealth, every one has a farm and all are interested in crops. We of course, own a farm and at present Mr. Kenyon's brother is residing there. For several years we have not had the opportunity to enjoy life in the open as much as I would like, but we read every straw which sends us out even for a day or two. It is called 'Inglewood,' and the house stands in a lovely well-shaded spot. We have raised only what is sufficient for the stock on the place and supply our own home with the finest poultry, milk, butter, eggs, fresh vegetables all the year round. Mr. Kenyon delights in visiting the farm during the haying season and he lays up strength and energy for the work of the year by hay making and trudging over the farm in overalls and assisting at the various and other occupations which are part of the farm life. He loves to ride and to walk, and we spend much of our time in this way when at 'Inglewood.'

"Mrs. Kenyon is bright and vivacious in manner and very trim and modish in appearance. She has not been in robust health for the past few years and has been compelled to give up her favorite pastime, horseback riding. Her erect carriage and the unmistakable grace proclaim that she has spent long hours in the saddle. She is, however, able to give much time to tennis and golf, and she is proficient in both sports. A prominent member of the Country Club in Ft. Dodge, she will give her allegiance only to some of the clubs about which have estates in the open and have well-planned golf fields. Lacking these pleasures for the time being she takes the needed exercise in walking and is already familiar with the byways into the parks and the cuts across country.

"Mrs. John F. Duncombe, Mrs. Kenyon's sister-in-law, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frederick E. Duncombe, of Ft. Dodge, are passing the winter here with the latter's children. Besides the latter's children are seeing Washington in her brilliant colors. Besides her Thursdays with company, Mrs. Kenyon has also given several notable fetes, principally the large reception to the Iowa Society and the dinner in honor of the Secretary of Agriculture, both of which were given in a downtown hotel. She was also selected by the venerable Secretary of Agriculture who is a widower, to preside over the banquet which he tendered the President and Mrs. Taft during the early part of February.

Mrs. Kenyon claims but one fad and that is devotion to music. She has a good voice and one which was carefully cultivated, but through illness of various sorts she has despaired of ever having it reach the perfection which she had hoped. She suffers from a permanent throat trouble which makes it impossible at times to sing a note and so she never dares to promise to sing for any one except her own family. She finds great enjoyment, however, in singing for her own amusement and she is an indefatigable attendant at concerts and operatic productions. She received her education in Massachusetts and it was her intention to enter the Boston Conservatory and to study music seriously. These plans were frustrated through ill health and could never be taken up. Mrs. Duncombe, her mother, is also a fervent lover of music and after her widowhood she lived for two years in Leipsig in order to give her daughters the benefit of the advantages to be obtained there. Mrs. Kenyon had married before this time and though she has made many plans to go abroad, both for pleasure and for study, she has never yet realized that hope. Now she says it seems further removed than ever, at least for the present, as people say that such a thing as a short session of Congress is among those things relegated to the past.

Senator and Mrs. Kenyon attend the Episcopalian Church of Saint Mark in Ft. Dodge and here they occasionally worship at St. Margaret's and frequently journey down to St. John's. It is still problematical whether they will affiliate with any Washington congregations as the sessions of Congress always make it possible to maintain spiritual relations at home. Mrs. Kenyon is finding among her new acquaintances in Washington many old friends of her father, John F. Duncombe, who was for years president of the Illinois Central Railroad and made frequent sojourns in Washington. Mr. Duncombe was one of the most brilliant lawyers of his time and his memory is held in the highest esteem by the Bar Association of Iowa and Illinois.

MENTAL LAZINESS.

English Shopmen Who Do Not Even Read the Labels on Goods.

[Sir Henry Maxim in London Express:] When I first came to England, many years ago, I was amazed to find how little the ordinary employee knew of the work he was doing. I will give a few instances to illustrate this point.

A gentleman from Mexico asked me to go with him to a firm who made a specialty of potash kettles. The Mexicans required kettles of a different shape and size from those that were being manufactured by the firm. I asked the man in charge if they used a wooden pattern in moulding the kettles, or whether they swept them up in loam. If by the latter process, there would be no expense for a pattern.

The attendant admitted that he had been with the firm for over twenty years, but did not know which process was employed or how the kettles were produced.

While I was in Hatton Garden I had occasion to use some metallic mercury, and, not wishing to pay for an expensive iron bottle, I sent an intelligent man to a very large chemical warehouse in the immediate vicinity, with orders to bring me a pound of metallic mercury in a strong glass bottle with a cork stopper. He returned and said that the chemists were unable to fill the order, as they had never had any call for it.

I believed my man had made a mistake, so I wrote down on a piece of paper: "One pound of metallic mercury in a strong glass bottle with a cork stopper." He soon returned again, giving me the same reply. It then occurred to me that he had not gone to a chemist's shop at all, so I went with him and found that it was a large wholesale chemical house. I asked to see the man who had refused to fill the order and the following dialogue took place:

"I sent this man for some metallic mercury, and he tells me that you have nothing of the kind in stock and never had any call for it."

"No, sir, we have no metallic mercury, never had any, and never had any call for it."

"Evidently this is your first day on the premises?"

"No, sir; I have been here twenty-five years, and this is the first time I ever had an order for metallic mercury."

"But, certainly, as this is a large place where you deal in all kinds of chemicals, you must have it on your premises?"

"No; we never had any; there is no demand for it."

Of course I knew that they did have metallic mercury on the premises, so I thought I would get at it in another way. I asked the man if he had any bicarbonate of soda.

"Yes, we have tons of it."

"Have you any bicarbonate of potash?"

"Yes, we have tons of that also."

"I take it that bicarbonate of potash is a bicarbonate of something, is it not?"

"Certainly, it is a bicarbonate of potash."

"Have you got any bichloride of mercury on the premises?"

"Yes, any amount of it; that's corrosive sublimate."

"I take it that bichloride of mercury is a bichloride of something, is it not?"

The man hesitated; he saw he was caught. But I insisted. I wanted to know what bichloride of mercury was made of. At this point a gentleman came out of the office and said, "Why all this loud talk?" Then, turning with contempt to the salesman, he said, "You fool, it is quicksilver that the gentleman wants."

I had never thought of calling it by the old-fashioned name, and it had never occurred to the salesman that bichloride of mercury had any relation to metallic mercury.

Some years later I went into the stationery department of one of London's largest stores and asked for a bottle of strong mucilage. The young attendant, after asking me to repeat my order, said that they didn't keep it in stock, as they had never had any demand for it.

"But," I said, "you advertise it."

He didn't know about that, so I said, "Well, it is very curious if you advertise 'strong mucilage' and do not have it for sale."

Seeing a shopwalker approaching, I asked him if I was in the stationery department. He assured me that I was. I said, "You advertise strong mucilage, and the attendant here tells me that you do not keep it." He replied, "We make a particularly strong kind for the use of draughtsmen, and have plenty of it on hand."

He then pointed to a row of bottles, every one of which had large red letters on the labels—MUCILAGE. The attendant admitted that he had been selling this material under the name of gum-water for two years, and had never noticed the big red letters on the label.

The average 30s. week man takes not the least interest in anything that is going on at his place of employment except the movement of the hands of the clock.

It has been claimed by many of your correspondents that this is on account of laziness, but my experience seems to show that mental laziness is much more apparent than physical laziness—they do not like to think. The condition of their mind in relation to their work may be summed up in one word—apathy.

A few weeks ago N. Morosoff, a Russian author and scientist, was put on his trial for a little volume of poems published in 1906, and was condemned to imprisonment in a fortress for one year. Morosoff is 58 years old, and has already passed twenty-eight years in solitary confinement under different charges of spreading socialist ideas.

To Every One Interested In Home Beautifying

An Important Statement

The Shriner & Allen Company, 347 South Hill Street, exclusive home decorators and furnishers, announce an extraordinary clearance of all their stock, preparatory to the early expiration of their lease. To those who seek to beautify their homes with exclusive lighting fixtures, distinctive draperies, upholsteries and furniture pieces—this is the most extraordinary opportunity ever presented in Los Angeles. No sham—no exaggeration—this house stands for integrity in statement as well as in merchandise.

THIS $15 CHANDELIER
$10.50
A beautiful imposing chandelier, with brass chain hangers — socket covers and Sheffield ornaments and glass. Splendid $15.00 value, now reduced to $10.50 — typical of the reductions throughout the stock.

THIS $29.50 FIXTURE
$19.25
Beautiful five-light etched fixture — of very new design — with artistic iridescent glass shades. This is an exceptionally fine fixture at the regular price of $29.50—and now at $19.25 is a very rare offering—also typical of the reductions throughout the store.

Though this house has for years been identified with the decorating and furnishing of Southern California's finest homes—yet much of our merchandise is of moderate price—and with the present extreme reductions—the prices are materially lower than even the much-heralded sale prices of the commonplace.

$16,000 Stock Lighting Fixtures at Cost

We're going to absolutely close out at cost our entire fixture stock—and quit the lighting fixture business. Our fixture stock is enormous—running over $16,000, affording almost unlimited selection, from the least expensive to the most elaborate—and absolutely every fixture has been marked down to actual cost.

Unusual Furniture Pieces Distinctive Draperies & Upholsteries 33⅓% Off

Apart from the lighting fixtures—everything in our entire stock will be offered at 33⅓ per cent. off regular prices.

Rarely, if ever before, have such extreme reductions been made on furniture, draperies, upholsteries and rugs of such high character. It is an opportunity for you to buy the exclusive for less than the price of the ordinary.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Michael Angelo.

Ah, to build, to build!
That is the noblest art of all the arts.
Painting and sculpture are but images,
Are merely shadows cast by outward things
On stone or canvas, having in themselves
No separate existence. Architecture.
Existing in itself, and not in seeming
Is something it is not, surpasses them
As substance shadow.
—[H. W. Longfellow.

Shore Marines.

An exhibition of nineteen water colors by Conway Griffith opened last Monday in the Steckel galleries, No. 336 South Broadway, to continue till the end of the present week. All but two of them are what I call, for want of a better term, "shore marines." That is to say, they are pictures of sea and shore, not phases of the sea alone.

The shore which Mr. Griffith has painted is that of the vari-colored cliffs along Laguna Beach and Arch Beach—the very shore so beloved of the late Norman St. Clair—and the sea is the changeable waters of that picturesque locality. Many other well-known California painters have felt the fascination of Laguna. Gardner Symons has his permanent studio there, and the summers have called Elmer Wachtel, Hanson Puthuff, Frances Gearhart, William Lees Judson, John Nicoll, Benjamin Chambers Brown.

Conway Griffith, however, is the only painter who lives there in summer and winter, in spring and fall. For him Laguna's enchantments are irresistible. He cannot get away if he would. And he has never intimated that he wanted to. He has been there for four years, living and painting in a studio rough but adequate, and coming to Los Angeles or Riverside only semi-occasionally.

Since all his pictures are painted out of doors, from start to finish, and since he is a close and conscientious student of nature, the artist may be said to know the Laguna shore very intimately. He knows its innumerable and ever-changing aspects so well, indeed, that there is no monotony in the present exhibition of nineteen pictures.

All the studies of land and wave are pleasantly intimate. While they show a careful regard for the facts of nature, they are also true to the artist's vision. They are painted with directness and simplicity, with a full brush on paper kept very wet, and have the touches of opaque white.

As you enter the gallery at Steckel's you come face to face with "A Cloudy Summer Morning," which is perhaps the strongest picture in the collection. There is a long expanse of blue sea, with a rocky shore to the left. In the distance are low-lying hills. The sky is cloudy, with a hint of pale golden light behind the clouds. A fine vigor of conception and handling characterizes the entire picture.

Near it, to the right, hangs a wonderful effect entitled "Into the Mist." The grays throughout the picture are exquisite, the rocky shore is heavy and solid, the creeping mist is rendered with much subtlety.

That Conway Griffith is a consummate painter of skies is made evident by the sky in "A Golden Cliff and a Sapphire Sea," another important picture, in "Early Morning at Aliso," in "Overton's Point," and so on.

The sky in "A Golden Cliff and a Sapphire Sea," is delicately pink toward the horizon. The foreground is the usual rocks, though these are flat and the waves surge over them. In "Coward's Cove" we see mighty cliffs on each side the entrance to the cove, while beyond stretches the restless sea.

"Almost Upon the Western Sea Rested the Bright Sun" is a seascape pure and simple. There are no evidences of land in sight, though the breaking surf suggests it. The sky is painted in cool gray tones, against which appears a fan-shaped light from horizon to zenith—the well-known, but not absolutely authenticated "sign of rain."

"Overton's Point" is vigorously painted. The sky holds fleecy clouds. An effect of much charm is found in "Early Morning at Aliso." The sky, of a very pale and evanescent blue, melts into lavender as it nears the horizon line. There are lavender shadows resting on the sand and cliffs.

An exhibition well worth while on the whole, is that of Conway Griffith's water colors. It will appeal to all lovers of nature.

Birge Harrison.

A few months ago an exhibition of the important pictures from the brush of Birge Harrison, the famous American landscape painter, created much interest, while held at the Kanst gallery, No. 642 South Spring street.

All who enjoyed that show will be glad to hear that another exhibition of Mr. Harrison's works will open tomorrow in the same gallery. On the first occasion "exhibition pictures" were shown, but this time there will be smaller pictures and many sketches, eighteen in all.

The new Kanst gallery is well lighted, and has a movable wall at one end, so that a one-man show of only a few pictures may be made, as intimate and cosy as possible. The pictures will not look lost and isolated on a distant wall. This arrangement will be found especially desirable for the display of small canvases.

Birge Harrison is a notable painter of snow scenes, a number of which (all exceedingly good) appear in the present exhibition. Among them is "The Cathedral Gate," the original study for the larger picture of the same name, which was shown last time. "Winter Dawn," in tones of lavender and rose, is also very beautiful. The long stretch of foreground fields is snow-covered, a yellow light appears in the sky.

That difficult model, the moon, also claims Mr. Harrison's attention a great deal. However, he generally paints the effects of the moon on the landscape, rather than the golden orb itself, though when he does essay the moon he doesn't turn it into a yellow wafer. In "The House on the Cliff," for instance, there is a moon riding high among fleecy clouds above the sea. The moon is also seen in "Moonrise in France," a landscape of greenish tones that is poetic in sentiment. "There are exquisite tonal qualities in "Moonlight on the River." Far-off banks show the red lights of the city, while the river reflects the moon in a wavering line of pallid gold. Exceedingly good, too, is "Quebec From the Harbor," with its foreground of ice floes, and its shipping in the middle distance. It is painted in light green tones that are very charming.

The sketches are all autumnal effects, many showing the red leafage of October maples. They are full of genuine feeling for nature, and are of course, painted in Birge Harrison's workmanlike manner.

Six of these notable pictures came direct to Kanst's from the Cincinnati Art Museum, where they have just been shown in a general exhibition.

ART NOTES.

The California Art Club will hold an exhibition of sketches at the Blanchard gallery from March 21, to March 30. Works suitably framed must be delivered to the gallery on Tuesday, March 20, only. The following are the jury: William Wendt, Benjamin Chambers Brown, Franz Bischoff, Hanson Puthuff, Aaron Kilpatrick, Jack Smith and Charles Percy Austin.

In the Dawson Bookshop, opposite Central Square, there will be an exhibition of prints from the drawings of Hogarth this week. Almost complete sets of "The Rake's Progress," "The Idle Apprentice," and "The Industrious Apprentice," will be shown. The cartoons of Raphael and the etchings of Henry Chapman Ford, which were exhibited last week, will remain on view one week longer.

At the Kanst gallery, besides the exhibition of pictures by Birge Harrison, there will also be held a showing of craft jewelry by N. Aktarian, a craftsman of notable achievement and originality. Some interesting and beautiful designs will be shown.

A dozen new landscapes by Elmer Wachtel and Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel have been added to the collection of paintings by these excellent artists at the Daniell gallery, No. 218 South Broadway. Both painters will soon exhibit in the Arlington Hotel, Santa Barbara, and in the St. Francis, San Francisco.

Prints and etchings will be exhibited in the Royar gallery, No. 744 South Hill street, during the coming week, beginning tomorrow. Beautiful examples of two arts will be shown.

The exhibition of eight pictures held in the Grace Nicholson gallery, Pasadena, has met with so much success that, instead of closing on March 1, as before contemplated, it will be held over till the end of the month.

Twenty pictures by Charles Rollo Peters were exhibited in Hotel St. Francis, San Francisco, from February 22 to March 6. Scenes from England, Maine and California, were shown.

Heinrich Schneider, the well-known sculptor, was in Los Angeles last week for a brief visit. He is now located in San Francisco, where he is meeting with gratifying success.

The pictures of Edgar Keller will be exhibited for one more week in the Maryland Hotel, Pasadena.

Gillette, "the razor king," has bought a number of Jean Mannheim's pictures for his beautiful new home in Santa Monica. The artist has also begun a portrait of the famous razor man.

The eighty-seventh annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design opened in New York on March 9. It will close April 14.

ATMOSPHERE IN PAGEANT-PLAY.

KABIERSKE, GERMAN SCENE-MAKER, HARD AT WORK.

Three Interesting Settings, and Their Details, in the New McGroarty Allegory of History, About to Be Produced in Special Theater at San Gabriel.

Henry Khabierske, eminent German scenic artist who is designing the extensive production for the Mission Play, plans to make the San Gabriel spectacle a genuine historical pageant of the Mission Days.

The three scenes—the Bay of San Diego, the mission of Carmel and the ruined cloister of Capistrano, typify the inception of the mission idea, its full fruition, and its decline and passing into the broader and more practical civilization of the frontier pioneer.

Mr. Kabierske studied each location very extensively, and the result allegedly is great historical exactness.

The opening picture is the shore of "False Bay," San Diego, in the year 1769. Point Loma, hazy and lazy in the bright dimness of distance, is seen shouldering resolutely out to sea, enclosing the waters of the beautiful harbor. On the shore, near at hand, there are some rude tule huts, erected as the habitations of the padres, soldiers, Indian neophytes and muleteers from Mexico who form that part of the expedition that came to Christianize and settled California. On the left is the old Presidio Hill. An antique Spanish sailing ship—half galleon, half caravel—is seen anchored in the harbor.

There was no mission dearer to the heart of the great padre of padres, Junipero Serra, than Carmel. It was his pride, the heart of his ambition. Here he spent the finest of his declining years, here he died, and here his bones rest today. The second act of the play depicts the great patio or court of the mission, shown at the left, while the beautiful old church of Carmel is shown at the right. Left and back show the court enclosed with typical mission arches. At the right, against the walls of the church, has been placed a long, rough table, or bench—an open-air refectory. A great mission cross is erected—as at Santa Barbara. A huge pepper tree showers down its painted spray. Back of the arches, to the left, the adobe houses of the Indians of the mission are shown. Beyond all rises, majestically, the bay of Carmel, and the sea. At rise the stage is quite dark. It is just before daybreak, and presently, amid the twittering of birds, the sky reddens and the dawn arrives, and in its full light the morning hymn is sung by the padres and the Indians of the mission.

The scene of the third and last act is San Juan Capistrano in the year 1847, and, for that matter, much as it appears today. The stage setting shows the southern exposure of the mission. The old corridors and arches are littered with hay and straw and agricultural implements, showing that the magnificent old ruin is being used as a stable by its new owners.

A series of models, made to scale with the every detail, have been constructed by Herr Kabierske.

They show not only the general outlines, but even the most intimate minutiae of these pictures. Thus, in the Capistrano scene, there is a pepper tree—scarcely four inches high in the model—which, at a distance of four feet, seems a perfect specimen of its family, with every leaf and limb in proportion and color.

Herr Haberske has devised a remarkable system of lighting, or rather, he has brought it from the Munich theater in which he first originated it. It is designed as a duplication of sunlight, and gives genuine outdoor effect. Almost needless to say, it involves extensive changes in the system of lighting in vogue at present, and very much of the genuine daylight effect falls from above—as genuine daylight should.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

this city will be speedily overcome is now an assured fact.

Heinrich von Stein, the energetic head of the Von Stein Academy of Music, ever ready and willing to further the musical interests of Los Angeles, has been working quietly toward the organization of a volunteer orchestra for some time, the personnel of which, while mostly amateurish, also includes in its membership a number of professionals. Mr. Von Stein, whose musicianship is recognized, is the director. That the organization this indefatigable leader is drilling will become a permanent factor in the aesthetical advancement of Los Angeles is unquestioned. The enthusiasm shown by those already enrolled in the orchestra is ample evidence of its permanency.

The object in the formation of this amateur organization is to give those who play on the different orchestral instruments an opportunity to acquire the necessary orchestral routine and a thorough knowledge of the larger orchestral works of the masters. With a volunteer choral society of some 300 voices already well organized under the leadership of a competent director, scheduled to make its debut at the coming Land and Products Exposition, the co-operation of a large amateur orchestra, if such were now organized, would tend to add greatly to the success of such festival times when the services of large musical bodies are needed. Two such organizations would be of inestimable value and would tend greatly to assist in the creation of an enviable name for Los Angeles as a convention city with unique musical attractions.

In discussing the need of an amateur orchestra in this city, Mr. Von Stein said: "I have often wondered what became of the many instrumentalists who study with the different teachers. Surely all do not become professional musicians, nor do we hear of many as soloists. Many, for lack of opportunity for the display of their talents in public, even though they be excellent players on string instruments or the brasses, become disinterested in their instruments, and, in time abandon them altogether. In the organization of this orchestral society this lack of opportunity will be overcome. Our orchestra will be of ample size for all uses and will be selected with care. While its members will be mostly non-professionals, it is my object to provide musicians of recognized ability to lead the different instruments, concert-masters as it were. Routine is necessary in orchestral playing, and in an organization such as I am now rapidly perfecting, no better opportunity could be given music students to further their skill. While it is desirable to have advanced players of all instruments, I wish to have it understood the players will be divided into two departments, one for the more advanced players and one for those needing fundamental routine in orchestral work. I also wish to state that this organization is not for money-making; its object is to educate and entertain. I also wish to state that it is not confined to students of the Von Stein Academy. We are still in need of players on the different orchestral instruments especially the these are urged to join this orchestra, deeper-toned ones, and players of We meet for rehearsal at 5 o'clock every Monday afternoon at No. 955 South Hill street, where application for membership can be made at any time.

FOLKSONGS.

Folksongs are always portrayals of peculiar characteristics of a nation and many collections of them are on record. A new collection entitled "One Hndred Folksongs of All Nations," edited by Granville Bantock, for the medium voice, has just been issued by the Oliver Ditson Company of Boston. The songs of nearly every nation known to have any music at all are included. As an example, the American Indian has been featured with a war song of the Pawnee tribe, the "Ka de la Wats." Japan has its song of "Sakura," or in English, its melody of cherry-blossoms. China is represented with a song of jasmine flowers, its title being "Moo-leehwa."

The land of folksongs, Germany, has the largest number of contributions in the book, practically a dozen of the well known melodies of this land being included. Two of the best known are "Die Loreley," and "O du Lieber Augustine." England contributes a goodly number, having as its most popular air, "Sally in Our Ally. "Annie Laurie" has not been overlooked and is classed among the delightful Scotch airs. Thomas Moore, the song poet of Ireland, who has contributed nearly all of the words to the Irish folksongs, is represented in "The Last Rose of Summer" and two other ballads.

The wandering troubadours of the middle ages had their particular style of composition and they, with the "Minnesinger" of Germany, and the minstrels of England, are given particular attention. "Sing to Me, Sweet Musetta," one of the well known old French songs, leads the group gathered from that country. Spain, Tripoli, Algiers, Turkey, Iceland, Lithuania, Bulgaria, Syria, Servia, Tunis and other lands are represented in the collection. The volume in cloth sells for $2.50 and in paper at $1.50.

A delight to the lover of songs that are different, of opera numbers that are musical exaltations seldomly heard, will be found in the most recent volume issued by the Oliver Ditson Company of Boston for baritone and bass range. H. E. Krehbiel, an acknowledged leader of criticism in the music world, edited the collection, and brought together many unusual solo numbers. An example of the difference from ordinary collections is to be found in a selection from Tschaikowsky's opera, "Eugen Onegin." The only time an opera of this famous composer was ever presented in this country was in 1908, when Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony produced the music of "Eugen Onegin," having for its greatest feature in male voice numbers "Had Fickle Fortune Not Betraying."

There are some of the fairly well-known classics included, among them the "Credo," from Verdi's "Otello;" "Guide Thou My Steps," from the opera "Les Deux Journees," of Cherubini; "Hope With Her Ray Serene," taken from the opera "Agrippina," written as far back as 1709 by Handel. The "Stabat Mater" of Pergolesi, written in 1731, is also one of the ancient gems of classical composition found in the work. Among the composers represented are Spohr, Boieldieu, Cimerosa, Bellini, Massenet, Moito, Marchner and others who are better known and more popular at this time. The volume sells for $1.50, paper binding, and $2.50, cloth binding, and has just arrived in local song shops.

CHAIN OF STOCKS.

Several New Companies to Be Established at Once in Inland Points by Shipman Corporation.

The Shipman stock companies, which are to be managed from Los Angeles, and which are to play at various points through the Southwest, are getting under way in rapid order.

The Wiswell-Shipman incorporation announces the opening of the new Grand theater in San Diego on Sunday next, with a stock company headed by Virginia Brissac, lately seen at the Burbank theater. Other members of this company who are quite well known among Pacific Coast theatrical folk are True Boardman, Joseph Dillon and W. Clifford Ray. This opening will take place March 10.

On April 1 another Wiswell-Shipman stock company will open in the Empress theater of Phoenix, Arizona. This is the best house in the city, and is next to the Adams Hotel. The head of this company will be Nana Bryant, although Miss Bryant will not be in the opening bill.

The "Farthest East," for the present, of this company, will be struck by still another company opening on April 1 in the leading theater of El Paso, Tex.

On March 25 one of the Shipman traveling companies, the first of the proposed "World's Fair" chain, will open at Bisbee, and play generally through the Southwest territory. This organization will have a repertoire including "Arizona," "The Charity Ball," and other pieces.

All of these Shipman companies will, according to the promise of the management, will be composed of first-class people, ably directed, with complete productions, and presenting only the best in the way of plays. This, the first three weeks' bills of the new San Diego company will be, consecutively, "The Barrier," "Brewster's Millions," and "The Great Divide." The company in Long Beach, the first of this series, has been enjoying a very prosperous week with "The Squaw Man."

About April 1 excavation will be commenced for a handsome new theater for this firm in San Diego, just back of the present Grand site.

MEMBERS OF POLISH SECT STRANGE VISIONS.

Their Leader Is Crucified an Rises Again, Thereby Reclaimin All the Wicked Men of the City Lodz—Attempt to Enact The Dreams in Real Life.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LODZ (Poland) Feb. 14.—Bish Kowalski, leader of the Maryawity sect with a large following here, is hiding following an attempt of h own people to crucify him. Fortunately the police came on the scen just in time to save his life.

Some weeks ago the bishop notice that his flock had dropped into a wa of seeing visions, in which he, two his priests, and Mother Kozlowska supreme head, played chief part. Th fanatics saw these four people unde all sorts of conditions, but lately they appeared to be crucified, with halo round their heads, and then to ris again. Bishop Kowalski argued with them, but in vain. Mother Kozlowska lives miles away, in the city of Plock, so the visionaries could not visit her. But they waylaid Bishop Kowalski to say he always came to their visions. was crucified, and rose again, whereby all the wicked men in the city were reclaimed, and the fame of the sect was spread throughout the world. He tried to persuade them that their dreams, the result of much fasting, were but a symbol, and for some time managed to quiet them.

Last week, however, a large crowd collected in the church where the bishop generally preaches, and declared that the vision of his crucifixion had again come to them, and so clearly that there was no mistaking its meaning. The bishop must die to save the wicked men of Lodz and promote the glory of their sect. He was sure to rise again, they told him, since the vision always said so. The bishop shut himself up in his house. They broke down the doors, and, in spite of his remonstrances, carried him off to a large open space behind the church. To his horror, he saw that a cross had been prepared. Two of his priests tried to show them their error; but in vain. The fanatics said they would crucify them, too. They seized the unhappy bishop, bound him, and after prayers and exhortations, laid him on the cross. They were in the act of nailing his hands to it when the police, warned by the two priests who managed to escape during the prayers, fell into the yard. A terrible fight followed, as many of the fanatics were armed. But the police got the upper hand at last, and with the help of the military, arrested the whole crowd. Eight of the twelve ringleaders were women, who declare they will crucify the bishop yet. Their victim was released from the cross in a state of complete collapse. The priests begged the police to take him to prison for the night, as they feared he would be kidnapped again. After a day in the cells he sufficiently recovered to leave the city, disguised as a hawker. His refuge is a dead secret. As he says he cannot trust his flock.

Ten years ago all the Maryawity were members of the Church of Rome. Then "Brother" Kozlowska, who started life as a seamstress, attracted certain priests and their flocks by means of visions, in which she declared God had told her to gather men and women to fight the anti-Christ, who had taken possession of the world. Each time she and her followers wanted guidance, she went into a hypnotic trance, in which she had directions for future conduct. The Pope excommunicated them, and Kowalski, who was a Roman priest, was one of the first bishops.

MODEL GERMAN TOWN.

Co-operation and Cultivation of the Sense of Rhythm Removes All Friction and Human Strife.

[New York Sun:] There is a town with a population of 3000 in Saxony, Germany, the inhabitants of which believe that they have found a way of solving all the problems of modern life, from art to politics. This they do through co-operation and a cultivation of the sense of rhythm. It is because people do not walk and work and act and live rythmically, because they do everything out of time and out of tune, that there is so much friction and strife in the world, they maintain. Moreover, if people lived more for one another and less for themselves alone, there would be no labor wars, no exploitation of the many by the few. Whatever people may think of these notions, there is one man who is carrying them out and a few thousand people in Germany are helping him. The man is Karl Schmidt, manager and part owner of one of the biggest handicraft factories in Germany, and the chief organizer of Hellerau, the model city of Germany.

With a capitalization of 300,000 marks, he founded a Garden City Association, which should parcel off the land to a co-operative building association which should undertake the erection and maintenance of the workman's houses. The Land Insurance Company of Saxony was induced to take the first mortgage at 3½ per cent. interest, and a great many people in and about Dresden were found eager to take shares.

The Co-operative Building Association has some 419 members, who, to-gether own 454 shares at 200 marks each. They have built some 149 little houses, which are rented at an average of 340 marks, which is calculated to equal 5½ per cent. of the cost of land improvement and building.

The bishop must die to save the wicked men of Lodz and promote the glory of their sect. He was sure to rise again, they told him, since the vision always said so. The bishop shut himself up in his house. They broke down the doors, and, in spite of his remonstrances, carried him off to a large open space behind the church. To his horror, he saw that a cross had been prepared. Two of his priests tried to show them their error; but in vain. The fanatics said they would crucify them, too. They seized the unhappy bishop, bound him, and after prayers and exhortations, laid him on the cross. They were in the act of nailing his hands to it when the police, warned by the two priests who managed to escape during the prayers, fell into the yard. A terrible fight followed, as many of the fanatics were armed. But the police got the upper hand at last, and with the help of the military, arrested the whole crowd. Eight of the twelve ringleaders were women, who declare they will crucify the bishop yet. Their victim was rescued from the cross in a state of complete collapse. The priests begged the police to take him to prison for the night, as they feared he would be kidnapped again. After a day in the cells he sufficiently recovered to leave the city, disguised as a peasant. His refuge is a dead secret, as he says he cannot trust his flock.

Ten years ago all the Maryawity were members of the Church of Rome. Then "Mother" Kozlowska, who started life as a seamstress, attracted certain priests and their flocks by means of visions, in which she declared God had told her to gather men and women to fight the anti-Christ, who had taken possession of the world. Each day she and her followers wanted visions, she went into a hypnotic trance, in which she had directions for their conduct. The Pope excommunicated them, and Kowalski, who was a Roman priest, was one of the first converts.

MODEL GERMAN TOWN.

Co-operation and Cultivation of the Sense of Rhythm Removes All Friction and Human Strife.

[New York Sun:] There is a town with a population of 3000 in Saxony, Germany, the inhabitants of which believe that they have found a way of solving all the problems of modern civilization, from art to politics. This is to do through co-operation and a cultivation of the sense of rhythm. "It is because people do not walk and work and act and live rythmically, that they do everything out of time and out of tune, that there is so much friction and strife in the world," they maintain. Moreover, if people lived more for one another and less for themselves alone, there would be no labor wars, no exploitation of the many by the few.

However people may think of these ideas there is one man who is carrying them out and a few thousand people in Germany are helping him. The man is Karl Schmidt, manager and owner of one of the biggest furniture factories in Germany, and the chief organizer of Hellerau, the garden city of Germany.

The capitalization of 200,000 marks is founded a Garden City Association, which should parcel off the land to a co-operative building association, which should undertake the erection and maintenance of the workers' houses. The Land Insurance Company of Saxony was induced to take the first mortgage at 3½ per cent, and a great many people in and about Dresden were found to take shares.

The Co-operative Building Association has some 419 members, who, together, own 454 shares at 200 marks each. They have built some 149 little houses, which are rented at an annual rent of 240 marks, which is calculated to yield 3½ per cent. of the capital invested in improvement and building.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

"CALIFORNIA History and Landmarks Day," will surely go down in the annals of the Averill Club, wreathed with sunshine. To be sure, the rain was falling in torrents outside, but within all was bright with the glow of golden California poppies and yellow jonquils. The affair, which came off last Tuesday, was noteworthy in more ways than one. Beside marking the historical date, it was the nature of a housewarming for the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dodge, whose handsome new home at Cimarron and Eighteenth streets was thrown open to guests for the first time since its completion. It was likewise a birthday celebration for the father of the hostess, Louis Roeder, the well-known California pioneer, who has rounded out four score years and has been a resident of this State for more than half a century. The luncheon was likewise a compliment to Mrs. Dodge's house guest, Mrs. D. F. Leary of San Francisco.

More than fifty members and friends of the club gathered around the handsomely laid tables in the dining and breakfast rooms. Yellow, the California color, was the dominant note in all the decorations. Great bowls of jonquils, and trailing asparagus ferns wound with yellow ribbons, placards bright with golden poppies, and even the orange ices carried out the idea admirably. At the head of the first table, next the president, Mrs. B. F. Nance, sat the beloved founder of the club, Mrs. Anna S. Averill, and at the conclusion of the bountiful banquet, she addressed the members in a delightful little speech. Referring facetiously to the famous Osler theory of making away with old people, this pioneer educator and veteran club woman sturdily refuted it and pointed out the way of growing old gracefully and nobly. "Fill the time between youth and age with good deeds, kindness and love," she urged, "and leave a trail of light behind you. Make the best of yourself, and remember that we, who are old, have a great comfort and consolation to draw upon in the knowledge and experience that have come to us through the years we have left behind."

Immediately following Mrs. Averill's address was that of Mr. Roeder, who occupied a seat of honor at the head of the next table. For years, in fact until very recently, he has been secretary of the local Pioneer's Society, and his story of early days in the '50's in California was of fascinating interest. He left his home in Germany when a young man of nineteen and landed in New York in time to celebrate the Fourth of July, 1851. Six years later he came to San Francisco in spite of the fact that he was advised not to. "California used to be a great place, but the bottom's fallen out; it's no place for a poor man," was the encouragement he received from well-meaning friends. Nevertheless, he took passage and landed in San Francisco with less than $100 in his pocket. A few years later he came south, landing at San Pedro and paying a fare of $5 for riding to Los Angeles on a buckboard.

Before leaving the tables, the president, in behalf of the club, presented Mrs. Dodge with a beautiful guest book containing the autographs of the company, as a souvenir of the occasion. The feature of the informal programme which followed the luncheon was the very excellent address by Miss Anna Dempsey on "California Landmarks," which she has given before several clubs since she first delivered it at the State Federation of Women's Clubs in Ventura.

Mrs. Dodge, who is a Native Daughter, gave a very interesting account of pioneer days in Los Angeles, covering the period from the adobe age to the present days of steel and cement skyscrapers. Mrs. Foster read a paper on Yosemite, and several delightful piano duets and trios were rendered by Mmes. Ed Averill, Barton and Carpenter.

The next meeting of the Averill Club will be on Tuesday afternoon in one of the parlors of the First Congregational Church.

Come to Kansas.

Kansas must have been the particular spot that the late Max O'Rell meant when he declared that if he could be born again and choose his sex and surroundings he would shout with all his soul: "Oh, make me an American woman."

In Kansas, when a woman marries she can take her choice of retaining her maiden name or assuming that of her husband. She may persuade him to take her name, or she may be known as "Mrs. White," providing that was her maiden name and her husband can retain his name of "Mr. Brown." It would seem, however, a little embarrassing for the children in this case, who would probably have to start life with a hyphenated name, as for instance, "Mollie White-Brown," or "Jack Brown-White."

A woman in Kansas can hold property that her husband cannot touch; she can wear men's trousers if she wants to, only she must not masquerade as a man. But just let a man appear in public in a woman's dress in Kansas and he'd be snatched up by the police jolly quick. London suffragettes better migrate to Kansas.

Chinese Woman Delegate.

Dr. Li Bi Cu, a Chinese woman physician, has been elected by the Foochow conference as a lay delegate to the Methodist general conference, which convenes in Minneapolis in May.

A few years ago this clever little scholar and surgeon was a guest in Los Angeles for several days previous to sailing for China to take up her life work among her countrywomen. She was in company with three charming American girls, also bound for China as missionaries, and at that time The Times gave an extended account of the quartette of interesting young women, who appeared at a missionary meeting held in the First Methodist Church.

I heard Dr. Li Bi Cu at that time and prophesied that she would go to the top in her profession—a prophecy which has happily been fulfilled. The daughter of Christian parents, her mother a teacher in the Bible Woman's Training School, and her father a district superintendent in the Methodist Church at Hinghua, China, this young Chinese woman was sent to America at the age of 17 years to be educated. She was unable to speak a word of English at that time and entered the primary department of a public school, passed successively through the grades, from there to Polytechnic Institute, and, finally, after a four years' course, graduated with honors from the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania. Under special appointment of the young women's society of the Methodist Genesee Conference she was sent to China, where she has since combined the healing of the body with that of the soul among the women of China.

Dr. Li Bi Cu will receive a warm welcome in this country when she comes next month, and doubtless she will pay a visit to Los Angeles before her return.

George Junior Day.

It was George Junior Day at the meeting of the Eschscholtzia Chapter, D.A.R., last Tuesday, and a feature of the programme was the very interesting address by Mrs. Mary A. Hilbish, who is the house-mother of the John Brewer cottage at the republic. Judge Curtis D. Wilbur was another speaker, and several guests were present and gave short talks. Among them were: Mrs. Barclay of Iowa, Mrs. Henry S. Beck of Indiana, Mrs. Thomas Lathan of Memphis, Mrs. Graves (regent of Chicago Chapter,) Mrs. Dunlop (State President of the Daughters of the Confederacy,) Mrs. Matthew Robertson and Mrs. Harry Wright of Hollywood.

The programme was in charge of Mrs. S. A. Rendall, and several songs were delightfully sung by Mrs. Beatrice Huesman, whose mother, Mrs. Harriet W. Sells, is a member of the organization. Mrs. Charles E. Lewis recited Longfellow's "King Robert of Sicily," and Mrs. E. T. Sherer acted as hostess.

Ruskin's Rainy-Day Rally.

The Ruskin Art Club held an informal rainy-day session on Wednesday, the leaders, Mrs. Robert Young and Mrs. A. G. Schloesser, being absent. Miss Victoria Witmer gave an account of David Teniers, the younger — greatest of Flemish genre painters — whose pictures of village fetes and rustic sports won him wealth and the friendship of princes, as well as lasting fame.

Mrs. G. L. Hutchinson spoke of the Jesuit flower painter, Daniel Zegers, whose delicate-hued blossoms found their way into many of the pictures painted by his fellow-artists. Mrs. F. L. Kennedy described the work of Gustave Wappers, prominent in his own day as a painter of historical scenes; also of Ary Scheffer, whose fame is due rather to his sentiment than to his technique. Miss Jessie Washburn spoke of Louis Gallait, the brilliant, masterly painter of historical and biblical subjects; of Hendrik Leys, whose pictures are valued chiefly for their intellectual qualities, and of Leys's great pupil, the popular Alma Tadema. Miss Washburn gave her personal impressions of many of the pictures under discussion and told some amusing anecdotes of her recent sketching tour through Holland and Italy.

A Boston Tea Party.

Eschscholtzia Chapter, D.A.R., is planning a Boston tea party to be given at the Woman's Clubhouse on the evening of March 18 in honor of William R. George, founder of the George Junior Republic, who will arrive in Los Angeles on that day, will be the guest of honor at the Woman's City Club at noon, visit the State Normal School in the afternoon and attend the reception given by the daughters in the evening.

The George Junior Republic of this State is growing steadily under the management and material assistance of Mrs. E. M. Fowler and her daughter, Miss Katherine Fowler of Pasadena, who are untiring in their efforts to help boys who have made a wrong start in life. Mr. George comes to the Coast at this time to lend a hand, and this reception tendered by the Daughters of the Revolution expresses the cordial welcome extended to him by the women of Southern California. The hostesses on this occasion will be: Mmes. W. W. Stilson, State Regent; Enoch Pepper, Chapter Regent; Harriet Purdon, Mary H. Banning, Stephen A. Rendall, Asa W. Steadman, John Garner, E. T. Sherer, Mary H. Gridley, Arthur F. Levitt, Matthew Robertson, J. T. Fitzgerald, O. C. Bryant, O. P. Clark, A. S. Loblingier, D. C. McCann, W. I. Hollingsworth, E. L. Babcock, C. Q. Stanton, G. C. Dennis, Frank M. Raiff, H. G. Dillon, Judson Davis, Harry T. Wright, F. A. Eastman, E. H. Barmore, F. C. Howes, Mary A. Preuss, Erasmus Wilson, H. P. Barton and Misses Pease and Pepper.

A fine programme will be given, including the minuet dance by prominent clubwomen.

Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mrs. W. F. Gilbert of No. 1333 South Alvarado street entertained the John H. Reagan Chapter, U.D.C., last Wednesday in her beautiful home. There was a large gathering of southern women, with Gen. William C. Harrison, Camp 770, U.C.V., as guest of honor. Mrs. Gertrude Waite presided and arrangements were completed for the evening, "The Old South," to be given April 11 in the Y.W.C.A. Auditorium. Mrs. Fannie P. McGhee will be the reader, assisted by illustrative music.

The following delegates to the State convention in May at Sacramento were elected: Mmes. Ralph Ingersoll Grenville Lynn and B. A. Davis, Mmes. Eleanor James, A. Y. Freeman and Miss Frances James as alternates. After refreshments had been served Mrs. J. L. Slaughter gave several piano selections, Miss Virginia Messich and the little Misses Cheshire recited, and Masters Wilbur Gilbert and William Jansen sang a duet. The next meeting will be held April 3 with the president, Mrs. James Brown, at St. Mark's Hotel, Venice.

St. Patrick's Day Programme.

The Cosmos Club will celebrate St. Patrick's Day in true Irish fashion at the regular meeting next Wednesday at the Ebell Clubhouse. Every member is asked to show her admiration for her Celtic cousins by wearing their national color, so "the wearin' of the green" will be general. Mrs. C. W. Murray is chairman of the Programme Committee for this occasion and Mrs. Harriet Bristol will preside over the real Irish tea, assisted by a number of club women. There will be a profusion of green decorations to harmonize with the green gowns and ribbons of the women, and Irish folk songs will be sung by Mrs. E. R. Northmore, with Irish instrumental selections by Miss Ada Henrietta Street, Irish dialect recitations by Mrs. J. T. Seamans, original Irish songs and dances in costume and humorous readings by Mrs. Nanno Woods.

Woman's Playground Club.

The third annual banquet of the Slauson Playground will be given next Saturday evening under the direction of the Woman's Club of that section. J. E. McCarthy, director of the playground, will be the toastmaster and Mrs. Steinman, woman director, will act as hostess, assisted by Mmes. Alfred Small, W. Beede, C. C. Noble and A. A. Schaeffer.

Other women acting on various committees in connection with the function include Mmes. William Gould, B. A. Smith, James Jordan, Spencer Pruett, George Weigle, Joseph Ayres, W. W. Smith, Wursham, Norman, Marlin and Hamlin. A fine programme has been arranged by Mrs. Frank Shaw, president of the club, and Mrs. John Yates of Hollywood. The guests of honor will be Mayor Alexander, members of the City Council, James Slauson and his mother, Mrs. J. S. Slauson, for whose husband the playground was named; the Playground Commission, Mr. Perry, City Librarian, and assistants; Chief of Police Sebastian, Fire Chief Eley, the clergy and school principals of the vicinity, State and city officials of the Mother's Congress, Parent-Teachers' Federation and presidents of prominent clubs.

There will be talks on playground word and the Slauson Playground band and orchestra will furnish music under the leadership of Directors Andrew and Shaw.

Letters and Literature.

The Books and Conversation section of Ebell considered the letters of famous litterateurs at their meeting last Thursday under the leadership of Mrs. Thomas B. Stowell. The letters of George Eliot and of Caroline Fox were considered by Mrs. W. S. Bartlett and Mrs. James Warren Holder read a paper on the letters of Robert Louis Stevenson. The correspondence of Emerson and Carlyle was treated by Mrs. William L. Jones and Miss Mattie H. Wilson presented Wagner's letters. Other participants were Mmes. E. C. Bellows, Sidney J. Parsons and Florence Collins Porter. Luncheon was in charge of Mrs. Adolph K. Brauer.

This department aims to make conversation a feature and Mrs. Bartlett emphasized the difference between the letter writing and talk of the present as compared with the past.

Athletics for the Ladies.

Albert J. Treloar, physical director of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, gave a talk on physical training before the Hollywood Woman's Club last Wednesday afternoon. Treloar is an athlete of note and has been called a rival of Sandow in strength. In his address he modestly credited much of his success to his instructors, Dr. Sargent of Harvard, and Dr. Gulick of New York; but natural endowment, both physical and mental, were evidently the factors that won.

Mr. Treloar traced the history of physical training through the Greeks, Pestalozzi and Basedow, down to its present phase, and then showed the relation of athletic sports and exercises to health of body and soundness of mind. Mr. Mndonna, a professional athlete, illustrated the exercises with such ease that the ladies resolved to master them all, with the possible exception of the "flip-flap," at once.

After the programme, tea and cake were served. Mrs. C. W. Finley, Mrs. A. N. Flinn, Mrs. J. J. Gibson and Mrs. Jacob Stern were the hostesses of the afternoon.

Next Wednesday is book day, with Booth Tarkington, the author, "The Gentleman from Indiana" the book, and Miss Elizabeth Wilton Young the speaker.

Club Comments.

"A head filled with good, hard sense is hard to rattle," was one of the quotations offered at roll-call at the Averill Club the other day.

Miner Goodrich will address the Women's City Club tomorrow on the cause and effect of delay in municipal improvement in San Pedro harbor.

The California Cliff Dwellers Association will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. W. Goodau, No. 2631 Menlo avenue. Mrs. A. J. Treloar will speak on the Southern Channel Islands.

The Art Committee of the Friday Morning Club will hold a conference next Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Elizabeth E. Burton will discuss interior decoration and Mrs. George H. Wadleigh will talk about old prints, engravings and etchings.

Friday Morning Club women crowded the library after the programme last Friday to secure tickets for the Dickens guest programme of March 19. Each member is entitled to one ticket to give to a friend. Members themselves who saw the entertainment at its original presentation are not expected to be present, but to give way to guests on this occasion.

The California Badger Club met last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Lowell in Alhambra. Mrs. Charles Pease was the speaker and the topic was "Walt Whitman, the Poet."

The Echo Park Civic League met Friday afternoon at the clubhouse Mrs. Cora Lewis gave an address on civics.

Prince Sarath Ghosh will address the Ebell Club tomorrow and will also lecture at the Woman's Clubhouse on Tuesday and on Friday evening when he will speak of the palaces and temples of India and the wonders of that interesting country.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Miss Constance Leupp, daughter of the former commissioner of Indian affairs, is vice-president of the new Consumers' League of Washington, which has just started a movement in the District of Columbia to better the conditions of manufacture and sale and to secure better wages for workers, especially women and children.

Mrs. Adelaide Utter, the first woman in this country to hold a Federal Court clerkship, will soon retire from the government service because the office is to be abolished. Miss Utter received her appointment in 1892 and has held the office continuously ever since.

Miss Ellen F. Mason, president of the Civic League of Newport, R. I., has asked the City Council to appropriate $2000, as the first year's salary of a woman protection officer. This woman officer is to look after unemployed girls, to visit them in their homes and to go among them giving helpful suggestions.

Bellefontaine, Pa., claims the only woman architect in that State. She is Miss Anna Kelchline, who has just opened an office with the announcement that she is ready to plan anything from a barn to a twenty-four-story skyscraper.

Miss Mary Woods of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, cut the patterns for all the flags made there. She has been making flags for the government for more than thirty years. Besides Miss Woods there are twenty-nine women employed in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, making flags at the rate of 24,000 each year. A modern ship's outfit consists of about 430 flags.

An elderly woman entered the dress circle of the Kennington Theater, in London, last week, accompanied by two men. Presently other men came and grouped themselves around her. By the time the curtain rose the party numbered twenty-two. The woman was Mrs. Julia Curfield, of Lincolnshire, and the men were her twenty-one sons.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Daniel Nash Morgan, of Bridgeport, Ct., treasurer of the United States under President Cleveland, has given to the State of Connecticut the table on which President Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation. It had been previously used by Presidents Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan.

Mrs. Samuel Walters of Florin, Pa., for more than forty years has been carrying the mails between the post-office and the railroad station, and has never missed a train or a mail. She is one of the few women carriers along the Pennsylvania Railroad lines.

T. D. Collins of Tionesta, Pa., now in his eighty-first year, is reputed worth $2,000,000 and dresses usually like the toiler of the soil. He went to Forrest county fifty-eight years ago, and made his millions in the lumber business. He is now engaged in the reforestation of much of his immense tracts of lands and has planted many hundreds of trees.

Miss Helen Gould has had many honors thrust upon her and among them is a gold medal for services rendered to the fire department of New York. With this badge she may go within the fire lines whenever she wants to and will no doubt have the badge handy when she hears the fire engines at work.

B. J. Blommers, a celebrated Dutch artist, who has been commissioned to do a portrait of Andrew Carnegie for the Peace Palace at The Hague, has arrived at New York on the steamship Nieuw Amsterdam.

Edward M. Morgan, recently reappointed postmaster at New York City, has been connected with that office since 1873, when he was 17 years old. When he entered the office it did $2,000,000 of business and employed 500 men; now there are about 4000 employees and the yearly business is about $20,000,000.

William Temple Emmet, who has been appointed superintendent of insurance of New York State, is a great-grandson of Thomas Add's Emmet, who was a brother of Robert Emmet, the Irish Patriot.

EDUCATORS, SCIENTISTS.

Superintendent Maxwell of New York is strongly opposed to evening elementary schools. His contention is that the boy or girl who works during the day must have an unusually rugged physique to be able to derive any good out of night instruction.

William Dean Howells is to be honored by makers of literature at a dinner given by Col. George Harvey in celebration of his seventy-fifth birthday. Invitations have been issued to 300 well-known men and women in the literary circles of the United States, and it is said that the occasion will be a notable one.

Dr. Simon Flexner of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research and formerly of this city, has sailed for London and Edinburgh, where he will deliver lectures.

E. H. Wilson of the Arnold Arboretum, near Boston, has been notified by the Royal Horticultural Society of Great Britain that he has been awarded the Victoria Medal of Honor for distinguished services to horticulture. This is an honor which has never before been conferred on any one outside of the British Isles.

Prof. James H. Hyslop of Columbia University is seeking to raise an endowment fund of $50,000 for the Society of Psychical Research, and says that a friend of the cause has given $5000 in his will.

Prof. John Mason Tyler, a member of the faculty of Amhurst College, says the great danger of our social life "is the loss of our individuality. We lose our sharp corners and edges rubbing against our neighbors, but unfortunately, the stamp of originality and individuality received from our ancestors as a sacred birthright is worn away just as ruthlessly and completely."

IN CRINOLINE DAYS.

Empress Eugenie Tells Why She Promoted the Wearing of the Wide Spreading Costume.

[New Orleans States:] One of the intimates of Empress Eugenie, who has a villa here, writes a Nice correspondent, repeated a conversation she had with Her Majesty about the crinoline and the narrow dresses of today. Eugenie thinks the latter abominable, and deplores the fashion because it causes so many workmen and workwomen to go idle, yet she does not advocate the crinoline. Indeed, she thinks it's impossible in modern life.

"When I introduced the crinoline," she continued, "I was in love with the innovation, and I never ceased liking it while I was on the throne. There was a certain harmony between the voluminousness of this dress and the magnitude of the rooms occupied by the sovereign. The French palaces have immense rooms. The doors are immense, so was the furniture we used. If I had worn the skin-tight dresses of today while Empress, I would have looked insignificant in my own palace. Attired in the crinoline, with oceans of silks or lawn or lace or other drapery about me, I filled my place to my own, and I daresay, to others' satisfaction.

"When we were ten women dressed in crinolines, in a parlor of one of our palaces, we filled the greater part of it.

"I also found that it was easier for a woman in my position to walk and dance attired in a crinoline than without it. Closer fitting dresses and petticoats naturally encumber one's limbs, which weight and inconvenience is assumed by the crinoline. These excellencies notwithstanding the crinoline would never do in modern houses, or even in modern vehicles. I think it is dead forever, like other things of the past."

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, In Plain English; or, Medicine Simplified, 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations, newly revised up-to-date Edition, cloth-bound, sent for 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of wrapping and mailing only. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE DOCTOR'S ANSWERS ON HEALTH AND BEAUTY QUESTIONS.

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms of diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Building, College-Ellwood Streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Mason" writes: "For years I have been taking medicine to cure constipation, liver trouble and the usual diseases that come from that source. Headaches, sallow skin, kidney trouble, dark spots before my eyes, dizzy spells and twinges of rheumatism are getting worse."

Answer: Take three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur.) They are packed in sealed tubes with directions and are convenient, effective and highly curative for such ailments as arise from chronic constipation. If you are dyspeptic, also take tablets triopaptine.

"MRS. A. D."—Incontinence of urine can be cured by using the following: Tincture cubebs 1 dram; tincture rhois aromatic, 1 drams, and comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals.

"OMA W." writes: "I have suffered with catarrh of the head for many years. This has become so bad that it has affected my blood, also my stomach and bowels to a very great extent. I shall appreciate an immediate answer as I suffer greatly."

Answer: I would advise you to purchase a 2 oz. package of Vilane powder; take one-half teaspoonful of the powder and add to this a pint of warm water, snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils several times a day. Make a catarrh balm by mixing one teaspoonful of powder with one ounce of vaseline, or lard will do, and apply as far up the nostrils as possible. For the stomach, bowels and blood I would recommend the following tonic: Syrup sarsaparilla comp., 4 ozs., comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and 1 oz., of fluid ext. buchu. Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bed time.

"Gloria" writes: "I would like you to prescribe a good hair and scalp treatment. I am bothered with itching scalp and dandruff. My hair is faded and falling and none of the remedies I have tried have done any permanent good."

Answer: Go to your druggist and obtain a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow Minyol. Apply as per directions. This treatment differs from all others I have actually seen the astonishing transformations which result from its use. The dandruff and itching are cured with two or three applications, while it makes the hair glossy, wavy and full in intense natural color.

"Myrtis" writes: "Owing to my extreme thinness I am frequently embarrassed by slighting remarks of young people. Can you prescribe a safe remedy to increase my weight?"

Answer: I have so many gratifying reports from the users of three grain Hypo-Nuclene tablets that I have become to regard these valuable little tablets as a specific and prescribe them to all who are enemic, thin, wasting, nervous and debilitated. I recommend that you begin their use at once and continue regularly till your system is able to assimilate the fat elements of your food; the you will grow plump and have plenty of red blood and color in the complexion and bright sparkling eyes of health.

"Sick M. G." writes: "I have been advised for some months with rheumatism and have taken much medicine in vain. Please give prescription that will cure."

Answer: The most efficient prescription I have ever given for rheumatism is: Iodid of potassium 2 drams, sodium salicylate 2 drams; wine of colchicum seed, 1 dram, fld comp. essence cardiol, 1 dram, comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla comp. 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and at bed time.

"Farmwife" writes: "You once prescribed a home-made cough syrup for me. I tried it and found it the best cough and cold syrup that I ever heard of. It was so good in relieving the severest coughs and colds and a pint bottle made at home lasted so long that I have forgotten the formula. Kindly publish again."

Answer: The splendid laxative, home-made cough syrup is made by mixing 4 ozs. of fluid extract of cascara aromatic, 1 pint bottle of concentrated sweet mixture of horehound and tar, 1 pint bottle of simple syrup. Dose: A teaspoonful with a home-made sugar syrup. Directions on the bottle tell how to make and use it. It is a fine, cheap remedy.

"Johnson" writes: "I am bothered greatly with indigestion. Things I like to eat most always cause a heavy ill-at-ease feeling in my stomach, and my breath is bad, while my cartons. Take a pink tablet after dinner and one white tablet after dinner and the other after supper. Continue for a month. These agencies will soon restore natural digestion."

"Mrs. M. C." writes: "I am recovering from a long illness, but am very weak, nervous, sleepless and have little appetite. Can you give me a good tonic remedy to restore me?"

Answer: Have the following prescription filled and take a teaspoonful before meals: Syrup of hypophosphites comp., 1 oz.; fluid extract cadomelin comp. 1 oz. Shake well before using. Mix and shake well before using. This is a fine nerve tonic and system tonic for old or young.

"M. D. C." writes: "I have been afraid to try to reduce my weight, but I read you will publish a safe, harmless fat reducer, medicine I will begin at once as I am getting too stout for comfort."

Answer: Obtain separately in small quantities, 1 oz. of glycerine and 4 ozs. of fluid extract of cascara aromatic elixir, 2½ drams each. Mix and take a teaspoonful after each of three days take a teaspoonful after each meal; thereafter take two teaspoonfuls after each meal. Continue a sufficient time to properly reduce the weight.

Supt. Francis Visits Eastern Schools.

Superintendent Francis considers that one of the most interesting institutions which he visited while east was the Lane Technical High School, in Chicago, where carpenters' apprentices are trained for their trade. A certain number of months' work is required of any boy before he can be considered a finished carpenter; also any apprentice carpenter boy is permitted by law to attend this school three months a year, and his employer pays him for his time while in attendance.

The Rankin Trade School, in St. Louis, also greatly interested the city superintendent. Here are taught carpentry, plumbing, electricity, printing, machine-shop work and pattern making, and 250 boys are at present enrolled.

At Ames Agricultural College in Iowa, Mr. Francis states he found the most complete equipment and the best advantages for studying agriculture of any place he has visited, particularly in regard to stock—horses, cattle and sheep. He reports attending an animal husbandry class, where the pupils were judging horses, and that the work was very thorough and interesting.

Reception to "Rebecca."

All lovers of Kate Douglas Wiggin and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," who are also kindergarten teachers, will have the good fortune to meet and listen to a talk by the talented actress, Miss Ursula St. George, who will play the fascinating "Rebecca" here next week, on the occasion of the reception to be given her on Tuesday afternoon at the Normal School. Miss St. George will address her guests on the character which she plays, and will tell about her creation of the part.

The Rule of the Ruler.

Miss Nevell, supervisor of cardboard construction, reports the following scientific discovery of a youth in one of the east-side schools. In connection with her work she asked a certain class: "What is the use of a ruler?" Quick came the response from a shock-headed youth in the front row: "To hit 'em!"

Normandie Avenue School.

Principal Ayres is chairman of a committee from the Parent-Teacher Association, which is to meet with other organizations of Vermont Square. The object of this joint meeting is to formulate plans for social center work.

As a result of the matinee given by the graduating class, the school is enriched by the addition of three beautiful pictures and a basket of ostrich feather fern. This class also set a precedent by which each succeeding class will pattern, and each will leave at least one picture to keep class memory green.

The reception given by the Parent-Teacher Association recently was a delightful informal affair. Mrs. Chalmers Smith, Mrs. Buxton and Mrs. C. C. Noble were guests of honor. Prettily gowned upper-class girls served elaborate refreshments, and a musical programme was given, in which the newly-organized orchestra and glee club, Samuel E. Transeau, Miss Eleanor Vallely and the musical club of the Seventh grade participated.

Enthusiasm over the newly-arrived playground apparatus continues warm. The girls were so eager to use it on recent rainy day that they dipped the water from surrounding puddles with buckets, and drained their part of the playground perfectly dry. Part of the apparatus is the gift of the Parent-Teacher Association, and its presence makes Normandie a well-equipped play center.

A basketball team made up of teachers is a new feature of school life.

The open-air ungraded-room and the out-of-door department of the kindergarten continue to be interesting to a large number of visitors. W. F. Dummer and C. F. Johnson of Chicago, who are making a study of the housing of school children, were among the interested ones this past week.

Cornwell Street School.

There is a live Boys Club at Cornwell Street School, organized for athletic and social purposes. Every member is a booster, and has some social talent. Last Tuesday evening gave an entertainment for the Parent-Teacher Association, with the following programme: Piano duet, Kenneth and Ralph Montie; play, "Miser Christmas Carol: "Scrooge," Max Rabinowitz; Ghost, Frank Forster; "Fred," Loys Atkinson; visitor, Cyril Brown; "Crotchit," Oscar Allpas; Tiny Boy, Charles Kahm. Piano solo, Kenneth Montie; reading, Thomas Rabinowitz; piano solo, Ralph Montie. An exhibition of gymnasium work was given under the direction of Roy Hilbert, of the Polytechnic High School, the officers of the club are as follows: President, Alex Rabinowitz; vice-president, Cyril Brown; secretary, Loys Atkinson; treasurer, Harry Forman; directors, Miss Lillian H. Clark and Miss Grace E. Duncan.

Sixty-Second Avenue School.

"Mary, Mary, no more contrary, Oh, how your garden grows." That's the revised edition of the song as sung by over ninety boys and girls in the upper grades, who have just joined the Potato Club. Seeds will be given to those raising the greatest weight of potatoes in a square yard. Mrs. George Hay addressed the fifth, sixth, and eighth grades on the science and culture of "King Murphy," in consequence of which this class bids fair to be independent potato trust.

"Get acquainted" was the slogan of the sixty-second-avenue social given last Friday, and "How many times tagged?" was the leading feature the latter part of a most delightful evening. Readings from Dale's "Friendship Village," by Myra Chambers, were much appreciated. Mrs. F. J. Wheat recited "Mother's Rock;" a trio of musicians were delightfully rendered by Mrs. Robert Lindsay. Mr. Frank Stewart and Mrs. William Neff, school clubs are being formed for the spring vacation.

Los Angeles High.

Principal Houah has sent out a letter to parents of his pupils, with the following as the opening paragraph:

"To the fathers and mothers of the boys of the Los Angeles High School: Dear friends: The teachers of your boys wish to become acquainted with you, and to have the benefit of your counsel and co-operation. We may have your boy in our charge for several years, and we think it well for you to know what we expect of the pupil; on Cornell Street School.

There is a live Boys Club at Cornell Street School, organized for literary and social purposes. Every boy is a booster, and has some duty to perform. Last Tuesday evening they gave an entertainment for the Parent-Teacher Association, with the following programme: Piano duet, Lloyd and Ralph Montie; play, "A Christmas Carol: "Scrooge," Tom Tinkwits; Ghost, Frank Forbes; "Fred," Loys Atkinson; Visitor, Ralph Montie; "Crotchit," Oscar Alipaz; Mrs. Crotchit," Charles Kahm. Piano solo, Ralph Montie; reading, Thomas Wood; piano solo, Ralph Montie. Hollywood Avenue School.

"Mary, so more contrary, How your garden grows."

The revised edition of the song is sung by over ninety boys and girls in the upper grades, who have joined the Potato Club. Seeds will be given to those raising the greatest weight of potatoes in a square yard. Mrs. George Hammond of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades on the science and culture of "King Murphy," in consequence of which this fair...to be independent potato trust.

"Independence" was the slogan of the thirty-second-avenue social held Friday, and "How many can be found?" was the leading question in the latter part of a most interesting evening. Readings from "Friendship Village," by Zona Gale, were much appreciated, and were delightfully rendered by Mrs. P. I. Wheat recited "Rock Rock;" a trio of mustaches were charmingly rendered by Robert Lindsay, Mr. Frank Hunter and Mrs. William Neff. Clubs are being formed for basketball.

Los Angeles High.

Miss Elizabeth has sent out a number of her pupils, with the opening para-

To fathers and mothers of Los Angeles High School friends. The teachers of High School wish to become acquainted with you, and to have the most pleasant and co-operative relations; we may have your boy in our charge for several years; it will be for you to say whether it shall be for the worst of the pupil; on the other hand we wish to assure you that we welcome any inquiries or suggestions on your part."

The letter goes on to recite the manner of sending reports home, etc., and asks the co-operation of the parents in all ways, including supervision of the children in their social life and recreations; and is but a part of the general movement on the part of the faculty of Los Angeles High to get into closer and more sympathetic touch with the pupils.

Mrs. Dorsey, vice-principal, started a movement, Thursday, for the greater simplicity in commencement costumes, by addressing the senior girls on the subject of graduation dresses. A general discussion followed, and it was the common sentiment that many commencement gowns are much to elaborate. The girls agreed to be conservative in the matter, and to taboo strictly all silks and satins, adopting a resolution to that effect.

At the regular monthly Star and Crescent meeting on Friday afternoon, the winter '13 class made its first appearance. Class colors, purple and white, made their initial flutter in the long procession of senior B color days. The literary programme, which followed was an enjoyable Robert Browning offering: "Herve Riel," Louise Hyatt; "The Years at the Spring," from "Pippa Passes," Ellen Robinson; "An Incident of the French Camp," Charles Collom; "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," Evelyn Moar; "How They Brought the Good News from Ghent to Aix," Gladys Watts; "Marching Along," Cavalier Tune 1, and "I Send My Heart Up to Thee," William Wheatley.

There is nothing narrow-minded about Mr. Van Cleve's classes in general science. Each day, at the third period, a member of the class telephones the readings of the barometer, therometer and hygrometer to one of the girls' preparatory schools of the city. These readings are taken each period of the day, and subsequently charted. The hygrometer is an instrument that registers the amount of moisture in the atmosphere.

Lea McGuire, a zoology student, has presented the museum with a collection of several hundred specimens of the eggs of our local Southern California birds.

Polytechnic High.

Out at Poly, they have a genius in the person of William Pierson, a colored boy, who has written twelve plays, many of which have been presented by local organizations. His latest play, "The Quiz," will be given at the Gamut Clubhouse, March 20 and 21, for the benefit of the Day Nursery.

Dr. Levy of Pittsburgh, spoke on "The Chosen People" at general teachers' meeting in the auditorium, on Tuesday afternoon. His discourse was a deeply interesting and scholarly one.

The German Club held its regular meeting on Friday, the programme being devoted to Goethe and his works, and consisting of the following: Song, "Heidenroslein," the club; essay, "Goethe and His Women Friends," Anna Krause; recitation, "Wanderers' Nachtlied" Charles Stoddard; song, "Wanderers Nachtlied," Helen Rockwell; recitation, "Der Fischer," Clarence Cisenmeier; recitation, "Gefunden," Ethel Strang; recitation, "Der Harfensieler," Harold Tucker; cantata, Jessie Chace, accompanied by Lydia Nielsen; recitation, "Au Den Mond," Victor Johannsen; recitation, "Das Veitchen," Mildred Davidson; recitation, "Die Wandelnde Glacke," Eva Smith; recitation, "Schaefer's Klagelied," Harold Stewart; song, Lorraine Searle; monologue, Margaret Richter; song, "Mignon," club.

The French Club held its meeting on Thursday and presented an interesting programme.

Hollywood High School.

According to custom, the annual Roman banquet was given by the Virgil class on Friday evening, in the Roman room, as nearly as possible, according to Roman tradition. Statues of Minerva, Apollo, Hebe, Venus, Diana and Mercury stood upon the shrine erected to the "household gods." The tables were arranged so that the guests were seated on but three sides, in order that the "servi" may easily serve from the fourth side. The shrine and tables were decorated with vines and flowers. Tablecloths, napkins, knives and forks were, of course, lacking, spoons being the only silver used. The members of the class are: Margaret Kelsey, Esther Fry, Dorothy Ferguson, Ora Webb, Frances Dorsey, Mildred Jamison, Margaret Durfy and Sanford Kellogg. The guests of the evening were Dr. W. H. Snyder, Miss Helen Watson, Miss Florence Stone and Miss Myrtle Timmons. The class teacher is Miss Bertha Green. The "servi" chosen by the seniors were Gordon Stephens, "Triclinarch," or head servant; Philip Postell, John Enders, Leonard White, Leslie Somers, Ray Somers. The pages were Henry Durhone and Rodney Childs. At the appointed time the Triclinarch appeared and announced, "Cena est parata," and the guests formed a procession and passed into the atrium, a slave at the door warning them, "Dextro pede." The following menu was served, the dinner being served in three courses: Gustatio: Olives, stuffed eggs, lettuce, salmon croquettes; bread-sticks; cena, fried chicken, dressing, peas, bread, mulsum; secundae mensae, fruit, nuts, cake, candy, ice cream served in apples, "wine." (fruit-ade.)

When the guests were first seated at the table, and at the end of each course, the servi passed around bowls and towels for them to wash their hands. At the end of the "gustatio," the servi retired from the room, and, forming a procession in the kitchen, returned, led by the Triclinarch, who carried high above his head the chicken, on a large platter. After marching around the room, the "Cena" was served from a side table.

When the "vinum" was brought in, the hostess of the evening, Margaret Kilsey, poured a libation, and recited Dido's invocation to "Bacchus, giver of joy," and an offering of food was placed on the shine before the Penates. Then she called on the following to quote passages from Latin authors: Esther Frey, Dorothy Ferguson, Mildred Jamison, Rodney Childs. The participants appeared in costume, the girls in the flowing, graceful robes of the Roman women, the boys in the toga, the servi in the simple tunic.

Manual Arts High School.

A boys' assembly was addressed last week by Dr. Robert J. Burdette of Pasadena. Every boy in Manual Arts enjoyed this hour to the utmost. Parents, staff and students are grateful to this noted and talented speaker for the inspiration and instruction so willingly given.

The work of organizing the different branches of school organizations has been effected. The officers for the various organizations are as follows: The School Council, Ray Vandervoort, president; Goodwin Knight, vice-president; Lilian Mettler, vice-president; Linford Hoss, secretary; Carlton Henley, manager; F. J. Armstrong, treasurer. The Boys' Self-Government, Albert Kleinberger, president; John Henry Russell, first vice-president; Forrester Chase, second vice-president; Rufus Neville, secretary; Harold Kiggens, prosecuting attorney; Herbert Richardson, sergeant-at-arms. Girls' Self-Government, Taisy Darling, president; Vida Eddy, vice-president, and Helen Burton, secretary.

Polytechnic held down Manual Arts in baseball last week by a score of 1 to 7. The boys from the big school on Washington street made a fight which resulted in the game that was not the easy victory for Manual Arts that the score would indicate. There was no track meet last week, owing to the opposing team failing to materialize.

The new dust-avoiding apparatus in the forge and shops received a try-out last week. The system clears the dust and cinders from forge and shop by suction. The shopmen are delighted with the success of this apparatus, an idea originated by them. It will insure cleaner and healthier conditions.

The new administration building is progressing very well, in spite of the recent heavy rains.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

The worldly-wise Falstaff tells us that honor is nothing, because it cannot be eaten or imbibed. Nevertheless, the best and truest men of all ages have considered honor the most priceless of possessions. A man may be irresponsible and wicked, but so long as he retains his honor there is hope for him. However, if he chooses to discard this innate attribute, he not only forfeits the respect of his fellows but he sinks his own soul into a moral abyss from which it is difficult for him to rise.

Among the many prosperous ranchers in Los Angeles county is Barb Moser, who lives near Clearwater on the Santa Ana line of the Pacific Electric. A few days ago a man, clad in rags and with a dusty, smoke-begrimed face, came up to Mr. Moser where he was working in the field and said, "Friend, I hope you'll pardon me, but I want to ask a favor of you and if you can do anything for me I certainly will appreciate it. I just got to town a few hours ago, came in on the brake beams. I guess I look like a common tramp, and maybe I am, but if I only had a dollar I would go to town, get washed and shaved and find work somewhere, and then I would pay you back. I'm a southern man and I understand you are, too, so I ventured to come and see you. If you can give me work I'd rather have that than money."

Moser looked at the man a minute and said, "I'm sorry I have no work for you just now. As a rule I don't give money to every man who asks me, for if I did I would soon not have a roof over my head. Moreover, I don't believe such indiscriminate charity is really being good to the beggar or to oneself. But I like your face, and I don't care whether you came from the south or from Madagascar, I trust you. Take this five dollars, go and get your face and clothes cleaned, get a job and go to work. When you become prosperous you can return the money. This is not charity, because it is a loan, not a gift. That's all right, I'm glad I had it for you. These gophers are fierce. They are trying to eat up my ranch."

Last Saturday Moser received a registered letter containing a five dollar silver certificate and the following letter, written in a rather rough, scrawling hand:

"Dear Mr. Moser. I got a job all right and have saved enough money to pay you back, and I want to thank you a thousand times for your kindness. When I drew my first week's wages I started to go and spend the night in a saloon, but as I walked down the street your words, 'I trust you,' kept ringing in my ears and I made up my mind to turn over a new leaf. Men have given me money before now and I have taken it and never thought of giving it back. I always felt that they never expected to get it back anyhow. But the way you treated me has made me a different man and people will never see me in the gutter again. I am going to be as honorable as you thought I was when you gave me that five. So, much obliged once more. Your friend, E. S."

Circuit Jpdge Whitsett of Warrensburg, Mo., has inaugurated the parole system in his court, and is quoted as saying that the more experience he has with it the more he likes it. The remark was brought out by the report of a young negro who had been sentenced to the Penitentiary for larceny and paroled and was now working steadily as a farmhand.

"In every instance that I have extended the parole to young men the effect had been good. They have gone to work and are making honest citizens."

When Cavalry Morris, capitalist and coal magnate, died in Cleveland, February 7, four hospitals of that city found themselves endowed with practically his entire estate valued at upwards of a million dollars.

The people of Sag Harbor, L. I., have figured out that the employes of Mrs. Russell Sage in that place received during 1911 more than $25,000, or a weekly payroll of nearly $500. Large sums of money have been spent on Mashashimuit Park, the John Jermain Memorial Library, the Harbor Home and its extensive grounds, the old homestead of John Jermain, grandfather of Mrs. Sage, the Atheneum social center and the Foreigners and Mechanics Night School, all of which are among the local philanthropies of Mrs. Sage.

Good fortune has befallen the employees of M. Delatour, a wholesale boot and shoe maker, who has two factories, one in Paris and the other at Liancourt, France. M. Delatour is a self-made man, and for forty years has worked harder than any of his men. Today he is a millionaire, but has neither wife nor children to share his riches.

One day recently he was obliged to remain at home through indisposition, and as he passed the kitchen he surprised his old servant in tears. In reply to him she said she was depressed at the thought of what would happen to her if he dismissed her. The incident set M. Delatour thinking, and next day he sent for his lawyer and settled an annuity on the old woman for life.

But he did not stop there. He resolved to hand over the works to his employees, and under his instructions the lawyer drew up a deed transferring the building and plant and stock to fifty of the men who had helped him to make his fortune. This is equivalent to a gift of about $400,000, or an average of $8000 to each employee. The donor, however, stipulates that for the next three years the direction of the factory shall remain in his hands and none of those who benefit will be at liberty to realize his share before the end of that period.

John D. Rockefeller's offer to contribute $11,000 to complete the fund necessary for the purchase of the Pasteur birthplace, in the town of Dole, was very pleasantly received by the French press. At the same time some newspapers took occasion to point out that the wealthy foreigner is occupying a larger and larger place in French life, and expressed the hope that Frenchmen would continue as in the past to contribute generously to public works.

The Pasteur committee at Dole, in accepting, sent to Mr. Rockefeller a letter couched in terms of great appreciation and gratitude. It concluded: "The town of Dole, moved by a deep sentiment of appreciation, will honor itself by perpetuating in some way your name and your kindness."

As a reward for his bravery in warning miners at work in mine No. 5 of the Western Coal and Mining Company at Lehigh, Ok., when fire broke out in the mine, resolutions were adopted at the convention of the United Mine Workers of America, of the twenty-first district, authorizing setting aside funds to defray the expenses of educating Reifno Rodriguez, a Mexican youth.

Rodriguez ran through the workings shouting a warning to the workmen. As a result ninety-one of the hundred men at work escaped from the mine before the fire gained headway.

NATURE STORIES.

[London Chronicle:] If there was not the most prodigious destruction of young animals of all kinds, said Dr. Chalmers Mitchell in his lecture to children, there would soon be no room in the world. Elephants lived for about 100 years, and were about the slowest breeders in the animal kingdom. A pair of them would not produce more than six babies all told. Yet Darwin estimated that, starting only with one pair, and supposing that none of the offspring died during a period of 500 years, there would then be no fewer than 15,000,000 of elephants alive.

At the other end of the scale was the turbot, which in the course of a single year produced about 15,000,000 eggs. If no elephants and no turbot died, the earth would be so thick with elephants that there would be no room to walk about, and the sea would be entirely filled up with turbot.

But there were various methods by which this abundance was kept within reasonable limits. The young of most animals were very nice to eat, and accordingly they were eaten in great quantities by other animals. When the young were few in number they were generally taken great care of by the parents, or at least by one parent, but when the production was very great, as in the case of most fish, the parents did not bother about them at all, and their chance of existence was proportionately small.

The common star-fish produced hundreds and thousands of young, which had to shift for themselves, but there was another kind of star-fish, which had a comparatively small family, which distributed themselves over the body of the mother and stuck to her until they were pretty well grown.

The female seahorse laid only about a dozen or two eggs, and having done that took no more trouble about them. It was upon the father that the domestic duties fell. He had a kind of big trousers pocket, in which the eggs were put very soon after they were laid. Father then went about the ordinary business of life until the young were hatched, when he fed them, and did not part with them before they could look after themselves.

Among the toads also there was a careful father, which fastened the eggs which were laid on to his back. He was a toad in a hole, and only came out at night to moisten the eggs in water. Finally, when they were about to hatch, he left them in the water to become tadpoles. In most cases reptiles took very little trouble with the eggs, which were deposited in the sand, but after they were hatched the mother crocodile, or snake, or turtle, looked after their young, which in many cases had a prolonged childhood.

[New York Herald:] William J. Davis of Stapleton, Staten Island, is the possessor of a large tiger cat. He also is owner of a white pet rat. For six months the cat and the rat have been constant companions.

About three days ago Royal, the cat, was taken ill. Mr. Davis, who knows something about cats, diagnosed the case as grip, and forced the cat to take a dose of quinine. Then for a day he gave a diet of warm milk to the patient.

Finally, after giving milk to the cat, he placed a platter of chopped meat and bread before Snowball, the rat. After eating about three-quarters of the meal the rat picked up a few pieces and laid them down before the cat. This the rat repeated until it had the remainder of the dish before the friend. But the cat, being ill, refused to eat. Snowball is downhearted and perplexed.

[New York World:] Toots, a big tomcat owned by Robert Doran of New Rochelle, fought a fox the other afternoon, cornered it in the woodshed, and kept the animal there until Mr. Doran killed it with an ax-handle.

The fox ran through St. Joseph street and into the Doran yard about 4 p.m. Toots, who had been sitting on the kitchen tubs, leaped through the window and was on the fox's neck before it had gone 100 feet. There was a fight that lasted ten minutes, then the fox fled, seeking shelter in the woodshed. Toots, though bleeding from wounds, was standing guard when Mr. Doran arrived. He intends to have the skin made into a muff.

Toots is known in the neighborhood as a fighter. There is not a dog within a mile that will go near him, and many bear scars made by his claws and teeth. Toots has not missed attending a fire in the district of the Neptune Fire Company for two years. He rides to fires on the hose cart.

[London Chronicle:] The apes at the zoo are being taught to talk, so that human beings can understand what they say. The experiments are quite unofficial. But Prof. Boulanger of the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, and his son, E. Boulanger, in charge at the reptile house, make a point of visiting the chimpanzees in the new ape house at odd times and talking to them.

GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH
IF YOU USE SAGE AND SULPHUR

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs which unfortunately are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hair, however handsome it may be, makes a person look old. We all know the advantages of being young. Aside from the good impression a youthful appearance makes on others, simply knowing that you are "looking fit" gives one courage to undertake and accomplish things. So why suffer the handicap of looking old on account of gray hairs, when a simple remedy will give your hair youthful color and beauty in a few days' time.

Most people know that common garden sage acts as a color restorer and scalp tonic as well. Our grandmothers used a "Sage Tea" for keeping their hair dark, soft and luxuriant. In Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy we have an ideal preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp and thin, weak hair that is split at the ends or constantly coming out. A few applications of this valuable remedy will bring back the color, and in a short time it will remove every trace of dandruff and greatly improve the growth and appearance of the hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' treatment. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

YOUR FUTURE FORE-TOLD

Richard De Haven

King of Life Readers

1135 South Olive Street

I was born with a strange and remarkable power—power not meant to gratify the idle curious, but to direct, advise and help men and women who are in trouble and suspense concerning the every day affairs of life.

$5.00 Life Reading $1.00
(Reduced fee for this week only.)

I give just as careful and complete a revelation of your business, love and domestic affairs for $1.00 as I do for my regular fee of $3 and $5. I am taking the reduced fee plan to introduce myself and my work more extensively to the people of this city, where I have established my permanent home.

My Work Speaks for Itself

While I have the indorsements of hundreds of the most noted men and women of America, I deem them of little value, since I stand alone upon the merits of my work. Any person who can believe their own eyes and ears cannot help but know that I am a man of high ability and indisputable power excelled by no man on earth in this line.

Master of Strange Powers

There are strange and mighty forces which men and women can use to better their conditions. These forces are called personal magnetism, mental telepathy, semi-hypnotic suggestion, etc. All this I teach to any one who wishes to use it for a legitimate and honorable purpose.

What I Do for $1.00

I tell what condition your business is in and how to promote it. I tell you of any move, journey, position or change of any kind which may be before you, and how to act to obtain the best results. I tell you exactly what your acquaintances think of you, who to trust and who to shun. In short, I tell you everything you called to find out, and that, too, without asking you a question or you speaking a word.

I guarantee to develop mediumship to its fullest degree in those who have any latent power whatever. If I do not succeed as above stated, I ask no fee for my work and time whatsoever.

TIGHT-FITTING TOGS FOR MEN.

SPRING SUITS WILL HAVE THE WALLPAPER CLING.

Physical Defects Obvious by Fashion's Latest Startling Decree—All Pads Are to Be Discarded—Perplexed Tailors Say Perfect Man Has Not Been Found.

The National Association of Merchant Tailors, which met recently at the Hotel Astor, New York, has decided that skin-tight clothes will be the fashion this year and tailors are at their wits' end.

The perfect man? is the question Los Angeles tailors are quizzing each other.

Not the home guard who is never a minute late at his meals or a real bachelor, who consistently plods the straight and narrow. Past performances says both are dead, or yet unborn.

But there's a job for a modern Frankenstein, so the specialists say. From the artistic viewpoint. Since the skin-tight edict has gone forth man's physical deficiencies are brought out with startling emphasis. According to the tailors, the perfectly formed man is still undiscovered.

Perfect ladies, plenty, but there are no perfect men. That is the way it is put approached on the dual subject of imagery and form. He caters to college man in a Broadway, Los Angeles manner.

CONSERVATISM TABOO.

"Padding pads have passed," he said, "and now we have to get down to-business. It's going to be hard sledding to make man satisfied with himself. His physical imperfections will be more obvious than they have been for the past seventeen years, or thereabouts.

Western tailors pleaded for conservatism at the New York meeting, it is reported, but to no avail. Joe Augenstein, with a wallpaper viewpoint, says that there is to be no effort to conceal the defects of the wearer designed to be within the vogue.

WALLPAPER CLING.

Tight trousers and Seymour coats are the proper fashion plates of that vintage. They are with us again with only slight changes.

The Seymour coat was so named because it struck the wearer about the knees. From the waist it fell in fashionable sartorialist, put it graceful folds. Its cutaway effect was imagery and form. He caters to college man in a Broadway, Los Angeles manner.

Yesterday the skilful draper had plenty of leeway in which to put over his art. It was no trick at all to reproduce the Seymour coat. But the clothes politician until he appeared into a vermiform appendix of his former self. For the draper who knew his business it was only a matter of adjusting the proper stripe effect to mould John L. Sullivan into Spider Kelley or make Abe Attell resemble a human freight car.

Tight as your tailor will tell you style calls for more than real drapery. It demands a wallpaper cling. Stripes may still give the fat man a stylish effect, but there is to be no effort to conceal his defects. Instead the wearer designed to be within the vogue is to be the lean, if the wearer desires that the new spring suit must be within the vogue.

Showing how the Hoover brings out the bright, original colors of your rug or carpet: At the left side of this section of a rug the nap is crushed, tangled and covered with dirt. As the Hoover passes over, the dirt is all drawn out and the nap is gently raised to its natural upright position, the hues all clean and distinct. The wear then comes only on the ends of strands, prolonging the life of the fabric.

"I'm Going to Investigate This Hoover (Electric) Vacuum Cleaner"—

—Say this over and over again to yourself—Act upon it, Monday.

—Visit the Demonstration on the 5th floor. See this king of vacuum cleaners brush and clean the carpet and then carry away the dust and dirt.

—Let us arrange to clean a room in your home.

"The IVY "It Does Cling"

—More than one woman has guessed—and guessed right. Have you?

—Hundreds more women are wearing the Ivy Corset in 1912 than wore it in 1911.

—It's important that every woman know The Ivy.

The Variety of Zion Laces is unusual. Women can surely find the patterns they want. The beauty of design, the character of workmanship is unusual, too. A rare showing at Bullock's, now.

All for Style.

TIGHT-FITTING TOGS FOR MEN.

SPRING SUITS WILL HAVE THE WALLPAPER CLING.

Physical Defects Obvious by Fashion's Latest, Startling Decree—All Pads Are to Be Discarded—Peg-pleated Tailors Say Perfect Man Has Not Been Found.

The National Association of Merchant Tailors, which met recently at Hotel Astor, New York, has decided that skin-tight clothes will be the fashion this year and tailors are at their wits' end.

Where is the perfect man? is the question Los Angeles tailors are asking.

Trousers will be tighter, although some of the ready-to-wear garments of standard make are a modification of the same popular style. Trousers will be slightly wider at the bottom, but will be tighter, especially to make his coat sleeves of different lengths.

PERFECT MAN UNKNOWN.

I have never encountered a perfect male figure in my thirty-five years' experience in making men's clothes," declared one tailor when asked for an opinion.

"The fact appears to be that a man of perfect harmony of development and symmetry never was seen on earth. I suspect man seems to be like all things in Nature, like horses for instance, and trees. But in the main limits that they might be described as variations rather than as fundamental defects.

"I understand that the western tailors opposed close-fitting suits at the New York meeting. Of course each tailor is loyal to his own section of the country and so the nearest approach to the ideal figure in men's clothes is purely a question of geography.

"Personally, I believe the western man looks better in his clothes because he is better fitted to wear them well. He is big and broad. Out here in California outdoor life and sport develop the body and the effect upon the male figure which obtained a good build when the physique was in its making."

STREET COATS SHORTER.

Abbreviation is the key note to the newest style in men's garments. The street frock will be shorter. Even the conventional "college" cut of yester year.

New suit coats have a roll lapel in front, and them will be made up in two button effect. A new departure in Tuxedos is noted in the new gray effects which will distinguish them from the black ones.

Trousers will be tighter, although some of the ready-to-wear garments of standard make are a modification of the same popular style. Trousers will be slightly wider at the bottom, but will be tighter, especially to give the wearer a roomy appearance.

Vests are cut higher in the collar and may and varied. Neat effects in browns and tans are seen and fine hair line stripes set off the navy blue serges to good advantage.

BITS OF VERSE.

Toil and Joyfulness.

Austere in daily action we have stood;
In toil, behold, we beautifully have seemed—
But that our labor be not wholly vain,
And all the struggle empty, teach us,
O teach us at the end of toil to know
The sanctity of laughter, and the joy
That ever walks with beauty! Save us,
Who but for so freely given of Thy strength
In other days, by Thy last gift of Grace!
—[Arthur Stringer in Collier's.

Where Sympathy Is Due.

Let us shed no tears o'er the weight of toil
That falls to that human's part
Who has chance to labor and till the soil
Or sit sweat in some business mart.
Let us waste no sympathy, sigh no sighs
Over work-weary flesh and bone
For those luckiest 'neath the skies
Are those who toil and moan.
Let them weep for themselves alone!
For the hand that is idle thro' loathing
For the soul that has sought in vain;
With those wretched ones who for labor wail,
Let the saddest, the hardest, the bitterest lot
That can fall to a mortal here
Is to search for work and to find it not!
For him let us drop a tear!
—[Lurana Sheldon in New York Times.

Angels.

In the old days God sent his angels down
To men in threshing floors, to women grieved;
Whom they came to test
With whispered words of blessing and of rest.
And though their angel names I do not ken,
I read,
They are God given to this world of need.
Child, mothers, dearest wife, brave youth and bitter cross, and
Their touch and help us bear
Its heavy weight when strength is like to break.
God bless you all, our angels unaware!
—[Margaret E. Sangster.

Infinity.

Infinity, the heavy mist
That hovers over groping hands.
That hovers over groping hands.
As step by step most wearily
We tread the only half seen ground.
We turn for guidance whence we came,
For drift 'gainst the straining face.
Our own paths? Look! The gulf that yawned!
Of vanished footsteps, not a trace!
The cloud hung chasm breathes no sound.

Only the records in our hands.
Only left of all the world that was.
Pale prophets of the world to be.
To which our stumbling steps now lead.
Scourged by dread, some lead by hope,
Onward we move into the gray,
Darkness and silence all around,
Voices and sights not certainly now heard,
Thoughts known not certainly now sped.

Sun, moon or stars illumine us the best.
Yet shed no single circle show
Upon a black, black silent moor.
Where darkness presses back the dawn.
From dawn behind, and that is all;
A working with the Seen until
The Unseen sounds its voiceless call;
Doing the daily task, one step ahead.
—[Dossett H. Richberg, in Boston Transcript.

There Is a Quiet Road.

There is a quiet road
Worn smooth by pilgrim feet,
And over it tall, whispering trees meet.
We take the road behind
When on that road we fare;
Scent of the roses in summer lane
And goodly fruits of dusk
Are through a lonely way
Who weary of the day.
—[Charles Hanson Towne, in Pictorial Review.

PERSONAL—
THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHIC
BYRON L. STANLEY.
Others may come and others may go, Byron L. Stanley always remains at his own home, BETWEEN SECOND AND THIRD STS., NEAR ANGELS' FLIGHT.

247—S. HILL STREET—247

READINGS, 50c TO $1.00.
Former Prices $2, $3, $5.
ALL READINGS REDUCED FOR SHORT TIME.
BYRON L. STANLEY.
fully appreciates that in this day of sensational advertisements there are more false claims and misrepresentations chaperoned through the columns of the daily press than the most hypocritical tongue could utter in a lifetime, until one cannot be blamed for doubting almost everything they read. Therefore he says to you—come to him this very day and let him give you a complete reading, telling you every hope, fear or ambition, better than you could explain yourself. He will tell you the bad as well as the good; keeping nothing hidden from you. He will tell you everything upon matters of love, marriage, divorce, business, health; in fact, he will read your life like an open book.
Before you go into anything of importance—or undertake anything serious—in business or love, or marriage, or before you make any change—you should consult the master mind at parchico.
ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO PSYCHIC THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.
DON'T FORGET
The name STANLEY, a double guarantee. See the real life reader who really tells what you desire to know or no charge. A foolish weakling only will pay for a reading that gives no benefit. Stop and think.
Don't struggle with a burden you can divide. A troubled mind begets a morbid conscience. Sympathy, consolation and timely advice heal the worst of wounds. Be advised and relieved of anxiety.
Realizing that this city has been overrun with pretenders, and that many of its best citizens are anxious to visit a genuine psychic, Mrs. Stanley has decided to place his consultation fee within the reach of all.
Finding many deserving people who were not able to pay a large fee he has decided for a short time to place his readings within the reach of all at live and let-live prices. So if you wish to take advantage of this offer, call at once.
If you contemplate consulting a psychic several things should be taken into consideration—ABILITY, the HONESTY of methods, the FAIRNESS of dealings, the HIGHEST degree of work, the ACCURACY of each prediction, the COMMON SENSE used with it, the INTEREST taken in each case, the RESPECT shown to each caller, the fact of SECRECY in consultation, the FEE charged for services.
You hear the truth and nothing but the truth.
BEWARE of pretenders and partially-developed mediums. They copy his advertisements and in many smaller cities use his name. Please remember BYRON L. STANLEY can be seen only at his Los Angeles office.
To whom it may concern: We take great pleasure in recommending our brother, PROF. STANLEY, as a life reader of good standing, having to our knowledge been fully developed in all the various phases of mental physhism. We cordially recommend him to any individual or society that may need his advices.
DR. JOHN WESTERFIELD,
President Indiana State Association of Spiritualists.
Chesterfield (Ind.) September 4, 1896.

PERSONAL—
MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST. (over Owl Drug Store,)
by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.
The earnest student and thinker will soon learn that the investigation along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc. AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.
PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.
Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck, and the paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.
MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANCE, SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.
HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

PERSONAL—
PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
305½ S. SPRING, NEAR THIRD ST.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 28 YEARS.
PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc., also your good periods coming—giving dates of these events for the future.
PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, etc.
PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK with his trained judment must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.
PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST, and WITH EACH PALM READING gives also an ASTROLOGICAL READING.
DR. J. A. LARSEN writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life; I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."
FREDERICK WARDE says: "Your reading was most SATISFACTORY. Your knowledge and skill is REMARKABLE."
MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK says: "I was greatly surprised to find how many of your warnings were well founded. YOUR READING WAS MOST MARVELOUS."
MME. BALDWIN writes: "The Horoscope you wrote for me is absolutely CORRECT. My friend, MME. NORDICA, the singer, first showed me her Horoscope, and recommended your work to me. Hundreds find you the for four more Horoscopes—all friends of mine."
The interpretation of a Horoscope is a fine art, the percentage of "GENUINE" astrologers is exceedingly small. Now a little of astrology out of books, and to be a skilfully trained, EXPERIENCED ASTROLOGER, are two entirely different things. Therefore in this work, it depends largely WHO it is that reads you as to the RESULTS obtained.
PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and handreading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention. Strict privacy. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. Therefore HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.
Daily and evening: Sunday, 10 to 2.

MR. STARR, WHO IS NOW ASSOCIATED WITH MR. IS GIVING HIS ENTIRE ATTENTION TO THE SALE OF BUNGALOWS AND LOTS IN THE SOUTHWEST AND NORTH WILSHIRE DISTRICTS. OWNERS ARE REQUESTED TO LIST THE SAME, AS WE HAVE MANY INQUIRIES FOR PROPERTY IN THESE LOCALITIES. WE ARE SELLING BUNGALOWS. LET US SELL YOURS.

See MR. STARR, O. F. SHERER, 201 CALIFORNIA BLDG., SECOND AND BROADWAY.

WANTED— DON'T FAIL TO SEE US

If you have real estate to sell, we have buyers waiting for houses, lots, small acreage near city, and property for subdividing; our company has been in business 31 years, and sells over half million dollars of property yearly; we can give you good service. It costs you nothing to list with us unless we sell the property. We advertise your property extensively.

If you have real estate to exchange, see us quick, we are getting out a printed list. Get your property in it.

F. P. NEWPORT CO., 204 Central Bldg. Sixth and Main.

WANTED— It will cost you nothing to get our offer on notes, mortgages, trust deeds, contracts issued for the sale of real estate or other like securities. No appraisement fees or contract to sign, just give us full particulars and we will look at your property and make you our best offer. Remember we are principals, not agents, and as such are prepared to pay you more for such securities, besides being able to furnish the money immediately. If inconvenient to see us during business hours, write full particulars and your communication will receive prompt attention.

LOS ANGELES MOTORCYCLE CO., 543 South Spring street.

FOR SALE— GUARANTEED MOTORCYCLES.

We sell more GUARANTEED REBUILT and OVERHAULED motorcycles than all other dealers combined. Why? Because we stand behind every machine we sell and not only guarantee each motorcycle against defective parts, the same guarantee as is given on NEW machines, but also guarantee against worn-out parts, and, above all, we guarantee SATISFACTION.

A REBUILT motorcycle, if rebuilt by the MOTORCYCLE EXCHANGE, Inc., is absolutely as good as a new machine. We use only such parts as cannot be hurt from wear or tear, such as frames, forks, tanks, etc., but every part that has any wearing surface is new, such as bushings, bearings, pistons and rings, cones, cups, balls, tires, inner tubes, saddles, chains or bolts, etc. All parts are restored, enameled or nickeled, making the machine absolutely as good as new, both in appearance and actual workmanship and material.

Our repair shop is open day and night. Supplies and sundries of all kinds at all hours, except between 5 p. m. Sundays and 7:30 a. m. Mondays.

A3908. MOTORCYCLE EXCHANGE, Inc., 534-540 S. Spring St., 533-539 S. Main St.

HAVE YOU A WHITE THOR?

We are daily receiving orders for these machines, so are selling them as fast as they come in, and you should get your order in now if you want one out of our next shipment.

The price is lower than it has ever been; the quality better, so why hesitate?

We can arrange terms to suit you, and you can ride either White Thor or Thor and start riding the day you make your first payment.

If you haven't seen these machines, it will pay you to come in and look them over. Ask for a demonstration. Our salesmen are ready to explain all the details of the machine to you; to take you out for a spin and show you what the Thor will do. We don't ask you to take our word for it; we prove it.

BARGAINS IN USED MACHINES.

We have about twenty second hand machines which we have taken in trade on new ones. Here are a few:
4-h.p. Emblem, 1911, fine condition $175
4-h.p. Motosacoche Twin, 1911 model, magneto $125
1911 Thor IV, chain, free engine $170
1910 Thor, magneto, single $75

MINING—

FOR SALE—FIVE PINE MINING CLAIMS only partially developed, but developed enough to show that they are mighty good ones; located in a proven gold and copper belt, with good producing mines on each side, and on a good road and only 5 miles to Humboldt and the big smelter; one claim is on a large free-milling gold ledge, over 3½ feet thick at bottom of shaft, and showing good milling ore throughout; the other claims show good values in gold and copper; improved with good camp houses, barn and well; a little more work and money would put this property on a paying basis, but I am unable to work now on account of rheumatism and must sacrifice this property to raise money enough to go away for treatment. $1500 will buy this property today; only $300 per claim; and the improvements alone cost over half of it. $500 cash will do me now, pay the balance later. This golden opportunity is yours if you act quickly. H. B. MULTER, P.O. Box 87, Humboldt, Ariz.

ATTENTION! TO OWNERS OF PLACERS—
We have a 100-ton dry washing machine which will save 100 per cent. of any kind of metals suitable for dry washing, as gold, silver, lead and platinum, with a very small expense of operating. This concentrator can be built especial according to the samples and how the property lies. It makes no difference what it is, placer or quartz proposition. We are special in dry washing machinery and build any size from 10-ton up to 200-ton capacity per day. This is not only a success but it is absolutely guaranteed to save money from the poorest proposition that no machine will do today. Come to see us and we will convince you and prove our success. Concentrator will be demonstrated to parties being interested at 1229 Birch st., Los Angeles, Cal. We absolutely guarantee for same we state above. Send for literature, if you have any. WAGNER & FACTOR CO.

GOLD MINING REVOLUTIONIZED BY THE up-to-date dry concentrator, patented and manufactured by Trodd & McCartney; the only machine invented that will save all metal values; this machine has a capacity of 100 tons per day. We do not care if you are from Alaska or Missouri, come and we will show you; demonstrations daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at 1230 CENTRAL AVE., Los Angeles, Cal. Do not fail to see this wonderful machine. Phone MAIN 7625.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY—

FOR SALE—
Peach and apricot orchard. Third street and Vineland avenue; lot number 194, Lankershim, California, known as the McManus orchard.
The property consists of 15 acres set solid in peaches, apricots and plums in full bearing. The average crops will readily sell for from $250 to $258 per acre, which will net the owner about 20 per cent. on the price asked (there are orchards here in the same neighborhood that produced as high as $450 per acre.)
The new electric car line, now in operation, runs past the door; also good roads, which mean about the same thing in the city. Time from here to Los Angeles 35 minutes; fare, round trip, 30 cents, family book; daily book, 13 cents round trip. Distance 12 miles. Abundance of water close to the surface.
No irrigation needed, the soil is very deep, rich and easily worked. Price $15,000, with buildings worth about $2500, thrown in, which brings the price down to about $950 per acre. Mortgage $2200 at 7 per cent. interest. Will take $5000 cash and two notes for $2400 each, payable in one and two years at 7 per cent. interest.
By sub-dividing, this property will readily sell at from $1500 to $2000 per acre. Beautiful location for close-in country home site.
Will allow the usual commission of 5 per cent. on the first $1000 and 2½ per cent. on balance.
Agents will not be allowed to change the above prices without my written consent.
P. F. M'MANUS,
Los Angeles County,
Lankershim, Cal.

FOR SALE—
Walnut grove, corner of 3rd street and Pacoima avenue, Lankershim, California, lot number 180, known as the McManus walnut grove.
The property consists of 440 acres set solid to soft shell English walnuts, about 20 years old, and full bearing. Crop of over 80 tons this year, which means a net earning of over 20 per cent. on the price asked.
The new electric car line, now in operation, runs within two short blocks of the property. Improvements consist of two deep wells of water, enough to irrigate 200 acres within 12 feet of the surface. The land is over 90 feet deep, black loam, with enough sand in it to make it easily worked. (No irrigation needed.)
Price $34,000 or $850 per acre. Mortgage $5200 at 7 per cent. interest. Will take for my equity, $16,000 cash, balance three secured notes of $6000 each, payable one each year for three years, at 7 per cent.
The property is now ready for subdivision, and can readily be sold in from one to five-acre tracts, at from $1000 to $1500 per acre.
Will allow the usual commission of 5 per cent. on the first $1000 and 2½ per cent. on the balance.
Agents will not be permitted to change the above price without my written consent.

CALHOUN ON THE CANAL.

Says Chicanery and Injustice Stole the Zone for the Great Work from Colombian Republic.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—The picture of travelers through the Panama Canal in the far-distant future looking over the colossal work with their admiration discounted by the feeling that the United States flaz there represented "chicanery, injustice and power" was drawn by Patrick Calhoun of San Francisco in a speech before the California Society tonight.

"Colombia, the real owner of the Canal Zone, got nothing," declared Calhoun, "while the Panama Canal Company and the Panama republic were well paid. Too weak to resist the United States, Colombia lost both the canal and Panama territory. Our part in the conspiracy was carefully concealed, but the then President of the United States is now credited with having stated that he 'took Panama.' If this is not idle boast we owe Colombia compensation."

There were 150 natives of California at the dinner and among the speakers were John Hays Hammond, Julius Kahn and J. C. Montgomery.

Yuan Shi Kai, as He Is and as He Is to Be.

Oh! East Is West and West Is East!

Or rather will be soon—when Yuan Shi Kai, President of the Chinese republic, has not only discarded his pigtail, but has adopted western clothes like his brothers Taft and Fallieres. The first photograph shows Yuan in the Mandarin uniform; the second is a transformation of the same face and figure into the frock coat and top hat of correct Presidential convention.—[The Bystander.

Expense Fund.

TO FINANCE CHINA TILL ORDER IS RESTORED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, March 9.—The international syndicate of bankers representing the United States, Great Britain, Germany and France placed to the credit of the provisional government today, 220,000 taels (approximately $224,000, and also agreed to pay the Chinese representatives abroad, $126,000. Next week, $420,000 is to be paid to the government at Peking.

The bankers propose to finance the government or governments until Chinese finances are restored to normal condition. They expect to advance $4,200,000 or $4,900,000 within the next two or three months.

Japanese and Russian banking interests have been permitted to participate in these advances, but the Russians have not arranged as yet for suitable banking representations.

As soon as the group representing the six powers has been established, the agreement between them will become retroactive in respect to the present advance at Peking and of the recent advance of $700,000 to the Nanking government.

Invitations were sent out today to the ceremony tomorrow when Yuan Shi Kai will take his oath as President of the new republic.

Reports from Tien-tsin state that order is being gradually restored there and much-loot, stolen during the recent outbreak, is being recovered and returned to its owners.

FIFTEENTH INFANTRY SAILS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MANILA, March 9.—The United States transport Warren sailed this morning for Taku, thirty miles from Tien-tsin, with seventeen officers and 468 men of the Fifteenth Infantry on board.

Lieut.-Col. Edwin A. Root, in command, will report to William J. Calhoun, the United States Minister at Peking, on his arrival, when it will be decided whether the American reinforcements are to remain at Tien-tsin or are to proceed to the capital to join the troops already stationed there, as a guard for the American legation.

A large crowd gathered on the way to bid farewell to the soldiers.

SUN IS RAILROAD DIRECTOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—A cablegram received here from Shanghai announces that Dr. Sun Yat Sen has been elected a director of the Canton-Hankow Railway. Another message to a Chinese paper published here, announces that Li Lee Yu King, Secretary of Finance of the provincial government, has resigned.

LONDON HAILS AMUNDSEN DISCOVERER OF THE POLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 9.—Capt. Roald Amundsen's triumph is generally acknowledged here as being complete, and the Norwegian explorer is hailed as the conqueror of the South Pole. Many Britons, however, still are clinging to the hope that Capt. Scott's return may furnish a dramatic climax to the Antarctic story.

The Royal Geographical Society, while not questioning Capt. Amundson's feat is awaiting news from Capt. Scott, before committing itself by sending congratulations to Capt. Amundsen. In the meantime if the Norwegian explorer has any further secrets to reveal he is reserving them for publication through the same channels that he hitherto has used.

Rear-Admiral Peary, Sir Ernest Shackelton and Dr. Charcot all are prominently displayed in the newspapers as supporting the surmise that both the British and Norwegian explorers may have reached the goal and each of them remained in ignorance of the other's success.

IMPROPER WORDS ALLEGED.

House Appoints Committee to Scrutinize Language Put in Record by New York Independent Member.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The House appointed a committee today to investigate alleged scurrilous language regarding President Taft, Senator Root and others, put in the Congressional Record by Representative Aiken, Independent, of New York. The passages were inserted in the Record under "leave to print."

Aiken alluded to the President as having failed to make good a promise regarding appointments of postmasters, accused Senator Root, Cyrus Durey and Lucius N. Littauer of having furnished reflections on Mr. Aiken and charged that Paymaster B. B. Ray of the army had been shielded by President Taft for political debt.

The resolution for investigation was adopted unanimously. Mr. Aiken had nothing to say.

HIGHER WAGES OFFERED.
THE LAWRENCE SITUATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAWRENCE (Mass.) March 9.—The American Woolen Company's offer of an increase in wages was raised today to a 7½ per cent. average in a conference of the company's representatives, and a committee of striking employees in Boston.

The strike committee expressed dissatisfaction with the manner in which the increase is to be applied. Representatives of the owners submitted a schedule showing how much of an increase would be conceded to the various departments of the mills. The strike committee asked for a schedule of increases based on the wages earned instead of on the department, and dividing the classification into groups of low, medium and high-priced operatives. Another conference will be held Monday.

DECLARE FOR STRIKE.

ACTION OF SOCIALISTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, March 9.—Leaders of the Socialist Miners' Union today issued a proclamation declaring 200,000 miners would go on strike in the Westphalian coal district next week unless the mine owners reversed their decision not to accord the 15 per cent. advance asked. The proclamation followed a meeting at which the owners' replies to the demands were discussed. There appears to be very little hope of the mine owners acceding to the men's demands and the efforts of the government to bring about mediation are now declared by the miners to be too late.

POLO MATCH TODAY.

Delayed Contest Between England and Pasadena Is Set for Sunday. Women May Not Take Part.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, March 9.—At 8 o'clock tonight those having in charge the arrangements for the polo tournament at Coronado decided that the delayed match between Pasadena and England, postponed on account of rain today, will be played tomorrow afternoon. This will be the deciding game for the All-American trophy, now in possession of the English team. It was won by the Britishers two years ago.

Seven polo pony races were also announced for tomorrow. As many of these as possible will be run at the conclusion of the polo match. Miss Eleanor Sears, Lady Tweedmouth and Lady Herbert were announced to take part in one of the races, but it is doubtful tonight if it can be arranged for them to take part. The line-up of the teams tomorrow will be as follows:

Pasadena — Elmer Boeseke, R. Weiss, Tom Driscoll and Tom Weiss.
England — Viscount Gower, Lord Reginald Herbert, W. Devereaux and Lord Tweedmouth.

BREAKS OUT OF JAIL.

PORTLAND (Or.) March 9.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] Three prisoners held in the jail at Jacksonville broke the new $25,000 steel tank with a piece of half-inch gas pipe last night and succeeded in securing a half-hour's start before their escape was discovered. The men at liberty are Frank Wolfley and S. W. Braon charged with forgery, awaiting the action of the grand jury, and William Snyder, charged with burglary.

GOVERNMENT OF THE CANAL.

Committee Agrees Upon the Panama Measure.

Ships of All "Rings" and Combines Are Barred.

The President Authorized to Fix Tolls and Tariffs.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The bill for the government of the Panama Canal zone and the operation of the canal was agreed today by the House Committee on Interstate Commerce. It would give to the President authority to fix tolls within certain limitations, a maximum of $1.25 a ton being prescribed with a minimum rate below an amount sufficient to maintain and operate the canal. No preference would be given to American ships.

Ships owned or controlled by railroads and operated with the object to restrain trade, or ships engaged in any agreement or "ship rings" to combine, will be prohibited from passing through the canal under the terms of the bill.

The bill was adopted by the committee by a vote of 14 to 4. It would ratify and legalize all the work done by executive authority, since the canal zone was taken over, and define and legalize the courts and provide for further legislation.

Under the terms of the bill the parliament of the Panama commission, when the canal approached completion, is sanctioned and the President is authorized to appoint a governor for the Panama Canal zone and fix his salary at $10,000 a year, the term of office to be four years. Authority is given the President to remove the governor and other persons necessary to the maintenance and operation of the canal and to provide for its sanitation.

There will be a minority report against the bill. Representatives Knowland of California; Broussard, Louisiana; Calder, New York, and Dowell of Iowa, Michigan, dissented from the majority charges clause.

The bill would authorize the President to open and operate the canal and to make rules for the government of the canal, and fix the tolls.

RELATING TO RATES.

The provision relating to rates is as follows:

"That the President is hereby authorized to prescribe and from time to time change toll charges for the use of the Panama Canal by vessels except those belonging to the government of the United States (including those of the Panama Railroad Company) and the government of the republic of Panama, and excepted vessels shall be charged tolls.

"Charges may be based upon net or not registered tonnage, displacement tonnage, or otherwise, and may be based on one form of tonnage for warships and another for ships of commerce, but the tolls shall not exceed $1.25 per ton, based upon the registered tonnage for ships of commerce, nor be less than the cost, as determined proportionate cost of the canal and operation of the canal."

The prohibition clauses forbid "That it shall be unlawful for any railroad to pass through the canal which it owns, leased, operated or controlled by any railroad company engaged in interstate commerce or in any other corporation in which any railroad company has any interest whatsoever, or by any other device by any association or corporation with the effect of restraining or preventing competition through the Panama Canal, either between ships, between lines and ship companies, or between ships, ship lines or ship companies and railroads."

It shall be unlawful for any railroad to pass through the canal if the owner "shall be engaged in any agreement, combination, ship ring, or commerce with intent to restrain commerce, or preventing competition through the Panama Canal among ships, ship lines or ship companies, or between railroads and such ships, ship lines or ship companies."

The bill would establish one of the United States district judges with headquarters and bailiffs in the Canal zone, and provide jury trial in all criminal cases and common law. The District Court would have appellate jurisdiction with the Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Extradition of criminals is also be provided.

Explorer Is Abandoned by Indians in Barren Lands of Nevada and Fear is Felt.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—Dr. Radford, Arctic explorer, formerly of the American Geographical Society and member of the Arctic Club, who left this city in February, 1908, on a four years of exploration in northern Canada, is reported to have been forsaken by his guides in the midst of the barren lands near Great Bear Lake, about 500 miles below the pole. He is believed to have been left there without provisions and without firearms, and will perish unless succor is speedily forthcoming.

A letter telling of Radford's plight reached the Arctic Club late last night. It said that two Indians employed by Radford to accompany him on a visited Fort Resolution for provisions and stated that they had left Radford last fall.

YUCAIPA VALLEY—

OR SALE—

C. TAIT, IRRIGATION ENGINEER IN CHARGE OF EXPERIMENTS IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA FOR THE GOVERNMENT, SAYS: "THE WATER NOW BEING SOLD WITH EACH TRACT IN THE REDLANDS-YUCAIPA LAND COMPANY'S TRACTS IS AMPLE FOR ALL KINDS OF FRUIT GROWING. THE CHARACTER OF THE SOIL MAKES IT POSSIBLE WITH EACH TRACT SOLD, FOR THE VERY BEST RESULTS WITH EVEN LESS WATER THAN IS NOW AVAILABLE WITH EACH TRACT SOLD. WHERE THE BEST IRRIGATION SYSTEM IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA THAN THAT INSTALLED BY THIS COMPANY."

W. H. CODD, HORTICULTURAL COMMISSIONER FOR YUCAIPA, SAYS: "RETURNS FROM APPLES IN THE YUCAIPA VALLEY HAVE BEEN EXCELLENT IN THE PAST. FIVE-YEAR-OLD TREES HAVE YIELDED FOUR BOXES OF APPLES TO THE TREE. TREES IN FULL BEARING HAVE PRODUCED AS HIGH AS $1000 AN ACRE FOR GOOD YEARS. THE LIMIT SEEMS TO BE ONLY THE CAPACITY OF THE GROWER. GIVE THESE TREES THE PROPER CULTIVATION AND CARE."

YOU CAN BUY THIS EXCEPTIONALLY RICH FRUIT LAND, WITH ONE SHARE OF WATER STOCK IN A MUTUAL WATER COMPANY, FOR $275 AN ACRE, ON VERY EASY TERMS. MORE THAN 2000 ACRES PLANTED TO TREES ALL READY ON THIS SUBDIVISION. POTATOES, ONIONS, BEANS, TOMATOES, CANTALOUPES, MELONS, ETC., ARE BEING GROWN BETWEEN THE YOUNG TREES AT GREAT PROFITS.

WE WANT YOU TO INVESTIGATE THIS PROPOSITION NOW. FREE EXCURSIONS TO BUYERS. FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, CALL ON OR WRITE,

An ideal country home with a splendid income.

FOR SALE—
A FONTANA ORANGE GROVE.
Our plan of selling orange groves has met with universal success. It is a plan that the people want. It assures them of success. It is a method that inspires confidence, for the company has more actual cash invested in the improvements than the purchaser until the location of the third year. Therefore it is to our interest, as well as to the buyer's, to produce the finest grove possible.
We plant any variety of citrus trees and put the grove in perfect shape, irrigate and sell the grove for $450 an acre. For a first payment we require one-fifth cash and not another payment until end of the third year, then one-fifth each year until paid for.
We have six months and 1-year-old groves at $250 and $350 an acre, which we sell on the same easy terms.
Each acre of land includes one share of water stock in one of the best systems in California.
We contract to care for groves for four years if purchasers desire.
All streets are bordered with palms and ornamental trees.
The whole district promises to be one of the best citrus growing districts in the world.

I WANT TO MEET A GOOD LIVE MAN who is interested in the manufacturing of motion pictures. I have a going company—a close corporation with small capitalization. I have associated with me men as officers and directors—investors men of national reputation in the motion picture world. These men's connection with any company in this line is an absolute guarantee of that company's success. We have a fully equipped studio and factory, with several of the highest grade cameras. We are preparing now several motion pictures that will create a decided sensation and insure a broad national field for the company's future operations. I can show you—if you are the right man for us—a business founded and managed on sound, honest business principles, that will return handsome profits right from the start far in excess of those derived from any ordinary business. If you are a business man—keen, bright, energetic—(no previous experience in the motion picture business is necessary,) I want you to take an active interest at a good salary. Address, for appointment, R, box 130, TIMES OFFICE.

WANTED — A SYNDICATE IS BEING formed to take over a tract of 40 acres lying within ten minutes' car ride of center of city. One-half of amount has been subscribed; $20,000 or two unit subscriptions of $10,000 each takes the balance. The land is being purchased $1000 per acre below value, and is being sold in 10-acre tracts. The car service is the best in the city and this tract is the best close in property lying within the confines of the westward trend of high-class city development. If you have any desire to participate in a choice speculative investment, don't delay investigating it. This property is being taken in at $450 per acre for full terms; $2400 to be the average price of adjoining lots. This property when subdivided will be handled by the Carlin G. Smith Co., who are meeting with such phenomenal success in selling Du Ray Place, just placed on the market. Call up F5778 or Main 6426, or call in person at 426 UNION LEAGUE BLDG. No agents.

NOTICE—

TO INVESTORS.

We are syndicating a large tract of the finest and most favorably located IRRIGATED LAND IN the

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

We have secured this tract at a LOW PRICE and on very attractive terms and are preparing to subdivide and place it on the market.

IT WILL SELL FAST and at prices that will net our investors a profit of 20 TO 30 PER CENT.

The subdivision and colonization of irrigated land has long been our particular business. We have been uniformly successful and our investors have made SPLENDID PROFITS.

We invite your co-operation. Sums of $2500 or more solicited.

ASSOCIATES WANTED, with
MONEY TO INVEST
In one of the best companies in the city of Los Angeles, and if you will call and investigate this company we feel sure that you will find it to be something that is really good and even better than good, in fact, our business and the future of this business is something that will appeal to the most cheap-skate, and we will show you with very little trouble that this company is as safeas a bank. Now that may sound pretty strong, but come in and investigate.

We want you to investigate our books, see our filed and unfilled orders, see our product and our ructories in operation and talk to our men who have invested in the company and ask our best ASSET, "Satisfied Stockholders!"

We want some man who can show a great record for work, and who can both invest and associate themselves with the company.

We can use your money without your personality if you are not in a position to devote your time to the work, and will show you where you are protected in every possible way to protect an investor.

WE WANT INVESTORS, NOT SPECULATORS.

Remember, that we want money for the carrying on of the business and not for the building of the business or for experimental purposes.

SEE THE MEN WHO

theaffairs of the company and then you will not hesitate to interest yourself, or at least your money.

We are also branching into the building line for the purpose of of demonstrating our product in the shape of bungalows, etc., so if you have some real estate or good equity therein come in and we may makes trade.

Let us explain the whole thing to you, it is a pleasure to show you our product and factories, whether you buy or not.

Because we belong to the Boosters' Club.

PEERLESS BRICK & ARTIFICIAL STONE CO., 812-19 Lissner Bldg.

AN INVESTMENT

A safe, sane, legitimate investment.

Not a gold mine in the clouds.

Not an oil well in imagination.

Not a real estate scheme on paper.

But,

an investigation in the production of a necessity of life. It is used by 96 per cent. of the people in the United States, and the other 10 pe rcent. use a poor substitute.

We need money to enlarge our plant. We can sell ten times our present output.

Write for particulars. Address S, box 23, TIMES OFFICE.

A COMMERCIAL INDUSTRY WHICH IS highly successful in the East has an open field on the Pacific Coast.

It is the finest line of commercialism has hundreds of competitors and the industrial success of that part of the country are supplied by it. It finds to the great territory west of the Rocky Mountains, comprising the States of California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada with a population of 3,000,000 people. I am a business man of Eastern success. My home formerly in the East is now here. I know of an opportunity and a basis for an industry that has no rival on the Pacific Coast. Consequently I give it no competition. I would like to meet a man who is familiar with business methods in the East and who has come to like this home. The properties have been acquired. Such properties will form a basis for a large commercial industry which in the space of time can be as important in the Pacific Coast business world as one of the great industrial plants in the Eastern field. There is no good reason why the articles referred to cannot be manufactured here and the Coast trade supplied by home industry. The opportunity is ideally for a successful business. WANTED—IF YOU HAVE MONEY, IN ALL probability you have a good brain—a brain that thinks. Again, if you are a thinker, you have an object—a purpose in life. You can now accomplish that purpose by identifying yourself with an already successful movement as well as associating yourself with prominent men of the highest integrity in this community. If you want to do good, and at the same time make money for yourself and others, investigate this. You have never seen anything like it. It will be a revelation to you and will satisfy your heart's desire. If you really want to do good in the world and hold an official position in a movement that is national in its scope, address R, box 189, TIMES OFFICE.

LOAN FROM US
Saves Money.
If you want money on FURNITURE, PI-ANO, horses, wagons, live stock or other personal property, without giving up the possession or use of same,
BORROW FROM US AND SAVE MONEY.
Our plan gives you a definite amount to pay each month, including both principal and interest, and you know just where you stand at all times, and if you find that you can pay before the loan expires you will receive a rebate of 10 per cent. of the total cost.
Our interest is the lowest. In this way a loan can be paid off much quicker and for much less than the customary loan plan, and the terms to suit borrower.
Call and see us regarding for payment of interest only. The only one we have firmly established with the idea of saving you money.

SHORT STORIES.

Crowded Quarters.

[New York World:] Elliott Woods, superintendent of the capitol, recently told a story about a new southern member of the House whose frugality is commending to his Congressional colleagues.

The new member arrived in town and hunted Superintendent Woods up immediately.

"I reckon I'd like to look at my quarters," said he to the superintendent.

He was taken to the House office building and shown to one of the substantially furnished office rooms.

"This is fine," said the new member, "but where are my other rooms?"

"Oh, you can't have another room for several years—not until you have become chairman of a committee," replied Woods.

"My God!" exclaimed the southerner, "how do you expect me to sleep, cook, eat and work in the one room?"

An Accommodating Count.

[New York Sun:] Col. Alexander S. Bacon, president of the Men's Equal Suffrage League of Brooklyn, said the other day:

"Yes, it's true that you won't find many American peeresses enrolled under the suffrage banner. The girl who marries a foreigner marry her for her money is, any way, a rather poor speculation.

"There's a New York man whose daughter, during a winter in Nice, got engaged to a certain Count Beau de Beaumont. The New York man was as rich at that time, but a few weeks before the date for the wedding he went smash.

"'My dear Count Beau de Beaumont,' he groaned that night, 'I'm very sorry for you. You are to marry my daughter—you were to have had $6,000 a year—but the crash has come. I'm ruined now. How sorry I am, Count.'

"'But Count Beau de Beaumont gave the New York man a reassuring slap on the back.

"'Oh, don't you worry about me, sir,' he said with an easy laugh. 'With a title like mine, you know, I can find another heiress tomorrow.'"

Butterworth's "Whoa" Boy.

[The Searchlight:] Representative Ben Butterworth was seriously ill for a long time, but recovered. When he was convalescent his personal and political friends called on him and tendered hearty congratulations. Big Ben Butterworth thanked his callers and said:

"Yes, boys, I was so near the other shore that I could hear the bells ringing to welcome me."

"Were they fire bells, pap?" inquired little Frank.

The Mother's Rejoinder.

[New York Tribune:] Rudolph Blankenburg, the reform Mayor of Philadelphia, was praising, at a dinner, the intelligence of woman.

"Woman," he said, "is a realist. She has no illusions. She sees the truth and no matter what ideals it shatters she accepts the truth bravely.

"She accepts it wittily," Mr. Blankenburg continued, with a smile. "In Germantown one evening, as a family sat grouped about the library table, the little son looked up from his book and asked:

"'Papa, what is an egotist?'

"'An egotist,' the father answered, 'is a man who thinks he is cleverer than anyone else.'

"But the mother, laughing coldly, appended:

"'No, my son, that is not quite right. An egotist is a man who says he is cleverer than anyone else—every man thinks he is.'"

CANAL MAKES HEADWAY.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Slightly better progress was made in excavating for the Panama Canal in the month of February than in the preceding month, in spite of heavier rainfall and fewer working days in February. A report cabled to the Canal Commission headquarters today says that in February 2,643,410 cubic yards of earth was taken out, against 2,641,444 cubic yards in January. There were twenty-four working days in February and two more than in January and there was 1.01 inches of rainfall as against .22 in January. The amount of concrete laid in February was 113,464 cubic yards, against 107,681 cubic yards in the previous month and 418,949 cubic yards went into the dams in February, against 476,139 cubic yards in January.

GIRL GUIDE'S ORGANIZING TOUR PLANNED FOR TWO CONTINENTS.

LONDON, March 9.—As if to prove the truth of Rudyard Kipling's theory that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male," the girls of England are out to beat their brothers in scouting. Within a year or so their movement has assumed dimensions far out of proportion to what was anticipated at the outset. Now they aim to spread their enterprise across the seas, and have selected one of their number as a first missionary for the United States, Canada and Australia.

Time was when the appearance of the girls—clad in khaki skirts and the regulation Baden-Powell headgear, with staves and water bottles—in the streets of English cities, roused more ridicule than sympathy. But they stuck to their scouting with enthusiasm, and marched along twith military precision and a sense of responsibility sufficiently marked to indicate that they were bearing a large share of the imperial burdens. Today the prejudice has almost gone. Serious minded people see in the movement an outlet for energy that can be turned to the benefit of the community.

Eight thousand girls, on their own initiative, joined the scouts before influential people overcame their prejudices and volunteered to lead them. They provided their own clothes, found their own drill instructors, appointed scout "masters" from their own ranks and displayed a respect for discipline and a power for organization that startled the astonishment of their elders.

A girl of sixteen, named Violet Temple, was one of the first to catch the must fever and to her may be said to be due the beginning of the Girl Scout movement in this country. When I asked her the other day to explain how the movement had grown so rapidly she replied, "It grew of itself, because it possessed within it all the elements of healthy amusement for girls who desired to occupy their spare time usefully and intelligently."

Miss Temple herself claims no special capacity for organizing, but Miss Baden-Powell, the sister of the famous originator of the scout movement, believes her to be a genius and to test her abilities further it has been arranged that she shall make this world tour during the present year in the interests of the "Baden-Powell Girl Guides"—the name the movement has now assumed.

There are those who deprecate the change in title, fearing that the movement may lose its individuality, but Sir Robert Baden-Powell and the other men and women who have identified themselves with him, feel the alteration is necessary as they desire to remove a popular impression that the association is dominated by a spirit of militarism—and anyway, the name "Girl Guides" has an alliterative attraction. The aim is to make the girls good citizens first, and patriots afterwards, to cultivate powers of observation and self reliance, to promote healthy habits and encourage a spirit of cheerfulness and kindness in all they undertake.

While the girls were left to their own resources there was a tendency to masculinity that threatened to develop elements destructive to the finer and more sympathetic feelings of womanhood. So it was decided to place them under more enlightened guidance. When the change of title came the more militant spirits among the girls threatened to mutiny rather than forsake their name, but when it was pointed out that "Guide" had a distinctly martial flavor, based on military history and records, the female "scout" capitulated and there is again harmony in the camp.

Under the new authority, the equipment of the "Girl Guides" is to be of a most comprehensive character, while the movement generally is expected to meet a big "want" in social economy. In case a country is invaded, the girls will be expected to find the wounded after the battle, to render them first aid, to transport them to hospitals, to improvise ambulances, to make hospital clothing, light fires, cook and nurse.

There are cynics acquainted with the present equipment of the average British young woman who loudly express the hope that England will be spared an invasion yet awhile, if provision has not already been made by the War Office authorities for the contingencies mentioned, but the "Guides" retort that ample consolation for male detractors lies in the fact that cooking is included in their curriculum.

To learn the art of lighting a fire too will be a useful item of education, because to perform that operation easily in an ordinary British open grate on a cold morning demands more patience than an undisciplined person can comfortably command. The housewife of the future, recruited from the ranks of the "Girl Guides," promises to be, in short, a human paragon.

A well-known writer addicted to military subjects believes the Girl Guides will solve the drink problem without legislative bickering or interference and that through their work and influence the British will become a nation of teetotallers.

Others are attracted to the movement because the training develops resourcefulness and a lively imagination. This, they consider, will stimulate interest in lands overseas and the emigration of those who have the requisite grit. They must learn gardening, farming and housekeeping and accustom themselves to the hardships of camp life. They must study the topography of the country and cultivate courage. Perhaps this was the type of woman the poet had in mind when he wrote:

"In the savage tribes the female built the hut and ground the corn,
And in ceaseless strife and struggle forged the strength of the unborn,
Then she fought and toiled and suffered; then her word was law to man,
For the female of the species was the leader in the clan."

Seeing that the leaders of the Guides seek to train the girls for citizenship it is noteworthy that the study of thrift is particularly enforced. In order to make themselves useful to others they must learn useful occupations, but care will be taken that they do nothing to cause them to lose their femininity. They must not strive after the Amazonian ambitions of the female warriors of the King of Dahomey, nor even allow themselves to be fired with the spirit of patriotism exemplified by the oriental women who have been fighting side by side with their men for the establishment of a Chinese republic.

Miss Baden Powell, who is playing the leading part in the organization and government of the Girl Guides, claims that the movement provides inducements for its followers to become proficient in all the womanly essentials. She believes it will bring out most useful qualities, inculcate healthy habits, and stimulate kindness and "camaraderie" to all around them.

There are others, like Lady Massie Blomfield and Major H. T. Stafford, who look upon the movement as a blessing to the State, in so far that it has found an occupation for the leisure time of work girls of an impressionable age who, in numerous cases, up to now have been thrown entirely upon their own resources. Instead of congregating at street corners discussing the latest variety shows the girls now go to their local "headquarters," where they receive instruction towards their comprehensive equipment as Guides. When they are not at "headquarters" they may be seen at exercises in Hyde Park or on Hampstead Heath to their physical, mental and ethical betterment.

RUPERT NEVILLE.

Violet Temple,

The first girl guide, who will soon make a tour of America, Canada and Australia, in the interests of the movement headed by Miss Baden-Powell, sister of Gen. "B.-P." of Boy Scout and Mafeking siege fame.

POLITICAL TIPS.

The movement among Democratic leaders for postponement of the Democratic national convention, which has been called to meet in Baltimore on June 25, does not meet with the approval of many prominent leaders of the party in Washington. They do not believe that the single month's time between the dates of the two conventions will give them sufficient opportunity to fully analyze the work of the Republican convention. In other words, they have little confidence in the merits of their own case and want to take advantage of any mistakes the Republicans may make in their national declaration of principles.

Gov. Goldsborough of Maryland, stands unequivocally for President Taft. The Roosevelt movement has not disconcerted him. "I am for Mr. Taft today, just as I was when I recently made my declaration for him," said the Governor, emphatically.

"I believe that on his record he is plainly entitled to renomination by the Republican party. From the time I first went on record for Mr. Taft to the present moment, I have had no reason for changing my opinion."

Henry Roberts, ex-Governor of Connecticut for two terms, previously Lieutenant-Governor for a similar period, and one of the leading Republicans of the New England States, is in collusion with President Taft and has kept in touch with him ever since. Of the President's nature he says: "He always was open in all that he did, and hated shams, but was inclined to be too trustful of men whom he believed to be his friends and would stand up for them because he was so honest himself that he could not believe dishonesty in others. When he believes that he is right, no pressure can be brought that will make him change, because he knows that he is right, and no explanation will be give of his action. This is where he and Col. Roosevelt split.

"President Taft recognized the independence of Col. Roosevelt, but would not brook any suggestion in the nature of dictation from him after election, as he recognized his office as an official trust between himself and the people.

"Connecticut will send its Republican delegation to the national convention instructed for Taft and will carry the State, and Mr. Roosevelt cannot, in my judgment, with my knowledge of the other New England States the same is true, and I cannot understand Col. Roosevelt's attitude. If he should defeat Mr. Taft for the nomination, he could not carry an eastern State, and if elected, he would not be in as good a position as Mr. Bryan is with the Democrats."

William Barnes, Jr., chairman of the New York Republican State committee, says the Republicans of New York may be relied upon to send a delegation to the national convention favorable to the renomination of President Taft. "The Republicans of the State of New York will be no more be swerved from their plain duty now than they were in 1910, when that State with others refused to hold the party firm in response to the crazed ideas of that year."

Thomas Hadley of Missouri, has been trying to compromise with the Taft leaders in his State so as to have a divided delegation elected to the Republican national convention. At a recent conference, however, he received no definite assurances that his desire would be granted. Hadley is for Roosevelt.

Republicans in ninety counties in Tennessee have expressed Presidential preference. Seventy-two have indorsed President Taft and three Col. Roosevelt.

Conventions held last week in the southern and southeastern sections of Iowa, indorsed President Taft's candidacy.

Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, son-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, returned to Washington, after a visit to Col. Roosevelt in Boston, and announced that he would take no part in the campaign for the selection of delegates to the Chicago convention from his district in Ohio.

Mr. Longworth several weeks ago announced himself in favor of the renomination of President Taft.

"I shall take no part in the selection of delegates to the Republican national convention from my district," said Mr. Longworth.

"Had you thought of being a delegate?" he was asked.

"I had not," he replied.

Gifford Pinchot spoke in "Uncle Joe" Cannon's home town of Danville, Ill., one evening last week, and said a few uncomplimentary things about Mr. Cannon. So chilly was the reception of his remarks that he tried to regain his lost ground by apologizing for saying what he had against Mr. Cannon. Though the meeting was advertised as a Roosevelt progressive affair, Pinchot improved the opportunity to defend his record as forester.

Senator Joseph Bailey of Texas, who, in several different ways, has announced his resignation from further political life, may not be allowed to become a private citizen after all for the people of Texas would generally prefer that he retain his place in the Senate. He is acknowledged to be politically the biggest man in the State.

The fact that the Roosevelt campaign is financially backed by George W. Perkins of the harvester trust, is having a deterrent effect upon the Roosevelt movement in North Dakota. Already candidates nominated for the Presidential electoral college and for national committeemen will not accept the nominations or become candidates. The national committee candidate stated on the floor of the convention that he would not make the race.

Because of these withdrawals the Roosevelt men cannot send a full delegation from North Dakota, so far as the personal preference of the members is concerned.

Former Congressman Brundidge of Arkansas is a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator Jeff Davis. "I am running to fill a vacancy in the Senate," he says in his speeches, "and as the Senator will not stay with the job, and is always paired with Senator Lorimer of Illinois, Senator Davis is considered a joke in the United States Senate, and if you will send me to the Senate I will stay with the job and let Davis attend to his law practice."

The St. Louis Taft Club rolled up a membership of upwards of 1000 during the first week after its organization. Before any one suggested for membership by a friend is elected he is given an opportunity to withdraw, if desired, and an envelope is sent him for that purpose, if the plans of the club do not meet his approval.

Massachusetts is now the only State in the Union with a one-year tenure for its Governor and other elective officers, and the members of the Legislature are giving serious consideration to the demand for biennial instead of annual State elections. The unnecessary cost of annual election in money and wear and tear speaks for itself. Massachusetts has recently adopted the primary for nomination purposes. There are therefore practically two elections every fall, and the expense saddled on the State, as well as on the candidates of the various parties, is much greater than it ever was before or ought to be.

Representative Hanna of North Dakota has announced his candidacy for the Governorship, and that he will quit Congress anyway.

The Executive Committee of the Progressive Republican League of Texas, at a conference held "to decide what man or candidate for President should be supported, as Senator La Follette seems out of the race," by an unanimous vote indorsed President Taft for renomination. Specifically, the committee declared against the nomination of former President Roosevelt, and announced that the league is unalterably opposed to any "third term."

Senator Gronna of North Dakota says: "We are going to carry the State for La Follette. We have to buy harvesters in North Dakota." Because of the prominence in the Roosevelt campaign of George W. Perkins, a director in the International Harvester Company, and Medill McCormick, a member of the well-known McCormick family who are large holders of the stock of the Harvester Company, the North Dakota farmers look upon the recent raise of the price of its products as an assessment for campaign purposes.

Oklahoma is a Democratic twin, with ten delegates for Wilson and ten for Clark. This was the best that could be done by the delegates to the convention after a stormy all-night session.

Representative Ellerby, the tall, loose-jointed Representative from South Carolina, electrified some three hundred guests at Congressional Hall, Washington, when he permitted his enthusiasm for Speaker Clark to run away with him and sang in a rollicking basso profundo the five verses of the Clark campaign song. The orchestra had just finished a medley of airs from "The Pink Lady" when the tall South Carolina member unlimbered himself and drew his six feet two inches up to their greatest height. "Ah'd like to rendah some o' this yere musical entertainment myse'f," he announced. "Go ahead!" shouted several of the men present, and then Mr. Elleby's fine bass voice rolled forth those touching words:

Every time I come to town,
The boys keep ah' kickin my dawg
aroun'
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They's got to quit kickin' my dawg
aroun'.

Curiously enough, Mr. Clark does not like the little ditty dedicated to his personal political interests, which has led to the suggestion that possibly since he himself has been so badly treated by Representative Underwood he feels too keen a sympathy for the "daws" to appreciate the humor of the composition.

EDUCATORS.

President George Morgan Wood of Wells College, Aurora, N. Y., has sent his resignation to the trustees of the college on the ground of ill-health. He has been in poor health for three years and has spent much of his time in the South. He is now at Palm Beach.

Dr. L. Conradi of Clark University has trained young sparrows to sing by simply putting them in a cage with canaries. Prof. M. E. Haggerty of Indiana University has been conducting experiments along the same line, and he says it is now a known fact that the young sparrow, when placed with the canary, will imitate that bird and pick up many of its notes.

R. H. Scott, who has just been elected president of the North Renfrew Agricultural Society of Ottawa, Can., has been blind from childhood. He is a machinery agent and horse dealer, and travels about the United States and Canada unassisted, buying horses, which he judges solely by the sense of touch. His judgment is rarely at fault, it is said.

Prof. Charles James of New Hampshire College is to receive the Nichols Medal for proficiency in chemistry at the next meeting of the American Chemical Society. Prof. James has charge of the chemical department of the State College.

Dr. George W. Hubbard, dean of Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn., is seeking funds for the extension of the work of the institution, which is the first of its kind for the education of negro physicians. During the thirty-six years the college has been established 1056 students have been graduated in medicine, 195 in dentistry, 164 in pharmacy, and thirty in nurse training. These constitute about one-half of all the regularly graduated physicians, dentists and pharmacists in the southern States.

Dr. H. C. Whiting, for eight years a medical missionary in Korea, has returned to the United States. The Koreans, he says, are far from being a warlike people. The soldier in Korea occupies a station in the lowest class of society. When the Korean has tried everything and failed he turns to soldiering. The Korean soldier and the policeman are in the same class with the brigand.

Dr. Benzion Mossinsohn, head of the Hebrew High School of Jaffa, Palestine, is in the United States in the interest of Hebrew education in the Holy Land. He is an authority on and has spent the best part of his career in the origination and perfection of a complete system of Hebrew instruction, thoroughly Jewish, and based on the best modern methods. He also is one of the most prominent leaders in the Palestine Jewish settlement movement, to which he has given a great deal of thought and hard work.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Redlands Rancher Runs Over Pedestrian With Automobile and the Victim May Not Recover.

REDLANDS, March 9.—Mrs. Gertrude Aldridge, a saleswoman, was run over by an auto driven by D. J. Carpenter, a wealthy rancher, yesterday and is lying in a serious condition in the Redlands Hospital. The extent of her injuries has not been determined and it is anticipated that internal complications may set in.

The accident happened on what is known locally as the "death curve," it being the intersection of Fifth, Vine and Cajon streets. On Fifth street there is a compound curve with tall buildings on both sides which make it extremely dangerous. Mrs. Aldridge was walking on Fifth street and was crossing over to the south side of Vine. She became confused by the tooting of the horn on Mr. Carpenter's machine. The machine was going at a rapid rate when it struck her, carrying her for fifty feet on the radiator. Then she fell to the pavement and was run over. The machine did not stop until it had gone forty feet further.

ENGINE DIES.

The engine in the auto driven by F. M. Hunter went "dead" this morning about 9:30 o'clock as he was crossing Orange street near Pearl, in front of an interurban car, leaving the machine standing on the track. The car struck the auto carrying it ten yards, breaking the hind axle. Mr Hunter sat in his seat while he was being carried on the fender of the car and was unhurt.

BLOWN OFF THE TRACK.

Engineer Tommy Welch, who drives the engine of the 10:35 Santa Fe train, was today telling of a thrilling experience a small child had yesterday morning as the train was pulling into Redlands.

The child was standing on one of the rails at a curve and was not seen by Engineer Welch or his fireman until the engine was within a few yards of it. He quickly applied the emergency break, but before he had done that the engine had passed over the spot and he thought the child had been crushed beneath the wheels. He stopped the train as quickly as possible and the whole crew ran back to the place. The mother, who had seen the child at about the same time Engineer Welch had seen it, had picked it up and was carrying it back to her home. It is supposed that the great pact of the air driven before the engine blew the child off the track before the engine struck it. The child was badly frightened and slightly bruised, but otherwise escaped uninjured.

NOTED VISITOR.

Arrangements have been made for the reception of Hon. Nell Nellson, former member of the Australian Parliament and now the Trade and Irrigation Commissioner to the United States and Canada, who will be here next Tuesday to deliver an address before the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church. He will be shown over the city by the Reception Commitee of the Board of Trade during the afternoon.

His Cup Runneth Over.

[New Haven Register:] The Hon. Daniel P. Dunn of Willimantic feels that the cup of his glory runs over, that his laurels are fully as heavy as a man of modest stature ought to bear. He has been now elected Mayor of the city where they make much thread for four consecutive times, his majority growing with each returning election. He now self-sacrificingly announces that when this term is completed he will step aside and give ordinary persons a chance. Willimantic would feel strange without him as Mayor, but it will have two years more in which to prepare to get used to it. And possibly he will change his mind.

TWO MEN HELD FOR SHOOTING.

Death of Deputy Sheriff Is Charged to Them.

British Columbian Is Found Dead on Railroad.

Railroad Traffic Is Heavy on Tucson Division.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 9.—Thursday night at Red Rock, William Dodson, Deputy Sheriff of Pinal county, was shot by Frank Nort, a cook, and died the following day in the hospital in this city. Death was due to loss of blood, as the bullet cut an artery in the left arm. The shooting took place in the Ranier Hotel. The proprietor of the place, W. J. Crowell, who also is justice of the peace of Red Rock precinct, was arrested with Nort, charged with being accessory to the crime. Both have been taken to Florence and there imprisoned to await trial. There had been trouble between Crowell and Dodson for several months past and when the shooting occurred there appeared to be popular judgment on the spot that the justice of the peace was at the bottom of it. At the time Crowell was in his room, apparently asleep. He tells that a crowd of men broke in upon him, that the muzzle of a rifle was jammed to his mouth and another was thrust against his ribs and that he was threatened with lynching. He claimed to have had no knowledge whatever of the affair.

PRONOUNCED SUICIDE.

A short distance from Tucson, beside the Southern Pacific tracks, has been found, the body of John L. Brant of Caslo, B. C. Through the heart was a knife and a blood-stained buckhorn hunting knife was found beside the corpse. At first it was thought a case of foul play but the officers have demonstrated to their own satisfaction that it was suicide. Apparently the man, leaning back against a telegraph pole, drove the knife into his heart and then fell forward. He was about 50 years of age, well dressed and apparently prosperous. Nearby was an open valise containing papers including a receipt for membership in the Eagles, deeds for town lots in Waukesha, Wash., and some certificates of mining stock.

Saturday afternoon Chesley Aldrich committed suicide at his home in this city on account of ill health. He placed the barrel of a shotgun against his breast and pushed the trigger with a stick. A wife and young son survive him.

BURNS RIVAL'S WIG.

An odd case of assault has been heard by Justice of the Peace Comstock, who confessed himself unable to do more than solemnly warn the defendant against further depredations. Kate Trice, colored, and Georgia Shepherd, also colored, for months have been annoying each other as best they could. The honors of war in the latest engagement went to Miss Shepherd, who on the public street snatched away her enemy's wig, alleged to have cost $25, and with a savage war dance and loud outcry proceeded forthwith to make a bonfire of the loot.

Another incident of justice court was the behavior of Lupe Terrano, a young Mexican girl, who, when sentenced to ten days' imprisonment for misdemeanor, outraged the court with a vigorous wordy attact upon him, couched in the vilest terms of the Spanish language. So the court added eighty days more to the original sentence as an indication that the dignity of his office will be maintained.

Final distribution of the $140,000 estate of the late Herbert B. Tenney has just been made by F. H. Hereford and M. F. Freeman, executors of the estate, which is now closed. The heirs to the Tenney estate are Tenney D. Williams of this city; his sister, Mrs. Mattie Humphrey of Louisville, Ky., and their mother, Mrs. Marie Williams of San Jose, Cal.

KEPT ACCOUNTS IN HEAD.

Property valued at $100,000 has been appraised in Tucson, belonging to the estate of the late Martin Costello of Los Angeles. The main item of the schedule is the Willard Hotel on South Sixth avenue and a saloon building on West Congress street. Inasmuch as Costello kept his accounts mainly in his own head, much difficulty is being found in the administration of his estate. Only lately discovery was made of a number of valuable notes, stored away by Costello and not entered in any of his account books.

Mrs. Lucia Guana has sued the Southern Pacific Company for $10,000 damages for the death of her husband, Manuel Guana, killed in the Benson roundhouse in March, 1910, while in the employ of the company. A feature of the case is that the company has a receipt from the woman, on payment to her at the time of the death, of $100, releasing the company from further liability. She now claims that this money was accepted merely for funeral expenses.

The Chamber of Commerce has engaged Selim M. Franklin and City Attorney Curley to draft a new charter for Tucson under the commission form of government.

RAILROAD TRAFFIC IMPROVES.

Freight and passenger traffic is so heavy on the Southern Pacific that a large number of trainmen have been brought from other divisions. More men are employed around the machine shops than ever before on the Tucson division. An indication that the strike is over is shown by the fact that the boarding-house within the shop inclosure has been closed. The workmen now are living in the city, practically without molestation.

Despite the revolution, the State of Sonora is spending $20,000 on installation of machinery within the State prison at Hermosillo, with the intention of giving a mechanical education to the convicts, and incidentally securing some benefit to the State from the labor thus utilized.

H. V. Anaya, formerly an attorney of this city, and Deputy United States Marshal, has returned from a visit to Guaymas, and has taken oath of office as Mexican Consul here. Only lately he became a Mexican citizen. His recent visit to Sonora was for the purpose of taking fifty rounds of ammunition to Hermosillo. He states that the Guaymas garrison lately was strengthened by the addition of 200 Yaquis, 300 Pimas and 200 regular Mexican soldiers.

WILL DELAY WORK.

WASHINGTON, (D. C.) March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Through the refusal of the contractor to live up to his bids on the Santa Barbara public building, it becomes necessary for the Treasury Department to modify the drawings for the building so as to reduce the cost. This will require some time and naturally will delay, by some months, the beginning of work on the building.

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE.

Visalia Woman Draws Cash From Bank for Sharks, but Is Saved by Her Friends.

VISALIA, March 9.—Mrs. Sam Kelly, a widow of this city, can thank her lucky stars that she is not this morning poorer by $950 which she drew from the bank yesterday to give to Mrs. W. R. Burton, an alleged fortune teller who has been operating here for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Burton looked into the future for Mrs. Kelly and promised that in return for a sum of money the widow should be led to a cache of buried treasure near this city, the value of which was averred to run into the thousands. Mrs. Burton alleged great affection for Mrs. Kelly, by reason of which she promised that the entire treasure should be hers. The money in question was required for the purpose of making surveys and excavation.

Charles Griffith, cashier of the bank from which Mrs. Kelly drew her funds, was suspicious that Mrs. Kelly was being made the victim of sharpers and reported the circumstances to the officers. Fortunately for the widow the police arrested Mrs. Burton and three woman companions, whose names were not given, a few minutes after Mrs. Kelly had turned the money over to them.

By reason of Mrs. Kelly's reluctance to testify against the sharpers they were allowed to leave town.

RECLAMATION PLANS.

Tulare Lake reclamation plans, which are now being seriously discussed and which will result if carried out as planned, in the development of 150,000 acres of bottom land, have brought forth a decided protest from ranchers who own property along the San Joaquin river and there is already serious talk of bringing legal proceedings to restrain the promoters from doing the proposed work.

It is stated by engineers who have given study to the plans that if the lake is drained into the San Joaquin river as planned, during the rainy season it will result in dangerous floods to all of the low lands along the river.

Steps are now being taken by large property owners along the river to organize for a long legal battle and preparations are now under way to cite the promoters to appear in court the moment an attempt is made to start actual work.

American Roses for England.

[Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin:] The rose is England's emblematic flower. It might seem as unlikely that America would be called upon to furnish roses for England as that ties for Scotland or shamrocks for Ireland. Nevertheless, English royalty for many years has been in the habit of sitting down to a Yuletide table decked with roses grown in the United States. The practice began in Queen Victoria's time, and was continued when King Edward ruled. This year Queen Alexandra's Christmas table was adorned with 200 American beauty roses from the greenhouse of L. A. Noe of Madison, N. J. The order was for the largest, finest specimens, with the longest stems that could be found. A great deal of intellect and taste and care have gone into the cultivation of roses in America, and it need not occasion wonder if American roses "beat the world." The historian Francis Parkman did not live by authorship alone, but was a rose grower for profit, and a very beautiful rose which he brought to perfection is known by his latinized name.

Anthracite coal advances in price, notwithstanding miners' strike.

J. P. Morgan arrives in England, in good health.

International Smelting and Refining now earning about 14 per cent. on stock.

Harriman estate now estimated about $150,000,000.

Bluxberger and Sons declared regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on preferred stock, payable April 1, to stock of March 15.

Twelve industrials advanced .13 per cent. Twenty active rails advanced .09 per cent.

Today's market showed a very good undertone, the principal features being the advance in Lehigh Valley and American Can issues. Buying in Lehigh seems to be good and looks as if it were for insiders interests. The bi speculation, particularly the coppers are displaying strength from day to day and it must be acknowledged that the improvement in the metal situation is getting around and what change in sentiment for the better we believe this is a good fundamental basis for higher prices throughout the list later on. The bank statement was without any particular feature.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS

The general market was featureless. There was only a moderate volume of business and sales were confined to small lots. The rain kept many prospective buyers away from the market, but telephonic orders were liberally received. The outside shipping was light. Trade in fresh fruits was quiet, and what little moved was in one and two-box lots to meet immediate demands. Oranges arrivals were liberal. Prices were steady, but the undertone was not especially firm. Only fancy stock commanded top prices, the majority of the offerings sold at $1 per box.

Lemons were a slow sale with very little stock finding its way in on the market. Many dealers are curtailing their orders to growers, due to small slow sales. Prices, however, were maintained at former rates. Tangerines were in poor demand and for small stock dealers made concessions to buyers.

Vegetable receipts were only moderate, and the market displayed no new features. There was a good call for asparagus, cabbage, and celery, but other vegetables were inclined to drag. Asparagus was well held at 13 cents for extra fancy stock, while inferior white grass sold around the 8-cent mark. Cabbages were down at the old range of figures. Celery ruled firmer, fancy large crates from the Sacramento district sold at $5.75. Green peas were scarce, and ruled along the top levels for desirable stock.

The egg market was steady. There was only a moderate demand for all grades. While the market the earlier part of the week was inclined to fluctuate, the close of the week found the market stationary at 23 cents for candled stock. Weather conditions will be largely responsible for the future trend of the market, although it is unlikely that prices will go much lower than at present. Receipts were 708 cases.

The butter market was barely steady at prevailing quotations. There was only a moderate demand for creamery extras and firsts at the old range of figures. Ladle and country butter dragged. Arrivals were 31,625 pounds.

Liberal receipts of cheese in nowise affected the firm tone of the market. The bulk of the arrivals were eastern and Oregon. Northern fresh stock was in very light receipt and dealers firmly upheld the prevailing price of 21 cents on this variety. Arrivals were 2914 pounds.

The potato market closed firm with an advancing tendency and it is probable that at least some grades will be higher at the end of the next week that they now are. A 25 market would not be unlooked for under present conditions. Highlands were best in call at from $2.35 to $2.85 per hundred weight. Arrivals were 2823 sacks.

The scarcity of yellow danvers onions forced the market on this variety up 25 cents, the stock selling at $2.50 per hundred weight. Other varieties were firm and unchanged. No receipts were reported in.

Beans and sweet potatoes were firm. Sweet potato receipts were twenty-six sacks.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE.

Rapid Advance of Security Trust and Savings Stock Is the Feature of the Local Market.

Two features distinguished the market on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. One was the announcement that the Amalgamated Oil Company would pay an extra dividend of $3 a share on March 25, and another extra dividend of $1 a share on April 24. This stock has steadily gone up during the past few months from around $40 a share until now it is held at $64. The Amalgamated is a subsidiary of the Associated Oil Company, and the earnings from its gusher wells in the Fullerton field are responsible for its present dividend-paying position.

Mexican Petroleum common opened stronger than the close of the day before, but closed at 44.75, off 25 cents a share from Friday. The preferred was bid at 76 a share. Union was also off, closing at 97.87 1-2, and in the low-proceed oil issues National Pacific was off, closing at 3 5-8 cents a share.

The other big feature of the market was the advance of Security Trust and Savings stock, and the activity that accompanied the rise in price. Friday the closing bid was 430 a share, but yesterday sales were made as high as 445, and in all ninety-five shares changed hands. First National stock was bid up to 635 a share, which is a record price, and German-American Savings was bid up to 391.50, with 450 asked.

Thirty shares of Emergency Hospital sold off board at 32.25. There was little doing in the mining department.

SAN FRANCISCO EXCHANGE.

Tonopah Sticks the Center of Attraction—News from the Other Camps.

[Special Service to The Times by R. F. Taylor, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—Tonopah stocks are still the center of attraction, Jim Butler closing with a 5 point gain; Montana was the strongest, gaining 6¾, closing 215 bid; sales at the opening were 1¾. McNamara was up a point; North Star, 4; Rescue, 1; Tonopah Ex., 7½; West End, 2½. The strongest kind of news is coming from the Tonopah camp regarding the physical condition of the properties and the public is taking hold. Halifax, which is controlled by the West End crowd, sold 300,000 shares. Treasury stock at 1¼ is now strong on the New York curb at 2¼ bid. The Manhattans were practically unchanged.

In the outlying camps Pittsburg Silver Peak made a new high for recent times, closing 160 bid; Nevada Hills was up 2½.

The Goldfield stocks were strong but not particularly unchanged from last night. Goldfield Consolidated made a gain of 13½; Florence was up 1, Booth and Blue Bull sold at 20, Merger was up a point.

Mexican was the weakest stock in the Comstock division, losing 15 points; the balance were practically unchanged from yesterday.

NEW YORK, March 9.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Bar silver, 58¼.

E. S. Vandyke, secretary of the Jumbo Extension Co., is out with a bullish letter on the property, and says it will soon be the second largest producer in Goldfield and that in future the stockholders will be the first to receive news from the property.

Gorge Wingfield gave a banquet in Goldfield last night at which he said that hoists would be put on the Booth and Blue Bull properties at once. Minimum fluctuations on stocks selling above $10 and below $25 per share will be 5 cents instead of 12½ cents. The minimum fluctuation on the New York curb is 5¼ per cent. and it is believed that this change will encourage arbitrage trading between here and New York.

The annual report of the Florence company states that the net loss on account of the fire after collecting insurance was $212,480. During the year the company operated with a net deficit of $47,007 and closed the year with cash on hand, $44,098.

Pittsburg Silver Peak reports net earning for six months ending December 31, of $128,735, and the Mohawk Alpine net earnings, $80,174; interest, $2,236. Total net earnings, $228,344, and surplus $201,714.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—Another disturbance is apparently moving inland from the ocean over the Southwest and a central this morning over the Southern California coast. Rain has set in over Southern California and Northern Arizona, and generally unsettled weather prevails over the South Pacific slope. Rain has occurred generally from the Rocky Mountains eastward during the last twenty-four hours, due to a storm off the Middle Atlantic coast. Over the Plains States and in the Pacific Northwest fair weather has prevailed, with lower temperature than usual. The southwestern disturbance is expected to cause a continuation of unsettled, showery weather in Los Angeles and vicinity Sunday.

FORECASTS.—For Los Angeles and vicinity: Unsettled, showery weather Sunday; southerly winds.

For Pasadena, Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino: Unsettled, showery weather Sunday.

For Ventura, Santa Barbara and Orange counties: Rain Sunday; moderate southeast winds.

For Santa Clara Valley: Rain Sunday; moderate southeast wind.

For Sacramento Valley: Rain Sunday; moderate southeast wind.

For San Joaquin Valley: Rain Sunday; moderate southeast wind.

For Nevada: Rain Sunday; high southeast wind.

TONE AT THE OPENING HEAVY AND IRREGULAR.

Early Conditions Give Way to Some Activity and Stiffening of Prices Under the Lead of the Copper Shares, in Which Amalgamated Makes High Rise.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 9.—Trading on the New York Exchange during the day's two-hour session was not characterized by any special feature. The tone at the opening was rather heavy and irregular, a condition which later gave way to some activity and stiffening of prices under the lead of the copper shares, in which Amalgamated Copper was distinguished by rising above its high price of 63. Of the active group, United States Steel showed some selling pressure, which may or may not have been on the "unfilled tonnage" figure of February. A further reduction in the number of idle freight cars was shown when reported, pointing the unused equipment down to a low mark. European advices reported quietly on changes in conditions that have affected to more important markets throughout the week. The bank statement showed an increase of almost $20,000 in loans, a loss of more than $4,500,000, and a consequent increase in surplus reserve of $4,423,425, bringing the surplus cash reserve down to $6,575,425. The bank statement was steady. Total net, per value, $1,226,000. United States bonds will be called for 4s advanced ¼, the 3s registered ½ and the coupon 1s ¼ per cent. on all being the week.

SECURES PERMIT FOR FINE BLOCK.

Pasadena Capitalist Projects Notable Improvement.

Building Is for Use of Large Furniture Concern.

Syndicate Buys Valuable Lot in Los Angeles.

PASADENA, March 10.—W. C. Mason, of No. 965 Lincoln avenue, last week obtained a permit from the city for the erection of a $72,500 business block at Nos. 268 to 278 East Colorado street, for which he expects soon to break ground. The building will be a three-story brick structure and will be used as a furniture store by the firm of Boadway Bros.

The site is just east of the Guirnalda Hotel and is now improved with two small frame buildings, which will be either moved or razed. C. W. Buchanan and L. C. Brockway are the architects who have drawn the plans, and the contract has been let to the firm of Crowell and Seward. It is expected that the building will be completed by the last of July or the first of August, and that the furniture store will open for business in the fall.

The building will have a frontage on Colorado street of 75 feet and a depth of 250 feet. The foundations will be of concrete and it will be a substantial and handsome structure. It is being erected especially for the furniture firm, which has taken a long lease on it.

BIG SALE IS MADE.

A sale in which the consideration was between $75,000 and $80,000 was made last week by the David Blankenhorn Company of this city. Three Pasadena purchasers took over a valuable lot on Grand avenue near the corner of Seventh street, Los Angeles. The names of the purchasers are withheld. The property was sold by J. Harvey McCarthy, president of the Pioneer Investment and Trust Company. The purchase is made for an investment and no plans as to improvements have been made as yet. It is situated a block from the new Los Angeles Athletic Club building.

Another sale made last week by the David Blankenhorn Company was that of the former residence of Mrs. H. M. Granger, at No. 714 St. John avenue, which was purchased by John Munger, assistant city attorney of Pasadena. The consideration has not been announced. Mrs. Granger expects to go to Syracuse, N. Y., to live.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Of building permits issued at the office of the City Building Inspector last week, those calling for improvements to cost $1000, or more, were:

W. C. Mason, three-story, brick business block, at Nos. 268 to 278 East Colorado street, $72,000.

W. G. Wauer, two-story, brick building at No. 1286 North Fair Oaks avenue, $3800.

L. W. Jutten, two-story, twelve-room, frame residence, at No. 272 Markham street, $9000.

CREIGHTON RANCH SOLD.

Deal Closed by Northwest Investors for Acquisition of Large Tract on Lower Tule River.

PORTERVILLE, March 9.—Owing to the rainstorms of the past week there has not been the usual activity in realty in this district. This is particularly true of country property. Some transfers of city property are reported and some building projects are now under way, chiefly by reason of the improved conditions.

Washington investors have closed a deal for the purchase of the Creighton ranch, consisting of 4280 acres on the Lower Tule River. This is one of the oldest and best-known properties in this section. The ranch is all plow land and is said to be one of the best large tracts of alfalfa land in this district.

The sum of $150,000 was paid for the property and it is stated that work is to start at once putting the entire ranch into alfalfa. When the place is all checked and sowed, the new owners expect to stock it with fine cattle and to make of it a model dairy and fine stock ranch.

O. G. Tucker of Los Angeles, E. C. Eldridge of Covina and W. Lowery of El Monte have purchased forty acres of orange land in Grand View Heights, a foothill colony southeast of this city. The land is beautifully situated on the western slope of the foothills and has the making of one of the finest ranches in this district. Mr. Tucker has made a careful investigation of this tract and temperature tests show that the land is extremely well adapted to the culture of Valencias.

Contracts have been signed up for the delivery of trees in spite of the comparatively high price of nursery and tree stock at this time. Messrs. Tucker, Eldridge and Lowery hope to make of their place one of the show tracts of the foothills.

John Shuey of Covina has just purchased ten acres of orange land of the Moxley-Potter people, five miles south of Terra Bella. Mr. Shuey has bought for immediate development and has already contracted for an irrigation system. He will plant out the tract to early navels as soon as weather conditions warrant.

George Langenberg and E. W. Lloyd have purchased the ninety-acre ranch in Frazier Valley formerly the property of E. W. Snell of Pomona. Frazier Valley lands have come to the front in the past year, with the solution of the water question. A well-defined water dyke has been mapped through the district and good wells are now being brought in with very little expense. The new owners of the Snell lands expect to develop them in ten-acre units.

Contracts were let this week for the erection of the Monache Block, which is to be erected in the Main-street business district for Mrs. Emma Williams of Santa Monica. This is to be a class A structure, two stories in height, with quarters for three stores on the lower floor and modern apartments in the second story. The contract price will be approximately $35,000.

Compton Persons Recognize Harris and Widower of Slain Woman Swears to Complaint.

Burr L. Harris, colored, was formally charged, yesterday, with having killed Mrs. Haskins, near Compton, September 5, William Haskins, the husband, swore to the complaint, which was made out by Justice of the Peace Edwards of Compton. A warrant, predicated upon the complaint, was placed in Constable Davis's hands for service and he called at the Central Police Station and formally demanded the prisoner, but his request was denied. Later Davis was informed that tomorrow he will be permitted to serve the warrant upon Harris and take him to Compton for arraignment. The alleged slayer will be before Justice Edwards as near 10 o'clock tomorrow morning as possible.

When the widower swore to the complaint he was laboring under the false impression that Detectives Jones and Erven, who are handling the case, were going to release Harris unless additional evidence was obtained. He said he was thoroughly convinced that Harris is the killer. Scores of Compton persons went to Haskins's support, urging him to take the step, which he did.

Detectives Jones and Erven said they had no intention of releasing Harris from the moment he was arrested last Tuesday. Since then he has been positively identified by a dozen persons as the colored man riding the motorcycle seen in and about Compton the day of the crime.

Three men, a woman and two little girls called at the police station yesterday and instantly picked Harris from among the other colored men in the room.

PERRIS.

PERRIS, March 9.—The city Board of Trustees received a bid from Hook Bros., to furnish oil for the city pumping plant at $1.35 per barrel and 10 cents off if paid in thirty days, making the price $1.25 net per barrel, delivered. The chairman was instructed to close the contract for a year. The City Clerk was ordered to purchase election supplies.

Crandall and Pierce have just finished putting down a number of wells in the valley. C. W. Hollbaugh, who recently purchased forty acres north of town, has had a twenty-inch well, 261 feet deep, sunk on his property with 125 feet of water bearing gravel. They are at present sinking a twelve-inch well for S. Brown on his ranch north of town. Besides these wells this firm has the contract to sink a number of wells in the Elsinore and Temecula country.

The W.C.T.U. held a meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Howery. A splendid programme was given in charge of Mrs. Mapes. Topic: "The Responsibility of Woman at the Polls." The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Nettie Wilson, president; Mrs. Helen Wood, first vice-president; Mrs. Innis Howery, second vice-president; Mrs. Mary Miller, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Sally Scott recording secretary, and Miss Iona Mapes, treasurer.

WITH MIRROR HE SEES OPERATION.

SURGEON DIRECTS REMOVAL OF TUMOR FROM OWN JAW.

Takes No Anaesthetic and Does Not Even Lie Down—Confesses to Feeling Severe Pain, but Does Not Wince or Change Color—Comments on Job.

Police Surgeon Zerfing took an active part in an operation performed upon himself yesterday afternoon by Dr. Kidder, one of his assistants in the Receiving Hospital.

As the latter physician deftly wielded the scalpel, Dr. Zerfing directed operations by watching the incision and removal of a tumor by looking in a small mirror which he held in his left hand.

Although the surgeon suffered much pain the hand which held the mirror did not tremble, and there was no change of facial color and expression as Dr. Kidder closed the wound by taking two stitches. Half an hour after the first incision was made, the wound had been closed, and Dr. Zerfing coolly remarked:

"I guess that chap up in San Francisco who is said to have performed an operation for appendicitis upon himself, hasn't so much on me."

Some days ago Dr. Zerfing made the discovery that a tumor was growing under his left jaw. It was caused, as later developments showed, by an ingrowing hair. Not considering the operation of sufficient importance to take an anesthetic, the surgeon asked Dr. Kidder if he had the nerve to operate upon him as he sat in a chair.

"I'll direct operations by looking in a hand glass, and you can do the rest," said Dr. Zerfing.

"I get you," instantly replied Dr. Kidder, and the next minute the chief surgeon was taking off his collar, and Dr. Kidder was hunting for his sharpest knife.

Dr. Zerfing seated himself in an ordinary office chair. His neck was carefully washed and other surgical precautions taken. When all was in readiness Dr. Zerfing picked up his mirror, pointed to the spot, and told Dr. Kidder to proceed.

Dr. Kidder made an incision about an inch and a half long, and a fraction of an inch deep. Although the blood ran freely and Dr. Zerfing said blood ran freely and Dr. Zerfing said he not say stop or once ask his assistant to be a little more careful. With fine steel instruments, Dr. Kidder lifted up the small tumor, and with a snip of a sharp knife cut it from its fastenings close to the bone. The wound was then saturated and stitched.

"Thank you, sir," said Dr. Zerfing, as he got up out of the chair and bowed low to Dr. Kidder.

"You are entirely welcome," replied Dr. Kidder, bowing equally low. "Come again."

Putting on his coat and hat, Dr. Zerfing went out to buy a clean collar—the one he was wearing having been soiled with a few blood stains—just as though nothing unusual had happened.

WILL GROW DATES.

The people of Riverside county are watching with considerable interest the process of planting by the firm of Moyer & Gilbert of 480 acres about 130 miles from Los Angeles with date palms. The firm has been on the ground for the past three years, during which time careful experiments in date culture have been carried on. In the same vicinity the government has also obtained satisfactory proof that dates can be successfully grown in Southern California. Water has been developed by Moyer & Gilbert in the section in which they are interested, and the land has been well improved. The trees are being planted fifty to the acre.

GAIN IS LARGE.

To date for the month of March the Chief Inspector of Buildings has issued 265 permits for new structures of all kinds, these representing a valuation of $367,012. This is an increase of $218,000 in valuation over the corresponding period of last year.

BIG HOTEL FOR WEST SECOND.

To Be Nine Stories High and Absolutely Fireproof.

Structure Leased for Period of Ten Years.

Will Be Ready for Occupancy Next October.

Noteworthy among the larger building projects of the year to date is the nine-story hotel to be erected by F. W. Braun at the southwest corner of Second and Clay streets, excavations for which were started yesterday. The building was planned by W. J. Saunders, architect of several large warehouse structures erected by Mr. Braun during the past two years and of other noteworthy improvements in this city. The Barber-Bradley Construction Company has the general contract for the construction at approximately $100,000, this figure being exclusive of all fixtures and appointments.

The hotel has been leased for a term of ten years by James Kincheloe, at a total rental of close to $290,000. The deal was handled through the agency of Myron H. Wells, manager of the lease and business rental department of Mines & Farish. Kincheloe, who was at one time owner of the Argonaut and San Gabriel hotels of this city, will himself conduct the big Second-street hostelry, which will be elaborately and handsomely appointed throughout. He expects to take possession next October.

The project is of especial interest as showing the sterling value of downtown frontage north of Fourth street, revealing, as it does, the confidence of a leading capitalist in this older section of the city. The building will be the fourth great reinforced concrete structure started on West Second street in the past two years. Within the period in question there have been completed the ten-story Higgins Block at Second and Main, the ten-story California building at Second and Broadway, and the nine-story Union League building at Second and Hill. The projected hotel will stand about 170 feet west of the last-named structure and on the opposite side of Second street.

OF MONOLITHIC TYPE.

The building planned by Mr. Saunders will be of the latest monolithic concrete type and absolutely fireproof. It will front sixty-five feet on Second street by a depth of 120 feet on Clay street. At its Clay-street front the building will be nine stories in height, standing, as it will, on the slope of Second street, it will be eight stories high at its west elevation.

The hotel will contain 186 guest-rooms on the eight upper stories, as well as a lobby 30x65 feet in size, a ladies' parlor 12x32 feet, and a dining-room 66x40 feet, the last-named rooms being on the main story opening from Second street. The dining-room will be finished in hard wood and the lobby will be in mahogany, with tile floors. Two elevators will be installed.

The lower story, opening onto Clay street, will contain a cafeteria, as well as the heating and power plant and storage rooms. The roof will be converted into a roof garden for the use of the guests. The architecture of the building will be simple, leaning to Spanish Renaissance lines.

The hostelry will occupy the site of the old Carling Hotel, a three-story frame structure erected many years ago. Mr. Braun is having this building removed to the rear of a lot on the west side of Flower street, fifty feet south of Court street. The structure is to be completely remodeled from plans by Mr. Saunders, who is now drawing plans for a three-story hotel building to occupy the front on the same lot and to be added to the old building.

BUY HUGE CITRUS TRACT.

Large Acreage in Frostless Area of Tulare County Acquired by Syndicate—To Be Placed on Market.

M. S. Robertson reports the purchase of 3600 acres of citrus land in Tulare county, four miles north of Orosi, for a consideration of $288,000. The land is located in a natural cove, and is declared to be as near frostless as can be found in this coming early citrus belt of California.

Robertson and associates have formed a corporation under the laws of California and will do business under the name of the Orosi Orange Land Company, with offices at No. 301 Story building. Frank S. Lower is president, and M. S. Robertson, secretary and treasurer. The land is being subdivided into ten and twenty-acre tracts and will be placed on the market at once.

PLANNING FINE GARAGE.

Mitchell Car to Be Housed in Two-Story Building at Flower and Twelfth Streets.

Plans for a two-story garage, to be erected at the northeast corner of Flower and Twelfth streets by the Greer-Robbins Company, agents for the Mitchell car, are in course of preparation in the offices of R. B. Young & Son. The structure projected will be of reinforced concrete construction and as modern as any building of its type in the city.

The sale of the site to the company in question was handled through the agency of Glenn N. Deuel, with the Wright & Callender Co., E. P. Bryan being the seller. The property has a frontage of a fraction over seventy-nine feet on Flower by 155 feet on Twelfth. The consideration involved in the transfer is reported at $56,000.

INVESTS ON SOUTH HILL.

Capitalist Pays Large Consideration for Valuable Frontage, Near Ninth.

Through the agency of McConnell & Irvine, John R. Vogel, purchased, during the past week, a lot 50x155 feet in size at No. 916 South Hill street, paying a consideration of $82,000. The Booth Investment Company was the seller of the property.

The site is only nominally improved and yields an income of about $50 a month. Vogel bought for investment, but may later decide to improve the holding with a substantial building.

FACT AND COMMENT.

Those who have for weeks been indulging in dismal worries on account of the lack of rain must be steeped in bliss as the result of the weather man's recent copious offerings. All the calamities conjured up by the pessimist, all the doleful predictions, all the knockings have been set at naught. Those who have been volubly wishing for "even a dash of rain" have got it—with emphasis on the dash. Both prayer and the rain machine have been vindicated. The oldest inhabitant is gleefully maintaining that he knew all the time it had to rain.

To say that everyone is overjoyed at the recent downpour is to put it too mildly, for there is no superlative that will quite express the universal pleasure. All eyes are glued to the sky to see if still more rain is coming. The weather is the meeting and parting topic of every conversation.

It is a real treat to see the hills green again. The dust has been scoured out of the surcharged atmosphere. There is a better feel in the air. Both the city streets and the roof gutters of the houses have been thoroughly flushed. The farmer who gets his living from the soil, the realty man who buys and sells producing lands, the banker and the business man all are tickled beyond expression at the satisfying termination of the dry spell. Fabulous appraisals of the dollar and cent value of the downpour are heard on every hand.

A False Impression.

Now what the Fact and Comment man wants to know is the reason for all the calamity cry that marked the period of dry weather. Such a wailing was absolutely unjustified and uncalled for. The Times, at least, did not participate in it. Granting the real desirability of rain and the blessing of it, it is well to pause and ask just what would have been the result if it hadn't rained at all this season. Is not Southern California prepared for just such an emergency? Let us try to believe, too, that all the past knocking was done by tourists strictly unfamiliar with local conditions.

Those writers, who, since the rain, have been loudly advertising that the Southland has just escaped from a terrible calamity are, in the opinion of the writer of this department, guilty of a misrepresentation that is almost criminal. One paper in particular has made it appear almost as if this section had been delivered from a headlong plunge over the brink of ruin. All this has undoubtedly created a false and unfortunate impression in the minds of many strangers.

Only a Bogey.

Mr. Tourist, don't you believe for one minute that Southern California wouldn't have come through a year of total dryness, (something, by the way, never yet known here) with colors flying. Don't make the error, please, of mistaking the common rejoicing over assured prosperity for a paean of hysterical joy over deliverance from disaster. No one really conversant with the situation was scared by any bogey of ruin.

In earlier days Southern California learned its lesson from the dry seasons, and that lesson has never been forgotten. Scientific irrigation and intensive cultivation of the soil are better understood here perhaps than anywhere else in the world.

The Southland farmer knows how to get the most out of the developed water reserves. The section is dotted with abundantly yielding wells and it has been conclusively demonstrated that Southern California has a great underlying supply of water waiting to be pumped to the surface. A total drought would have indeed been a misfortune to the man depending upon dry farming, but even so, a dry year couldn't seriously affect the general prosperity of the section.

Keeping Tab.

Following the close of both 1910 and 1911, the Fact and Comment man found it necessary, in the interest of common honesty and justice, to expose the methods of the publicity mediums of San Francisco for their raw, and utterly reprehensible practice of scattering broadcast over the United States padded statistics of Bay City building activities and absolutely groundless claims to Coast construction supremacy. The challenges of the writer were never acknowledged in any manner for the reason that there was nothing for the San Francisco "boosters" to say. The Times had the goods on these fakers and the figures to disprove every assertion they made.

At the end of 1911 the Bay City liars conjured up out of nothing at all a fictitious extra valuation of over $3,000,000, or enough to put them about $500,000 above the perfectly good total of Los Angeles. This prevarication was effectually disposed of by the citing of the building figures of the two cities month by month for the year. It remained then for the writer to make known the fact that even the legitimate face value total of San Francisco was a padded figure, owing to the practice of the Bay City building department of adding monthly 25 per cent. for "undervaluation." Los Angeles, with a building outlay of over $23,000,000 for 1911, actually beat San Francisco by nearly $10,000,000, a fact which no man can disprove.

The Fact and Comment man pledged himself to keep tab of the comparative activity in the two cities month by month during 1912. Carrying out this promise, the writer submits the following statistics: From January 1 to March 1, Los Angeles issued 2284 permits for new buildings, these representing a valuation of $4,608,825. The figures for San Francisco for the same period were 594 permits and $2,566,849. In a word, Los Angeles has already this year 1690 more new buildings to its credit than San Francisco, and is ahead of the Bay City more than $1,000,000 in actual construction outlay. This, be it understood, on the basis of San Francisco's face value figures, which are officially padded to the extent of 25 per cent.

The Fact and Comment man is not a knocker and believes with all his heart in San Francisco as a coming world city. That amity may prevail between the northern and southern ends of the State and that California as a whole may march on to a glorious destiny is the hope of every Californian, native or adopted, who has a spark of real loyalty and generosity in his makeup. It is inconceivable that the attitude of certain of the leading publicity mediums of the Bay City toward the rest of the State can be the attitude of San Francisco, itself. The writer simply cannot resist the temptation to rub it in, however, as long as these self-styled "boosters" of the Golden Gate neighborhood persist in dissemmating misinformation broadcast over the country, and especially when these falsehoods reflect to the belittlement of Los Angeles.

FIRM NAME CHANGED.

Wright & Callendar Company Hereafter to Be Known as the Wright-Callender-Andrews Co.

The Wright & Callendar Company announces that the name of its firm organization has been changed to the Wright-Callendar-Andrews Company, the change being made to include the name of Charles G. Andrews, who has for the past eight years been prominently identified with the company as its vice-president, and who has, during that time, had charge of the department devoted to the handling of downtown business property. The change is of unusual interest to realty men in general and to the friends of Mr. Andrews in particular.

Mr. Andrews joined the firm in 1903, coming from Detroit. He worked for the company for a year as an employee, prior to becoming vice-president. Throughout his term of association with the firm he has played a big part in its advance to its present high position in the real estate world.

The Wright & Callender Co., was established in 1897, beginning business in a single small room at No. 233 West Third street. A year afterward the firm moved to No. 360 South Broadway, where it remained for over two years. The next move was to No. 319 South Hill street, where the quarters were soon enlarged to include the frontage from Nos. 319 to 323 South Hill. The magnificent eleven-story, Wright & Callender block, which houses the company today, and which is owned by it, was completed about four years ago at a cost of $750,000.

The company was a pioneer in Hill street development, and has negotiated many of the big deals on that thoroughfare in the past few years. Starting business in a small way, in the handling of rental properties, the company has branched out to include the whole field of real estate activity. Today it has a dozen complete departments, each under its own head.

TAKE ENTIRE FLOOR.

The Maloof Company, manufacturers of tailor-made petticoats, kimonas and aprons, has leased the entire second story of the building at No. 122 South Los Angeles street for a term of years. Here the company, which only recently came here from New York City, is installing machinery preparatory to making an active bid for local business. A dozen employees came west with the firm.

VIEWS ALONE WORTH VISIT.

Mission Photographs Attract Many to Exhibit.

Is Equivalent to a "Seeing Early California" Tour.

Latest Wrinkles in Household Fixtures Shown.

In the collection of photographs at the architectural exhibition now being held in the annex to Barker Brothers' mammoth store are a number of illustrative of the restoration and preservation of the Estudillo House, popularly known as "the marriage place of Ramona," at "Old Town," San Diego. In these there is much of interest both to the Californian and the visitor. The series of views show the condition before the commencement of the restoration, its progress, methods of work, and the complete building, restored to its former beauty.

Under the direction of Mrs. Hazel W. Waterman of San Diego, a specialist in the preservation and restoration of Spanish-California landmarks, a force of Mexican laborers toiled for several months at this difficult task. Because the aim was to restore the building to the exact condition and appearance prior to the time "when the Gringo came" modern methods of working were out of the question.

Primitive materials, and the same slow "manana" way of fashioning them for the structure were necessary to get the effect desired. Adobe brick a foot wide, nearly three feet in length and from five to six inches thick were made, dried under the ardent Southland sunshine, and then incorporated in the new walls, and for patching the old. Rough hewn timbers were used for the girders and roof rafters, and these later were covered with a thatch of tules, woven with rawhide thongs.

Roof tile was made of red clay, burned on the ground after the manner of seventeenth century times, and then fastened to the thatch in the same crude manner as of old. Courts and the patio were floored by square red burned tile, made by the Mission Indians before 1800, and the walls were treated to a coating of lime in which cactus juice had been mixed for water proofing.

From a crumbling ruin, pointed out to travelers on the Santa Fe just before arrival at San Diego, the Estudillo House has been restored to its one-time perfectness, and such skill, and art has been used that the new parts cannot be detected by the closest observer.

Hand in hand with this interesting exhibit in its attraction for the lover of the old-time glories of early California is the collection of California Mission photographs from the studio of Frederick W. Martin of Pasadena. There are some forty or fifty photographs in this collection, most of them hand-colored. All the twenty-one missions are depicted, as well as many artistically executed detail studies of corridors, arches, stairways, and such other interesting parts of the famous old structures.

These two features of the exhibition are well worth the time necessary to visit the display. In addition there are a number of exceptionally well-done oils, etchings, and water colors.

In the fifteen hundred studies and drawings representative of architectural profession there are many fine examples of real art. Indeed a wonderful opportunity is here found for a comprehensive survey of the entire field of modern architecture, as the subjects vary from the modest California bungalow to the no less distinctive California skyscraper.

SOME NEW WRINKLES.

Much interest has been shown in the exceptional display of manufacturers' and material men's products on the balcony about the big hall in which the exhibition is being held. Many visitors, attracted by the stories of these interesting displays, disregard the artistic offerings of the main hall, hurrying up the stairs for an hour among the novel things offered.

There is much to interest the feminine side of the house. For instance, a new design in kitchen cabinets, constructed of pressed metal, has called forth much interested comment. Novel things in the way of floor and wall coverings, and new decorative materials also may be seen.

Several innovations in the way of built-in fixtures also are on display, a small ice-making plant, and refrigerating system calling for considerable attention. A vacumm cleaning system, new ideas in window casements, and window shades, tending to make the lot of the housekeeper easier are to be found.

A open-air bed has especially appealed to the women folk, because it eliminates the many unlikable features of the sleeping porch, with its dust, extra work, and the necessity of leaving a warm room to crawl into a cold, oftentimes damp bed. With this new invention one may disrobe in his warm bedroom, get into a warm bed, and then, by a slight movement, be outside under the stars.

Many of the beautiful offerings of the artists and architects have been reproduced in the year book of the Los Angeles Architectural Club, which has been issued to commemorate the third architectural exhibition of the Architectural League of the Pacific Coast in Los Angeles. Only 1000 copies of the book were printed.

The exhibition will remain open until March 15. Admission is free, and entrance may be had between the hours of 10, a.m., and 10 p.m., at No. 733 South Broadway.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY in each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modest five-room cottage, at $900; to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Redondo and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charges for our Architectural services, if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

403 SOUTH HILL ST.

MAIN 6780. HOME 10777.

WE HANDLE BARGAINS IN HIGH-CLASS HOUSES AND LOTS IN ALL PARTS OF LOS ANGELES. WE HAVE MANY BEAUTIFUL HOMES FOR SALE AT EXCEPTIONALLY LOW PRICES. THESE ARE A FEW GOOD ONES:

SNAP.

SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW.

$4000. $4000. $4000.

This home is better than anything you have seen at $4500. Owner must sell at once, so is making a sacrifice. Located in the beautiful southwest. Lot is an east front and all fenced. All rooms are large and sunny. The living room is finished elegantly and has a beautiful fireplace and inglenook off of it. Very cosy. Fine dining room with raised ceiling. Beautiful buffet and decorated with old-gold effect. This dining room is of special design, not another in the city like it. The house has two fine bedrooms, dainty decorations, with 5-coat white enamel finish; kitchen has every built-in feature. Large screen porch with stationary wash tubs, etc. Investigate at once. This will be sold soon.

$5000. CLOSE IN. $5000.

$5000. $5000.

This is a charming bungalow in the close-in Wilshire district. Near car line. Contains 6 rooms; living room finished in Mexican mahogany; cheerful fireplace. Dining room is paneled in oak; has elegant built-in buffet and bookcases; art glass decorations. The wall decorations are particularly beautiful. There is a large, sunny breakfast room and a buffet kitchen with all built-in features and white enamel finish. Three bedrooms with artistic decorations. Large bath; basement; house is piped for furnace. Most careful attention has been given to all decorations and detail work. The lot is high and and east front. This is a genuine bargain and will surely please you.

$7250. BEAUTY. $7250.

MANHATTAN PLACE.

Here is a two-story, 7-room bungalow in an exceedingly "attractive" neighborhood. It is a splendid buy. Close to car line. House is well arranged. Living room and den are finished in mahogany. Beautiful open fireplace, and glass folding doors between living and dining rooms. In the latter is a large buffet with hammered brass fittings. The breakfast room is very dainty. There is one bedroom on the first floor and two bedrooms and a fine bath on the second floor. All very pretty and tastefully decorated. Basement, furnace, etc. The lot is large and runs back to an alley. This house is just completed and is very artistic throughout. Every detail is suggestive of comfort.

SACRIFICE.

HUNTINGTON DRIVE.

$6000.
$6000.
$6000.

This would be cheap at $10,000. The lot itself is worth $4500. Just a block and a half from Oneonta Park Station. The Huntington Hall school is directly opposite, only a block distant. This is a beautiful location, amid fine large residences, and having an unobstructed view of the mountains and valley. The lot, 50x162, is well improved with lawn, flowers and several kinds of fruit trees. The house contains 7 rooms and a bath. Broad verandas, large living room, three bedrooms. Basement with furnace. Two-story garage, cement driveway, cement retaining walls, etc. House was built for a home. When you see it you will agree with us that this is a great bargain. We can arrange terms.

THE HEART OF THE WILSHIRE.

FOR SALE—
5-ROOM MODERN BUNGALOW
20 TO 25 MINUTES' CAR RIDE FROM BUSINESS.
THERE'S NO OTHER HOUSE JUST AS GOOD FOR THE MONEY.
ONLY $1250—$150, $20 MONTH.

Built ten—seven now sold—only three left. Different designs, neat, attractive, up-to-date, plastered, tinted, electric fixtures, porcelain bath, completely equipped, built-in effects, cabinet kitchen, screen porch, cement walks, Eagle Rock car within ½ block, gas, electricity and water available. The best opportunity for getting a good home cheap that you'll find, even at a higher price. You'll see if you'll only get busy and investigate. People are too used to "hot-air" artists talking in ads. that it's really hard to swallow what you read. If you want the most house value that you can possibly buy for the least money you'll certainly make big money for your time spent in seeing what we've got. Don't delay in seeing it, as it will be selling. These overlook Elysian Park and are nicely located inside city limits. You can see the plans at our office and we'll be glad to show you these houses; see WARREN P. McGRATH, with STRONG & DICKINSON, 147 S. LARGE LOTS
—$350—

Reservations this week only. Tract will be placed on sale beginning Sunday, March 10th.

THE GREATEST REAL ESTATE OPPORTUNITY OF MODERN TIMES FOR THE MAN OF MODERATE MEANS.

Nothing to equal it in or around Los Angeles for either home or investment. Values will rise rapidly.

The marvelous spirit of enterprise has made Los Angeles the wonder city of the continent. It has transformed cow pastures into magnificent residence and business districts in a time so short as to be almost unbelievable. The development of this wonderful metropolis continues ever southward, toward the ocean.

You believe—you know—that Los Angeles is destined to be, within a few short years, by far the largest city on the Coast. This young giant of the Southwest must stretch itself to make room for the hundreds of thousands who are coming here from all parts of the world to live.

The natural trend of expansion is demonstrated to be southwest.

You can't stop it and can't swerve it.

It's up to you, Mr. Real Estate Investor, to get in line with it.

Buy where other people are buying—where large sums of money are being spent for improvements. This kind of activity is certain to add to the value of your property.

Do you realize that the present magnificent Wilshire and West Adams districts were raw farm lands a few years ago?

DU RAY PLACE

Adjoins the West Adams section—right in the line of greatest development. Its immediate neighbor, a subdivision of 800 lots, was sold out in 60 days at prices ranging from $600 to $1500 a lot.

You can buy a lot in
DU RAY PLACE
Now for only $350.
$10 DOWN AND $10 A MONTH, INCLUDING INTEREST, WILL PAY FOR IT.

This subdivision will have all improvements in and paid for. Oiled streets with cement curb and gutter, cement sidewalks.

All construction the best and most permanent. Abundance of palms and shrubbery to make it pleasing to the eye and attractive as any in Los Angeles.

THIS IDEAL HOMESITE FOR THE MAN OF MODERATE MEANS.

FORTY BUNGALOWS WILL BE BUILT—CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN LET.

TWO CAR LINES—West Adams street and Santa Barbara avenue. Excellent transportation; 5c fare to city business district.

RESERVE YOUR LOT AT ONCE. COME IN NOW. Present prices are only for the opening and will advance as surely as the night succeeds the day.

$10 WILL START YOU ON THE BEST INVESTMENT YOU EVER MADE.

A STARTLER.
$1200, WILSHIRE DISTRICT.
OXFORD SQUARE is laid out with care. It is one of the most pleasing of all sections that has found favor with most particular people in the city. Many of them have already built beautiful homes. My engineering staff laid out here a tract open to no criticism from those looking for the right surroundings for ideal homes. Though all the characteristics of Oxford Square are exclusive the prices of lots range as low as $1200, and I'll make terms thoroughly attractive. Oxford Square is reached by several of the most traveled automobile boulevards in the city. The lots are 50x171 feet. Both Delaware Drive and Alta ave. are 70 feet wide, lined with palms and ornamental electroliers. The beautiful Windsor Square, Fremont Place, Westchester Place, Victoria Park, West Adams district and other exclusive subdivisions are on all sides of Oxford Square. FOR SALE—
Business Property.

FOR SALE—OR TO LEASE—FOR 10 YEARS. NO. 907 SOUTH FIGUEROA ST., 62x265 FT., TO ALLEY.

THIS PROPERTY, BESIDE BEING WITHIN THE CIRCLE OF THE NEW AND EXPANDING CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT, HAS ADDED VALUE BECAUSE OF ITS GREAT DEPTH. IT CAN BE USED FOR MANY PURPOSES FOR WHICH SHALLOWER LOTS CANNOT BE USED. STORES OR HOTEL IN FRONT AND OPERAHOUSE IN REAR OR ON SIDE.

IT IS NEARER THE PRESENT BUSINESS CENTER AT BROADWAY AND SIXTH STS. (600 YARDS.) THAN IS THE OLD BUSINESS CENTER AT SPRING AND SECOND STREETS. (974 YARDS.) FROM WHICH THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK IS MOVING TO SEVENTH ST.

THE BUSINESS DISTRICT OF EVERY GROWING CITY EXPANDS IN THE DIRECTION IN WHICH THE WELL-TO-DO CITIZENS LIVE. THE WEALTHY PEOPLE OF LOS ANGELES LIVE WESTERLY OF FIGUEROA ST. AND MUST CROSS FIGUEROA ST. IN GOING TO AND FROM THE BANKS, DRY GOODS AND OTHER STORES. IT IS PREDICTED THAT FIGUEROA ST. WILL BECOME A GREAT BUSINESS THOROUGHFARE IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME. THE FACT AND COMMENT EDITOR HAS PREDICTED IT. IT IS SAID THE LATE MR. HARRIMAN PREDICTED THAT THE FUTURE BUSINESS CENTER WOULD BE AT FIGEROA AND SEVENTH STS.

THE SIXTH ST., SEVENTH ST., WASHINGTON ST. AND GLENDALE CARS PASS THIS PROPERTY, MAKING IT EASY OF ACCESS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE CITY AND IT IS EXPECTED THE FIRST STATION ON THE SUBWAY TO THE SEASHORE WILL BE LESS THAN TWO BLOCKS NORTHEAST OF IT.

ONE PRESENT AND PRESSING NEED OF LOS ANGELES IS A HIGH CLASS DOWNTOWN HOTEL, TYPICAL OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA AND ITS MATCHLESS CLIMATE, HAVING LARGE LAWN AROUND IT, WITH FLOWERS, PALMS, FOUNTAINS PORCHES, PERGOLAS, ETC., AND AN OPERAHOUSE ATTACHED TO IT. SUCH A HOTEL WOULD ATTRACT TOURISTS FOR THE SEASON, AS PERMANENT GUESTS AND NOT AS PASSING GUESTS ONLY. A CHOICE CENTRAL LOCATION FOR SUCH OF HOTEL IS THE 90 FEET OF EAST FRONTAGE ON FIGUEROA STREET BETWEEN 6TH AND ORANGE STS. THIS PROPERTY, EXCEPT THE 90 FT. CORNER 6TH, HAS A DEPTH OF 330 TO 365 FT. TO ALLEY.

BEING SO NEAR THE HEART OF BUSINESS AND SO EAST OF ACCESS AND IN THE DIRECTION IN WHICH THE WEALTHY CLASSES LIVE AN OPERAHOUSE ON THIS PROPERTY WOULD BE WELL PATRONIZED.

MATSON HILL, 127 S. LA SALLE ST., CHICAGO.

A HOMESITE WITH A VIEW

If you are looking for a home place, where you can really enjoy life—
—and where you have a fine big room place to spend your leisure time—
—and where you can build your chalet, bungalow or residence, among the live oaks, and where you are enough on a slope so that you get the very best view of the whole Monte Vista Valley, and its ever changing coloring.
IF THIS APPEALS TO YOU
call at our office tomorrow and let us show you maps, photographs, etc., of the four 10-acre building sites that we have left in our Monte Vista project.
They are on the gentle rolling slopes of the south side of the valley.
We have just completed the beautiful winding boulevard called Manzanita Drive, at the base of these slopes, and while it is a property which would not consider from the viewpoint of profit from commercial products, yet there is plenty of room to have one or two or more trees of almost every kind of fruit grown in Southern California.
This is demonstrated by the adjoining homesites.
The price on this property ranges from $320 an acre to $425 an acre, making a 10-acre homesite, ranging from $3200 to $4100; terms, 1-4 cash, balance 12 quarterly payments, interest, 7 per cent; 5 per cent discount for all cash.
You cannot appreciate what this really is from an ad. You will get a little better idea if our maps and photographs, but the best thing would be for you to arrange at your very earliest opportunity to take the auto trip with us and look it over thoroughly. $1.50 for the round trip.
We only have four left, and these will be gone in a few days.

SALES AGENT ALSO ON TRACT.

FOR SALE—
TWO FIVE-ACRE TRACTS.
We have two tracts of five acres each in our Monte Vista Valley, which are especially good buys.
The three chief points which make them valuable are the elevation of about 1500 feet above the surrounding healthful climate; the splendid mountain water in abundance for both irrigation and domestic use, which goes with the land, and the unusually fine view of the entire valley and the mountains.
Both tracts have more or less rock on them, and for some purposes this would be a handicap, and if you are fond of this little rock do not waste your time by looking further into these pieces, but if you are informed on what can be done with decomposed granite, you will not be afraid of these tracts.
If you are looking for a good five-acre property that will increase in value at a very rapid rate, because of the increase in population and improvements on the adjoining properties
THEN INVESTIGATE AT ONCE.
The price is only $210 an acre or $1050; 1-4 cash, balance in 12 quarterly payments, 7 per cent. interest, and 5 per cent. discount for all cash.
If you are at all posted on values in the foothill belt around Los Angeles, you will appreciate these prices and terms.
These two properties will not remain unsold but for a very few days, so investigate at once.

ONE-HALF ACRE LOTS.
We have just opened up a tract of one-half acre lots out of the townsite in our Monte Vista project, and six of these lots have been actually sold within two days after the map was issued.
We have left sixteen of these lots, and if you are interested in a splendid lot of this kind, with an elevation of about 1900 feet in the heart of a very rapidly growing community, and within 100 yards of the car line (which will be built very shortly,)
THEN INVESTIGATE THIS
and make your selection within the next day or so if possible.
The earlier you can investigate and decide, of course, the better selection you would have. Some of the lots have beautiful live oaks on them, and some of the lots have an especially fine panorama view of the mountains.
NOTE THE PRICE.
The price of most of these lots are $250 and $300; the corner lot is $400, and the adjoining lot is $350; terms 1-4 cash, balance in twelve quarterly payments; 5 per cent discount for all cash.

BUY HUGE CITRUS TRACT.

Large Acreage in Frostless Area of Tulare County Acquired by Syndicate—To Be Placed on Market.

M. S. Robertson reports the purchase of 3600 acres of citrus land in Tulare county, four miles north of Orosi, for a consideration of $288,000. The land is located in a natural cove and is declared to be as near frostless as can be found in this coming early citrus belt of California.

Robertson and associates have formed a corporation under the laws of California and will do business under the name of the Orosi Orange Land Company, with offices at No. 301 Story building. Frank S. Lower is president, and M. S. Robertson, secretary and treasurer. The land is being subdivided into ten and twenty-acre tracts and will be placed on the market at once.

PLANNING FINE GARAGE.

Mitchell Car to Be Housed in Two-Story Building at Flower and Twelfth Streets.

Plans for a two-story garage, to be erected at the northeast corner of Flower and Twelfth streets by the Greer-Robbins Company, agents for the Mitchell car, are in course of preparation in the offices of R. B. Young & Son. The structure projected will be of reinforced concrete construction and as modern as any building of its type in the city.

The sale of the site to the company in question was handled through the agency of Glenn N. Deuel, with the Wright & Callender Co., E. P. Bryan being the seller. The property has a frontage of a fraction over seventy-nine feet on Flower by 155 feet on Twelfth. The consideration involved in the transfer is reported at $56,000.

INVESTS ON SOUTH HILL.

Capitalist Pays Large Consideration for Valuable Frontage, Near Ninth.

Through the agency of McConnell & Irvine, John R. Vogel, purchased, during the past week, a lot 50x155 feet in size at No. 916 South Hill street, paying a consideration of $82,000. The Booth Investment Company was the seller of the property.

The site is only nominally improved and yields an income of about $60 a month. Vogel bought for investment, but may later decide to improve the holding with a substantial building.

Substantial.

BIG HOTEL FOR WEST SECOND.

To Be Nine Stories High and Absolutely Fireproof.

Structure Leased for Period of Ten Years.

Will Be Ready for Occupancy Next October.

Noteworthy among the larger building projects of the year to date is the nine-story hotel to be erected by F. W. Braun at the southwest corner of Second and Clay streets, excavations for which were started yesterday. The building was planned by W. J. Saunders, architect of several large warehouse structures erected by Mr. Braun during the past two years and of other noteworthy improvements in this city. The Barber-Bradley Construction Company has the general contract for the construction at approximately $100,000, this figure being exclusive of all fixtures and appointments.

The hotel has been leased for a term of ten years by James Kincheloe, at a total rental of close to $200,000. The deal was handled through the agency of Myron H. Wells, manager of the lease and business rental department of Mines & Farish. Kincheloe, who was at one time owner of the Argonaut and San Gabriel hotels of this city, will himself conduct the big Second-street hostelry, which will be elaborately and handsomely appointed throughout. He expects to take possession next October.

The project is of especial interest as showing the sterling value of downtown frontage north of Fourth street, revealing, as it does, the confidence of a leading capitalist in this older section of the city. The building will be the fourth great reinforced concrete structure started on West Second street in the past two years. Within the period in question there have been completed the ten-story Higgins Block at Second and Main, the ten-story California building at Second and Broadway, and the nine-story Union League building at Second and Hill. The projected hotel will stand about 170 feet west of the last-named structure and on the opposite side of Second street.

OF MONOLITHIC TYPE.

The building planned by Mr. Saunders will be of the latest monolithic concrete type and absolutely fireproof. It will front sixty-five feet on Second street by a depth of 120 feet on Clay street. All Clay-street front the building will be nine stories in height. Sanding, as it will, on the slope of Second street, it will be eight stories high at its west elevation.

The hotel will contain 186 guestrooms on the eight upper stories, as well as a lobby 30x65 feet in size, a ladies' parlor 12x32 feet, and a dining-room 65x40 feet, the last-named rooms being on the main story opening from Second street. The dining-room will be finished in hard wood and the lobby will be in mahogany, with tile floors. Two elevators will be installed.

The lower story, opening onto Clay street, will contain a cafeteria, as well as the heating and power plant and storage rooms. The roof will be converted into a roof garden for the use of the guests. The architecture of the building will be simple, leaning to Spanish Renaissance lines.

The hostelry will occupy the site of the old Carling Hotel, a three-story frame structure erected many years ago. Mr. Braun is having this building removed to the rear of a lot on the west side of Flower street, fifty feet south of Court street. The structure is to be completely remodeled from plans by Mr. Saunders, who is now having plans for a three-story hotel building to occupy the front on the same lot and to be added to the old building.

FACT AND COMMENT.

Those who have for weeks been indulging in dismal worries on account of the lack of rain must be steeped in bliss as the result of the weather man's recent copious offerings. All the calamities conjured up by the pessimist, all the doleful predictions, all the knockings have been set at naught. Those who have been volubly wishing for "even a dash of rain" have got it—with emphasis on the dash. Both prayer and the rain machine have been vindicated. The oldest inhabitant is gleefully maintaining that he knew all the time it had to rain.

To say that everyone is overjoyed at the recent downpour is to put it too mildly, for there is no superlative that will quite express the universal pleasure. All eyes are glued to the sky to see if still more rain is coming. The weather is the meeting and parting topic of every conversation.

It is a real treat to see the hills green again. The dust has been scoured out of the surcharged atmosphere. There is a better feel in the air. Both the city streets and the roof gutters of the houses have been thoroughly flushed. The farmer who gets his living from the soil, the realty man who buys and sells producing lands, the banker and the business man all are tickled beyond expression at the satisfying termination of the dry spell. Fabulous appraisals of the dollar and cent value of the downpour are heard on every hand.

A False Impression.

Now what the Fact and Comment man wants to know is the reason for all the calamity cry that marked the period of dry weather. Such a wailing was absolutely unjustified and uncalled for. The Times, at least, did not participate in it. Granting the real desirability of rain and the blessing of it, it is well to pause and ask just what would have been the result if it hadn't rained at all this season. Is not Southern California prepared for just such an emergency? Let us try to believe, too, that all the past knocking was done by tourists strictly unfamiliar with local conditions.

Those writers, who, since the rain, have been loudly advertising that the Southland has just escaped from a terrible calamity are, in the opinion of the writer of this department, guilty of a misrepresentation that is almost criminal. One paper in particular has made it appear almost as if this section had been delivered from a headlong plunge over the brink of ruin. All this has undoubtedly created a false and unfortunate impression in the minds of many strangers.

Only a Bogey.

Mr. Tourist, don't you believe for one minute that Southern California wouldn't have come through a year of total dryness, (something, by the way, never yet known here) with colors flying. Don't make the error, please, of mistaking the common rejoicing over assured prosperity for a paean of hysterical joy over deliverance from disaster. No one really conversant with the situation was scared by any bogey of ruin.

In earlier days Southern California learned its lesson from the dry seasons, and that lesson has never been forgotten. Scientific irrigation and intensive cultivation of the soil are better understood here perhaps than anywhere else in the world.

The Southland farmer knows how to get the most out of the developed water reserves. The section is dotted with abundantly yielding wells and it has been conclusively demonstrated that Southern California has a great underlying supply of water waiting to be pumped to the surface. A total drought would have indeed been a misfortune to the man depending upon dry farming, but even so, a dry year couldn't seriously affect the general prosperity of the section.

Keeping Tab.

Following the close of both 1910 and 1911, the Fact and Comment man found it necessary, in the interest of common honesty and justice, to expose the methods of the publicity mediums of San Francisco for their raw, and utterly reprehensible practice of scattering broadcast over the United States padded statistics of Bay City building activities and absolutely groundless claims to Coast construction supremacy. The challenges of the writer were never acknowledged in any manner for the reason that there was nothing for the San Francisco "boosters" to say. The Times had the goods on these fakers and the figures to disprove every assertion they made.

At the end of 1911 the Bay City liars conjured up out of nothing at all a fictitious extra valuation of over $3,000,000, or enough to put them about $500,000 above the perfectly good total of Los Angeles. This prevarication was effectually disposed of by the citing of the building figures of the two cities month by month for the year. It remained then for the writer to make known the fact that even the legitimate face value total of San Francisco was a padded figure, owing to the practice of the Bay City building department of adding monthly 25 per cent. for "undervaluation." Los Angeles, with a building outlay of over $23,000,000 for 1911, actually beat San Francisco by nearly $10,000,000, a fact which no man can disprove.

The Fact and Comment man pledged himself to keep tab of the comparative activity in the two cities month by month during 1912. Carrying out this promise, the writer submits the following statistics: From January 1 to March 1, Los Angeles issued 2284 permits for new buildings, these representing a valuation of $4,609,835. The figures for San Francisco for the same period were 594 permits and $3,566,349. In a word, Los Angeles has already this year 1690 more new buildings to its credit than San Francisco, and is ahead of the Bay City more than $1,000,000 in actual construction outlay. This, be it understood, on the basis of San Francisco's face value figures, which are officially padded to the extent of 25 per cent.

The Fact and Comment man is not a knocker and believes with all his heart in San Francisco as a coming world city. That amity may prevail between the northern and southern ends of the State and that California as a whole may march on to a glorious destiny is the hope of every Californian, native or adopted, who has a spark of real loyalty and generosity in his makeup. It is incopceivable that the attitude of certain of the leading publicity mediums of the Bay City toward the rest of the State can be the attitude of San Francisco, itself. The writer simply cannot resist the temptation to rub it in, however, as long as these self-styled "boosters" of the Golden Gate neighborhood persist in dissemmating misinformation broadcast over the country, and especially when these falsehoods reflect to the belittlement of Los Angeles.

Fireproof Hostelry for Bunker Hill District.

Nine-Story Hotel for Corner of Second and Clay,

Construction of which is to be started this week by Barber-Bradley Company. F. W. Braun is the owner and W. J. Saunders the architect of the building, which has just been leased to James Kincheloe through Myron H. Wells, with Mines & Farish.

FIRM NAME CHANGED.

Wright & Callendar Company Hereafter to Be Known as the Wright-Callender-Andrews Co.

The Wright & Callendar Company announces that the name of its firm organization has been changed to the Wright-Callendar-Andrews Company, the change being made to include the name of Charles G. Andrews, who has for the past eight years been prominently identified with the company as its vice-president, and who has, during that time, had charge of the department devoted to the handling of downtown business property. The change is of unusual interest to realty men in general and to the friends of Mr. Andrews in particular.

Mr. Andrews joined the firm in 1903, coming from Detroit. He worked for the company for a year as an employee, prior to becoming vice-president. Throughout his term of association with the firm he has played a big part in its advance to its present high position in the real estate world.

The Wright & Callender Co., was established in 1897, beginning business in a single small room at No. 225 West Third street. A year afterward the firm moved to No. 360 South Broadway, where it remained for over two years. The next move was to No. 319 South Hill street, where the quarters were soon enlarged to include the frontage from Nos. 319 to 323 South Hill. The magnificent eleven-story, Wright & Callender block, which houses the company today, and which is owned by it, was completed about four years ago at a cost of $750,000.

The company was a pioneer in Hill street development, and has negotiated many of the big deals on that thoroughfare in the past few years. Starting business in a small way, in the handling of rental properties, the company has branched out to include the whole field of real estate activity. Today it has a dozen complete departments, each under its own head.

TAKE ENTIRE FLOOR.

The Maloof Company, manufacturers of tailor-made petticoats, kimonas and aprons, has leased the entire second story of the building at No. 122 South Los Angeles street for a term of years. Here the company, which only recently came here from New York City, is installing machinery preparatory to making an active bid for local business. A dozen employees came west with the firm.

VIEWS ALONE WORTH VISIT.

Mission Photographs Attract Many to Exhibit.

Is Equivalent to a "Seeing Early California" Tour.

Latest Wrinkles in Household Fixtures Shown.

In the collection of photographs at the architectural exhibition now being held in the annex to Barker Brothers' mammoth store are a number of illustrative of the restoration and preservation of the Estudillo House, popularly known as "the marriage place of Ramona," at "Old Town," San Diego. In these there is much of interest both to the Californian and the visitor. The series of views show the condition before the commencement of the restoration, its progress, methods of work, and the complete building, restored to its former beauty.

Under the direction of Mrs. Hazel W. Waterman of San Diego, a specialist in the preservation and restoration of Spanish-California landmarks, a force of Mexican laborers toiled for several months at this difficult task. Because the aim was to restore the building to the exact condition and appearance prior to the time "when the Gringo came" modern methods of working were out of the question.

Primitive materials, and the same slow "manana" way of fashioning them for the structure were necessary to get the effect desired. Adobe brick a foot wide, nearly three feet in length and from five to six inches thick were made, dried under the ardent Southland sunshine, and then incorporated in the new walls, and for patching the old. Rough hewn timbers were used for the zirders and roof rafters, and these later were covered with a thatch of tulea, woven with rawhide thongs.

Roof tile was made of red clay, burned on the ground after the manner of seventeeth century times, and then fastened to the thatch in the same crude manner as of old. Courts and the patio were floored by square red burned tile, made by the Mission Indians before 1800, and the walls were treated to a coating of lime in which cactus juice had been mixed for water proofing.

From a crumbling ruin, pointed out to travelers on the Santa Fe, just before arrival at San Diego, the Estudillo House has been restored to its one-time perfectness, and such skill, and art has been used that the new parts cannot be detected by the closest observer.

Hand in hand with this interesting exhibit in its attraction for the lover of the old-time glories of early California is the collection of California Mission photographs from the studio of Frederick W. Martin of Pasadena. There are some forty or fifty photographs in this collection, most of them hand-colored. All the twenty-one missions are depicted, as well as many artistically executed detail studies of corridors, arches, stairways, and such other interesting parts of the famous old structures.

These two features of the exhibition are well worth the time necessary to visit the display. In addition there are a number of exceptionally well-done oils, etchings, and water colors.

In the fifteen hundred studies, and drawings representative of architectural profession there are many fine examples of real art. Indeed a wonderful opportunity is here found for a comprehensive survey of the entire field of modern architecture, as the subjects vary from the modest California bungalow to the no less distinctive California skyscraper.

SOME NEW WRINKLES.

Much interest has been shown in the exceptional display of manufacturers' and material men's products on the balcony about the big hall in which the exhibition is being held. Many visitors, attracted by the stories of these interesting displays, disregard the artistic offerings of the main hall, hurrying up the stairs for an hour among the novel things offered.

There is much to interest the feminine side of the house. For instance, a new design in kitchen cabinets, constructed of pressed metal, has called forth much interested comment. Novel things in the way of floor and wall coverings, and new decorative materials also may be seen.

Several innovations in the way of built-in fixtures also are on display, a small ice-making plant, and refrigerating system calling for considerable attention. A vacumm cleaning system, new ideas in window casements, and window shades, tending to make the lot of the housekeeper easier are to be found.

A open-air bed has especially appealed to the women folk, because it eliminates the many unlikable features of the sleeping porch, with its dust, extra work, and the necessity of leaving a warm room to crawl into a cold, oftentimes damp bed. With this new invention one may disrobe in his warm bedroom, get into a warm bed, and then, by a slight movement, be outside under the stars.

Many of the beautiful offerings of the artists and architects have been reproduced in the year book of the Los Angeles Architectural Club, which has been issued to commemorate the third architectural exhibition of the Architectural League of the Pacific Coast in Los Angeles. Only 1000 copies of the book were printed.

The exhibition will remain open until March 15. Admission is free, and entrance may be had between the hours of 10, a.m., and 10 p.m., at No. 735 South Broadway

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY in each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modest five-room cottage, at $960; to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Redondo and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charges for our Architectural services, if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

Our REFERENCES are PEOPLE for whom we HAVE BUILT, who FREELY indorse us.

We make liberal building loans.

BEST BARGAIN IN WILSHIRE, AT $5000.

New 5-story, 9-room residence, on 50 ft. lot, ideally located in best section of Wilshire. Finished in beautiful buried mahogany. Hardwood floors throughout. Very costly and ornamental brass lighting fixtures with glass draperies. Upstairs is all white enamel. The bath upstairs. Bevel mirrors in bath and closet doors. 5 double casement windows in one sleeping room. This house possessed more pecial features than any house of its class. You hould see it by all mean. It has never been occupied.

A WILSHIRE BEAUTY—ONLY $6000. FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE.

Two-story, 9 rooms. Built to live "in—not to sell. It's new too. Within a block of Western avenue car line. In completely built up neighborhood of highest class property. 80x 260 lot, is worth half the price alone. It's thoroughly modern and artistic in every detail. Will consider 6-room bungalow or vacant lot in Wilshire, or small orange grove, close-in. As a special inducement for cash consideration, will take $6000. This is actually $1000 under value.

LOOK AT THIS—ONLY $3800.

Two-story, 7 rooms. Practically new. Hardwood floors. Completely modern. All built-in features, such as buffet, seats, bookcases, linen closet, etc. Walls plastered and tinted. Cabinet kitchen. Parlor is 14x24 ft. Dining-room is 16x1[illegible]. Fireplace is very attractive. Closets are large enough for sleeping rooms. 3 bedrooms and bath upstairs. It's in a high-class neighborhood and close-in. Must have $1400 cash at once. Balance on terms. This is a snap. Better hurry.

WE CAN SAVE YOU HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS ON REAL ESTATE. IT COSTS YOU NOTHING TO INVESTIGATE. DO IT NOW.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

BEAUTIFUL 9-ROOM HOME SACRIFICED.

NEAR WINDSOR SQUARE—$6000.

Lot 100x300, on high ground, amid beautiful surroundings, 2 blocks from the new Windsor Square Tract in the Wilshire District. House is new, attractive Swiss Chalet type with cement veranda running across entire front and side. There is a large living-room with fireplace, dining room, den, breakfast room, kitchen and screen porch downstairs. There are four large bedrooms upstairs. The entire house is piped for furnace. It is up-to-date in all particulars. Oak floors downstairs, maple floors upstairs, beamed, paneling, built-in sideboards and china closets, bookcases, woodstone sink and bathroom floor, full length mirrors, elaborate electric fixtures and many other features. Large garage with cement floor, with room for two machines and chauffeur's room and cement floored billiard room.

Foreclosure of a trust deed mortgage compels immediate sale or owner will lose entire property. Price quoted is slightly over total amount of mortgages. You can make your home a speculation here.

ANOTHER FORECLOSURE.

KINGSLEY DRIVE. 7-ROOM HOME—$4500.

$2250—6 PER CENT. BANK MORTGAGE.

East front, close to 9th street car line. Living room 6x18, across entire front of house, beamed and panelled, attractive fireplace, dining-room with pretty sideboard, opening by French windows upon cement floored rear veranda and pergola, convenient kitchen, screen porch, laundry, back stairway, 3 large bedrooms, sleeping porch, dressing-room with roomy drawers, and hat closet, very large windowed closets in other bedrooms. There are hardwood floors throughout, furnace, fine electric fixtures, full length cement and brick front veranda, cement floored garage and other features.

This is the class of house that sells for $5500 to $6500. $2250 6 per cent. bank mortgage shows bank appraisement of $9000, and can remain. Foreclosure of trust deed mortgage compels owner to sell immediately. We do not believe such an excellent buy has ever before been offered on exclusive Kingsley Drive.

Right on W. Adams, one of the most valuable corners; this home was built just a little over a year ago, and was not built to sell; the whole interior finished in quarter-sawed oak; the artist was one year painting the interior; the rugs in this house alone cost $10,000; furniture made to order to correspond with the oak finish; 14 rooms; cedar closets, billiard-room. Will sell this home, completely furnished, ready to step into, for $35,000. Must be seen to be appreciated. Owner spent over $50,000 on it. For particulars HOME PHONE 72344, or F4625.

FOR SALE— Houses.

FOR SALE—

A most delightful home with all city modern conveniences, set in an acre of beautiful garden; convenient to the best car service; only 25 minutes from Broadway.

Seven-room residence that could be easily enlarged if desired. Garage. Water piped over entire garden and fruit orchard. There is every variety of fruit, in bearing, that succeeds in this climate; grand old shade trees, a profusion of roses and ornamental shrubs. A magnificent, unobstructed view, over orange groves, of the mountains. Honeysuckle and rose hedges secure privacy.

The house has furnace, two fireplaces, two bathrooms, lavatory bowls with hot and cold water in each bedroom.

The place must be seen to be appreciated. It is an ideal California home, in a splendid neighborhood, and the ground will increase rapidly in value. The lot will eventually accommodate two or three more houses. Price $8500; only $2000 cash necessary.

$2250 ACTUALLY BELOW VALUE.

Not often, but occasionally, you can find a genuine sacrifice. Most houses are advertised as "real bargains." But I do not ask you to take my word for this buy, but investigate values for yourself. Then you will realize that not one word of this advertisement is overestimated. This house is one of the show places of the Oneonta Park district. High, commanding corner lot, 125x235, Swiss chalet type; 8 beautiful rooms, finish A-1 throughout. Unusually large living and dining-rooms, beamed, wainscoted, handsome built-in buffet with bevel plate mirrors, library with ample built-in bookcase; complete cabinet kitchen, four large, airy bedrooms upstairs, attractive tile bath, two toilets, large front porch and upper balcony; plenty of French windows and doors; ports cochere and pergola, cut-glass door knobs; hardwood floors throughout except kitchen; cellar, furnace, attractive electric fixtures; velvet lawn and flowers. You could not pass this place without noting its attractions. High ground (meaning health and comfort,) six car lines, only twenty minutes out; splendid view of mountains and valley. I can actually prove this place cost more than $10,000. It's easily worth $11,000. For quick sale will take $9500; only $1000 down. I defy you to beat it anywhere.

THE GREATEST REAL ESTATE OPPORTUNITY OF MODERN TIMES FOR THE MAN OF MODERATE MEANS.

Nothing to equal it in or around Los Angeles for either home or investment. Values will rise rapidly.

The restless spirit of enterprise has made Los Angeles the wonder city of the continent. It has transformed its suburban districts into magnificent residence and business districts in a time so short as to be almost unbelievable. The development of this wonderful metropolis continues over a much wider area, however.

You believe—you know—that Los Angeles is destined to be, within a few short years, by far the largest city on the Coast. This growing giant of the Southwest must stretch itself to make room for the hundreds of thousands who are coming here from all parts of the world to live.

The natural trend of expansion is demonstrated to be southwest.

You can't stop it and can't reserve it.

It's up to you, Mr. Real Estate Investor, to get in line with it.

Buy where other people are buying—where large sums of money are being spent for improvements. This kind of activity is certain to add to the value of your property.

Do you realize that the present magnificent Wilshire and West Adams districts were raw farm lands a few years ago?

DU RAY PLACE
Adjoins the West Adams section—right in the line of greatest development. Its immediate neighbor, a subdivision of 300 lots, was sold out in 60 days at prices ranging from $600 to $1200 a lot.

You can buy a lot in
DU RAY PLACE
Now for only $350
$100 DOWN AND $10 A MONTH, INCLUDING INTEREST, WILL PAY FOR IT.

This subdivision will have all improvements in and paid for. Oiled streets with cement curb and gutter, cement sidewalks.

All construction the best and most permanent. Abundance of trees and shrubbery to make it pleasing to the eye and attractive as any in Los Angeles.

FORTY BUNGALOWS WILL BE BUILT—CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN LET.

TWO CAR LINES—West Adams street and Santa Barbara avenue. Excellent transportation; 5c fare to city business district.

RESERVE YOUR LOT AT ONCE. COME IN NOW. Present prices are only for the opening and will advance as surely as the night succeeds the day.

$10 WILL START YOU ON THE BEST INVESTMENT YOU EVER MADE.

HOMESITES.
NOT JUST LOTS.

Every lot in ELLIOTT PLACE, "The Tract Beautiful," is a perfect homesite, laid out and planned to accommodate a real home. Large in size, perfect in surrounding, improvements, carefully restricted, and platted according to the contour of the marvelous mesa on which it lies, this subdivision is ideal for bungalow builders.

Scores of handsome homes are already up and occupied by desirable people—more building and many more to be built by this reliable company, and all meeting its high standard of "perfect construction."

Streets are heavily graveled and oiled shade trees, wide parkways, cement walks, curbs and gutters, tract tennis court and children's playground, store, ornamental street lights, and many other attractive improvements.

Prices $750 and up.
Easiest of terms.

FOR SALE—NON-RESIDENT OFFERS EXTRAORDINARY opportunity. Leaving for the East next Tuesday. On all lots sold prior to my departure, will make following SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS and terms: On all lots by me in the Hollywood district during the past six years, the terms have been one-third down, balance one and two years. On balance of lots remaining, on all contracts signed before I leave, I will accept 10 per cent. down, balance monthly and will allow a SPECIAL DISCOUNT of 25 per cent. to 25 per cent. on prices as which I have held and already sold most of the lots. The prices of lots without the special discount range from $400 to $1800. They are within ¼ block of one and 1½ blocks of another 5-cent car. High, dry, level, affording most magnificent view. Some front two streets. Cement curbs, walks, gas, electric light, etc. Must be seen to be appreciated. In the beautiful foothills of Annandale, city of Los Angeles; near Church of the Angels. With my departure prices and terms withdrawn. Look at them today. Take Yellow Garvanza car marked Eagle Rock ave., get off at Meridian street, old city limits, walk east on Meridian 1½ blocks to Lewis st. Will be there from 10 to 4 daily. LOUIS HENRY, Hotel Hayward.

FOR SALE—

A STARTLER,
$1200, WILSHIRE DISTRICT.
OXFORD SQUARE is laid out with care. It is one of the most pleasing of all sections that has found favor with most particular people in the city. Many of them have already built beautiful homes. My engineering staff laid out here a tract open to no criticism from those looking for the right surroundings for ideal homes. Though all the characteristics of Oxford Square are exclusive, the prices of lots range as low as $1200, and I'll make terms thoroughly attractive. Oxford Square is reached by several of the most reserved automobile boulevards in the city. The lots are 50x171 feet. Both Delaware Drive and Alta ave. are 70 feet wide, lined with palms and ornamental electroliers. The beautiful Windsor Square, Fremont Place, Westchester Place, Victoria Park, West Adams district and other exclusive subdivisions are on all sides of Oxford Square. To reach my tract office take Pico st. yellow car to Alta ave. Call at my ground floor Broadway office and go to see today.

FOR SALE—OR TO LEASE—FOR 20 YEARS, NO. 907 SOUTH FIGUEROA ST., 61x205 FT., TO ALLEY.

THIS PROPERTY, BESIDE BEING WITHIN THE CIRCLE OF THE NEW AND EXPANDING CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT, HAS ADDED VALUE BECAUSE OF ITS GREAT DEPTH. IT CAN BE USED FOR MANY PURPOSES FOR WHICH SHALLOWER LOTS CANNOT BE USED. STORES OR HOTEL IN FRONT AND OPERAHOUSE IN REAR OR ON SIDE.

IT IS NEARER THE PRESENT BUSINESS CENTER AT BROADWAY AND SIXTH STS. (800 YARDS.) THAN IS THE OLD BUSINESS CENTER AT SPRING AND SECOND STREETS. (976 YARDS.) FROM WHICH THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK IS MOVING TO SEVENTH ST.

THE BUSINESS DISTRICT OF EVERY GROWING CITY EXPANDS IN THE DIRECTION IN WHICH THE WELL-TO-DO CITIZENS LIVE. THE WEALTHY PEOPLE OF LOS ANGELES LIVE WESTERLY OF FIGUEROA ST. AND MUST CROSS FIGUEROA ST. IN GOING TO AND FROM THE BANKS, DRY GOODS AND OTHER STORES. IT IS PREDICTED THAT FIGUEROA ST. WILL BECOME A GREAT BUSINESS THOROUGHFARE IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME. THE FACT AND COMMENT EDITOR HAS PHROPHESIED IT. IT IS SAID THE LATE MR. HARRIMAN PREDICTED THAT THE FUTURE BUSINESS CENTER WOULD BE AT FIGEROA AND SEVENTH STS.

THE SIXTH ST., SEVENTH ST., WASHINGTON ST. AND GLENDALE CARS PASS THIS PROPERTY, MAKING IT EASY OF ACCESS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE CITY AND. IT IS EXPECTED THE FIRST STATION ON THE SUBWAY TO THE SEASHORE WILL BE LESS THAN TWO BLOCKS NORTHEAST OF IT.

ONE PRESENT AND PRESSING NEED OF LOS ANGELES IS A HIGH CLASS DOWNTOWN HOTEL, TYPICAL OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA AND ITS MATCHLESS CLIMATE, HAVING LARGE LAWN AROUND IT, WITH FLOWERS, PALMS, FOUNTAINS PORCHES, PERGOLAS, ETC., AND AN OPERAHOUSE ATTACHED TO IT. SUCH A HOTEL WOULD ATTRACT TOURISTS FOR THE SEASON, AS PERMANENT GUESTS AND NOT AS PASSING GUESTS ONLY. A CHOICE CENTRAL LOCATION FOR SUCH HOTEL IS THE 247 FEET OF EAST FRONTAGE ON FIGUEROA STREET BETWEEN 6TH AND ORANGE STS. THIS PROPERTY, EXCEPT THE 80 FT. CORNER 6TH, HAS A DEPTH OF 240 TO 265 FT. TO ALLEY.

BEING SO NEAR THE HEART OF BUSINESS AND SO EAST OF ACCESS AND IN THE DIRECTION IN WHICH THE WEALTHY CLASSES LIVE AN OPERAHOUSE ON THIS PROPERTY WOULD BE WELL PATRONIZED.

A MOMENTS WITH A VIEW

If you are looking for a home place, where you can really enjoy life—
—and where you have a fine big room place to spend your leisure time—
—and where you can build your chalet, bungalow or rookery, among the live oaks, and where you are enough on a slope so that you get the very best view of the whole Monte Vista Valley, and its ever changing coloring.
IF THIS APPEALS TO YOU
call at our office tomorrow and let us show you maps, photographs, etc., of the four 10-acre bluffing sites that we have left in our Monte Vista project.
They are on the gentle rolling slopes of the south side of the valley.
We have just completed the beautiful winding boulevard called Manzanita Drive, at the base of these slopes, and while it is a property which you would not consider from the viewpoint of profit from commercial products, yet there is plenty of room to build one or two or more trees of almost every kind of fruit now grown in Southern California.
This is demonstrated by the adjoining homesites.
The price on this property ranges from $320 an acre to $425 an acre, making a 10-acre homesite, ranging from $3200 to $4250; terms, 1-4 cash, balance 12 quarterly payments, interest 7 per cent; 5 per cent discount for all cash.
You cannot appreciate what this really is from an ad. You will get a little better idea from our maps and photographs, but the best thing would be for you to arrange at your very earliest opportunity to take the auto trip with us and look it over thoroughly. $1.00 for the round trip.
We only have four left, and these will be gone in a few days.

SALES AGENT ALSO ON TRACT.

FOR SALE—
TWO FIVE-ACRE TRACTS.
We have two tracts of five acres each in our Monte Vista Valley, which are especially good buys.
In the three chief points which make them valuable are the combination of about 1500 feet altitude, accompanying healthful climate; the splendid mountain water in abundance for both irrigation and domestic use, which goes with the land, and the unusually fine view of the entire valley and the mountains.
Both tracts have more or less rock on them, and for some purposes this would be a handicap, and if you are afraid of the little rock do not waste your time by looking further into these pieces, but if you are informed on what can be done with bunches of good granite, you will not be afraid of these tracts.
If you are looking for a good five-acre property that will increase in value at a very rapid rate, because of the increase in population and improvements on the adjoining properties
THEN INVESTIGATE AT ONCE.
The price is only $210 an acre or $1050; 1-4 cash, balance in 12 quarterly payments, 7 per cent. interest, and 5 per cent discount for all cash.
If you are at all posted on values in the foothill belt around Los Angeles, you will appreciate these prices and terms.
These two properties will not remain unsold but for a very few days, so investigate at once.

FOR SALE—
DON'T DELAY.
Have you investigated
Balmy Monte Vista yet?
The choicest property will be gone inside of the next few weeks.
You will have lost this great opportunity.
REMEMBER.
There is a very limited amount of this land left.
The land sells itself to those who visit it. They realize that it not only is the most ideal suburban home place within 15 miles from the city, but also see that it is a rare opportunity from an investment standpoint.

FOR SALE—
ONE-HALF ACRE LOTS.
We have just opened up a tract of one-half acre lots out of the townsite in our Monte Vista project, and six of these lots have been actually sold within two days after the map was issued.
We have left sixteen of these lots, and if you are interested in a splendid lot of this kind, with an elevation of about 1900 feet in the heart of a very rapidly growing community, with a block of the car line (which will be built very shortly,)
THEN INVESTIGATE THIS
and make your selection within the next day or so if possible.
The earlier you can investigate and decide, of course, the better selection you would have.
Some of the lots have beautiful live oaks on them, and some of the lots have an especially fine panorama view of the mountains.
NOTE THE PRICE.
The price of most of these lots are $250 and $300; the corner lot is $400, and the additional lot is $350. Terms, $10 down, balance in twelve quarterly payments; 5 per cent. discount for all cash.
Compare these prices with prices of similar property in other foothill districts, suburban to Los Angeles

FOR SALE—

LA PUENTE VALLEY CLOSE-IN ACREAGE.

FROSTLESS CITRUS AND WALNUT LAND.

5 AND 10-ACRE TRACTS. EASY TERMS.

ONLY THIRTY MINUTES FROM THE CENTER OF LOS ANGELES. STRICTLY HIGH-CLASS CITRUS AND WALNUT LAND IN PICTURESQUE LA PUENTE VALLEY.

Convenient to station, schools, stores, bank, etc.; excellent train service, cheap commutation rates.

The prices at which we are selling this land are positively $1100 to $1150 per acre under the market; you cannot buy better land at any price. Wideawake, practical citrus and walnut growers are buying here. Hundreds of acres in this district have been planted to oranges, lemons and walnuts.

The quality of soil, the water and climatic conditions are ideal. There is not a more delightful location for a country home in Southern California.

It is a safe and highly profitable investment. Values are advancing rapidly, and prices will soon be beyond your reach.

It is the opportunity you have been looking for; if you contemplate investing in acreage, you owe it to yourself to investigate what we have to offer.

Phone or call at our office TODAY for maps and folder descriptive of La Puente Valley lands.

RICHGROVE.

EARLY ORANGE AND LEMON LANDS.

$200 AND $125 PER ACRE.

Richgrove is located in the foothills of the early orange belt of Tulare county. It is here that the orange, lemon and olive grows to perfection. Why not secure your land in a location where the soil and climatic conditions will produce the very highest quality of fruit, together with an abundance of water and with a positive assurance against damage by frosts. Such a tract is very thinly skinned, juicy and highly colored orange which ripens 6 weeks to 2 months earlier than elsewhere and which is entirely free from scale and attendant labor and expense of fumigating.

$13.63 CASH and $13.63 PER MONTH.

Buys 10 acres of the $200 lands and $17.05 cash and $17.05 per month buys 10 acres of the $125 land.

Investigate for yourself. Excursion Tuesday and Saturday evenings. Call or write for illustrated folder and map.

FOR SALE— Country Property.

SAN JOAQUIN POINT. 400 ACRES.

Situated 10 miles north of Fresno city, ...south of the San Joaquin River and east of ...Lane's Bridge. Two miles from Gordon sta-...tion, Southern Pacific Railway. A new line ...now building from Gordon to Big Creek in the ...Sierra Nevada Mountains. A magnificent view ...of the San Joaquin River from any point ...along the eastern boundary of the tract. The ...proposed scenic boulevard from Hotchkiss ...to old Fort Millerton will pass this property ...on the west.

Fort Washington schoolhouse located across ...the avenue to the northeast.

Buildings consist of comfortable bungalow, ...large barn, windmill and 10,000 gallon ...tank. Shade trees and 200 acres planted to ...grain.

The soil is a rich sandy loam and admirably ...suited to the successful cultivation of alfalfa, ...oranges, lemons, olives, figs, peaches, apricots ...and all varieties of table and raisin ...grapes. Land protected from north and west ...winds by the high river bluffs and on the ...east and south by the higher elevation of ...tending to the plains.

Forty acres of the tract located on river ...bottom, 120 acres on second rise and 40 acres ...on third. The topography of the country pre-...cludes any possible danger from alkali.

A twelve-inch flowing well of excellent ...water. Tested with a six-inch centrifugal and ...delivering 1000 gallons per minute. An elec-...tric power line located within fifty feet of this ...well.

The San Joaquin River affords excellent op-...portunity for bathing, boating and fishing. ...The water is clear and pure, the stream be-...ing fed by the melting snow from the moun-...tains.

An examination of this property will be ...absolutely convincing that it is one of the, ...very few remaining desirable tracts of any ...considerable acreage, remaining unsold, ad-...jacent to Fresno, a city of thirty thousand ...people, and located in the heart of the dried ...and green-fruit industry of the San Joaquin ...Valley.

This property for sale. All information on ...application to H. R. SIMPSON or J. H. ...BINGHAM, owners, King Edward Hotel, ...Rooms 102, 10 to 12 a.m. No agents.

FOR SALE—

COLONIZATION TRACT.

Two thousand, five hundred and sixty (2560) ...acres in Madera county, one and one-half ...miles west of Berenda, one and one-half ...miles south of Fairmead, eight miles from the ...City of Madera.

This property is located in the center of ...a fourteen thousand (14,000) acre tract, lately ...purchased, and now being colonized by the ...Co-operative Land and Trust Company of San ...Francisco. This owns the land south and ...west of this land, heretofore known as the ...Olcese and Buckenau ranch, and the land ...north of this property and lately owned by ...the Shannon estate. They have planned this ...colony and townsite "Fairmead" and are ex-...tensively advertising and selling at $100 to ...$150 per acre.

This is A-1 proposition for a colony. The ...land is very level, no alkali, and the soil ...a rich sandy loam. The water depth is ...ideal, only fourteen feet, and the pumping ...lift not to exceed twenty-five feet. We ...are within two miles of a developed ar-...tesian belt. The proposed Tidewater and ...Southern Interurban Railway from Stockton ...to Fresno runs through the southern portion ...of this land, leaving the property between ...the Interurban and the S. P. R.R. Consid-...ering the activity and sales in this vicinity, ...and location of this property, makes it one ...of the most desirable colony properties in the ...San Joaquin Valley.

If interested, see our Mr. J. W. Griffin at ...Hotel Hayward, Los Angeles, Sunday, March ...10, to Tuesday, March 12, 1912.

GRIFFIN & DOSTER, Madera, California.

FOR SALE—
5 ACRES WITH WATER
$350.

Picture to yourself a 5-acre ranch lying north of Burbank, near San Fernando Boulevard, and near the railroad station. Picture it supplied with abundant water, piped under pressure. Then remember that this ranch entirely escaped the recent frost, and in this way you will have formed a fair idea of the ranch I now have for sale at an exceptionally low price. $350 per acre buys this land. I am ready to arrange terms so easy that they will certainly interest you. Only $25 cash and $25 monthly. I thoroughly believe that a foothill ranch in Southern California comes as near being the latch key to happiness and independence as any one proposition in real estate anywhere. See me about this before the opportunity passes.

FOR SALE—
FROSTLESS 2.5 ACRES.

We can now sell this tract of 2.45 acres in the Monte Vista Valley.

It is in the same territory where tomatoes and Chili peppers have lived for three years without being cut down by frost.

It is a fine level piece of land with just enough slope to make irrigation easy.

It has a splendid loose loam soil.

Mountain water both for irrigation and domestic purposes piped to the land.

The price is only $460 per acre or $1127.50. Terms, one-fourth cash, balance in 12 quarterly payments, 7 per cent. interest; 5 per cent. discount for all cash.

This is one of the best pieces in the entire valley. It is the only piece of its kind left.

The only reason that you can buy it at this price, is that all of the improvements which will be put in by the members of our Monte Vista project are not finished yet.

The trolley line is not completed, but will be sure. We own it. When it is finished it will run right by this property. Until its completion we are running auto stage.

Elevation about 1800 feet.

Elegant view.

Don't you want it?

If so, call at the office for further details, and arrange to go out in our auto and look it over at your earliest possible convenience. $1 round trip.

If you hesitate you will lose it.

FOR SALE—STOCK RANCHES.
You can make any ranch,
"Stand good"
on paper;
But to have it make good,
Ay! there's the rub.

No. 1—1500 Acres, $22,000.
No. 2—1700 Acres, $43,000.

Located close to railroad, fine climate, good surroundings.

Each place is fenced into several fields, fair buildings, well watered by never-failing creek and springs; has many fine live oak trees. These are not sage brush or barren ranges. The proportion of pasture land—growing an abundance of nutritious grasses—and plow land—well suited to the growth of alfalfa, peas, beans, sorghum and corn for ensilage—is well balanced. An ideal fancy stock ranch for an energetic, ambitious, brainy farmer, who wants to grow all his feed and feed all he grows. Several hundred acres in high-class deciduous fruit land. This is a good year to select a ranch, defects are plainly visible. This class of property is limited and will go to a premium as soon as it falls into capable hands. Don't argue, get into action; drop me a letter for full particulars; say you mean business and where you can be found.

It's for me, then, to produce the goods; if I don't, I lose, not you. Do it now.

FOR SALE—
FRUIT OR ALFALFA LAND
THAT EQUALS THE BEST.

IF I WERE TO ADVERTISE the land I am now offering in the Perris Valley as the best alfalfa land in the State, I really think I would not be over-estimating. THE SOIL is a good, rich deep silt. Plenty of water. I have gunk six wells in this valley. Alfalfa, as well as fruit ranchers, are doing well in this territory and there is no reason why you shouldn't reap as rich a harvest on any one of these pieces of ranch land. $100 TO $150 PER ACRE, INCLUDING WATER RIGHT, is the figure at which I am putting this land on the market; it is really a much lower price than it should command, but I want to get as much of this land under cultivation as possible in a short time. Small payment down and four years' time on the balance. Come and see me NOW—and arrange to take the trip to Perris.

FOR SALE—BRITISH COLUMBIA IS CANada's largest and richest province and is being opened up with tremendous rapidity by three trans-continental lines of railroad, as well as numerous other railroads. The British Columbia government has undertaken to build a north and south railroad, running from Vancouver to Fort George, about half way between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, to Fort George through the Peace River district, a distance of 300 miles. It is estimated that Three Hundred Million Dollars will be spent in railroad building in British Columbia during the next five years, and this work will open up a virgin country of fruit and farm lands, as well as timber and mineral resources. You can buy large or small tracts of farm lands now at 50 per cent. less than the same lands will cost you within five years. Let us send you information in regard to the vast empire which is now being opened up. The climate is the best in Canada. Write quick for full information. HAVE YOU INVESTIGATED
MONTA VISTA,
THE HOLLYWOOD OF THE FUTURE?

We can absolutely prove to any reasonable man that the land we are offering in Monta Vista is just as good an opportunity for investment today as was land in Hollywood a few years ago, which sold for the same price as we are now selling Monta Vista.

Don't fail to avail yourself of this great opportunity.

At least have enough initiative to investigate thoroughly and see whether or not there is merit in our statements.

WE OFFER

A very few ¼-acre lots, $250 and $300; also a few acre-lots, $500 to $600. Mountain water piped to each lot.

We also have a few 2½, 5 and 10-acre plots, suitable for suburban homesites.

Terms, one-fourth cash, balance 12 quarterly payments, interest 7 per cent.

Merced River Tract

A Business Location For Your Farm

Ten, Twenty and Forty Acre Lots

Each lot irrigated by a big canal from the Merced River. Water costs only $2.00 an acre per year. MERCED RIVER TRACT gets its water before any other subdivision in the irrigation district. Perpetual water right goes with the land.

MERCED RIVER TRACT is situated in the most productive district in Merced County, in the upper end of the San Joaquin Valley. San Francisco is four hours' ride by rail. Merced, the county seat, is only forty-five minutes' drive by team over a fine boulevard. Town in center of MERCED RIVER TRACT on the Southern Pacific Railroad. Convenient to best country and metropolitan markets in California.

Soil is a sandy loam, clean, rich and deep. It is ready for the plow. The surface is smooth, and the slope is correct for uniform irrigation.

The climate, situation, school privileges and social advantages of MERCED RIVER TRACT will appeal to your family.

Call or write for our two booklets, "Merced River Tract, a Business Location for Your Farm," and "What to Do When It Doesn't Rain." They are of interest to every man who believes in ALFALFA, CORN, COWS AND HOGS, and who realizes the importance of an abundant water supply.

MERCED RIVER TRACT has just been opened; the choice lots will go to the first purchasers. Get further particulars from us by writing today or calling tomorrow. You will be interested.

Our prices, from $90 to $125 per acre, are such as farmers can afford to pay. We offer terms that permit the land to make the payments.

GREATEST OIL EXPANSION ENTERPRISES YET.

Big Things in Sight.

MILLIONS FOR PIPE LINES FOR NATURAL GAS AND OIL

Stupendous Enterprises on Foot in Southern California. Gas to Be Available for Los Angeles Homes—Kern County Oil to Be Brought to San Pedro Harbor. Tank Steamers to Ply Between World's Ports.

THE era of pipe line building has come to the oil and gas industries of the State, and there is every indication that within the next two years, millions of dollars will have been expended in California in constructing a network of pipe lines which will bring natural gas to the doors of Los Angeles for domestic consumption, and connect the oil fields with the refineries.

Premier in this new activity is the Midway Gas Company, a subsidiary of the Huntington gas and power interests, which controls the natural gas output of the wells of the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company in the Buena Vista hills of Kern county. It is the announced purpose of the Midway Gas Company to pipe natural gas from the Honolulu wells to the edge of the city, and there turn the product into the mains of the Southern California Gas Company for distribution to domestic consumers.

Several weeks ago the representatives of the company applied to the City Clerk and the County Supervisors for a franchise to build an oil and gas pipe line from the Midway field to Los Angeles. As it is the policy of the Supervisors to sell such franchises to the highest bidder, the representative of the company, when the matter was consided last Monday, accompanied the reading of the bid with a check for $2500. Later this amount was increased to $5000, and the company was awarded the franchise. The bid was also accompanied by a bond for $25,000, and the Midway Company in addition will present the county with a good wagon road forty feet wide and about twenty miles long. The bond is to guarantee the prosecution of the work and the building of the line within two years. Three parallel lines of 10-inch pipe will be laid. The natural gas will be sold in this city and to the towns along the route.

CHEAP FUEL CLAMOR.

The fact of utilizing natural gas for fuel has aroused interest in all parts of the State accessible to the gas fields, and many municipalities are now clamoring for an opportunity to get in on the ground floor. In the Santa Maria oil field, the Midway, the Fullerton field and other sections of the State, millions of feet of natural gas have been going to waste for years past, and it seems that the time has now arrived when capitalists will harness the product for domestic consumption.

There are intimations that the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, which furnishes artificial gas to a large portion of this city, does not purpose to be left out in the cold, and has already made arrangements with the Union Oil Company and other concerns that control the natural gas output of the Santa Maria oil fields, for a supply that can be pumped to this city. This will mean competition between the two great gas corporations of Los Angeles, and possibly will ultimately redound to the benefit of the consumers of both companies.

Of greater importance, probably, than the piping of natural gas to this city for use, as fuel, is the proposition to provide pipe line transportation for oil from the Kern county fields to Los Angeles and the harbor at San Pedro. At the present time the Supervisors have before them an application from the General Pipe Line Company, a $7,500,000 corporation backed by the De Sabla and Barneson interests of San Francisco, which control the Esperanza Consolidated Oil Company, for a franchise to build a double pipe line for the carrying of oil from the Midway fields to Los Angeles tidewater. This application was presented by F. E. Fitzpatrick of San Francisco, and there is little doubt that it will be granted. In awarding the franchise to the Midway Gas Company for $5000 a precedent was set for such privilege, and the General Pipe Line Company is prepared to pay for the franchise desired.

In addition the matter has been taken up with Maj. C. H. McKinstry of the United States Engineer's office in this city, and forwarded to the War Department. No unfavorable action is anticipated. It is said the pipe line contemplated by the General Pipe Line Company would bring approximately 30,000 barrels of oil a day to this city, or the harbor at San Pedro, and the announced object of the company is to furnish oil-burning steamers, manufacturers, etc., with oil for fuel.

BIG INVESTMENT.

It is estimated that the building of the pipe lines, the construction of over 1,000,000 barrels of storage in the vicinity of Los Angeles, pumping stations and other necessary work will entail an expenditure of at least $3,500,000. Mr. Fitzpatrick, who represents the General Pipe Line Company, spent several months in Southern California thoroughly investigating the situation in regard to markets, transportation costs and securing other data before the application for the franchise was made. He assured himself and his associates that the market is at present sufficiently broad to absorb all the oil the company can bring to this city, and there is no danger of default on that score.

FLEET OF STEAMERS.

It is further the announced purpose of the interest back of the General Pipe Line Company to build a fleet of tank steamers to ply between the various seaports of the world. It is believed that the building of oil pipe lines will eventually have a big effect on the industrial concerns of the southern part of the State, because of the cheaper fuel available when they are completed.

Another pipe line project that will have to do with the oil industry of California, is that of the Guaranty Pipe Line Company. This company has already surveyed its line from Maricopa to San Pedro, has applied to the Supervisors of Kern county for a franchise, and has received bids on the cost of construction from Maricopa to Ventura and also from Ventura to San Pedro. The company has not yet applied for a Los Angeles franchise, but may be a bidder at any time.

Another corporation, known as the Pacific Pipe Line Company, and capitalized for $10,000,000, was incorporated some weeks ago, and its understood object is the building of an oil pipe line. Also, in matters affecting the oil industry, the Standard Oil Company is always to be reckoned with. The Standard is back of the California Natural Gas Company, which was organized about two years ago and is now furnishing Bakersfield and certain portions of the northern oil fields with natural gas. Since the building of the new refinery at El Segundo, there have been many rumors that the big company would eventually build a pipe line to connect its Kern county holdings with the El Segundo plant. If the company should carry out such a plan it would mean the investment of several million dollars.

PLANS NOVEL RETREAT.

Sanatorium for Tired Business Men Projected for Site in Heart of Yorba Linda District.

Dr. A. S. Brackett, a local capitalist, is preparing plans for the erection of a "business man's sanatorium" in the Yorba Linda orange district and immediately adjacent to the new townsite of Yorba Linda, just laid out by the Janss Investment Company. The expenditure will approximate $53,000 and the retreat will be available only to business men who need rest, sleep and a chance to "fuss around" in the open air without having to be in contact with persons suffering from any disease.

Dr. Brackett, some months ago, bought twenty acres at Yorba Linda, and, when the new town was mapped, added three business lots to his holdings. The land is together in one parcel and gives ample space for the unique sanatorium and a breadth of grounds for semi-tropical grounds. The main buildings will be on elevated grounds, commanding a view down the rich La Habra Valley and eastward over the Santa Ana River. Mountain scenery is afforded on the north and south.

Much activity at the new townsite is reported and many business and residence houses are under construction. Schools, churches, a depot and canning plants are among the structures practically finished. The Pacific Electric company will quickly complete a Class A station.

MARKET LIVELY OVER WIDE AREA.

DEALERS REPORT MANY SALES SOUTH OF SIXTH.

Buyer of Twelfth-Street Lot Projects Two-Story Garages—Santee-Street Frontage to Be Improved. Record Price Paid for Property on Hope Near Eighth.

Robert L. Wall has purchased a lot, 50x150 feet to an alley, on the south side of Twelfth street, between Hope and Flower streets, the consideration being $25,000. Mr. Wall has great faith in the future of this section and intends to erect a two-story garage at once. W. I. Hollingsworth & Company were the agents in the transaction.

Mrs. Vicenta V. de Wucherer yesterday sold 100x101 feet on the east side of Santee street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, for $25,000. C. H. Castle, the purchaser, announces his intention of erecting a substantial building on this property in the near future.

A record price was paid for Hope-street property last week, when Mrs. Elizabeth Barnum sold to a local investor a lot on the west side of Hope between Eighth and Ninth streets, for $40,000. This price is at the rate of $800 per foot. The lot is 50x155 feet to an alley. W. I. Hollingsworth & Company, who made these two deals, report an increasing demand for property in the district bounded by Sixth, Pico, Main and Figueroa streets.

This company reports additional sales as follows: Los Angeles corporation to Victor Newman, seven-room house, Third avenue south of Jefferson street, $5000; F. E. Smith to N. J. Laughran, house at the corner of Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue, for $9000; J. E. Cummings to the McCarrick Company, house on the corner of Third street and Wilton place, $6750; E. W. Richardson to C. W. Wilson, lot at Tenth and El Molino, $1200; Ellen Frummet to Charles Woesner, corner of Harathon and Herwin, $1200; J. R. Waldo to Charles S. Culver, two lots at Thirty-ninth street and La Salle avenue, $2000; Alberteena Ronneau to W. H. Gottschalk, a lot at Third and Alameda, $6000; H. W. McLead to George Jackson, house at No. 243 Normandie avenue, $6000; C. N. Brundage to Louis Gronman, house at No. 1619 West Twenty-second street, $4000.

OPEN NORTHWEST TRACT.

A syndicate for which W. C. Norman is the selling agent, has placed on the market the Melrose Bungalow Tract, a subdivision comprising fifty-seven lots laid out for and restricted to bungalows. The property is one block from the new State Normal School site at the corner of Vermont avenue and Monroe avenue. The tract fronts on Edgemont street, Windermere street, Wisteria drive, Melrose avenue and Monroe avenue. The street improvements are all in. The Heliotrope-drive yellow car passes along the southern frontage and the Pacific Electric beach line is two blocks away.

COLONY BUYS ACREAGE.

Eighty Families to Try Community Plan of Ranching on Tract of Land at Puente.

A "Get-together-and-prosper" colony, under the name of the Fellowship Farm Association, has completed the purchase of seventy-two acres of land at Puente and will at once test the community plan of ranching. The project contemplates the laying out of a small town, with profit-sharing stores and bungalow homes. The rest of the land will be devoted to fruits and vegetables, all the men participating in the work and dividing the gains.

George Elmer Littlefield of Boston is leader and treasurer of the movement. The corporation includes eighty families, which have contributed $100 each as a first payment. Forty of the families will settle on the land at once, and next year additional acreage will be taken, it is said.

An agricultural school will be started, as many of the colonists are said to be professional men who have had no practical training for farm life. A motor truck will be used to convey produce to the markets.

Sterling W. Banks, manager of the land department of Purcell, Gray and Gale, subdividers of Rancho La Puente lands, reports the following late sales for the week: J. E. Behms, five acres, $1625; Alfred Anderson, ten acres, $5250; Joseph Miller, five acres, $2000; Samuel P. Clark, four acres, $1400; William Peterson, five acres, $2250, and Andrew Thompson, seven acres, $3500.

WORKMAN HOMESTEAD SOLD.

Stockman Buys Fine Tract in San Fernando Valley—Historic Ranch House Included in Sale.

Forty acres, near the town of Owensmouth, and including the historic Workman ranch homestead, one of the six ranch houses of the original Van Nuys holdings in the San Fernando Valley, was purchased during the past week by Edwin Morris, a well-known farmer and stockman. The consideration is given at $500 an acre. The offices of Ross E. Whitley negotiated the sale.

Morris has been connected with operations in the district in question for many years. He purchased heavily at the great auctions held prior to the opening of the Van Nuys-Lankershim property. Interest in the region is just now keen, on account of the coming opening of the new town of Owensmouth.

PLAN BEAUTIFUL CHURCH.

Presbyterians of Van Nuys to Erect Stately House of Worship Designed Along Colonial Lines.

VAN NUYS, March 9.—Among the handsome buildings with which the new town of Van Nuys will be adorned, is the Presbyterian Church, for which plans are being prepared by Walker & Vawter of Los Angeles. It will be colonial in style and constructed of white enameled brick, at a cost of $10,000.

Beside an audience room seating 400, it will have accommodations for Sunday-school and primary classes, a ladies' parlor and buffet kitchen, a pastor's study. It will be a model of architectural beauty and of adaptation to the needs of modern church work.

The Board of Control of Van Nuys, in donating a fine location at the corner of St. Andrews and E streets, have wisely demanded that the building shall be in keeping in its style and coolness with the other public improvements of the place. And while this lays upon the congregation in its infancy a burden which it is unable to bear unaided, it is believed that public spirited residents and property owners of Van Nuys and vicinity will come to their aid, not only for the sake of the good cause represented by the church, but also for the adornment and added attractiveness of the town.

Rev. W. B. Noble, D.D., of this city, has the work in charge. He reports that more than half of the $10,000 needed to meet the conditions upon which the lots are donated, is in sight, and is hopeful that subscriptions will soon be secured to cover the whole amount. As soon as this point is reached, so that the church can be completed free of debt, work will be commenced.

ON VENICE SHORT LINE.

The Guy M. Rush Company has just concluded the purchase of another tract along the Venice Short Line. The property is fully improved with sidewalks and cement curbs and oiled streets and has a graded school. It has a large frontage on the Venice Short Line and extends through to Washington boulevard, some of it being set out in walnut trees. Arrangements are being made for gas and electricity. The subdivision is known as Clarkdale.

OLIVE INDUSTRY IS THREATENED.

Prosperity of Many Towns of State at Stake.

Fight Against a Reduction of Tariff Important.

Protection from Competition Needed, Says Expert.

On February 21, when the House of Representatives passed the chemical tariff revision bill, which includes a reduction of twenty cents per gallon on olive oil, it indicated the possibility of a fatal blow being struck at the olive industry of California if the bill is finally carried in the Senate and ratified by the President.

All the olive growers and manufacturers of olive oil in the State are keenly alarmed by this action of the House, and have united in appealing to the California Senators against the adoption of a measure which would be ruinous to the industry.

In the light of this menace to the olive industry, it is important to know the present state of this branch of agriculture, which in the whole United States thrives only in California. While the Southern California orange is a household word in every part of the country and the lemon has been in the limelight almost constantly, owing to the lemon tariff agitation, the olive has remained more or less in the background. And yet, there are over $2,000,000 worth of California olives and olive oil sold in the eastern market every year.

OLIVE INDUSTRY IS NEW.

Some have thought the California olive growers are raising a great clamor over nothing. To correct this erroneous opinion wherever it exists, Maj. F. D. Butterfield, president of the Los Angeles Growers' Association, has supplied the following information about the industry:

"The olive industry of California," says Maj. Butterfield, "is in an infant state, which is one of the best reasons why we need the protection of the government against foreign competition, at least until the industry is mature and stable enough to fight a running commercial battle with such strong rivals as Italy and Spain.

"But I want to add for the enlightenment of the people and to do credit to the persevering olive growers of this State that if the California olive industry is as big as it is now in its infancy, unhampered by foreign competition, it would grow into a great flourishing branch of agriculture well nigh rivalling that of the orange and lemon. It is already a $2,000,000 industry, which is remarkable when one takes into consideration the difficulties it has encountered in its growth.

MANY OBSTACLES MET WITH.

"To begin with, in the year of 1769 olive trees were planted by the Franciscan fathers at San Diego. From that time olive growing has developed year by year in spite of obstacles and drawbacks to a point where there is now produced more than 1,000,000 gallons of pickled olives, and more than 900,000 gallons of olive oil. This output is worth about $2,000,000.

"There are at present in the State about 100,000 acres of olive trees, or probably 1,500,000 trees. The amount of money invested in the industry is between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000. Los Angeles county alone has some 500,000 trees, besides boasting of the largest olive ranch in the world, that at Sylmar, which contains 2030 acres of bearing trees."

PURE FOOD LAW HELPS.

"I will call attention to the fact that in 1903 the growers were receiving as low as $15 per ton for olives. At that time there was no protective tariff to keep out the flood of Italian olive oil and olives, which, raised and prepared on an extremely low wage scale, could be placed in this country for about half what the Californian cost.

"The direct result of that fact, coupled with the costly railroad haul across the continent, which, compared to the minimum charge incurred by the foreign competitor in the Atlantic ocean haul was enormously high, was that the olive growers of California were hopelessly disqualified.

"Again, they had no redress against the unfair sale of foreign oils adulterated with cheap substitutes, until the passing of the pure food law put Excursions Are Planned from Far Away Places.

Announcement was made yesterday of the full programme for the seventeen days and nights of the Land Show Beautiful, which opens its doors at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening, March 12, continuing until Thursday, March 28. The programme includes special celebrations for the various States which are participating most extensively in the exposition, and on these occasions excursions will be run from distant points.

The programme day by day is as follows:

Tuesday, March 12—"Los Angeles Night." Special opening exercises, including addresses by Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace, Mayor George Alexander, Former Senator Frank P. Flint, President C. C. Moore of the Panama-Pacific Exposition of San Francisco, President D. C. Collier of the Panama-California Exposition of San Diego, and President William M. Garland of the Los Angeles Realty Board.

Wednesday, March 13—"Madera County Day." Celebration by members of special train excursion from Madera county, under direction of Secretary H. H. Whitmore, Madera Chamber of Commerce.

Thursday, March 14.—"Crescent Bay and San Diego Day." Special Pacific Electric excursions from Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Redondo, Playa del Rey; San Diego celebration in charge of D. C. Collier, Joseph Sefton, Jr., and Winfield Hogaboom of the Panama-California Exposition.

Friday, March 15—"School Children's Day." Holiday in the city and county schools, pupils attending accompanied by teachers; addresses by City School Superintendent J. H. Francis, County School Superintendent Mark Keppel, and Joseph Scott, special illustrated lectures by United States government experts, C. J. Blanchard and C. H. Shimm.

Saturday, March 16—"Beach and Orange County Day," also "Oregon Day." Celebration by Long Beach, San Pedro, Newport and other beach cities with special excursions via Pacific Electric Railway; reunion of former Oregon residents and northern visitors.

Sunday, March 17—"St. Patrick's Day." Vocal solos by Thomas Taylor Drill, Director of Land Show Chorus, including old Irish melodies.

Monday, March 18—"Kern County Day" and "Arizona Day." Special exercises and reception of Kern county visitors under direction of T. F. Burke, secretary Kern county Board of Trade; a special display of Arizona products under direction of Dr. A. G. Chandler.

Tuesday, March 19—"Utah Day." Reception of special train excursion from Salt Lake City, headed by Gov. William Spry of Utah, and exercises at Utah exhibit in charge of Douglas White.

Wednesday, March 20—"California Day" and "Society Night." Speeches by state officials and special musical programme, including singing of "California" and "Song of the Soil" by Grand Chorus; visitation by society folk and many "Land Show parties."

Thursday, March 21—"Riverside and San Bernardino Counties Day" and "New Mexico Day." Special exercises at county booths and by New Mexico delegation.

Friday, March 22—"Imperial and Coachella Valley Day." Special display and exercises from Imperial county, under direction of Charles W. Kars.

Saturday, March 23—"Labor Day." Special attractions and all men and women workers invited.

Sunday, March 24—"Fresno County Day." Reception of delegation from San Joaquin Valley, headed by President W. W. Phillips of Fresno Chamber of Commerce, exercises in charge of J. M. Swift, manager of exhibit.

Monday, March 25—"Montana Day." Reunion of former residents of Montana and the Northwest.

Tuesday, March 26—"San Gabriel Valley Day." Excursions via Pacific Electric from Pasadena, Alhambra, Monrovia and other neighboring cities with special exercises at exhibit.

Wednesday, March 27—"Nevada Day." Reception of delegation headed by Gov. Tasker L. Oddie.

Thursday, March 28—"Los Angeles Realty Board Day." Farewell exercises and special musical programme, with addresses by President W. M. Garland, Secretary Phillip D. Wilson and others.

SOME BIG EXCURSIONS.

Several big excursions are already arranged to the Land Show.

Utah will send between 300 and 500 prominent citizens, headed by Gov. William Spry and Douglas White, aboard a special train, leaving Salt Lake City Sunday evening, March 17, and arriving here Tuesday morning, March 19, just in time to celebrate "Utah Day" at the exposition. General Manager Wilson has arranged for a reception at the Land Show in honor of this contingent.

Enterprising Madera county will send a special train party numbering about 300, on a five-day journey to Los Angeles, arriving here Saturday morning, March 9, and celebrating "Madera Day" at the Land Show on Wednesday, March 13. The Maderans make their headquarters at Hotel Hayward and will be guests of the Chamber of Commerce at a reception at 8 p.m. Monday, March 11. Several one-day tours to points of interest have been arranged for this party, which is headed by President W. W. Phillips of the Madera county Chamber of Commerce. H. H. Whitmore, secretary of the Madera Chamber of Commerce, has been in Los Angeles the past week installing the county's splendid exhibit at the Land Show.

Oregon probably will be represented in Los Angeles on "Oregon Day," March 16, by the large delegation that is journeying to San Francisco to select the site for the Oregon building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, which event occurs on March 13. Gov. Oswald West is at the head of this party and assurances have been received that the Oregonians will continue their trip to Los Angeles from the Golden Gate.

Gov. Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada will visit the Land Show at the head of a party of leading Nevadans for "Nevada Day," which occurs on March 27, next to the last day of the exposition.

San Diego will send a large representation, including President D. C. Collier, Joseph Sefton, Jr., and Winfield Hogaboom of the Panama-California Exposition directorate, to the Land Show for "San Diego Day," next Thursday.

REPORTS EXCHANGES.

The Edwards & Wildey Company reports the following deals: W. S. Smith to A. Sanitino, ten-acre ranch, on Magnolia avenue, one mile west of Burbank, improved with six-room residence, barn and other outbuildings and set to peaches, consideration $16,000. The seller took as part payment the northwest corner of Lamarada and Santa Clair avenues, improved with two-story, eight-room residence and valued at $6000, and two lots on the southeast corner of Thirty-sixth street and Sixth avenue.

L. W. Parmenter to James Ewngs, two acres, in Glendale, on the Verdugo road, near Sixth street, improved with an eight-room residence, consideration $6000. The purchaser took as part payment a six-room bungalow, on the corner of Forty-first and Wadsworth, consideration $4000, and balance adjusted with cash.

S. R. Roseberg to Clinton D. Hoover, eight-acre ranch, one mile south of Burbank, improved with peaches and alfalfa, consideration $8000. The purchaser took as part payment a bungalow at No. 916 West Jefferson street, valued at $5200, balance adjusted with cash.

H. Seamans to L. P. Williamson, 50x181 feet, on the east side of Mariposa, just north of Melrose, consideration $1500. E. W. Sherlock to a local investor, 40x170 feet, on the west side of Wilton, between Third and Fourth streets, $3250. W. H. Taylor to G. L. Louden, lot, on Hobart, between Fifth and Sixth, consideration $3000. The purchaser will improve at once with a modern ten-room residence. Henry Wildey to J. F. Davis, six-room bungalow, No. 1462 Regina lane, Highland Park, $2850. California Bungalow Company to J. H. Chapman, five-room bungalow, at No. 1456 Oak Circle, Highland Park, $2400.

FONTANA ACTIVITIES.

Reports from the Fontana Development Company state that active planting of citrus trees has already begun on its tract at Fontana. The company has subdivided and is planting 640 acres, south and east of the railroad station, and adjoining the present subdivision. Employed in this work are 100 men. If the weather permits, the work will continue uninterruptedly until the entire tract is planted, after which the streets will be graded and oiled, and ornamental trees, consisting of palms and black acacias, set out on all streets and avenues. In addition, practically all the unimproved land on the present subdivision will be planted, together with additional land belonging to the company, bringing up the amount up to about 1200 acres for the season of 1912.

The company reports the sale during the past week of the west half of lot 407, planted to orange trees, to W. T. Campbell of Hot Springs, Ark., for $4500, and of the east half of lot 413, planted to orange and lemon trees, to A. H. Woodward of Whittier for $4500.

ACTIVITY IN LEASING.

F. W. Kadletz, manager of the Rental Department of W. I. Hollingsworth Company, reports the following recent leases:

For Chas. B. Spurr to the California Home Builders, store room at No. 622 South Hill street, four years and six months, total rental, $10,000. Central Broadway Building Company to S. Piller, a loft at No. 618 South Hill street, three years, for tailoring establishment. Prudential Tire Company, 90 Rhorbacher Pump Company, store room at 1247 South Olive street. J. C. California Home Builders to the Tungsten Consolidated Company, a store room at 602 South Hill street. Park Bank to the Newport Realty Company, store room at 504 South Hill street.

The sale of the furniture and lease of the Bixel Apartment-house for F. B. Neuhoff to C. Marchetti for a consideration of $12,000 is also reported. The lease is for a period of five years and at a total rental of approximately $40,000. The company also reports the sale of the furniture and lease of a rooming-house at 1333 South Hope street for Mrs. Isabel McDermott to Mrs. Roy Elliott, and of the furniture and lease of the Adel Apartments for Mrs. Nunnally to W. E. Murray.

TO REMODEL HOME.

West Twenty-fifth-Street Residence to Be Converted Into Modern Three-Story Apartment-House.

Sketches are being prepared by Carl Escherich for a three-story frame apartment-house, to be erected by H. R. Hutchason on West Twenty-fifth street, near Grand avenue. The construction of the building will be carried on under the personal supervision of the designer.

A two-story residence, at present on the site, will be made a part of the structure, the roof of this house to be fitted up as a roof garden. The new portion will be 46x85 feet in size, and will contain three three-room and three two-room suites, while the remodeled part will provide for four three-room apartments. The building will contain fifteen bathrooms, steam-heating plant, vacuum cleaning system and disappearing and wall beds.

MILLIONS FOR PIPE LINE.

by the Standard, the Associated and the Union. The Standard is now engaged in building a third parallel line from the Kern county fields to its refinery at Pt. Richmond on San Francisco Bay, the Associated has a double line to San Francisco Bay, and the Union (Producers' Transportation Company,) has a line from the San Joaquin Valley to Port Hartford, where it loads its sea-going tank steamers.

The present investment of these three companies in pipe lines is probably $15,000,000, and if all the pipe line projects now in contemplation are successfully carried out at least $10,000,000 more will be added to this class of investment in California. The ultimate effect of a successful issue to these projects on the industrial activity of the State can scarcely be estimated. The fields of the State are now producing approximately 85,000,000 barrels of oil annually, and the aggregate value of the product is about $40,000,000. Pipe line transportation for oil and natural gas will mean cheaper fuel for factories and other industrial enterprises, and will give a wonderful impetus to business of all kinds.

Rail transportation for oil is an economic absurdity, because of no back haul, and for that reason is so high as to be almost prohibitory. The biggest percentage of the oil production of California comes from the San Joaquin Valley, which to some degree is isolated from the big markets. It is for that reason that oil worth 30 cents a barrel at the well in Kern county, is worth 70 cents a barrel in Los Angeles.

The pipe line era in the oil industry is the natural successor of the frenzied finance era. The business in California has been undergoing a great change, and stability has taken the place of practical chaos. The economical handling of the product will be the best evidence of sound business methods.

ACQUIRE LEMON LANDS.

Local Realty Firm Buys Thousand-Acre Tract Near Corona—Will Subdivide for Market Soon.

Swank & Letton, completed yesterday the purchase from Alex Taylor of a large portion of his 9000-acre ranch, known as Sunny Slope Lemon lands. The purchase price is given at approximately $125,000 for about 1000 acres of the tract.

The Sunny Slope Lemon Lands lie about one mile south of the Santa Fe railroad, betwen Corona and Arlington, and will be reached by a thirty-foot boulevard, now being constructed from the railroad to the heart of the tract. It is the intention of the Swank & Letton Company to plat the tract on the market as choice [illegible] land.

The property has an elevation of from 1200 to 1400 feet. The soil is said to be well adapted to the culture of citrus fruits. Provisions are made for the development of water

Adolphus Busch to Build at Once a $60,000 Casino at Santa Monica

A Superb Structure to Be Erected on Ocean and Colorado Avenues

Only another instance showing to what extent the magnates of the United States are seeing the tremendous future ahead of Santa Monica, which induces them to erect not merely buildings of moderate cost; but structures aggregating immense fortunes.

The new Casino will occupy a broad 100-foot frontage on Ocean avenue, and will run to a depth of 150 feet on Colorado avenue. Those who are familiar with the similar previous undertakings of Mr. Busch, are looking forward with great anticipation to the completion of the new building, so successfully does he handle the various building and other pursuits in which he engages himself, and of such a strictly high-class character is each and every undertaking of this character, when it is completed.

THE NEW CASINO TO BE NAMED AS OTHER SUCH EASTERN CASINOS.

The new Busch Casino is to be called "The Sunset Inn," the same as Mr. Busch's other Casinos in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. It will undoubtedly be of equal if not higher character than the others, being installed with all of the latest improvements, which have developed since the installation of the building of the previous ones.

In addition to the many other advantages of this new Casino, there is to be a roof garden in connection. Imagine the delight of participating in any of the pleasure parties that will visit this superb retreat evening after evening, to partake of some dainty refreshments or cooling beverage.

Picture the glory of such a setting for a dinner; a garden of snowy tables embowered with bloom, and loaded with glittering silver and sparkling glass. Imagine this scene made resplendent by beautifully gowned women and handsomely attired men, with immaculate waiters flitting here and there to administer to the various wants, their white attire reminding one of so many butterflies as they glide in and out among the dense foliage, going from table to table. Picture this scene with the moon at the full over the sea, making a great, broad path of silver from the shore to the horizon, and each wave in turn created with silver as it makes its way shoreward, to echo its deep, sonorous voice in contrast to the exquisite strains of the orchestra on the roof, the merry voices of the onlookers and the gentle tinkle of the ice in the glasses. Is there any wonder that many are looking forward to the completion of this building and its pleasures, with an anticipation that has arisen to intensest eagerness?

The seating capacity of this new Casino will be five hundred souls. In addition to the Roof Garden there will be a Cafe and Bar. It is expected to be completed about the middle of the coming June.

This Casino is to be not unlike in its situation and relation to the sea, what the Brighton Beach Hotel is to the beach by that name, as well as the various other cafes of like character, which hug the shores of the Atlantic in the vicinity of New York and the other big Eastern cities; only the very high-class nature of the new structure will make it far superior to many.

It is to be built of brick, with an unusually decorative effect carried out in its upper portion, consisting of tiled gables and applied cement. Its entrance is to be of extremely generous proportions to be mounted from the broad Esplanade below, by a flight of marble stairs and finished with a marble entrance. Its tremendous windows, eight of which will cross the front, will be of the same generous proportions.

There will be another side entrance on Coronado street, as well as the big front entrance on Ocean avenue, with service entrances in the rear.

A PICTURESQUE GARDEN FOR CASINO.

The 50x150-foot plot of the land on the western side of the Casino, opposite to the Coronado entrance, will be devoted to a garden of an unusually aesthetic type, with winding walks and floral plots planted throughout, finished with graceful borders of dense shrubbery and trees. This will form another beauty spot to be overlooked by the diners, to add variety to the other views of the long row of golden ball lights and the white stone Esplanade for miles on one side, and the sea and park on the other.

It is said, that in harmony with the best European and American Casinos, the present Adolphus Busch Casino will have its orchestra, one of the best to be had, with perhaps some arrangement for a few musical stars to be engaged from time to time.

The interior of the Casino will be fitted out with the highest class appointments, many of them following the latest conceptions adopted by the most advanced Parisian cafes and Casinos; the woodwork is to be of French mahogany.

The cuisine of this Casino will be difficult to rival from coast to coast, so extensive are the arrangements being provided, and the details planned for.

OOKING FORWARD TO BUSY SEASON.

SECTION CONSTANTLY FORGING AHEAD.

Monica Permits Valued at Hundred Thousand Dollars. Amusement Devices Under Construction—Streets Being Improved All Over City.

SANTA MONICA, March 9.—With permits issued during January and February to an aggregate of more than $300,000, not including the $200 High School building and the street work under way or in contemplation than at any previous time in the history of the city, Santa Monica is looking forward to the most active building season since the first development of the beach district.

The week just closing marked the start of work on the new Jones pleasure pier, which is to be erected at the foot of Kinney street, and will extend out as far as Pier avenue. This pier is to be of concrete and will have a unique riding device known as the Mountain Roll.

The driving of the piles is now in progress, and just as soon as the giant piles and some trees can season they will be towed into the sandy bed of the ocean.

Work has also commenced on the extension of the Hollister avenue wharf, which is to be given a uniform width of sixty feet for its entire length. The piles are to be of reinforced concrete, the purchase of Lyndon Lindsay, the owner of the pier property, of considerable ocean frontage in this section, being to make it a permanency, being to make it a permanent one. Work also witnessed the breaking of ground for the Busch casino, which will cost $32,000 and will ornament the Ocean avenue corner of the pier. A part at least of this structure will be completed in time to accommodate the crowds that are expected here on the occasion of the annual motor boat races, May 4, and the sham battles of battleships and the fleet on May 7.

Work was broken early in the week on the Elks' clubhouse on Ocean avenue, but the real construction work will not be started for several days, as the plans are to be changed a trifle in order to bring the cost within the limit of the $40,000 appropriation. The trustees have accepted plans for a clubhouse on Seventh and Ocean avenue, and the ground has been cleared preparatory to the beginning of work. The Women's Auxiliary members have also accepted plans for their clubhouse and have selected the site, at Fourth and Ocean avenue.

BIDS FOR PAVING BIDS.

Bids are to be solicited at once for the paving of Oregon avenue from the north line of Montana avenue, a distance of 54,000 feet, from the south line of Fourth street to the Sawtelle city limits at Cambridge. This improvement is designed to give the beach a boulevard gateway from Los Angeles and the east. The proposed improvement is to include concrete curbs, sidewalk and gutters and the planting of ornamental palms in the parking space for the entire distance.

Other miles of paving are to be done at once in the new Palisades subdivision, where all of the streets in a 200-acre tract are to be paved and provided with sidewalks, curbs and gutters and ornamental trees. This improvement includes the laying of sewers, water and gas mains. The work is to be done by private contract, under municipal supervision.

Ninth, Eleventh, Fourteenth, California, Seventeenth, Idaho and a number of other streets in the northeastern part of the city are to be improved at the same time, while the surveys are now in progress for the paving of Twenty-sixth north from Nevada avenue to San Vicente boulevard, a distance of more than a mile.

A movement has been started for the construction of a viaduct across the network of trolley tracks for the purpose of connecting Third street north and south and thus of bringing the two business sections of the city into close communication so far as all wheeled traffic is concerned.

Three new lumber yards have been established here during the past few weeks in order to meet the demand made by builders for construction material. Shipments to the beach are growing and the yards already established here are doing a heavier business than during previous seasons.

GRADING CONTRACT LET.

The survey of Live Oak ranch, a new tract just put on the market by the George C. Peckham Company, in the foothills near San Dimas, on the Foothill boulevard, is now one-half completed, and the work of platting it into five-acre and ten-acre tracts, and the laying out of the streets will be rapidly pushed. Contracts were let during the past week for the grading of the streets, and the laying of the water mains will be contracted for during the coming week.

The George C. Peckham Company report the sale of fifty-five acres in the Riverside boulevard tract to G. Steddom of Washington, D. C., for a consideration of $16,500. The land is planted in alfalfa. The same company reports the sale of a one-acre chicken ranch in Inglewood to Mr. Eccleston for $1500, and of a one-acre piece at Baird Station to William Rapp for $750.

PREPARING FOR VISITORS.

BEACH ACTIVITIES NOTABLE.

VENICE, March 9.—With no less than a dozen and a half apartment-houses in course of construction, twice as many planned for early erection and building permits amounting to $200,000 for the first two months of the new year, Venice sees a lively season ahead. Aside from arranging to care for the summer visitors, the matter of providing diversion and entertainment for them has the call of hammer and saw.

A captive aeroplane device, a giant merry-go-round and a unique auto race are already approaching completion and the work of razing the Merry Widow has been started in order to make room for a miniature motordrome. The interior of the big surf bathhouse is undergoing remodeling and in the new arrangement the warm plunge will be always in plain view of the loungers in the lobby.

The early opening of the First National Bank, the establishment of a postal savings bank and the operation of a local home builders' organization all contribute to the forces of progress, while the prospective opening of the new boulevard from Los Angeles to the beach via Palms and Boyer's Grove is expected to result in bringing many new home-seekers to the beach.

Developments in the rich back country is keeping pace with activities along shore. The Durley tract has been opened and quarter-acre lots are selling since the improvements have been completed. At Palm Place, on the way to Palms, along the trolley tracks, many thousands of feet of streets are being graded and miles of concrete curbing and sidewalk are being laid.

SYNDICATE BUYS TRACT.

WILL PLANT AREA TO LEMONS.

WHITTIER, March 9.—A deal has just been closed whereby a company of local investors, including E. J. Saunders, E. W. Lawrence, Dr. F. Robbins, Dr. W. H. Stokes, F. W. Wright and H. M. Jordan, have come into possession of 175 acres of foothill land in the cove above Puente, at the terminus of the proposed public highway leading from Whittier through Turnbull Canyon to the valley north of here.

The price paid for the tract is above $60,000, and the owners are already making preparation for the planting of the entire acreage to lemons. A contract has been let for the development of water, and doubtless the tract will all be planted during the coming summer. The tract was taken over purely as an investment and should add materially to the resources of Whittier, since it is but three miles removed from here by way of the Turnbull Canyon road.

The F. W. Wright agency reports also the sale of the Canfield five acres of oranges and lemons on Magnolia avenue to J. T. Land at the consideration of $14,000; twenty acres alfalfa land lying south of town for O. H. French, which was exchanged for 160 acres of alfalfa land in the vicinity of Porterville; forty acres orange land at Lindsay to J. R. King of Whittier, and several vacant residence lots in this city.

SIXTH GARAGE STARTED.

BANK BUYS FINE SITE.

SANTA ANA, March 9.—Ground was broken this week and foundations laid for a new $20,000 building at the southwest corner of Main and Sixth streets. The lower floor will be occupied by the West End Garage. A syndicate of local men is doing the building. Frank Vegely this week completed a new garage on Main street near Second street. When the garage just started is completed there will be six business garages on Main street.

An agreement of sale has been recorded showing the expectation of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank to purchase for $35,000 property owned by William H. Titchenal. The property is the second door west of the bank. The lot is 25x100 feet and has a two-story brick building upon it.

LIKE CHALET TYPES.

HOME BUILDERS ACTIVE.

GLENDALE, March 9.—Activity is so brisk in the home building line in this city at the present time that contractors and builders claim that nothing like it has ever been known in Glendale before. Each section of the city is receiving its share of these new structures. Builders claim that each succeeding year produces a better class of houses and that those putting up homes are manifesting a leaning toward the Swiss chalet style of architecture. All indications point to one of the busiest summer building seasons that Glendale has ever known.

The following homes are now in course of construction: E. H. Baker, on eand one-half story dwelling to cost $3000, Maryland avenue north of First street; F. W. Pigg, story and a half home at No. 131 South Brand boulevard, to cost about $3500; Milton Hess, owner, two-story dwelling on Central avenue, between Second and Third streets, $2500; S. A. Chase, story and a half residence, to cost about $2500, Maryland avenue, south of First street; Jane Wolfe, at First between Brand boulevard and Central avenue, one-story dwelling, to cost $2000; Mary Gould, one-story dwelling, to cost $2000, Jackson street, near First; J. J. McGinnis, one-story dwelling, to cost $2000, No. 142 Central avenue; Clyde Sinclaire, one-story dwelling, to cost $1500, Everett and Orange Grove avenues; Mable Tight, addition to building at Third and Glendale avenue, and Mrs. Mary E. Torry, one-story dwelling, to cost $2000, Riverdale drive between Pacific and Columbus, $2000; A. R. Randolph, one-story dwelling on Burchet street, west of Central avenue, to cost about $1500.

NEW SCHOOL OPENED.

BOOST SOCIETY PROJECTED.

EL SEGUNDO, March 9.—The El Segundo public school opened Wednesday with Mr. Mason in charge. Thousands of trees are being set out along El Segundo streets and thousands of dollars are being expended in their purchase and planting. A get-together meeting of the citizens of El Segundo will be held soon for the purpose of organizing an Improvement Club or Chamber of Commerce for the mutual benefit of the city of El Segundo and its citizens.

One hundred cars of crushed rock, cement and sidewalk material were ordered this week. Sidewalks will be put in throughout the business and residence sections at once, and the streets graded and oiled where not so improved.

A carload of poles and one of wire and other electric material were received last week, and the work of stringing the wire is being pushed rapidly. Service is expected to begin by March 11.

It is estimated that the Standard Oil Company with its refineries at Point Richmond and El Segundo in full swing, will consume close to 20,000,000 barrels of high gravity crude oil annually. This immense quantity of oil will turn out by-products sufficient for the Standard to dominate the Oriental-Pacific trade.

BUILDING IS ACTIVE.

OLD RECORDS THREATENED.

SOUTH PASADENA, March 9.—Nineteen permits aggregating $33,885 in value represent the building activities of South Pasadena for February. These figures compared with those of a year ago, show an increase of more than $4000, last year's total being $19,706. At the present rate this year will prove a banner year. January, 1912, showed a total of $35,035, aginst $17,450 for the corresponding month of 1911.

L. Bathman will build some apartment-houses at the corner of Fremont avenue and Lyndon street, to cost $10,000. They will have rustic exterior, cement foundations and porches and composition roofs. Each building will contain four flats of six rooms each, with tile baths, oak and pine floors, pine trimmings and built-in conveniences.

Dr. T. W. Bishop is having constructed a residence at the corner of Diamond and Meridian avenues, to cost $5000. It will be a nine-room structure of Swiss chalet style, singled exterior and roof, cement porches, hardwood floors, built-in furniture, brick mantel, bath and furnace.

Mrs. Mary J. Cochrane is having constructed a fourteen-room house to cost $4000 at the northwest corner of Fremont avenue and El Centro street.

WILD INCREASE ACREAGE.

MORE BEETS TO BE PLANTED.

VAN NUYS, March 9. — Following the rains of the past week, the total precipitation of which reached 3.79 inches in five days at Van Nuys, the American Beet Sugar Company, with offices at this place, has begun preparations for the planting of 500 acres more to sugar beets. Already 3500 acres have been planted in the Van Nuys fields, and there are ready for planting about 5000 acres more. This company will employ a small army of men in its fields as soon as the thinning season opens.

The ranchers are all busy planting now, and the whole valley hums with industry. Thousands of dollars are being expended on the further parking of Sherman Way, the $500,000 boulevard. Carload after carload of trees and shrubbery are reaching Van Nuys daily, from which point it is being distributed.

Building activity has been stimulated by the rains. Many new business blocks and residences are ready for starting, and many others are being projected.

The farmers' demonstration train, maintained by the University of California and the Southern Pacific Company, will be at Van Nuys on Monday, March 11, and the ranchers are preparing to give it a rousing reception.

Van Nuys is to be represented at the Los Angeles Land Show, which opens March 12, by a fine exhibit prepared under the direction of W. P. Whitsett, sales manager for the new town of Van Nuys. The exhibit will be in charge of Mr. Fogg.

NEW BUNGALOW BOOKS.

Two new bungalow books, containing the latest bungalow and house designs of the Los Angeles Investment Company, are being issued by that home planning and building concern. The edition contains 20,000 copies, half of that number to each book. One of the books is a complete revision of "practical bungalows" and depicts homes costing from $2250 upward. The other shows lower cost structures. The two books show both interior and exterior views, floor plans and complete descriptive matter. W. Francis Gates is editor of the publications, and the designs were prepared by Earnest McConnell, chief architect of the company. The company reports a large demand for the books.

SELL ARDMORE HOME.

Charles O. Goodwin, has made the following sales. Ten-room residence, No. 456 Ardmore avenue, Chapman Bros. Company, to Seth W. Stewart, $16,000. One-hundred and sixty acres in Kings county, near Corcoran, Hannah L. Brown to J. F. Michel, of Hanford, consideration, $11,000. Eighty acres, two and one-half miles northeast of Brawley, in Imperial Valley, S. W. Stewart to B. C. Ferguson, $8000. A business lot on East Ninth street, near Alameda, B. C. Ferguson to A. J. Clipper $6000. Three lots in Bowen's Slauson Junction tract, Walter Holst to C. C. Carr, $1500.

TO RAISE OWN PRODUCE.

In test of a comprehensive method of combining the produce business with actual ownership of farms, George and Nick Pappas, merchants at the Los Angeles Market, have purchased twenty acres in the North Lankershim Acres subdivision through G. W. Jones, of the Janss Investment Company. Associated with the Pappas' in the purchase are Georgs and Theres Vlahos. The buyers will establish a farm and if their project is as successful as they anticipate, they say they will later buy more farm land. By their plan they see a way to eliminate any future possibility of a "corner" being obtained by speculators in any of the standard vegetables. The price paid for the acreage is given at $5000. An adjoining five acres was bought by James T. H. Pappas, father of the Pappas brothers, and George Cristopulos, who will likely have part in the same ranching scheme. They paid $1750 for their land.

TAKE OVER WEST LAKE.

D. Carl Sullivan and E. J. Sullivan have purchased the lease and furnishings of the West Lake Apartments, No. 427 South Alvarado street. The house contains close to sixty rooms, divided into apartments, and has every modern conveniance. The price paid is given at $7500. The Sullivans are experienced hotel and apartment-house men.

BUYS APARTMENT SITE.

The Birnbaum Investment Company reports the sale for Otto Silberberg to W. J. Boyle of a lot on Shatto street, between Burlington and Union, for $4000. Mr. Boyle owns a lot on Orange street adjoining. He intends in the near future to build an apartment-house covering the entire two lots, with a double entrance on Shatto and Orange streets.

BUYS ALFALFA RANCH.

WILL MAKE IMPROVEMENTS.

CORONA, March 9.—F. W. Alden has sold his 80-acre alfalfa ranch to S. B. Hampton, for a consideration of $350 an acre. It is understood that Hampton will make several improvements to the property.

Graceful East Indians.

[Chicago News:] Describing the woman of India, a writer says: "Even the most withered toil-worn hag has a dignity of carriage and a grace of motion that the Western woman might envy. The 'sari' is draped in an easy flowing style and adjusted as it slips back with a graceful turn of the bangled arm, and the skinny legs move rythmically, and the small feet fall with a silent and panther-like tread. It is the beauty of natural and untrammeled motion, and says much in favor of the abolition of the corset, for the Indian women retain their uprightness and suppleness of figure till bowed with age.

"The commonest type is the coolie woman, who undertakes all sorts of rough work, carrying heavy burdens on her head, and she is, perhaps, the least attractive, for her workaday garments are usually faded and dirty; yet even among this poor class of burden bearers we see many with handsome straight features and supple well-proportioned figures.

The Automobile Club of Southern California has posted the road to the Rodeo at Santa Anita with signs that should enable the motorists to reach the sports easily. The signs are posted over the Foothills boulevard to Arcadia and for those out of town, from Ontario on the east to Hollywood on the west, and from Compton south to Burbank. The club has indorsed the exhibition as one of the worthy shows now being given near this city.

Are You Fat?

You know you can not stay fat, don't you? That is, you can not be fat and be in style. The day when a fat woman was tolerated is passed. Nowadays all women must be in proportion or be ridiculous. This does not mean you should become skinny, however. You should not get below the hard flesh line. All you ought to lose is the bulky fat. That done, you will find yourself to be a well-formed and therefore handsome woman.

Now, how can this be done? By exercising and dieting? Yes, and no. These two means will bring some results, but not easily nor soon. One is very hard work; the other is torture. Besides, neither can be depended on to cause a uniform reduction. They may take off a flashy shoulder, for example, and leave the double chin untouched. What you need, you see, is something pleasant to take that without injury to your health will take the fat off uniformly and quickly, say at the rate of a pound a day or so, until it is all gone where you want it to go.

For this purpose nothing is less expensive, safer or simpler than Marmola Prescription Tablets. Inexpensive because one large case, costing 75 cents only, will produce results; safe because they cause no wrinkles or stomach trouble, but rather improve the health and complexion, if anything; and simple, because they do all the work without asking thought or effort on the part of the taker. In short, they are the ANSWER if you are fat and wish to be thinner. If your druggist is of the better kind, he will have them. If not, write the licensees, The Marmola Co., 221 Farmer Building, Detroit, Mich.

WASHINGTON AN EASY CAPTURE.

National Capital Would Fall at First Attack.

Startling Statement to Congressional Body.

Unpreparedness for War of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—[Correspondence Brooklyn Eagle:] "I think Washington could be captured within a month if any power or combination of powers of Europe which had command of the sea would think it worth while to try it," was the startling statement made before a Congressional committee recently by Brig.-Gen. William Crozier, chief of ordnance of the army. "I am not an alarmist. I do not think they are going to try it, but where is the difficulty?"

The committee was so much interested in Gen. Crozier's statement that it pressed him for an explanation. The general very promptly gave it as his opinion that the capture of the city of Washington could be accomplished today with the same ease that the British accomplished it in 1814. His method of preventing such a catastrophe is the fortification of the entrance to Chesapeake Bay. Gen. Crozier pointed out that our present army, even if recruited to its war strength, could not prevent such a military operation.

"I do not see," he declared, "if one or two powers of Europe should conceive that they had occasion to make a bold stroke against us that there would be anything impracticable in their capturing this capital again, assuming they had command of the sea. A hundred thousand troops would do it, with a large margin to spare.

"A hundred thousand troops could be gotten over here and into Chesapeake Bay and landed in Annapolis, or in the same river that they landed before—the Patuxent, the mouth of which is not fortified—by which they could land within a short distance of Washington and march overland. Annapolis would be a very good place for them to land. I think the mouth of Chesapeake Bay ought to be closed, if it can be done with any reasonable expense, because it is a large body of sheltered water, and would afford a resting place for exactly the same kind of an operation as was successful in 1814.

"Fortification of the lower Chesapeake would prevent the landing of a force outside of it, even beyond the range of the guns, because then they would have no harbor. They would have to use the open sea, which makes landing operations difficult.

"So far as transporting troops is concerned, the sea as a highway is not an obstacle, but a facility. It is very much easier to get any number of troops across the Atlantic Ocean than it would be to get the same number over anything like the same distance on land. Marine transportation is the very best kind you can have; the easiest, least expensive and most expeditious, if you are considering large bodies of troops and large amounts of material. The fuel charge for transportation in good tramp steamers does not amount to one-two hundred and fiftieth part of a cent per ton per mile. The sea is a splendid means of transportation. The distance is only ten days for a vessel of very moderate speed, and you can carry a thousand men on a vessel of 7000 tons capacity without any trouble at all. There are any number of vessels to be had, and there is no resistance on this side against a well-equipped force of 100,000 men.

"Now, to close the mouth of the Chesapeake, I think our fourteen-inch gun, which is good for the penetration of twelve inches of armor at about 18,000 yards, would do very well. We would not need any larger guns down there, and I think three or four or half a dozen of them would be sufficient, with a few mortars."

Gen. Crozier further developed the fact that the military experts of the United States, as a result of recent studies, have decided that to defend the country and its possessions against attempted invasion by a first-class power would require an army of 570,000 men. This would be a defensive and not an offensive force. The present army has a peace footing of about 83,000 men and can, in cases of war, be recruited up to 85,000. Gen. Crozier was defending and explaining estimates for new artillery and ammunition and telling the Congressmen why the United States ought to have a large supply on hand. It is far easier to raise an army in a hurry than it is to supply it.

The military experts are figuring on the basis of an army of 570,000 in their requisitions for equipment of a nature that takes considerable time to manufacture. Today the United States possesses 106 batteries of mobile artillery, but it would need 325 to equip more than half a million men. Such an army as Gen. Crozier speaks of would contain infantry and cavalry to the number of 400,000 men. There would be a reserve of 85,000, a considerable part of which would be comprised of coast artillery. Our insular possessions would require 25,000 men. The motile artillery would possess 1200 guns. The militia of the United States today would supply about 128,000 men to such an army of defense. If, however, it were recruited up to its war strength, it would number 183,000 men.

"The whole idea of preparation for war in this country," declared Gen. Crozier, "is and ought to be the maintenance of a small force continually in the service, and the rapid expansion of that force in time of war or threat of war, which expansion ought to be made possible with men who have already had some training. Now, if we should ever arrive at that state, we should need this material for which we ask. If there should be a state of confusion, lack of preparation or absence of method by which the army could not be increased rapidly and effectively, I should not like to undertake to say how much we might be stuck in one element to meet the sticking in others.

"The present army is not sufficient in size for an offensive movement. An army of 450,000 men, exclusive of a 85,000 reserve and 25,000 for our insular possessions, is considered as a defensive force.

"I would provide for three parts of a war army—for the expanded regular army, for the expanded militia and then for a volunteer force. Now, the expanded regular army's needs being met, the second thing is the expanded militia, and the third the volunteers."

To manufacture field artillery requires considerable time, even in the case of the smaller guns. The army uses guns of the following types: Three-inch mountain, three-inch field, 3.8-inch, 3.3-inch howitzer, 4.7-inch, 4.7-inch howitzer and six-inch howitzer. To make a three-inch field gun at the Watervliet Arsenal, after the receipt of the forgings, requires three and a half months. In large quantities under rush conditions these guns might be turned out in two months. Guns of the heavier type require from four and a half to five months. The Watervliet Arsenal, under pressure, could supply about six batteries a month of the smaller guns and about three batteries a month of the larger. Gen. Crozier thinks the government ought to be in a position to supply an army of war size with its artillery two months after the organization of such a force is put under way.

The Congressmen who listened to Gen. Crozier suggested that in case of war there would be considerable advance notice before the time when ammunition would actually be needed.

"History is a good deal better than speculation in answering that," said the general. "Let us consider the Spanish-American War. You remember that the Maine was blown up in the middle of February. In the same month of that year the fortifications bill, carrying ammunition for seacoast defense, was under consideration and it was reported to the House before the date on which the Maine was destroyed. The estimate from the Ordnance Department was intended to supply only ten rounds for each one of the guns that it was then expected would be mounted in the seacoast defenses by the first of July following. In submitting the bill to the House the committee cut that estimate two-thirds. We were so near the war with

Paint Without Oil

Remarkable Discovery That Cuts Down the Cost of Paint Seventy-Five Per Cent.

A Free Trial Package Is Mailed to Everyone Who Writes.

A. L. Rice, a prominent manufacturer of Adams, N. Y., has discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He calls it Powderpaint. It comes in the form of a dry powder and all that is required is cold water to make a paint weather proof, fire proof and as durable as oil paint. It adheres to any surface, wood, stone or brick spreads and looks like oil paint and costs about one-fourth as much.

Write to Mr. A. L. Rice, Manufr., 491 North St., Adams, N. Y., and he will send you a free trial package, also color card and full information showing you how you can save a good many dollars. Write today.

How Heat Reduces Fat

Positive Way to Get Rid of Excess Flesh Without Dangerous Drugs or Exercise.

It has been proven that the proper use of vapor baths rarely fails to reduce excess flesh, rapidly and safely. The use of drugs tears down the fat and reduces the vitality of the vital organs, whereas the vapor bath eliminates the fatty, morbid tissue through the natural channels, the pores.

Amid the immense population of tropical countries, fat people are almost unknown. This is because the heat keeps the pores open, and the body is always kept free from morbid accumulation of tissue.

As an instance of the positive fat reducing powers of the hot and vapor bath, pugilistic and jockeys succeed in reducing themselves several pounds in a few hours, safely.

Any fat man or woman who has tried in vain to reduce flesh by diet, drugs, exercise, massage or starvation should stop such methods at once and learn the remarkable actual results which may be produced in only a few days time by the use of the Robinson Turkish Bath Cabinet.

This cabinet gives you a Turkish Bath at home for only 2 cents. It flushes out your three million pores in 15 minutes;—is better than any ordinary Turkish Bath you pay a high price for, and accomplishes wonders not only in safely reducing flesh and giving strength, but is a luxury so refreshing and stimulating to the whole body that it becomes a pleasure to live.

J. E. Halstead, Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your cabinet has been the means of reducing my weight 38 pounds inside of 3 months. It is one of the greatest comforts in my possession."

The Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinets are on exhibition and for sale in Los Angeles at the Broadway Dept. Store.

Go and examine them. Ask the dealer also for the book of the century, "The Philosophy of Health and Beauty," price two dollars, but given away free for a limited time. If you cannot go and see these wonderful cabinets send your name and address to the Robinson Mfg. Co., Suite 77, Snowflake Bldg., Toledo, Ohio, for full illustrated information, free.

ECZEMA

Also called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritis Mitis-Crawl, Weeping Skin, etc.

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, and not merely patched up for awhile, to return worse than before. Remember, I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and handling in the meantime a quarter of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a day than I or any one else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for you. Just try it and you will see I am telling you the truth.

A Cataract Off Duty.

What poets write about places has not the accuracy of the guide-book; allowance must be made for the creative imagination. However, the tourist of whom the Birmingham Post tells had perhaps a right to expect a little more than he found.

A foreigner, whose imagination had been fired by Southey's wonderful word-picture of the "Cataract of Lodore," journeyed across the Atlantic in order to see with his own eyes the tumultuous course of the waterfall. On arriving at Liverpool, he at once started for Cumberland, and armed with map and compass, set out on his search full of enthusiasm.

It was a hot day at the end of a dry summer, and as hour succeeded hour, and still no cataract rewarded his efforts, he flung himself down on the dry bed of a streamlet on the hillside, weary and despairing. Catching sight of a native of the country, he hailed him joyfully.

"Can you direct me to the Cataract of Lodore?" he called.

The man looked at him and grinned. "Ye're sitting on it!" he replied.

A Cut Flower Express.

[Boston Transcript:] A train which runs every day in the year between Toulon and Paris is known as the "rapide des fleurs"—the cut-flower express."

This train carries nothing but cut flowers in baskets and pasteboard boxes for the Paris market. The violets of Hyeres, the roses and carnations of Antibes and the Roman hyacinths of Olbioules and Carquieronnes are on the flower stands of Paris in eighteen hours from the time they were growing on the shores of the Mediterranean. A good many are shipped also to the cities of Germany and Belgium and some of these go to Vienna and St. Petersburg. The packages are handled by the train crew that runs them and by the mail carriers. The speed of the "cut-flower express" is greater than that of any other train in Europe, and it is almost invariably on time.

Penal Statistics.

COMMITMENTS TO OUR PRISONS.

WHAT MEASURE THE CRIMINAL TENDENCIES.

Communities Differ Much Because of the Local Laws and Vigilance of the Police and Courts—Pennsylvania's New Method of Paroling Prisoners Is Working Well.

[Philadelphia Gazette:] One of the most interesting and vital publications which the Bureau of Commerce and Labor has just been issued in regard to prison statistics of the country, giving the proportion in the various States of persons committed for all sorts of illegal acts in comparison to the population.

In view of the action in Western Pennsylvania for a higher condition, looking for reform as well as seclusion, it is of the highest importance from the standpoint of social status. The small section of the world which initiated one of the most beneficent movements for the betterment of those unfortunate persons who have fallen under the ban of society, it may have been their fault or the fault of the society in which they were born, but for the whole of which it is of the same effect. The part of the sovereign State of Pennsylvania has given to the whole world a lesson in the initiation of a system for the treatment of persons convicted of crime of all kinds under the forms of law. There were in those all such convicts were sent to penal penal colonies and treated as the worst of brutes and slaves. The case of Capt. Dreyfus on Devil's Island was one of these, but it is but one of tens of thousands; and most of the convicts when they were liberated on some such system as that under the parole law were what were called "ticket-of-leave-men" and were constantly under the espionage of the police as was Jean Valjean, as told of in the great story written by Victor Hugo.

The new thought of a penal institution, which is the inspiration of the inspectors of the penitentiary of Western Pennsylvania and of Warden Francies, has infected the whole country, and it might be said the whole world, in the purchase of thousands of acres of land that the unfortunates may be worked in the open as well as in shops, the idea being that they shall be taught the art of industry, and taught to like the art as well as to learn it, and to love the beautiful instead of the unhandsome. It was a thought worthy of the highest ideals of society, but naturally not one word in regard to it is uttered in this cold statistical report of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor, which must deal with figures instead of with social problems.

The prison population of the United States on January 1, 1910, was 113,579, and the number of commitments to prison or other penal institutions during the year 1910 was 479,762. These figures include every class of offense, from vagrancy to murder in the first degree. They also include cases in which the offender was committed to jail or prison for the nonpayment of a fine. For this and other reasons the totals and ratios which are shown for the different States are not to be regarded as measuring the criminal tendencies of their inhabitants.

The ratio of prisoners to population on January 1, 1910, was 125 to 100,000 and the ratio of commitments to population during the year 1910, was 522 to 100,000. Thus it appears that, at the beginning of the year 1910, one person out of every 800 in the United States greeted the New Year in prison or in jail; and that, during the year 1910 for every 100 persons in the total population, there was one commitment to prison or jail for a longer or shorter period, ranging from one day to a life sentence. It should be remembered, however, that the number of commitments does not represent that many different persons, because the persons committed include many "repeaters" who went to jail more than once during the year 1910.

The table by States brings out the fact that the number of prisoners in proportion to population was smallest in South Dakota, 48 per 100,000 population, and largest in Nevada, 353 per 100,000 population, and that the number of commitments in proportion to population was smallest in North Carolina, 123 per 100,000 population, and largest in Arizona, 2922 per 100,000 population. It by no means follows, however, that the population of either Arizona and Nevada is wicked or criminal beyond that of all other States, or that the population of either South Dakota and North Carolina is pre-eminently good, or any more law-abiding than that in States where the ratios are higher.

The number of commitments to jail or prison is determined in no small degree by the statutes and the practice of the courts relative to the punishment of minor offenses. Offenses which in some States would be punished by a few days in jail, may, in other States, be punished by a fine.

HOME IS ATTRACTIVE.

The home of B. O. Johnson, at No. 575 Manhattan place, recently completed according to plans by Ye Planry Building Company, is one of the attractive new homes in its section. The exterior is of redwood siding on the first story, with shingles above and on the roof, the porch and chimney being of blue burnt brick laid in black mortar. Entrance is to a reception hall, with open stairway, the living-room being at the right, with a large brick mantel and beamed ceiling. Back of this is the den, with built-in bookcases, indirect lighting and leather paneling. The dining-room is paneled and has beamed ceiling, built-in buffet and bay window. On the second floor are three large bedrooms, open balcony, screened sleeping-room and bathroom. The house cost approximately $6200.

OLIVE INDUSTRY.

an end to such adulterations.

"It was then that the growers, heartily dissatisfied with the returns from olives, and despairing of any favorable change in conditions, began cutting out their olive groves to make place for walnuts or fruit trees, which promised more certain success.

GROWERS DISCOURAGED.

"However, before this had gone very far the passing of the pure food law encouraged many of the growers to 'take another chance.' But even then there were numerous large growers reluctant about continuing to raise olives, when oranges or lemons offered so much more in profits.

"It needed the strongest and most persistent efforts on part of the Los Angeles Olive Growers' Association, operating with the great Sylmar rancho as a basis, to prevail upon the majority to 'stay with the industry' a little longer.

"After sending personal letters broadcast throughout the State we rallied together enough growers to keep up interest in olive growing. Today the industry is in the best condition known in its history. More olive clippings were planted by nurserymen last year than ever before, probably as many as 200,000 clippings. This year the association paid as high as $150 per ton for olives, which, contrasted with $15 per ton in 1903, shows what progress has taken place within the past ten years.

CALIFORNIA OIL SUPERIOR.

"Finally, as to the reduction of the olive tariff 20 cents per gallon on oil, I would point out that the best Italian olive oil is placed on the market at $2 per gallon, while California's best brings $2.50 per gallon. It is generally recognized that this California oil is superior to the imported.

"With the reduction of the tariff an oversupply of various foreign oils would immediately glut the market and prices would undoubtedly drop to such a point as to make it impossible for the California producer to market his pure and high-class oil at a profit. For example, olives are harvested in Europe for $5.50 per ton. In California it cost $25 per ton to harvest them.

SETBACK THREATENED.

"I think that a close study of comparative wage scales in the two producing sections, Italy and California, would do more to influence people in behalf of the California olive grower than any other consideration.

"And let me also say, there is considerable at stake in this fight against the olive tariff reduction. There are towns and whole localities in California dependent upon the olive industry for their existence. Anything which gives a setback to the olive industry naturally works against the prosperity of those communities where olives are produced."

THOUSAND AN ACRE.

Wallace Nutting of Connecticut, a noted artist and frequent visitor of Southern California, has sold a tract of 86.60 acres on Washington boulevard, close to the Kleinberger and Glen Airy tracts, to Herbert E. Earlscliff of Santa Barbara for a stated consideration of $1000 per acre. Mr. Earlscliff is already a large owner of Los Angeles realty, but has heretofore confined his operations to the downtown business section. He expects to subdivide the property during the coming summer. The deal was made through the agency of H. G. Holabird & Co.

Aerial Attack.

USE OF AIRSHIP IN WAR LIMITED.

Results in Turk-Italian War Discussed by Expert.

Success in Dropping Bombs Doubtful, He Says.

Arab Horsemen Chased Airmen Without Danger.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—C. Von Gottberg, the military expert who has been following the operations of the Italian army in Tripoli, makes some interesting comments on the use of the aeroplane in war in one of his recent letters from the seat of operations.

He acknowledges that the aeroplanes performed important service, and continues: "The airmen of the Italian army have important achievements to their credit, but in the course of the various conflicts between the opposing forces it became more and more evident that no army can fix all of its hopes upon the aeroplane and ignore airships and balloons. The landing division brought along three aeroplanes, and fixed all their hopes upon these. Perhaps an airship would have required more room for its material and personnel than the transport afforded and this is why none was brought along. After about two weeks the machines were unpacked and ready for flying. Then there came a strong persistent wind blowing from the ocean in the direction of the desert that made it impossible for the airmen to go up. But they called for a balloon and the general in command wired to Italy to have one sent.

SKETCHES FROM A BALLOON.

"Toward the end of October the Italians were particularly anxious to get the exact location of the Turkish headquarters in Ain Zara so exactly fixed upon their imperfect maps that artillery could throw shot into it by an indirect fire from their warships. Whether the aeroplanists were not equipped with kodaks I do not know, but at any rate they were not able to distract their fire upon Ain Zara until the good old captive balloon—they still it dragon balloon—had arrived in November, and observers seated in the basket had made a sketch.

"The reports about the success of the Italians in doing execution with bombs dropped from aeroplanes are to be read with a great deal of skepticism. Every undertaking of the Italians is a smashing success—in the reports, which are often at variance with the facts. Confirmation of the Turkish claims that Arab horsemen can give chase to any aeroplane without being in danger themselves is afforded by the circumstance that an aeroplane recently returned to the Italian camp with three bullet holes in the wings. If the bombs were being dropped from aeroplanes with such good effect as is claimed in the Italian reports, it is not likely that the Arab horsemen would have exposed themselves to such great danger on the possible chance of bringing a single bird to the ground.

"The assertion of the Turks that bombs were dropped from an aeroplane upon the hospital in Ain Zara deserves credence, particularly since it is supported by the testimony of an English officer, Capt. Montague. And since it is not to be supposed that the Italians would wilfully be guilty of violating the rules of the Geneva Convention, this circumstance affords additional proof how difficult it is to hit a given target—in this instance the Turkish headquarters—from an aeroplane."

THE CHINESE CALENDAR.

Peculiar Tricks It Worked With the Ages of People for Twenty-five Centuries.

[Chicago Tribune:] For the first time in twenty-five centuries, Chinese the world over, diverged from the calendar law set by their first ruler, Kang, and celebrated New Year's nearly a month and a half ahead of time. Hereafter China's years will be reckoned the same as Occidental years, or according to the Roman calendar.

A most peculiar situation arises out of the new order changing China's years. Under the new system it will be difficult to reckon the exact age of a Chinaman. Under the old regime, which began when Kang built the famous walls of China, years were measured under the lunar system. Thirteen moons required thirteen months, and, to make a corresponding calendar, a second February was substituted. Accordingly the new year began near the middle of the second February, or about the 9th of February on the Roman calendar.

The years of the Chinese kingdom were divided into dynasties, and the dynasties likewise into reigns. The years of a ruler's reign were again subdivided into four-year divisions. If a person was born three days before the second year of an emperor's reign, the individual would be 2 years old in three days.

In China a person is a year old on the day of his birth. According to this precedent, there are today many Chinese who are two years older than their American brothers born on the same day. Whether or not those persons will chop off the two years from their ages with as little compunction as they are clipping the pigtails from their heads will be left for each individual to decide.

Sun Hung, the late Emperor, was in the fourth year of his reign when dethroned. The ruler who preceded Sun Hung was Quong Suey, who reigned for thirty-four years.

Sun Yat Sen, the first president of the Chinese republic, decided that among his first duties as a president should be to set the wheels of the administration rolling on modern rails. Accordingly the message was sent broadcast to every Chinese that the new year this year began on the 1st of January, 1912.

Had a Fair Trial.

[Argonaut:] Henry W. Paine, the eminent Boston lawyer, once went to one of the interior towns of Maine, where a boy was on trial for arson. He had no counsel, and Mr. Paine was assigned by the court to take charge of his case. He discovered, after a brief interview with the boy, that he was half-witted. The jury, however, was composed of farmers who owned barns such as the defendant was alleged to have set on fire, and, in spite of the boy's evident weakness of intellect, they brought in a verdict of guilty. The presiding judge turned to Mr. Paine, and remarked: "Have you any motion to make?" Mr. Paine arose and, in his dry and weighty manner, answered: "No your honor; I believe I have secured for this idiot boy all that the laws of Maine and the Constitution of the United States allow—a trial by his peers."

WASHINGTON EASY.

Spain as to be in the same month in which the Maine was blown up. That is an illustration of how far in advance we are likely to get these warnings and how much provision is likely to be exercised in giving us these supplies."

Gen. Crozier shed the following interesting light on the condition of our defenses during the Spanish war:

"It happened to be my duty to visit the seacoast fortifications and exercise the artillery a little bit in the use of the brand new armaments which had been put in. Nobody knew whether the engineers knew how to set it up; nobody knew whether the artillery knew how to handle it. As a matter of fact, they did not, because it was entirely new to them. There was not one man in twenty who had seen one of the guns fired and a much smaller percentage who had fired them. For my purpose of drilling and instructing the people who were manning these guns for war, I was directed not to expend more than one round of ammunition for each gun, because we could not spare any more.

"That lasted until the latter part of the war with Spain—until the battle of Santiago. I was still engaged on the work when the battle of Santiago was fought, and with the same restriction, because of lack of ammunition."

As to how rapidly this country could turn out artillery ammunition today, Gen. Crozier remarked:

"I estimate that the maximum output for the entire country for the first six months after the issue of orders to run at full capacity would be about 250,000 rounds for the mobile artillery in its various classes. That is less than was fired by the Russians in a single battle of the Russo-Japanese War. It appears that there was expended at Mukden about 250,000 rounds. One battery of eight guns at Mukden is reported to have used 11,160 rounds. At the Schako, during a four-days' fight, the artillery of one infantry division of forty-eight guns is reported to have expended 28,900 rounds—that is, 602 rounds per gun.

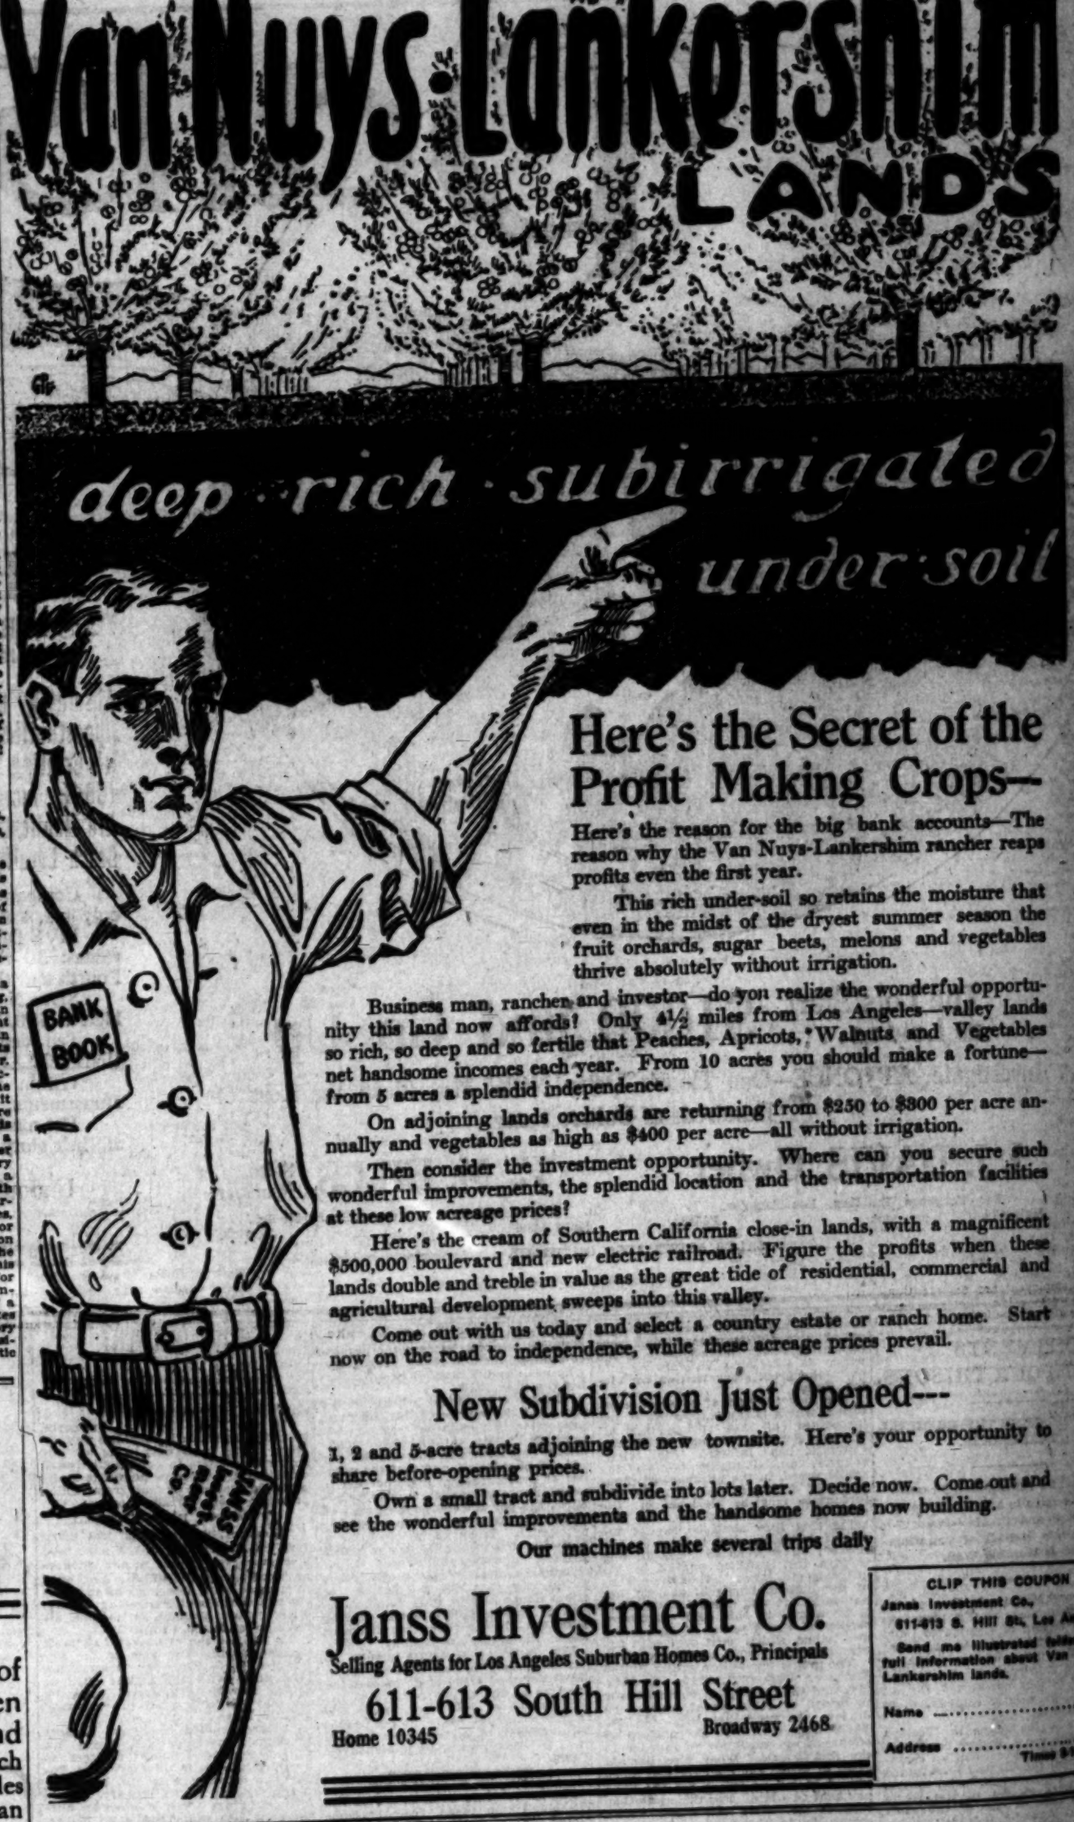
LONDON'S SMOKE.

About Five Hundred Tons of Soot, Charged with Gases and Fluids, Falls Annually to Square Mile.

[Boston Transcript:] While the solution of the smoke problem is something that our American cities are trying with various degrees of success to reach, it continues in an acute form in London, though the citizens of that metropolis are not insensible to its discomforts and its dangers.

The London Lancet, by means of a system of gauges of its own designing, has recently succeeded in obtaining an approximate estimate of the amount of adventitious matter that falls in the form of soot and its constituents upon the city in the course of a year. Of course, that varies in different sections, the city proper receiving the greatest burden. At that point it would be nearly 500 tons to the square mile, or about four and a half pounds per acre each day. Of course, such a deposit of mere dirt, distributed over 4840 square yards of surface every twenty-four hours, would not be a serious matter; but it is charged with gases and fluids of a deleterious character, such as sulphates, chlorides, ammonia and carbon that is more or less oily or tarry. More in London than in the cities of this country the domestic hearth is charged with this sable and unctuous precipitation, for the Englishman cannot separate himself from the cheer and comfort of a coal-grate fire, and accepts substitutes grudgingly, if at all; yet the factory chimneys, there as here, are responsible for the pall that is so characteristic of the city.

Van Nuys-Lankershim LANDS



Here's the Secret of the Profit Making Crops—

Here's the reason for the big bank accounts—The reason why the Van Nuys-Lankershim rancher reaps profits even the first year.

This rich under-soil so retains the moisture that even in the midst of the dryest summer season the fruit orchards, sugar beets, melons and vegetables thrive absolutely without irrigation.

Business man, rancher and investor—do you realize the wonderful opportunity this land now affords? Only 4½ miles from Los Angeles—valley lands so rich, so deep and so fertile that Peaches, Apricots, Walnuts and Vegetables net handsome incomes each year. From 10 acres you should make a fortune—from 5 acres a splendid independence.

On adjoining lands orchards are returning from $250 to $300 per acre annually and vegetables as high as $400 per acre—all without irrigation.

Then consider the investment opportunity. Where can you secure such wonderful improvements, the splendid location and the transportation facilities at these low acreage prices?

Here's the cream of Southern California close-in lands, with a magnificent $500,000 boulevard and new electric railroad. Figure the profits when these lands double and treble in value as the great tide of residential, commercial and agricultural development sweeps into this valley.

A Friend in Need.

"AID FUND" PLAN IS BIG SUCCESS.

Free Workers of Homestake Helped When Disabled.

Better Protection When Free from Unionism Yoke.

Co-operation of Company and Employees Beneficial.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LEAD CITY (S. D.) March 4.—When the walking delegates of the Western Federation of Miners attempted to dictate the policy of the Homestake Mining Company, they told the miners that corporations had no souls; that the workmen were forced to unite for protection; that to the company they were merely cogs in the great machine of profit. Since that time the Homestake waged and won a decisive struggle against the arrogant union bosses, and today is affording its men better protection than the tax-levying unions ever dreamed of promising prospective members.

Approximately six months after locking out the union miners who refused to accept the company's generous terms, the Homestake Company, co-operated with its employees in devising and conducting and "aid fund." This was designed to protect the men in case of sickness, accidents and death. The plan has been in working order for several months and has proved an unqualified success.

DISABLED EMPLOYEE AIDED.

Under the regulations of this fund each man in the employ of the Homestake Mining Company pays $1 per month into the treasury, while the company contributes $1000 monthly. Members of the fund society receive $1 per day for lost time due to accidents, and the same amount, payable after the sixth day, for sickness. Payments continue for six months, and longer, if in the opinion of the directors, the case is meritorious. Disabilities due to accidents, while not engaged in labor for the company, are classed under the head of sickness. Thus for the nominal sum of $1 per month a disabled employee receives $7 per week for a term of six months, should his case continue that long, and the directors have the power of extending the time payment if they believe recipient worthy.

COMPANY PROVIDES FUND.

Benefits of $800 will be paid for total disability, such as the loss of sight, loss of both feet or both hands, loss of one foot and one hand, injuries resulting in paralysis, and similar cases. In case an eye, foot or hand is lost benefits of $400 are paid. In case of death, either by accident or sickness, $800 is paid. Suicide or insanity calls for the payment of $200. Benefits are not paid in case of sickness, accidents or death developed while employees are on vacations, or while working for other companies.

The generous spirit of the company insures sufficient funds for the carrying out of these provisions as the magnificent resources of the great corporation stand back of the fund. Over 1500 men are on the company's pay rolls, and practically all of these are Americans. Consequently the accident and sick rate will hardly be as high as when ignorant foreign laborers were largely employed.

PLAN PROVES SUCCESS.

One stringent rule provides there shall be no benefits for accidents or diseases resulting from immoderate use of alcoholic liquors or narcotics. Any person injured by immoral practices, or in fighting, unless in self-defense, can not claim benefits. Other emergencies developing out of intemperate habits are guarded against. The result has been the general elevation of the moral and physical tone of the entire camp, while the danger of injury to lives or property by drunken or dissipated parties is largely removed. The risk of accidents to workers by drunken fellow-workers has also been largely eliminated.

The successful operation of the aid fund has demonstrated what may be accomplished when labor and capital get together and use mutual efforts for the protection of both interests. Since the great strike the Homestake has assembled one of the finest bodies of workers to be found anywhere in the world's mining districts. Intemperance and dissipation have been practically eliminated in most instances, and the men are preforming better work and are in better circumstances and more serious to the famous lockout. They feel that the company is interested in their welfare, and that loyal efforts are appreciated.

WALKING DELEGATES ROUTED.

The board of directors is composed of five department heads of the Homestake Mining Company with Dr. J. W. Freeman as chairman. The company furnishes without charge all office room, clerical help and stationery needed to carry on the work of administering the fund to the best advantage. Should an unusually severe period of demand upon the funds deplete the contribution of the Homestake Company will be sufficient to meet any deficiency, as the company is pledged to subscribe not less than $1000 per month to the fund.

The glittering lure of protection in sickness and death has been held out by the union bosses when attempting to coerce non-union workers into their organizations, and it has been proclaimed that the employers were indifferent to the well-being of employees as long as they were able to work sufficiently to satisfy the companies. This charge the Homestake Company has thoroughly disproved, and the sincerity of the company is demonstrated by the fact that it completely routed the walking delegates and has no fear of further disturbance among its army of workers.

No Minister Need Apply.

A dispatch from North Yakima, Wash., says Samuel Gompers has put a new one over the ministers who have been seeking union honors. Rev. Alfred Lockwood, rector of St. Michael's Church of North Yakima, was delegate from the Ministerial Association to the Central Labor Council and recently elected president of that body. When information of the action reached Gompers he at once sent word to Secretary George T. Wilson of the Yakima Trades and Labor Council, that the election could not stand, that Rev. Lockwood was not eligible, and must give up the office to a real unionite.

THE NEW DAWN OF LABOR.

(LOS ANGELES: 1911)

By James W. Foley, in the Century Magazine.

Labor, weep! These dead are thine,
Broken-limbed and torn and maimed.
What of creed that's thine or mine?
Silenced now, we stand ashamed.
How now do these dead arise,
Mocking us. Are these but lies
Told of Labor's brotherhood?
How these ghosts of dead intrude
In our very solitude,
Crying shame! For they were one—
One with us from sun to sun;
One in dreams of labor done;
One in hope and one in need;
One in manhood, aye, and creed.
How these bodies bleed and bleed!
Stands aghast thy shuddering line.

Labor, weep! These dead are thine.
Labor, see what Hate hath done—
Hate, a follower of thy camp,
Skulking near thy lines! That one
Slew these toilers. See the damp
On these bloody brows, where sweat
Of their labor beaded yet.
Death done in the dark, and, lo!
Hate hath slain no single foe,
But, like Cain, hath wrought this woe
In his brother's house, and laid
On anhungered orphans made,
Burdens that strong fathers prayed
They might long be strong to bear
Ere the fatherless must share.
Now are helpless dead heaped there.
What foul victory death has won!
Labor, see what Hate hath done!

Labor, wake! Now shalt thou cleanse
These foul altars where they pray—
These that kill; and scourge them thence.
Labor, 'tis the breaking day
Of the time to be when each
Shall be free, with hand and speech.
Labor, since thou art so strong,
One with Might and Power, not long
Wilt thou battle wrong with wrong.
Brotherhood need not be vain.
These be branded red, like Cain,
Who shall slay, as Hate hath slain.
Right shall be thy sword, bright-steeled;
Aye, and Justice be thy shield.
Thou shalt make no foes, but yield.
See, the night of Hate is gone.
Labor, wake! It is the dawn!

WHO PAYS THE BILLS?

[Editorial.]

THE industrial organization of a nation is a web of complex industries, the strands of which are interdependent. The cutting or pulling out of one thread affects the whole fabric. If the cotton spinners of Lawrence succeed in obtaining an advance of 20 per cent. in wages, the advance will be general throughout the cotton mills of the East, and every wearer of garments made from cotton, from Bangor to San Diego and from Duluth to Galveston, will pay more for cotton goods.

The coal miners of Pennsylvania have not yet organized a strike, but they are threatening one to enforce a demand that their terms of daily labor be reduced from eight hours to seven hours, and on Saturdays to five hours and that they have 10 per cent. increase of pay. The skilled miner who now receives $3 per day of eight hours, or $18 for forty-eight hours' work, demands $19.80 for forty hours' work, or 49½ cents per hour instead of 37½ cents per hour, an advance of about 33 per cent.

The result of such an advance would be to add 33 per cent. to the cost of fuel. This would not only affect the homes. It would increase the cost of producing every article of food, or wear, or use of any kind, that is made where steam is used as a motive power.

An increase in the pay of workmen employed in the building trades increases the cost of the building, and so increases the rent. The grocer or butcher whose rent is increased increases the price of the wares he sells, and the mechanic or clerk who obtains more wages because the cost of living is increased, comes out at the end of the year in the same condition as when the cost of living was lower and the compensation of the breadwinner was less.

These suggestions with respect to the outcome of strikes are not academic. They are logical and mathematical. Yet The Times does not decry or oppose labor organizations for the purpose of legitimate betterment of their condition by lawful means. If a worker whose wages and whose cost of living are increased has no more money at the end of the year, at least he respects himself more every pay day during the year, and if from his expenditures he will cut out whisky and tobacco and subscriptions to foreign missions, he will have a larger apparent surplus in the savings banks.

The increased cost of living falls not upon the workers if their wages are correspondingly increased, not upon the middlemen who add it to the price of their wares, and not upon the landlords who increase their rent charges. It falls heavily and without any amelioriation upon people with fixed incomes from annuities, pensions, and long-term mortgages. This class is comparatively small in this country, and it is one of the beautiful features of human society that nine persons can almost always endure with complacency the misfortune of the tenth one.

OPEN SHOP NECESSARY.

The Only Way That the San Francisco Exposition Will Be Made More Than a Country Fair.

The Daily Commercial News of San Francisco publishes a letter from the Employers' Association of Oregon regarding the Panama Exposition, in which it is urged that a decision be made "by the men in charge of the building of the world's fair, as to whether the work shall be done fairly and openly by labor, regardless of its personal affiliations, or whether the closed shop of unionism is to dominate, control and say what to do, and what shall not be done by the management and the exhibitors, who are asked to send their exhibits from this country, as well as foreign.

"If the principles of open shop, and its freedom of action shall be the rule, then San Francisco will have entered upon an era of prosperity that for magnitude has never been known anywhere before. The people, those who have the welfare of San Francisco in mind, have the golden opportunity of achievement within their grasp, and if they will but stand, act and advise their representatives in the right way, then there is nothing that can retard a growth that will place that city in the front rank of the cities of the world.

"Commercial position, as regards harbor and transportation facilities, climate, agricultural and other natural resources, have given San Francisco an advantage which few cities enjoy. If now the citizens act with unanimity on this question, good results will follow.

"On the other hand, if the political trickster, the weak and cowardly business man, who but so recently passed through business stagnation, and others who don't care to make an effort, foist the closed shop upon the fair and its construction, the prediction can be positively made that San Francisco will not finish this undertaking on time, construct within the appropriation, nor will they get the foreign government exhibits, which are so necessary to any exposition of this kind. And without these, a village fair will result, and California will be the laughing stock of the world for undertaking an enterprise that is a man's job, and failing because of application of wrong principles."

BUYS SEASIDE HOME.

A Lofton, a retired business man from Little Rock, Ark., has bought of William J. Riley of Los Angeles, a beautiful brick villa at Ocean Park, the purchase price being given at $15,000 cash. The property is located at No. 25 Rose avenue and is modern and well-built. Mr. Lofton and his family will occupy their new home next summer.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

On January 1, 1911, the trade unions of Great Britain numbered 669, of which 628 made returns to the Chief Registrar of British Friendly Societies for the year 1910—exactly the same number as made returns for 1909.

Here are the returns for 1910:

Number of returns	628
Number of members	2,927,454
Income for the year	$15,511,505
Expenditure for the year	15,206,634
Balance of funds	28,525,704
In round figures the increase over 1909 were:
Members	50,000
Income	$700,000
Expenditure (decrease)	385,000
Balance of funds	190,000

The increased income and decreased expenditure totals $805,000; deducting the increase in balance of funds ($190,000) leaves $615,000 unaccounted for. Where did that $615,000 go, besides the $15,206,634 of admitted expenditure? The number of unions making returns in 1909 and 1910, namely 628, was twenty-three less than in 1900.

The distribution of the 1910 membership was:

England and Wales	2,562,775
Scotland	58,000
Ireland	15,433
Total membership, Dec. 31, 1909	2,627,554
Membership in 1910	2,672,241
Increase in ten years	444,795

Or an average yearly increase of 44,479 members. The ten-year increase in yearly income was $4,500,000; in outlay, $7,250,000, and in "balance of funds, $8,700,000. It is quite doubtful, or rather it is certain, that union labor in Great Britain does not get anything even approaching benefit out of the $15,500,000 a year which the British union-labor officials are drawing out of the small wages of the union workers of Britain—men, women, girls and boys. Twenty-eight unions were registered and twenty-five dissolved in 1910. The figures quoted above are official, unassailable and unbiased.

The mines of Great Britain, Ireland and the Isle of Man employ 1,078,983 persons, and 85,237 more work in the quarries. The increases in 1910 over 1909 were 25,648 and 1900, respectively. Four-fifths of the miners work underground (865,485) and of the 212,598 working above ground 6404 were females. That should not be. Mining is entirely too rough and too hard work for females. The 1280 fatal accidents in 1910 caused a loss of 1818 lives, besides eighty-four lives lost in the quarries. The death rate per 1,000,000 tons of coal mined in 1910 was only 6.54, against 6.37 in 1910 and 10 in 1851.

American Workers' Incomes.

The average yearly incomes of American workers are:

Factory officials and clerks	$1,186
Factory wage-earners	516
Mining employees	675
Clerks and salespeople (wholesale and retail)	975
Agriculture	$275 and extras
Average income per worker, all classes	720

It forcibly behooves all American workers to remember that these incomes must be protected by their votes in November next, as tariff reduction must inevitably bring about wage reduction. Remember '93 to '96.

Factory Salaries Paid in 1910.

Using census 1910 figures we showed in this column two Sundays ago the yearly pay rolls of wage-earners in our principal factory industries. Now take the salary list, which totaled for the year almost a billion dollars, or $938,575,000 to be exact, the care of which is quite as much incumbent upon us in November next, as is the wages list.

Here are the totals by principal trades:

Trade.	Yearly salary list.
Printing and publishing	$103,463,000
Foundries and machine shops	93,786,000
Lumber and timber	47,245,000
Clothing, men's	36,723,000
Steel works and rolling mills	28,151,000
Electrical machinery	20,192,000
Clothing, women's	19,418,000
Malt liquors	12,984,000
Slaughtering and meat packing	20,664,000
Furniture	15,941,000
Boots and shoes	18,629,000
Gas making	13,126,000
Cotton goods	14,422,000
Bakery products	12,764,000
Flour and grist mills	12,517,000
Copper and tin	10,282,000

UNION-LABELED PIE.

Demand of the Australian Federated Pastry Cooks and for Which They Are Using the Boycott.

[The Square Deal:] In Australia there exists a union known as the Federated Pastry Cooks, Biscuit Makers and Flourworkers' Union. This union is best described by its name. It recently got into a dispute with certain of the employers in the various bakeshops in Melbourne. A strike which was called did not materialize and the boycott was resorted to. Just what they wanted to do is best explained in the language of the secretary of the federation, who wrote the following to the Political Labor Council:

"I am authorized by the association to intimate to you that we are out against 'piebaldism' in union shops. Nothing but clean, 'pure-white,' that is, full unionism—in the factory will suit this federation. And to secure that desired end we are using the boycott, which can only be effective by your union collectively and members individually giving their unalloyed support. We therefore request that before any catering or purchasing of refreshments for any of your pleasure parties and functions are transacted, or patronizing any gatherings where refreshments are non-union, you will communicate with our secretary, who will supply you with our list of 'white' firms."

Imagine a man wanting some pie or ice cream for dinner being compelled to telephone the secretary of the union before going to the nearest bakeshop for pie and the drug store around the corner for ice cream!

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES ON AND OFF AND STRIKES COMING.

IT IS well to remember that in the twenty-five years, 1881 to 1905 (latest complete United States Bureau of Labor figures,) the 38,303 strikes and lock-outs that occurred in this country threw 9,529,434 workers out of work for periods varying from one week to eleven months, and a few for longer periods. The establishments effected numbered 199,954. Of the strikes (36,757 in number,) 25,352, or 68.99 per cent. were ordered by union labor organizations, affecting 90.34 per cent. of the establishments affected. The strikes ordered by union labor organizations directly called out 5,855,516 workers or 79.69 per cent. of the total number of workers, 6,725,273, who went on strike. The total number of strikers, 6,735,273, formed 77.45 per cent. of the total number of workers thrown out of work by the strikes. Those strikes, which were for recognition of the union and of union labor, numbered 6926, or only 18.84 per cent. of the total strikes. Of the 1546 lock-outs, 699, or 43.27 per cent. were against recognition of the union and union rules, the old fight and the fight in which union labor will never win to any appreciable extent. Both labor and capital must be free.

The grave diggers in the three principal cemeteries of Glasgow, Scotland, have gone on strike for more pay and shorter hours.

Five million men may be idle in England (various trades) by reason of the British coal miners' strike of a million, now on. The German Miners' Christian Union, which claims a membership of 80,000, or about one-third of the total number of mine workers in that country, has sent out a circular opposing any sympathetic strike in favor of the British striking miners. The circular insists that British miners are not deserving of sympathetic support and calls attention to the fact that in 1895, during the strike of the German miners, the British workers grabbed all the markets they could. It's the old story—strikes are selfish things anyway. On the other hand, the German Socialist allied unions want to sympathetically strike.

The many thousands of coal miners in Rhenish Westphalia have served notice on the mine owners of a strike unless they immediately get a 15 per cent. raise of wages.

The Federal government has started in, through the United States Bureau of Labor, on a full investigation of the real textile wage and working conditions in strike-cursed Lawrence, Mass., and also to the humane reasons which led the municipal authorities there to stop the sending of the children of the strikers to other cities, pleading a general poverty which does not exist, because the workers of Lawrence have some twenty millions of dollars on deposit in the savings banks of that city, and send $700,000 across the Atlantic yearly.

Conferences as to the wage situation and a possible strike on April 1 of the hard and soft coal miners in this country, have begun between the union labor leaders and the mine owners. It is believed that the funds of the unions are not sufficient to permit of the hard and soft coal miners striking together. So far there has been a good deal of friendly hand-shaking between the opposing forces. The owners are against a new contract for only one year and want it to be for three years, but the union leaders say that on a contract for more than one year, their members become apathetic in the payment of their dues. In other words, the union leaders (as usual and following Gompers's example,) want to get as much as they possibly can of the wages of their members into the union funds for the payment of fat salaries and fat expense accounts (Gompers for instance,) and they want a wage agreement of only one year to use as a club for collection purposes, "collections" being a primary and the strongest features ($225,000 for Darrow & Co., for instance,) of the Gompers system of union-labor misleadership. For how many more years is union labor, particularly the 90 per cent. decent part of it, going to allow its hard-earned wages to be "bled" in that way? Bled to support an army of non-working parasites.

Serious riots in fighting Wales opened the million strike of British coal miners. Including the strikers' families, and the workers in closely allied interests (some 200,000,) and their families, fully 3,000,000 persons are already disastrously directly affected by the strike. If the 275,000 organized hard and soft coal miners in this country also strike on April 1, and the British strike continues, the world's coal trade (and its allied trades,) will be paralysed, says President White of the United Mine Workers of America.

A strike is on in all the shipyards of San Francisco Bay. The calkers, shipwrights and joiners want a raise from $4 to $5 a day and an eight-hour day. They also resist the open-shop declaration of the Shipbuilders' Association.

Patterson, N. J., faces a strike of the broad silk weavers, which will close about a dozen mills, and stop work and wages for 18,000 operatives. Agents of the Industrial Workers of the World are in the Pennsylvania silk regions to organize the weavers there. More salaries and expenses for the workers to pay out of their wages or out of their savings bank accounts. Union labor organizers and strike agitators enjoy fat salaries and fatter expense accounts.

The following is what the American coal miners ask under threat of strike: A 20 per cent. increase in wages, an eight-hour day, recognition of the union, the collection of union dues by operators, a one-year instead of a three-year agreement, the abolition of the conciliation board and for "consideration work" a minimum rate of $3.50 per day for miners and $2.75 for laborers.

The proposition for the mine owners to turn themselves into an agency for the collection of union dues is "rich."

Ettor, Haywood and other strike leaders in Lawrence, Mass., are not preaching trades-unionism to the mill workers, but are preaching and practicing absolute anarchy, and that to a people largely foreign, to whom, by reason of the conditions of labor and wages in the countries they came from, anarchy appeals rather than the offered 5 per cent. increase of wages. That is why 12,000 of the 20,000 textile workers in Lawrence are still on strike. That is why Idaho Haywood's audiences cheered "Spit on the Stars and Stripes."

Striking has become a disease. Even the Baptist Temple choir of Brooklyn, 150 strong, threatens to strike if the musical director and the organist are dismissed.

UNIONITE VICIOUSNESS.

Oregon Defamed by Circulars Sent Broadcast by the Central Labor Council of Portland.

The defamatory circulars sent Eastern points by the Central Labor Council of Portland are evidently getting in their work to the injury of the State of Oregon. The Medford (Or.) Mail Tribune has heard from them, and says:

"The systematic and persistent knocking of Oregon by the Central Labor Council of Portland is bearing its fruit. Every paper in the East devoting space to the lying circulars sent out by those who hope by keeping out labor, to force to higher figures the price of labor in Oregon. The same tactics are being used where employed successfully in San Francisco after the earthquake."

The Mail Tribune is one of the best papers in the State, and is honest enough and fearless enough to tell the truth, even if the truth hurts the organized gang of State defamers who lie about Oregon under the name of the Portland Central Labor Council.

The reason city officials and commercial bodies made no effort to overtake and refute the lies told of Oregon by the labor unions was, as the Portland Spectator understands, because the businessmen and politicians thought that if they meekly and silently bore the attack made on the city and State, the unions would kindly refrain from reiterating their lies and that if anything were done to refute the statements of the Central Labor Council, the unions would get real angry, and throw more mud.

The Spectator thinks this a policy of magnificent cowardice. That the unanimous conduct of officials and business bodies did not have the desired effect, we learn from the Mail Tribune, which says that the Central Labor Council, having triumphantly lied about Portland and Oregon to the governors and leading newspapers of the country, sent out a different and superlorly malicious set of lies to the secretaries of the labor unions in the East. Among the statements in the second circular, the Mail Tribune finds one that affects Medford. The Central Labor Council tells the people of the East that men who had "brought large families to this new country of undeveloped resources" only to be compelled to ask the city and county officials to give them the bread to keep their loved ones from the awful pangs of starvation. This condition is prevalent over all Oregon. From the widely advertised Medford in Southern Oregon, a city of 15,000 inhabitants, comes the message that a thousand men are unemployed in that town—no chance to work.

"We ask you, therefore, to place the state of affairs before the membership of your locals and see that this information is given widest publicity in your papers. Enclosed are a few posters which we wish you would place in conspicuous places about the meeting halls of the working men and women, that they may not be misled or inveigled into venturing into Oregon."

The Mail Tribune tells us that scarcely a day passes that it does not receive marked copies of Eastern papers containing the lies circulated by the disloyal and untruthful labor unions about Portland and Oregon.

Van Nuys-Lankershim News

BULLETIN NUMBER TWO

View Showing Van Nuys On Opening Day

Owensmouth, the new town in Van Nuys-Lankershim, will be opened in a short time.

Van Nuys, the first town to be opened in this great section, is the closest to Los Angeles. Owensmouth is farther from Los Angeles, and will naturally become a more independent business center along the lines of Santa Ana, Redlands and San Bernardino. This fact will mean that Owensmouth will equal Van Nuys for rapidity of growth.

Owensmouth Will Grow Because:

1. It is at the end of the $500,000 electric car line.
2. It is at the end of the two boulevards costing half a million.
3. It has a productive tributary country.
4. It is a natural market for thousands of farmers.

It will pay you if you wish to become interested in a townsite, to secure your advance information now, prior to the opening day.

This office is now prepared to offer a limited amount of acreage close to this new townsite and will be pleased to give details to interested parties. Considering the phenomenal record established by Van Nuys we can safely say that Owensmouth will meet with great popular favor.

This will not be a general real estate office, but will handle only and exclusively property in which the office is directly interested, or which is managed, controlled or owned by H. J. Whitley, the general manager of the Los Angeles Suburban Homes Co., the developers of the entire Van Nuys-Lankershim property. From time to time under heading "Van Nuys-Lankershim News," this office will publish bulletins of development work accomplished and projected on these lands as we consider it of interest and benefit to the buying public to be informed at first hand of such improvements.

Free auto trips of inspection from office.

RAILWAYS FIGHT LONDON'S FOGS.

EMPLOYEES DARE DEATH TO SAVE HUMAN LIFE.

Watchmen Ready for Call at Any Hour Stationed Near Towers Use Detonators Hand Lamps and Signal Flags. Yet Final Task Difficult and Dangerous.

[London Exchange:] Many mechanical contrivances have been designed, and in some instances adopted, for railway work in time of fog, but the human fog-signaler, with his sheltering hut like a sentry box, his watch-fire, and his detonators, is still chiefly depended upon by the railway companies when attacked by their enemy, the fog fiend.

No pleasant summons is it to be called in the wee sma' hours to tramp a couple of miles, or more, through the clammy darkness to a distant post along the line. Yet such is often the lot of the fogman, whose duty, ordinarily that of a plate-layer, renders him liable to be called out at any hour, day or night, for "fogging."

The line is divided into districts, and again subdivided into sections, each with its appointed fog brigade. The names and addresses of the men are conspicuously posted in the permanent-way office for immediate reference, in case of emergency. To summon them for duty is left to the discretion of those guardians of the line, the signalmen.

For the assistance of the latter, and to settle any dispute as to whether or not a fog is of sufficient density to warrant calling out the men, a white disk officer is employed. This is placed some fifty yards or so from important signal boxes. This disk is also illuminated at night with a distinctive light. When fog renders it invisible, the immediate call is given, "Fog-men, turn out!"

Before proceeding to his appointed place, a fogman provides himself with thirty-six detonators, or fog signals, which explode on compression, a hand-lamp, trimmed and lighted, and a red and green flag. Often the journey to his station in the fog and darkness is a dangerous and difficult task, familiar as fogmen are with every inch of the line.

While thus hastening to his work, one fogman narrowly escaped a terrible fate. The sharp whistle of an approaching engine, as its huge bulk loomed up through the fog, caused him to stop and jump hastily aside while crossing a labyrinth of rails.

In the action he landed between a pair of points; at that instant the pull of a lever in a signal box closed the switch, and he was held by one foot, tight as in the grip of a vice.

Screened by the fog, and too far from the signal box to be heard, he was in a perilous plight. No amount of tugging would loosen his boot. He sought to unlace it. The lace broke off short at the knot. His knife! In the hurry of starting out, he had left it at home.

Then an inspiration came to him. Hastily taking the tin reservoir out of his hand-lamp, he burned away the lace, and wrenched his foot free, just as a heavy train lumbered past, cutting his boot to ribbons.

A fogman's post may be at a "home" signal, within sight of the cheery lamps of a big station, or far out in the country, in some bleak cutting or exposed embankment, beneath a "distant"—the signal with the swallow-tailed end.

Having arrived at his destination, he first chooses a spot from which he can distinguish clearly the position of the signal arm, whether raised or lowered—at "danger" or "all right." If at "danger," the arm being in a horizontal position, he places two detonators on the rail. In many cases he may have charge of both the "up" and "down" lines; if this be so, detonators are placed on both lines.

Keeping a watchful eye upon the signal, as soon as it is drawn off, that is lowered for the passage of a train by the signalman in the distant box, the fog detonators are taken off the rail. If, from any cause, cautious progress is necessary, one detonator—for "caution"—is allowed to remain.

"Bang!" it goes as the engine wheels pass over it, whereupon the driver promptly shuts off steam and reduces speed, for danger looms ahead. Two bangs, and he knows signals are dead against him, and instantly brakes are applied and the train stopped.

Not an arduous, but certainly a tedious, occupation, relieved only by the passing of trains and the visits of the "ganger" in charge of each section. Every two hours he traverses his "length," and welcome visitor—dispenses hot coffee and huge sandwiches to his men.

This refreshment bill alone costs the railway companies a tidy sum, especially during a prolonged spell of foggy weather. The fog of January, 1881, cost one of the comparatively small companies £1250, including an item of 350 gross of fog signals, while the food bill alone of one of the principal railways for a single winter month, if fog be general, averages more than £1000.

An eerie experience is it to stand at night beside a fogman's hut, at some desolate portion of the line.

The intense silence is broken by the screech of a pulley wheel, as the wire is jerked into motion by the signalman 'way down the line. The "board" overhead drops with a clang, the red eye changing to a more friendly disposed green.

"Right-oh!" murmurs the fogman, who steps forward and picks up two detonators, carefully fixed, ten yards apart, with soft, laden "lugs" to the down-line. "It's the 'Irishman,' forty-five minutes late," he remarks.

He takes his hand-lamp and presently from the steel rail there rises a faint metallic hum. It is the tread of the wheels of the yet distant train. Now, borne on the wings of sound, for fog is a famous transmitter, there comes a hollow booming. It is the express crossing a distant bridge.

The sound dies say again, smothered in a deep-cutting, then rapidly rising into thunderous roar, while yet all is darkness around us.

"Standback!" says the fogman.

We catch a glimpse of a calm, set face at the "lookout" glass, whose hand upon the throttle under Providence, directs the destinies of the living freight behind him.

Liberal Land Policy of Victoria, Australia

Think of Buying the Best of Lands at $40 to $75 per Acre and Having 31½ Years to Make Payment.

On April 3, 1912, the steamship Tahiti will leave San Francisco for Melbourne, Australia, this trip being especially arranged to permit those interested in investigating the land offerings of the Victorian Government to obtain an exceptionally low one-way and round trip rate, with free railroad transportation on all Victorian railways.

No government has ever offered to the public such unusual opportunities to secure a home as Victoria does. The finest of lands, adapted for all kinds of horticulture, agriculture and stock raising, in a climate mild and pleasing like California, near large markets and where every opportunity is offered the colonist to succeed are open to settlers.

These lands are sold at $40 to $75 per acre, and are under an irrigation system said to be the finest in the world. The government gives the settler 31½ years to make the payments on his purchase.

Messrs. Peck-Judah Co., 687 Market St., San Francisco, the American agents of the Victorian Government, will be pleased to send folders, booklets descriptive of the lands, and special pamphlets on wheat and fruit growing, stock raising, etc., free to any one interested.

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men

Send Name and Address Today —You Can Have it Free and Be Strong and Vigorous

I have in my possession a prescription for natural vitality, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses and unnatural drains, that has cured on many worn out and nervous men right in their own homes without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and vitality, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the most exacting combination for the cure of vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home, quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3780 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $5 to $10 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

Equal to Bombs.

SUBSTITUTES FOR BULLETS.

HAVOC WROUGHT BY BALLS OF BUTTER AND PAPER.

At Short Range or With Increased Velocity Unusual Missiles Will Do Equal Damage With the Commonly-Used Solid Shot—Soft Materials as Deadly as "Dum-Dums."

[Detroit News Tribune:] Bullets of butter and water, used at close range, have been proved to have more destructive power than bombs and infernal machines.

This useful discovery has been made by the Russian Terrorists hiding in Paris, and it is said that the next time they try to remove a high Russian official they will put their discovery into practice.

A noted French journalist, Clement Cascieal, who has always been a student of criminals and their ways of working, has written several important volumes on the Apache of Paris, has lately been able to assist at some recent experiments held in the heart of the Russian quarter by a number of the most notorious of the Nihilists, and his accounts of what he saw are unbelievable. These curious experiments consist in replacing the ordinary lead balls of our guns by bodies more or less soft and even liquid.

Guns are charged with paper, a piece of butter, a bit of tallow or several cubic centimeters of water. These bizarre projectiles are capable of great damage and can easily kill a man.

A small ball of butter can be shot through a hardwood board of more than a half-inch thickness. The reason is very simple to those who have made a study of ballistic science. The power of a projectile depends on its weight and its speed—the force by which it is sent. A ball of double the weight of another will produce twice the effect traveling at the same speed. A ball of the same weight as another, but traveling at double the speed, will not be twice, but four times as effective. On the other hand, the lighter the projectile may be the greater will be its initial velocity—its speed immediately on quitting the gun. This speed diminishes, however, very quickly.

It was with experiences of this kind that the English explorer, Bruce, astonished the natives of Africa during his travels. At the Court of Menelik he stupefied the Abyssinians by shooting a small piece of candle through their beaten leather and iron shields, which are bullet-proof at a certain distance.

Among these recent experiments have been the trials of a ball made of a piece of candle on different kinds of targets. Two boxes of white iron, separated by a sheet of steel, and three boards, were easily penetrated. A piece of butter weighing four ounces penetrated a white iron box. A ball made of paper traversed a target of ten magazines of twenty pages each. Despite the considerable resistance this paper target offered, it was torn to shreds and the ball, deformed and reduced to half its size, testified to the violence of the shock. Wood against wood was tried. The bullet was of soft wood and the target, a pine board, two and a half inches thick. It was easily traversed. Projectiles of water are made by filling little paper cylinders with the liquid and gluing them shut. The weight is two ounces. Owing to the incompressibility of liquids these balls are most powerful. Shot through sheets of iron, steel and boards they tear out enormous pieces because of their flattening out before penetration. These experiments were made at distances ranging from six to eight feet.

The resistance of water gave the idea to make it in turn serve as a target. An iron box filled with water bullets, the Russians assert, and no more "marked" potentate will escape with a severe wound, for all the would-be assassin has to do is to get near enough and then succeed in hitting any part of his face and the whole head will be torn off.

Owing to their tendency to flatten on striking the target, these bullets of fluid and soft materials are as terrible as the outlawed "dum-dum."

Latest News From the Oil Fields.

Coalinga.

OIL PROPERTIES CHANGE HANDS.

Two Deals Recently Closed in Coalinga Field.

Vancouver Capitalists Are Watching Progress.

Old Mohawk Gusher Comes to Life Once More.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

COALINGA, March 8.—The property of the Gold Tip Oil Company, located on section 3, 21-14, through a deal consummated this afternoon, passed into the hands of A. L. Kreiss of the syndicate of Fresno and Oakland. Kreiss left immediately after the closing of the deal for Fresno and will continue on to Oakland to make the final arrangements for the operation of the property.

The name of the concern which took over the property is The A. L. Petroleum Company and it is the intention of the management to resume operation of the property at once. The Gold Tip Company erected a rig on the location and drilled a well to the depth of 740 feet. A string of tools is in the well and all drilling material is on the property. Kreiss, who is to be superintendent of the property, has been one of the Southwestern Consolidated Oil Company now operating the Kreiss Oil Company property on section 6.

K. C. Hunter of Spokane, has been in Coalinga for the past several days in the interest of the Spokane and Washington Coalinga oil companies operating on section 2. Hunter is heavily interested in the companies and is very much pleased with the showing made by the wells and is making good reports to the other stockholders in the north.

Hunter has visited Coalinga on several other occasions and expresses great faith in the future of the field.

PROPERTIES TAKEN OVER.

The properties of the Coalinga Idaho, Ehane and Coalinga Emperor companies on section 12, 21-14, have been recently acquired by the Lonnie Drilling Company, a closed corporation composed of Charles D. Lewis, president, B. A. Lewis, vice-president, and general manager, A. G. Ehane, superintendent, and H. A. Ehane, secretary. The members of the company are largely interested in the lumber business in the northwest and the latter two in a large lumber concern of Chicago.

Material is on the section now for the erection of the first rig and the wells will be improved to meet all requirements. C. D. Lewis and A. G. Ehane have been in Coalinga for several weeks and have already taken an interest in the improvements of the field. They are accustomed to the handling of large business and will give personally to the development of the property. It is the intention of the Hydraulic Drilling Company to run two strings of tools and the development work will commence immediately. The properties are in the light refining oil belt and oil is produced from this territory. Well No. 1 of the Washington-Coalinga Oil Company, operating on section 1, 21-14, was brought in yesterday at a depth of 325 feet and the oil is now flowing over the top of the casing. The well is 110 feet from the other two wells and the oil is found to be thicker, softer and more pliable than the sand found in Wells No. 1 and 2. The stratum dips to the south twelve feet to the hundred. As soon as the weather conditions permit the rig for No. 4 will be moved and work started on a new well. Well No. 3 was completed in 1911.

Operations were resumed on the Coalinga Oil Syndicate property on section 14, 21-15 last week by the 6¼-inch casing hung in the well at a depth of 4695 feet. The well is being drilled to a depth of 4500 feet under contract. The present formation of the well is blue shale.

THROUGH SALT WATER.

The Coalinga Royal Oil Company is attracting considerable attention at present time owing to the fact that it has drilled through the salt water stratum which heretofore has been passed by any company. The company is wildcatting in section 12-21 and the hole is now over 1000 feet deep. Below the salt water was first passed through eighty feet of sand which did not contain enough oil to finish the well. Then was passed through five feet of shale and is now about ten feet in a second sand. The latter was encountered at 1910 feet and the well is being drilled in 6¼-inch casing.

The Coalinga Oil Company on section 4, 22-14 has its well No. 4 down 1650 feet. John Livermore, who has the well under contract, states that the well will be completed within a few days.

The Coalinga Development Company on section 17, 20-15 has well No. 1 drilling with 12¼-inch casing. The company is installing a large sump-hole on section 19, 20-15.

Well No. 1 came in again after shutting off the production about seven months. The well is a quarter about two years ago and over a year was one of the best producers in the field. About 1000 feet of casing collapsed and the well was reamed and about eight quarts shot the fluid over the derrick. The well was then cleaned out several times, the casing again collapsed. Another string of re-drilling was again necessary and four strings of casing were cut off in the hole had collapsed. The 4½-inch casing was run into the hole to a depth of 4695 feet, a few feet deeper than the original depth of the hole. The well came in flowing Monday afternoon with considerable water owing to the fact that nearly 4000 feet of water is standing on the oil sand for several months. The reports to the property say that the well is making about 100 or 600 barrels a day and that practically all the water is from the sand.

SOUTHERN RANCH.

The Kern Investment Company reports the sale to [illegible] of Ventura of an 1850-acre tract in the Sulphur Surprise Valley in Lake county. The consideration is reported as $138,750 in cash, or $138,750 in [illegible] Alvord bought stock [illegible] valued at $20,000. The property is situated on the west [illegible] and just south of [illegible]

EMBARGO IS LIFTED. STANDARD TAKES OIL.

Word comes from the San Joaquin Valley oil fields that the embargo placed by the Standard Oil Company on daily runs some time ago has been partially lifted, at least. The company has been digging into its storage lately, and its pipe lines are now able to handle more oil than formerly.

The manager of one company which recently brought in a big well in the Midway field is authority for the statement that the Standard is now ready to take about all the oil it can get from that secion. This will be good news for many companies that have contracts with the Standard for daily deliveries and have been held down to the minimum for some weeks. It will put money into circulation

News Notes and Personals.

A. T. Borst, superintendent of the Shawmut Oil Company, operating in the Coalinga field, left for San Francisco the other day on a business trip.

William Gray of the Home Oil Company in the Coalinga field arrived in Los Angeles the other day on a business trip for his company.

Harry Snyder, engaged in the development of oil properties in the Coalinga field, went to Fresno one day last week on a business trip. He will also visit San Francisco.

M. C. Hunter of Spokane, Wash., has been a visitor to the oil fields of Coalinga for several days. He is financially interested in several properties.

A. L. Kreiss and W. F. Hasselbush, both interested in several oil properties in the Coalinga field, arrived in camp the other day from Fresno.

George D. Roberts of the United Development Company, which is operating on Southern Pacific land in the Coalinga field, has returned to Coalinga from Los Angeles.

R. A. Moore of the American Petroleum Company, operating in the Coalinga field, has returned from a honeymoon trip to the southern part of the State.

Deal in Oil.

OIL PROPERTY IS TAKEN OVER.

GATE CITY COMPANY SOLD FOR ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND.

It Becomes Part of the Merger Proposition of the Seaboard Oil and Transit Company—Seven Oil Producing Properties Have Already Joined Forces.

The properties of the Gate City Oil Company were sold last week to the Seaboard Oil and Transit Company for a consideration of $100,000. The Gate City properties consist of twenty acres of leased lands and five acres of deeded land. The townsite of Maricopa is situated in part on the properties. There are twelve producing wells, and the average monthly production is from 12,000 to 15,000 barrels.

The Gate City properties are among the best known in the State. Up to this time they have been held by a close corporation of Los Angeles and San Francisco capitalists. The oil is sold to the Sunset Monarch Refinery, which is located less than one-half mile from the properties. The is very desirable for asphalt and road surfacing. It is marketed at 45 cents a barrel, and there are yet to be delivered 120,000 barrels on the present contract.

The Gate City property adjoins the Monte Cristo, McCutcheon, Adeline and Fulton. This property has a storage capacity of nearly 100,000 barrels, and all the wells are in first-class condition. Three of the twelve producing wells are flowing from their own gas pressure, and the remainder are pumping wells. Operating expenses are from $500 to $750 a month. The property is earning net about $5000 a month. The Seaboard Oil and Transit Company has already taken possession. There is room on the property for six additional wells, but the drilling of these will not be taken up immediately.

The Seaboard Oil and Transit Company was organized the first of the year for the purpose of perfecting the consolidation of fourteen oil properties controlled by nine separate corporations. Of these nine corporations seven have ratified the consolidation, and the remaining two will hold stockholders' meetings at a later date to act on the merger.

OLD CHEROKEE BILL.

Some Past the Century Mark and Did Not Strike It Rich Till He Was 99 Years Old.

[Philadelphia Press:] The oldest man in the United States, the census bureau discovers and publishes, is an Indian negro of Grand Junction, Col., known as Cherokee Bill. His age is given as 114. He was born one year before Washington was appointed commander-in-chief for the apparently inevitable war with France, at the beginning of the administration of John Adams. He was 14 years old when Waterloo was fought, and a man of 23 when George III gave place to George IV. He now announces that, having completed a round century of labor, he intends to retire.

The one regret of the old man is that he has not quite succeeded in laying aside $1000 for each year of the 100 of his active occupation, for not until he had reached the mature age of 99 did he "strike it rich." Then he found paying ore and gravel at Leadville and Cripple Creek and along the Grand River, and in fifteen years he had laid aside 300 pounds of gold, valued at $80,000.

Bill's affluence, albeit rather tardy in the arrival, proves again what persistent and sedulous industry will accomplish. Let not those who at 75 or 80 think of selfish indulgence and a life of ease grow weary in well doing. They are young yet, as compared with Bill. Sir Joseph Hooker, the botanist, who has just passed away at 94, was a stripling beside this veteran. Lord Strathcona, at 91, and Sir Charles Tupper, at 90, are eight and nine years behind the age at which the perennially youthful Bill began to accumulate his fortune. Let them not be discouraged if life has not yet brought them all that heart could wish—there are still twenty years to the retiring age of their fellow-plutocrat in Colorado, and much may happen in two decades. Let any loafing near-centenarians take notice and profit by the example of one who thinks a century is not too long for a man to keep at work.

FLOW OF WELL NOW DOUBLED.

UNIVERSAL HAS LUCK IN LOST HILLS DISTRICT.

Well that Has Been Making Five Hundred Barrels Daily Is Now Flowing One Thousand Barrels a Day—Report that the Beiridge Has a New Well.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BAKERSFIELD, March 8.—The Universal Oil Company's well No. 14 on section 32, 27-21, in the Lost Hills field, which has been flowing at the rate of 500 barrels per day, has doubled its output, and is now making 1000 barrels of oil lighter than 24 gravity. The Universal is endeavoring to shut off bottom water in its well No. 3, on the same section.

On section 4, 27-21, the Standard is having a little trouble with water breaking into its well, No. 1, after it was supposed to have been completely shut off. Another tale of water comes from the Sunset field, where the Knickerbocker on section 32, 32-24, has developed an artesian flow of water at 120 degrees heat. The water was struck at 2760 feet, and seems to be flowing without the aid of gas. Efforts are being made to case it off.

Ira Anderson has taken over the old Monarch property, just south of the Belgin property, two and one-half miles southeast of town, and has put the well on the pump realizing 100 barrels a day. The well is on section 24, 30-22, and was drilled nearly twelve years ago, but was abandoned on account of the low price of oil.

The Olig Crude well on section 32, 31-22, is down 1400 feet, with good prospects.

The C. J. Oil Company has redrilled its No. 12 well, completing the work this week.

The Associated is rigging up two rotaries on section 20, 31-23.

The Jewett Oil Company is building a rig for No. 14 well at the north end of the field.

The Reward Oil Company started up its boarding-house on the 1st.

Raine & Teisiaff razed two buildings on the Elk Hills property of the Pioneer Midway Oil Company, to be used on the company Midway property for new buildings.

Water for irrigation, usually taken from the river at this season, was drawn from Buena Vista Lake in February, and lowered the lake one foot.

The Pluto Oil Company in the Devil's Den closed down temporarily March 3. Frank S. Cooper, who was in town from Dudley reports fifteen new settlers in the Devil's Den country, since September 1.

Confirmation is lacking here of the report that the Beiridge Oil Company has a good well on section 27, up on border of the Lost Hills. It is said the well is 3000 feet deep.

The Union Oil Company has built a camp twenty-two miles nearly north of town, and south and east of the Lost Hills, on section 20, 27-22. The surface improvements consist of two bunkhouses, cookhouse, superintendent's house, office and an oil rig. No. 1 well was spudded in March 1. Water from a well fourteen feet deep supplies the engine, but drinking water has to be packed in.

OVEREATING KILLS.

Excretory Organs Have to Throw Off the Surplus and Do This if Not Overloaded by Too Heavy Feeding.

[Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette:] It is now believed that one of the main causes—some investigators say the principal cause—of disease and premature death, apart from accidents and acute infections, is overloading the digestive organs and the consequent serious overtaxing of both these and the equally important excretory organs which have to get rid of the surplus by casting it out of the body, if possible, before it ferments or putrefies, and thus poisons the system. The writer points out that while many diseases are being eradicated the complaints largely attributable to overindulgence in the pleasures of the table are decidedly on the increase. Dr. Reed disagrees with the popular view that the appetite is a safe criterion to the needs of the system, and deprecates the use of highly seasoned foods and appetite stimulants of every description. He is also of the belief that excess of alcohol is not more harmful than eating too much, and predicts that the day will soon come when it will be considered as disgraceful to be billious or to have acute indigestion as it is now to be drunk. As a remedy for overeating Dr. Reed suggests the advice of Punch to those about to marry, "Don't." He likewise thinks that poverty is a useful means for avoiding this sin. As remedies for the effects of overeating Dr. Reed holds that the weight should be watched. If this were lowered by restraint in this direction there could not have been overindulgence. But if the weight should remain the same or even increase on a restricted diet it would show that previously an excess of food had been taken.

CHILDREN'S DEVELOPMENT.

The Binet System Affords an Intelligent Determination of the Intellectual Faculties During Youth.

[Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette:] The system was originated with a view to ascertaining the average age at which certain intellectual faculties may be expected to develop. If they develop later, the child is considered normal; and the differences between the normal and the abnormal age of manifestation is taken as a rude measure of the child's degree of mental deficiency. Whatever the years of an abnormal child may be, the "Binet age" is that of the normal child with whose intellection, as measured by the Binet tests, the intellection of the abnormal child corresponds. Thus, a child of abnormal mentality, of 10 years may have a Binet age of two or three. The Binet ages of one and two are classed as those of idiots; from three to seven, as those of imbeciles; from eight to twelve, such children are "morons," nearly equivalent to the English "fool." Children are tested by simple questions corresponding to age and graded accordingly. If a child of eight does not know his right hand from his left, his mentality is two years behindhand, and his Binet age is six. When found to average more than three years behind, he is considered mentally defective. These tests are now being largely used, so that merely backward children may be discriminated from really mentally defective children and idiots, and whenever possible diagnoses are made of the causes of mental deficiency and suitable treatment instituted.

What Would You Think of 1000% On Your Investment?

Many who have invested in "California Oil" have enjoyed such phenomenal profits and the opportunity is open to you.

"OIL IS KING" OF CALIFORNIA'S INVESTMENTS, AND THE OIL INDUSTRY, AS AN INDUSTRY, DEFIES THE WHOLE COMMERCIAL WORLD TO PRODUCE ITS EQUAL AS A MONEY MAKER.

"There will come on shortly a period of immense activity in the oilfields of California to which what has gone before cannot be compared. It will be, however, a sane and business-like development. It will not be accompanied by the frenized flotation of fictitious companies, nor by the exaggerated advocacy of unscrupulous publications. In the period of prosperity that is approaching for the oil industry the rewards will be for the truthful, unassuming and patient developers of the fields."

(March 1st issue "Oil Age.").

The purchase of the stock of the Oil Creek Oil Company whose lease consists of 480 acres of oil lands located in the Sespe District, the wonderful productive high gravity field of Ventura county (proven territory,) and whose management is capable and experienced will, we believe, bring unparalleled returns on the money invested. Its stock at 20c per share par value $1.00 meets the requirements of a safe, sane and conservative investment.

The property has been examined by eminent geologists, oil experts and men of practical experience, who predict that in the development of this property an almost inexhaustible pool of high gravity oil will be discovered—such as has never yet been discovered in California.

John Irwin of Santa Paula, millionaire, retired, and man who secured the properties for the Union Oil Company, as well as its chief geologist before his retirement, is quoted as follows:

"If there is gusher territory in the Ventura field it is right on the property of your company. If I had known there was such land over the ridge on Hopper Mountain you never would have got it. If you go deep enough you will get the biggest gusher in the history of high-grade oil."

The splendid well of high gravity oil brought in on the adjoining property proves that these authorities are correct and that their prediction regarding the lease of the Oil Creek Oil Company will, without doubt, be reduced to a certainty.

In making an investment in the oil industry in California you will become interested in the largest and most productive oil bearing zone in the United States. You will be interested in California's greatest natural resource—GREATEST MONEY MAKER. IN JUSTICE TO YOURSELF INVESTIGATE THIS PROPOSITION AND ASCERTAIN IF IT IS NOT SUPERIOR TO ANY INVESTMENT BEING OFFERED TO THE PUBLIC AT THIS TIME.

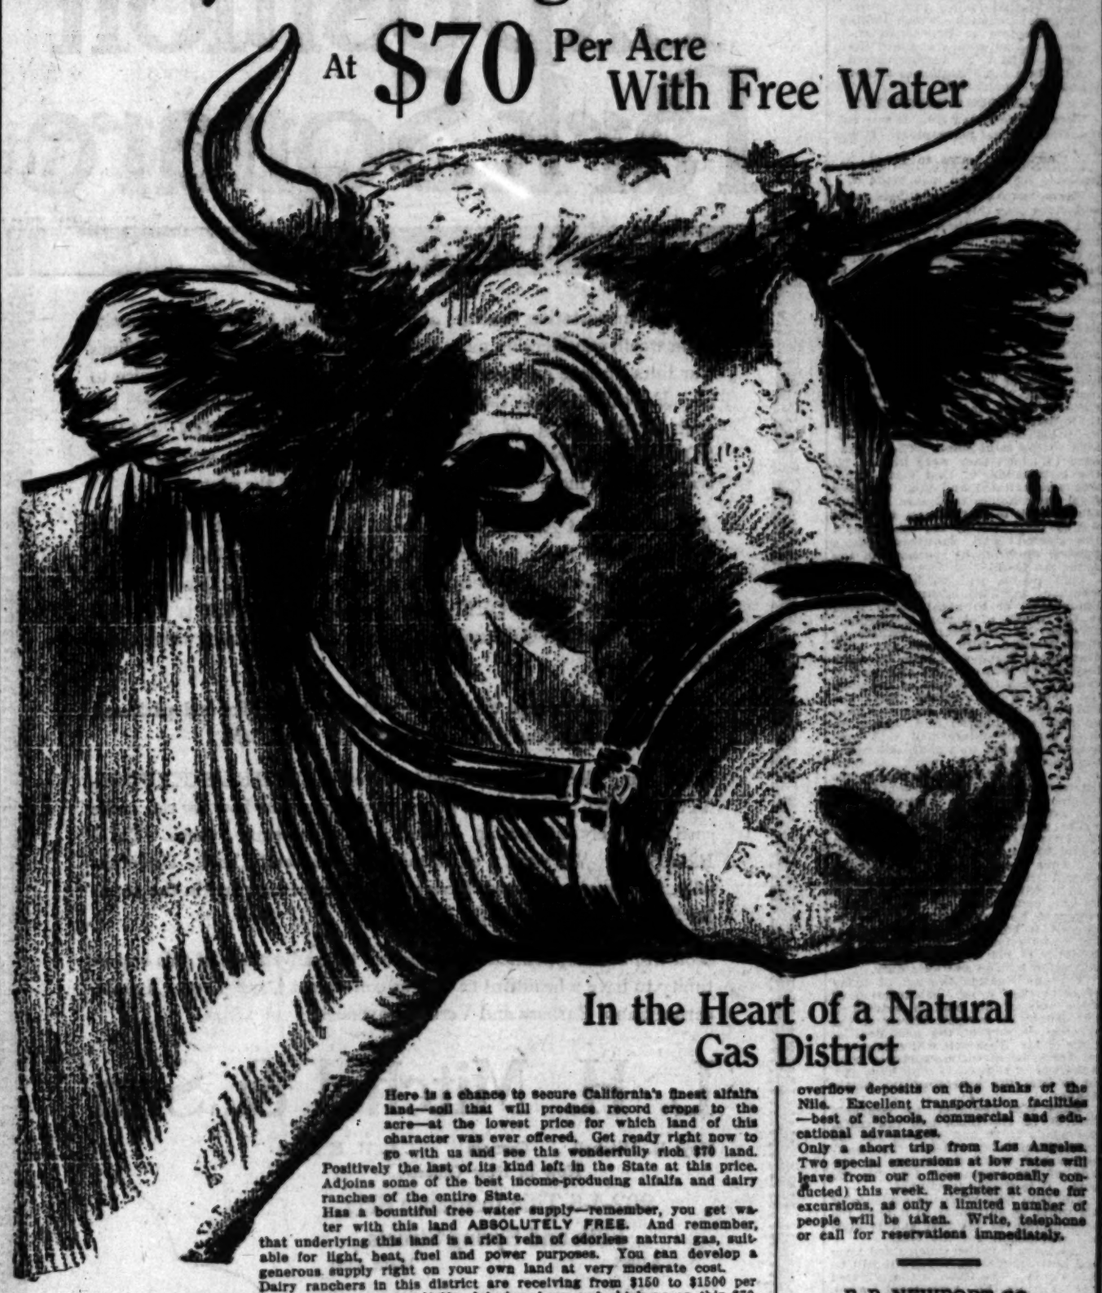
Money-Making Alfalfa Land

At $70 Per Acre With Free Water



In the Heart of a Natural Gas District

Here is a chance to secure California's finest alfalfa land—soil that will produce record crops to the acre—at the lowest price for which land of this character was ever offered. Get ready right now to go with us and see this wonderfully rich $70 land. Positively the last of its kind left in the State at this price. Adjoins some of the best income-producing alfalfa and dairy ranches of the entire State.

Has a bountiful free water supply—remember, you get water with this land ABSOLUTELY FREE. And remember, that underlying this land is a rich vein of odorless natural gas, suitable for light, heat, fuel and power purposes. You can develop a generous supply right on your own land at very moderate cost.

Dairy ranchers in this district are receiving from $150 to $1500 per month for milk sold to the local creamery. Alfalfa, dairying, hogs and chickens on this $70 land is a money-making combination that can not be surpassed in California.

Alfalfa is a permanent dividend payer. It is always SURE. The demand is increasing yearly. Alfalfa prices are soaring. Dairy products are as staple as the hills—and present prices will never be lower. This land is level as a table—requires no grading or fertilizing. At present it is covered with a prolific growth of tule plants, which proves its sedimentary origin. It is similar in composition to the overflow deposits on the banks of the Nile. Excellent transportation facilities—best of schools, commercial and educational advantages.

Only a short trip from Los Angeles. Two special excursions at low rates will leave from our offices (personally conducted) this week. Register at once for excursions, as only a limited number of people will be taken. Write, telephone or call for reservations immediately.

Moral Malfeasance.

DISHONORED BY BROKEN PLEDGE.

ROOSEVELT'S VIOLATION OF A WORD DENOUNCED.

Audacious Ambition for Third Term Is Marred by Dishonor and Is Doomed to Certain Defeat When People Speak—Treachery Should Benefit Taft.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] Theodore Roosevelt has broken his word!

He has left the explanation of his moral malfeasance to others.

The others comprise several types. Personal idolators are among them. Personal sycophants are among them. Those who would avenge their enforced retirement from public service by William H. Taft are among them.

All of them place themselves and Mr. Roosevelt above the obligations which honor and veracity impose on others. The number of these classes is not small when regarded alone. It is small when compared with the proportion of truth-tellers and truth-doers among the American people.

The explanation? That will vary according to the point of view. Grover Cleveland's point of view of Theodore Roosevelt was: "A useful public servant, under a strong and sane chief; a heady and dangerous man as an unhampered custodian of power."

The Eagle finds in this expression by Grover Cleveland the best explanation of Theodore Roosevelt's moral malfeasance. Under right and solemnizing influences or impulses, he modeled his mind on that of St. Paul. Under temptation, flattery and ambition, he now models his action on St. Vitus. St. Vitus is at the front today and a man, dangerous to himself, dangerous to his party, but not dangerous to the American people with whom rests the award of their government, is for the hour at the front of attention.

It is well for newspaper men to unloose some facts they have reserved. The November election night of 1904, when his second Presidency came to Mr. Roosevelt, he personally gave an unsolicited statement at the White House to the correspondents there asked to meet him. The two members of his Cabinet, the only ones in the White House then, to whom he had impulsively shown that statement, advised him not to issue it. He brushed them aside and himself handed this manifold statement to the representatives of the press:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Nov. 8, 1904.

On the fourth of March next I shall have served three and a half years. These three and a half years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form. Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

There is the statement. It was volunteered. It was peremptory. It was absolute.

It has just been renounced and repudiated by the man who made it.

There have been few things more audacious than this in American political history and none of them has been successful. We are not unaware of the false pretenses and of the sophistry by which this violation of promise and this "rooting of honor in dishonor" have been marked. The violation of promise has been plotted and premeditated. The assumption of reluctance and surprise has been an affectation. The fiction of reluctance and hesitation has been all fiction. The production of the letter, signed by a motley lot of vagrom Governors of wild-cat States, and the production of the evasive reply to the letter, signed by those Governors, apparently belong to the same hand. The conference to which they were invited, by the instruments of that same hand, was premeditated and their expenses from their homes to Oyster Bay and thence back to their homes were met not by them, but by the cabal which has steered and launched today's passing sensation at the head of the American people.

That people will be heard from, whether in Republicanism or in Democracy, or in both; heard from in the words of James A. Garfield: "Where the thoughtful fathers by their firesides, with wives and children about them, with calm thoughts inspired by love of home and love of country, with the history of the past, the hope of the future and the knowledge of the great men who have adorned and blessed our nation in days gone by—there will God prepare the verdict that shall determine the wisdom of our work tonight. . . . In the sober quiet that comes between now and November, in the silence of deliberate judgment will this great question be settled."

The great question was that of a third term for Grant, who had been bound by no promise to the contrary and that great question was settled against Grant by the American people. That it will be settled for Roosevelt by the cancellation of the moral mortgage he voluntarily placed on himself is beyond the power of belief. And relentless opposition to his infidelity to his word is certainly the obligation laid on patriotic duty.

The confirmation the act of today gives to the worst construction of some acts of his past is saddening, but cannot be escaped. Hereafter the severest censors of the past derelictions of Mr. Roosevelt will receive reinforcements on their structures from hundreds of thousands who have given to him the benefit of the better doubt.

Many who hesitated to conclude that E. H. Harriman told the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, from today will lose their hesitation and range themselves on the side of his averment. Pity 'tis 'tis true. It is simply inevitable

The man who gives the evidence of his worst by surrender to it blots the presumption of his best and is himself responsible for the blot.

The issue is not so much third term and anti-third term, though it will be made that. The issue is the plighted word against the repudiated word. Grant was rejected against no plighted word of his own, but because of the third term dread of the people, which broke down even him. Had Grant renounced a third term and then renounced his renunciation of it and been renominated for a third term, the verdict against him at the polls would have been incalculably overwhelming.

That is this case. Plus that, as said, is the plausible confirmation Mr. Roosevelt's course today gives to the worst estimates of the most unwise and the most shady actions in his second administration. His renomination by his party is unthinkable. Against his promotion and acceptance of a bolting nomination, there is no promise or even implication in his guarded letter.

The watchword from now should be:

No personal government!
No third term!

GOT THE LOWER BERTH.

Senator Ollie James Convinced a Traveling Companion That a Change Was a Safe Proposition.

[Argonaut:] Ollie James, Senator-elect from Kentucky, is a big man—big all over, beginning with his feet and ending with his head, excepting his supply of hair, which is nil. A conservative estimate of Mr. James's weight by a thin man would be 300 and by a fat man at a trifle more than 275. After the Kentucky Legislature elected Mr. James to the Senate a few weeks ago, he hurried back to Washington, where he is now serving as a Representative from the blue grass country. He bought his railroad ticket and delayed the purchase of a sleeping car berth until he got on the train. The conductor gave him a shock by showing him the diagram with only one empty berth and that an upper. Mr. James is not built on architectural lines adaptable to an upper berth, and even in a lower he holds an overflow meeting in the aisle. He took the upper and worked on the sympathies of the conductor and porter by the most expeditious means. They canvassed the car and could find no man agreeable to a switch from a lower to an upper. Mr. James took up the quest himself and in the smoking compartment offered $5 for a lower. No takers. When bedtime came Mr. James walked slowly into the car and sat down in his section disconsolate. A dapper little man, weight about 115, took a seat opposite him. He was the owner of the lower berth in that section. The porter came to make up the berths. When he lowered the top shelf Ollie tested the chains with his hands and sounded the platform. He shook his head doubtfully. "Hope she holds," he soliloquized. "The last time I got into one of these darned uppers she fell through with me and broke a man's leg in the berth below." Ollie got the lower.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT.

An interesting window exhibit is that of R. J. Widney at No. 555 South Spring street, where a clever demonstration is calling attention to the virtues of Merced county lands. This demonstrator, clad as a young western farmer, in boots and corduroys, stands in the midst of a portion of Merced county's prize-winning exhibit of 1911, loaned especially to Mr. Widney. Particular attention is called to the advantages of Grogan's Merced tracts, properties, for which Mr. Widney has the agency.

Beneficial.

TO RECLAIM A FERTILE TRACT.

INDIANS WORK ON ARIZONA IRRIGATION PROJECT.

Valley Around Parker Will Be Made a Paradise for the Farmer. Land is Adapted to the Growing of All Crops—Good Market Is Assured.

Work has begun on the Parker irrigation project to reclaim and irrigate a large body of land in one of the valleys of the Colorado River, in which the town of Parker is located.

Work on the ditches to be constructed in connection with the government pumping plant has just been started.

The main canal will be six miles in length, running north and south, with two laterals, one mile each, running east and west. The canals will be six and one-half feet across the bottom, twenty-two feet across the top and about four feet deep.

A large force of Indians have been employed on the work and the promoters estimate the ditches will be completed about May 15 at the latest. The machinery for the pumping plant is now on the ground and will be installed about April 1.

SOIL VERY FERTILE.

The land to be irrigated lies in a compact body on the east side of the Colorado River in Yuma county, Arizona. The soil is alluvial sandy loam with a luxuriant growth of willows, cottonwoods and some mesquite and ironwood trees. It is exceedingly fertile when watered and produces, when cleared and intelligently cultivated, fine crops of alfalfa, cotton, corn, milo-maize, sorghum and similar crops and will produce as many as eight crops of alfalfa in one year, or it will produce a crop of wheat or of barley, a crop of corn and a crop of beans, in the order named, all in the same year. Dates and melons will grow well.

Alfalfa on properly prepared ground, and irrigated at proper times, it is said, will yield ten tons to the acre each year and furnish some pasture in winter time. It does not die down during winter, as in some northerly climates, but is a perennial plant.

Cotton is now being raised near the lower end of this tract at Blythe, Cal., and yields over a bale to the acre. The cotton raised there yields a handsome profit, although it is hauled forty miles to a railroad.

MARKET FOR CROPS.

All the products of the temperate zone, and many of the products of the semi-tropical countries, can be raised there, and the land owners under this project will have the advantage of the experience gained at other places on the Colorado River bottom land, both in the matter of selection of suitable crops and the best methods of cultivation and irrigation.

This tract of land has a branch of the Santa Fe Railroad passing through it, and is known as the Parker cut-off. A ready market for all the products of this region can be found on the Pacific Coast. The town of Parker, situated on the railroad in the upper reservation, and a division point, is only ten hours' ride from Los Angeles. When the Panama Canal is completed it is likely that most of the products for export from this region will seek the Pacific outlet. The opening up of new mining enterprises in Arizona, in addition to those already existing, will afford a good local market for much of the dairy and poultry products.

CADE LEAVING POLITICS.

Republican National Committeeman From Oklahoma Announces That He Will Soon Retire.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Jan. 14.—Some Eastern Oklahoma Republicans are looking to the material of the East for a successor to Cash M. Cade of Shawnee as Republican national committeeman for Oklahoma. Cade has announced his intention of retiring from political life when the next State convention meets, which is to say that he will not be a candidate for re-election. Washington-county Republicans have painted on a new Republican banner the name of Col. George C. Priestly, a millionaire oil and gas operator of Bartlesville, as the logical successor of Cade. And they rely on the policies that Priestly learned in Pennsylvania and other eastern States to bring the Republicans of Oklahoma out of the turmoil that has characterised the organization for some time.

"I do not care to make any definite statement at this time," says Col. Priestly. "I have the matter under advisement, but I cannot say how soon I shall reach a decision. Republicans from all over the State have urged me to make the race, and I appreciate the compliment, but however much I might like to play the game, I cannot neglect my business in order to do it. That is one thing that is holding me back."

Exposition Park Square

"THE TRACT WITH SEVEN CAR LINES"

These transportation facilities alone add a value to the lots that make them worth considerably more than property on only one or two lines Car lines operate on three sides of the tract offering equal service to all. Exposition Park, the beautiful State, City and County park, lies just to the north of MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE. Already in this park have been erected several large buildings and more to follow in accordance with the plans.

Across Vermont Ave. from this tract is the Manual Arts High School, one of the most complete and representative institutions of learning on the Pacific Coast. In addition, just two blocks from MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE is the University of Southern California, the popularity and fame of which needs no mention.

All improvements high class. Wide streets, sidewalks and parkings. Protective restrictions. Cement walks now being laid.

Considering the manifold advantages of MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE, many investors ask us how we can make such extremely interesting prices and satisfactory terms. THE REASON: We want a quick sale and a successful sale. Undoubtedly, for the money asked, these big lots are the best buy in the popular Southwest district of the City.

You will be disappointed if you do not take advantage of this opportunity to have a beautiful as well as convenient home place. Agents, corner Santa Barbara and Vermont avenues.

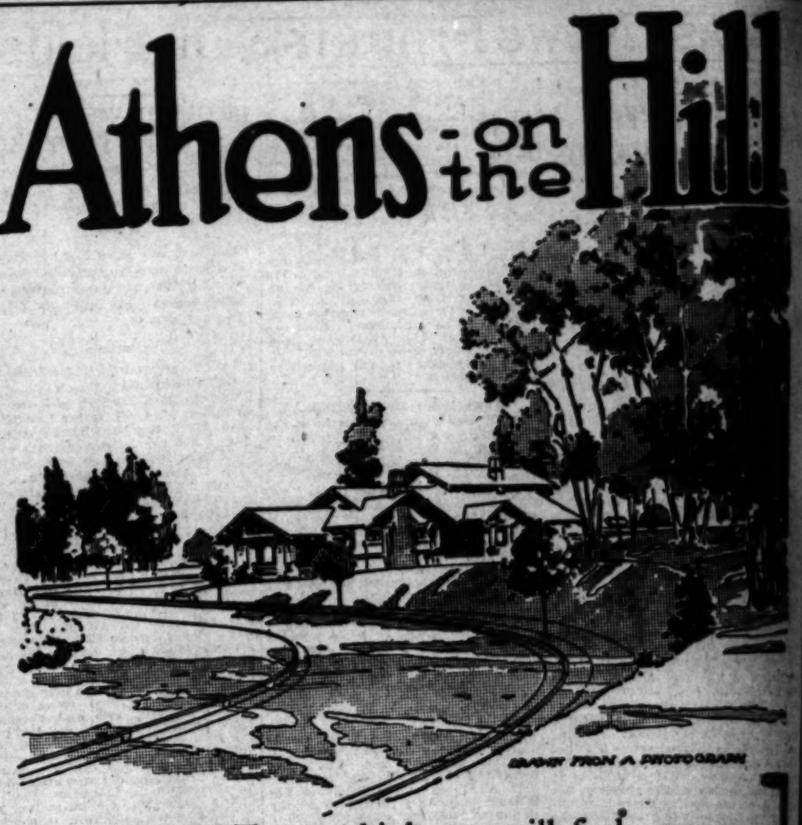
Athens-on-the-Hill



GRADY FROM A PHOTOGRAPH

DON'T you think you will find more value in a tract which has been created with the aim to have beauty and quality unexcelled. Invest in a tract where there has been some other thought in addition to the mere making of a profit on the sale of the lots.

The exceptional merit of Athens-on-the-Hill is becoming known to discerning investors. The roseate descriptions and the promises of improvements that are to be are no more an attraction to buyers. Practical and shrewd home seekers demand for their money actual value that is visible when they inspect the property. We invite critical inspection of Athens-on-the-Hill. We want you to enjoy a pleasant visit to this beauty spot and flower garden in the close-in Southwestern part of this city. Examine the improvements upon which we have spent during the last year alone $100,000. Observe all the fine attractive homes being erected where the natural beauty and contour of the land has been preserved. We feel that you will become an enthusiastic admirer of Athens-on-the-Hill and undoubtedly a purchaser of a lot in this wonderful tract in the "Path of Destiny."

Athens-on-the-Hill is on the Athens Cut-off line of the Pacific Electric leaving Sixth street station. Big, luxurious cars. You can make the trip in just 20 minutes. Compare that time with the 30 and 40-minute wearisome rides in order to reach tracts in other parts of the city where the lots are selling for double Athens-on-the-Hill prices. Two Yellow car lines also reach the tract.

Athens-on-the-Hill is on the celebrated Harbor Boulevard, Vermont Ave. and exclusive Figueroa street. All modern improvements. Wise restrictions rigidly enforced.

Big 50x182-foot lots, $500. Not key lots, but high and sightly and close to car lines. Street work all done.

Come to our office today. Open Sundays, 9:30 to 1:30. Get details. Cars leave every little while. You will enjoy the trip.

Guarantee 7% Income

on the treasury shares of the capital stock of CONSOLIDATED REALTY COMPANY; purchased from or through the undersigned at the office of the company.

The intrinsic value of the shares of CONSOLIDATED REALTY COMPANY, based upon present valuations, is $188, and inside of another year will be $200 a share or more—and hard to get at any figure.

Its assets and resources, the latter being the rents and proceeds from the sales of the remaining shares of treasury stock, will yield enough in a comparatively short time to pay off the entire debt of the company, leaving unincumbered, tangible and income producing assets of more than

$2,000,000.00

In addition, the increase in the value of the 305 feet of Hill street frontage in two (2) more years, will further add to the company's wealth. There will then be only the authorized 10,000 shares of stock to participate,—and this gives a worth to each share of

"$200 or More"

Accordingly the price will soon advance to $160 a share, and then a little later to $175, under the guarantee of 7% income as above stated, the terms remaining 10% down and $5 a share monthly, or cash.

Mining in the Great Southwest.

Northern California.

OASIS STRIKES AN OLD VEIN.

Many Active Operations at the Kenton Mine.

North Fork Company to Open an Ancient Channel.

Old Panamint Mine Bought by Al D. Myers.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

OPHIR CITY (Cal.) March 7.—The Kenton Mining and Milling Company of Los Angeles has intersected the Solomon vein in the Kenton mine in the Alleghany district. The vein shows a width of twelve feet and gold values showing throughout the entire face. Arrangements are being made to place a party of skilled miners at work and the development of the vein will be pressed with vigor. The milling plant is about to be overhauled and repaired and it is expected to have the stamps in action early in April.

The Kenton is one of the oldest properties in the Alleghany district and has yielded richly from both quartz and gravel deposits. About forty years ago the first work commenced and the early-day prospectors gained rich rewards from the surface ledges. Several times in subsequent years companies operated the estate, each meeting with good success. Finally Los Angeles people became interested and inaugurated vigorous development. Their ardor was temporarily checked last fall when the Solomon vein faulted, but prospecting was commenced from the new crosscut adit, expert prospectors are being engaged. The successful operation of their work means the opening of the Kenton along broad lines.

The discovery is considered of particular importance to the entire district, as it demonstrates the richness of the Alleghany veins to greater depth than established in the properties of the camp. If the water supply holds out, and the rains are prevailing favor this, the Kenton mill will probably be operated regularly during the present year.

NORTH FORK GRAVEL.
OPENING OLD CHANNEL.

The North Fork Mining Company is preparing to extensively open the ancient channel in its property, Forest district. The incline adit has been driven 1040 feet and a 700-foot drift started from this point. The channel is showing excellent values and mining from a central gangway will commence as soon as the preliminary work can be completed. The deposit is considered a branch of the famous Bald Mountain channel, and has been sought for nearly three decades.

The North Fork is equipped with new pumps and hoist and everything has been placed in shape for active work. The unusually favorable mining conditions facilitated rapid progress and developments progressed with greater rapidity than originally planned. The company, composed of Los Angeles, Oakland and Southern California people, has expended fully $100,000 in the rehabilitation of the property.

The demonstration of the channel is said to have excellent effect on the other companies operating in the district, including the Rio Antrim Company of Los Angeles. This company has expended approximately $50,000 in the search for the northern extension of the Bald Mountain channel, the work occupying several years. At times good bunches of pay have been encountered but the main deposit constantly eluded search. The intersection of the channel by the North Fork people would pave the way for successful operations on the part of the Rio Antrim people, and it is understood the latter company is working toward that end. The North Fork company controls the Forest Queen claim, and is driving upon it from the recently completed tunnel of G. Shenk, attorney of Los Angeles and president of the Rio Antrim.

Rewards Making Good.

The Rewards Mining Company, operating in Ladies Canyon, has completed its mill and cyanide plant in that district. A good tonnage of excellent ore is being handled, the cyanide plant recovering approximately 90 per cent. of values carried by tailings from the plates. The main vein is receiving vigorous development and ore bodies are continuing as depth is attained. The company recently completed a mile of flumes to convey tailings from the mill and cyanide plant to a point where there would be no danger of contaminating the water supply. F. O. Richardson is manager.

After Red Bird Mine.

Edmund Hour, of the La Paz Mining Company, operating near Yuma, and H. York of Los Angeles, representing the Ingersoll-Rand Drill Company, recently inspected the Red Bird mine, about six miles from Colorado, the famous Forest Hill district. It is reported a deal is pending for the transfer of the property to the company of Angeleno capitalists. It is probable a bond and option will be taken, and a purchase later, if results prove satisfactory. Considerable development work has been done by George Tubbs, the owner, and a strong ore body ranging from six inches to seven feet wide is developed. While much of the quartz is low grade, some of the material assays $50 per ton. Several shoot adits have been driven on the deposit and conditions are favorable for the making of a good mine.

Tightner Opens Rich Quartz.

The Tightner Mining Company has encountered a ten-foot vein in the drift being run from the Tightner adit to the Red Bird workings. The vein has been cut with the dip of vein about 60 feet. The strike was made 60 feet north of where the Solomon bananza shoot was encountered, and from which H. Tightner extracted approximately $50,000 in the course of a few months. In securing the Tightner property he has accomplished the lower workings have been cut sections of virgin estate and that ore reserves largely augmented. A conservative estimate places the value of the developed ore reserves at $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, with developments constantly augmenting the proven ore zone. The 10-stamp mill is operating at full capacity and it is understood the capacity of the plant will be at least doubled before the year closes. Abe Hall, formerly with the North Star Mines Company, is manager.

Siskiyou Syndicate Active.

The Siskiyou Syndicate has constructed several miles of flumes and ditches at the Menette B. mine, near Yreka, and opened a large quantity of good-grade gravel. In addition to the gold values considerable platinum is found, and the company anticipates a prosperous season. The reservoirs are nearly full and sluicing will soon be in full blast. The mine has lain practically idle several years, owing principally to lack of finances for equipment.

Myers Buys Panamint.

After holding the property under bond for nine months, Al D. Myers, the Los Angeles mining man, has purchased the Panamint mine, near the foot of Telescope peak, Inyo county. It is reported the consideration was large, but no figures have been given out. The Panamint in early days was a noted silver producer, the mine having a credited yield of $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. Closed down in 1893, owing to the fall in silver, the famous old property has since lain idle. It is understood Myers has made arrangements to operate the property on a large scale.

Plumas Copper Fields.

The Engele Copper Company has practically completed its smelter at Taylorsville, and production will start this summer. The company has developed a large preserve of high-grade copper ore and expects to rank among the most profitable red metal enterprises in California. A number of other companies, some controlled by eastern and Southern California capitalists, are active in the Plumas copper districts, encouraged by the development of high-grade copper ore carrying good gold contents. The transportation question has been largely solved and strong interests are planning the installation of small smelting plants. In the meantime shipments will be made to custom smelters.

Chloride Terminal of the Santa Fe to Be Extended to the Tennessee Mine—Changes Being Made to the Mill Equipment of the Gold Road—Other Mining News.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) March 8.—Surveys have been completed by Santa Fe railroad engineers for the extension of the present Chloride terminal, about a mile below town, up to the Tennessee mine and as soon as several details of the right of way across the Silver Hill properties can be arranged construction will begin. Manager D. R. Muir of the Needles Mining and Smelting Company operating the Tennessee, is straightening the right of way tangle himself and doing everything possible to expedite the work. The proposed construction, which includes the moving of station and yards into the town, will be of great benefit to practically every mine in the town by either entirely eliminating wagon haul or greatly reducing it.

The Tennessee, probably the biggest producer of the district, is looking very good and its ore shoot on the 700 north is the longest in its history.

The Rainbow has practically completed a three mile aerial tramway and will begin shipping as soon as the new railroad spur reaches its bins.

The Alpha Mine near the Goiconda is shipping a sample lot of 500 tons of concentrating ore to be milled at the Needles plant.

The Gold Road mill is adding to and changing its equipment without interruption to the routine work of reduction. Chilean mills have been discarded entirely as requiring too much power and another tube mill is to be installed. Grading for this has already been finished and foundations are now being set up. The slime plant by the addition of several big steel tanks and one large wooden one will be changed so that the Pachuca tanks will be in constant instead of intermittent use, insuring in this way not only a larger capacity but by better agitation a higher percentage of extraction. New feeders, classifiers and other changes now in the course of construction will raise the capacity of the mill from to 240 to 300 tons per day. Development in the mine is progressing steadily and with good results, the east 500-foot level in particular showing up well with an average of $20 ore across the drift. The 700 foot stopes are being opened up. The Gold Road Company has just fitted up a reading and recreation hall for its employees and built a half dozen new cottages. Every move made so far by the Gold Road Company since its entrance into the district last July has spelled good faith in the gold district of the county and a permanance of operations.

The Cottonwood district, about nine miles from Hackberry, is beginning to attract the attention of copper mining men, one of whom, William Nagle, ore buyer for W. A. Clark's Jerome smelter, has been sampling prospects for several weeks.

J. T. Hooper, representing New York men, is sampling the property of John C. Lane, while Ralph Cameron, Arizona's last delegate to Congress, has just bonded the Copper Giant, owned by Lane and Ridenour.

DRUGGIST BUYS KNOLL.

A fine knoll at Ramona Acres has been purchased by E. J. Uller, a retired wholesale druggist from Chicago, who will improve the site with an attractive country home. Other sales in the same tract are reported as follows by Fabling & Hannigan, sales agents, with the Janss Investment Company; Antoinette M. Hagen, one acre, $1100; Mary Ada Snedecer and Clarence W. Fletcher, one acre, $1250; Mrs. James J. Britt, one acre, $1100; William and Frieda Denison, two acres, $2200; E. H. GOOD TIDINGS FOR GOLDFIELD.

GEORGE WINGFIELD BANQUETS MEN OF BUSINESS.

President of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company Tells of New Work that Will Help to Rejuvenate the Old Camp—Activity on the Blue Bull.

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) March 8.—The arrival of George Wingfield in camp is the harbinger of good tidings for the district and there was no change in the programme this week when the young millionaire appeared at headquarters of the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company. His arrival was heralded by an invitation to the Commercial Association and all business men who had previously banqueted Wingfield to become his guests Friday evening.

This dinner was planned on the most lavish scale, the appointments and cuisine being of the most elegant character consistent with the standing of the host. The big business of the evening was the announcement that work would begin on the Booth and Blue Bull properties, both of which are controlled by Wingfield and that no time would be lost or money spared to test the underground values in the district where these claims are located. Orders have already been placed for the installation of two high power electric hoists with capacity for going to depths which means nothing short of 1000 or 1200 feet.

The news came as a timely surprise to those who have always contended the Consolidated has exclusive title to all ores in this district and that Mr. Wingfield was selfishly interested in tying up outside claims. At the banquet tendered him by citizens in November, 1911, the pledge was made to the people of the camp that extensive operations would begin as soon as certain other matters could be adjusted. The news was received with some incredulity at the time and as months passed with only operations on the Sandstorm Kendall, which is another Wingfield property, skeptics pointed to this fact as conclusive evidence that nothing of material assistance would be done. However, work has been sustained without loss of a single shift, on the Sandstorm where there is every indication at present of its soon growing into an active producer.

Equipment for the Blue Bull and Booth is at hand and there will be little delay in placing it to carry out promises of the chief owner. Electric power lines are to be extended to the two properties without delay and both will be operated in a manner calculated to demonstrate their value and possibilities and will be of inestimable benefit to the entire district in further establishing the extent or the limits of the ore bearing area.

BLUE BULL COMPANY.

The Blue Bull Company owns a group of eight claims adjoining the C.O.D. and Goldfield Merger Mines Company, on the east and bounded on other points by the Simmerone and Commonwealth properties and the Red Boy claim of the Consolidated It was among the earliest locations of the Goldfield district through the efforts of the Ramsey brothers, Con Crook and Harry Morris. A large amount of development work has been done, chiefly by leasers in the way of surface prospecting and there has not been any deep development. The company sank two shafts on or near the Blue Bull claim. From a shaft that was sunk near the boundary of the Commonwealth, on the eastern part of the property, ore worth $80 per ton was extracted and shipped while another small body of ore was opened in lease workings on the Hat claim, but the ore shoot was lost by reason of the faulted condition above the 100-foot level of the lease workings. The claims of the Blue Bull company are traversed by a number of small dikes which crop boldly on the surface and indicate a less degree of fault disturbance than further north in the district. Mining men and engineers declare this territory offers some of the best opportunities for development to be found in the entire district and this belief has been shared by Mr. Wingfield and his associates in the control of the property.

A considerable amount of work has been performed on the Booth and low grade milling ore has been developed at various points but the ore is spotted on the upper levels and the belief is universal that the work has not attained sufficient depth to gain best results. This priperty, consisting of one claim and a fraction was first located by W. W. Booth, now of Tonopah, and the company did some work in the early days of the camp but the work was ill-advised in character and the operators lacked the geological knowledge of the district that has been obtained through work on the adjacent ground. The Booth is adjoined by claims of the Columbia Mountain, Nighthawk, Goldfield Cross and the Consolidated Mines Company, the Red Top vein of the latter company being one of the most prolific lodes known in any country. This has a trend directly toward the Booth. Some seams of excellent ore have been cut at a depth of 150 feet near the boundary line of the Red Top on the Booth, but the broken formation indicates that only with depth will substantial bodies of pay ore be found.

Lessees have performed a considerable amount of development on the Booth, chiefly on the 250 and 350-foot levels from the 400-foot company shaft on the south side of Columbia Mountain and experts regard the vein at this point to be one of excellent promise but are as one in the belief that greater depth must be attained to find paying deposits of ore. This territory embraces what has been known as one of the most puzzling geological problems of the district for the fact that it covers a large part of the great Columbia Mountain fault, but the work performed has served to solve the problem as far as it relates to or affects a major portion of this ground and the sinking of a deep shaft must, of necessity, be a long step toward solving the mystery.

PRESCOTT MINES.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) March 8.—The affairs of the Ideal Mining and Development Company have been closed out finally by bankruptcy proceedings, terminating in sale of the property by the Sheriff to a group of eastern capitalists locally represented by T. G. Norris. The property includes the well-known Gladstone and McCabe mines, upon which hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in development work and in the installation of surface machinery, and which have been heavy producers of the precious metals in the past. New money is to be provided at once and the mines are to be worked on a business basis, the investors favored by the relatively low price for which the property has been secured.

Another famous property just cleared of litigation is the Storm Cloud, on the Hassayampa River, south of Prescott, on which claims in heavy amount have been satisfied. The mine is to pass into the hands of M. J. Bryan of Ottawa, Canada, who is now in Prescott preparing for resumption of work at the camp. He is accompanied by J. B. Woodworth, an Ottawa mining engineer, with whom he has been conducting an exhaustive examination of the underground workings. The Storm Cloud was owned by H. J. Beemer, who for a while was a meteoric character in the Southwest. He purchased a large area of gold-bearing cement-gravel beds near Quartzsite, in Northern Yuma county and sent to Congress Junction a steam-traction train to handle the freight across the plains. But the mines were left in their original condition and the tram train never was used. Another investment that gave no return was in the Pianet-Saturn property in Fools' Gulch in Southern Yavapai county.

A complete Denver quartz mill is being shipped to the property of the Tip Top-Heath Mining Company in the Bradshaw Mountains. The plant is a novel one, most of the crushing being done with rolls, and with especial attention paid to the concentrating devices in order that there may be saved the tungsten and silver that are present in the ore in large percentages.

W. J. Aurelius of Springfield, Ill., has been named as trustee of the property of the Tiger Gold Company. Bonds to the amount of $500,000 have been issued and the proceeds are to be used in the development and equipment of the mine, which contains an immense body of low-grade ore, bearing silver and gold. The mine is one of the oldest in this county, but never has been worked upon a proper scale to insure profit.

A twenty-inch vein of black oxide has been developed for about twenty-five feet of length at the depth of 250 feet in the main shaft of the Yavapai Metals Company near Humboldt. The strike samples 18 per cent. copper. The company will proceed at once to stope the ore and ship to a smelter, making further development work pay for itself.

Plans of extensive development work have been made for the Binghampton mine, on the Agua Fria near Mayer, a property managed by Isaac T. Stoddard of Phoenix. Sinking will be prosecuted from a new shaft, decided upon as better located with respect to the main body of copper already well outlined.

Teams have been sent to Copper Basin for the handling of large shipments of oxide ore from the property of the Commercial Mining Company. On one dump is over 100 tons of ore, said to average better than 40 per cent. copper, secured in the sinking of a six-foot winze. The ore goes to the Copper Queen works at Douglas.

Detroit capitalists, represented by Hugh R. Burns, have purchased of Mrs. Anna Vanderbilt her half interest in the old Del Pasco mine in the Bradshaw Mountains. The remaining half interest is owned by J. W. and Lester Jackson of Prescott. The mine lies only a short distance from the Crown King property and is almost equally famed for the richness of its sulphuretic gold ores. A permanent plan of improvement has been determined upon and extensive work will be started this month.

Complaint is being made at Chloride that railroad cars are not being furnished in sufficient number to accommodate the demands made by ore shippers.

In Secret Pass, Mojave county, A. M. Boyd has found a four-foot vein which samples on the surface $20 to the ton in gold of remarkable coarseness.

BOWSER'S FAIRY TALE.

It is Started, Never to be Finished.

BY M. QUAD.

Mr. Bowser was bothered. He wasn't grumpy, but bothered. He was nervous and fidgety. Now and then he seemed to look into the dim distance to try and discover when the price of butter would drop back to the dear old price of 30 cents a pound and all the cold storage men hang themselves for grief. Mrs. Bowser wasn't bothered. On the contrary, she was placid and content. She even hummed a soothing air as she sat and watched Mr. Bowser wriggle around and heard his sighs. Time brings all things to our feet, and she knew that in time he would get through wriggling and begin to talk.

Mrs. Bowser was right, as usual. Mr. Bowser finally passed a pallid hand across his pallid brow, and a voice started at his lower vest button until it worked up to say:

"Mrs. Bowser, I am invited to write a fairy story for the 'Children's Fairy Story Magazine.'"

"That's nice," she replied.

"I am one of 20 prominent authors selected to send in a story."

"You ought to be proud of the fact."

"Y-e-s, I am."

"Writing fairy stories is right in your line. Have you dashed off anything yet?"

"Not exactly. It's right in my line, as you say, but for some reason I find it rather difficult to start. I have tried several times today, but I don't quite grasp the subject."

"Perhaps your stomach is out of order. They say that when John D. Rockefeller's stomach goes back on him he can't do as much literary work as to sign a receipt for a million dollar dividend. His hired girl has to do it for him by making her X mark."

"I thought you might give me a hint," said Mr. Bowser in what he thought was a careless tone. "You are not literary, but an outsider sometimes grasps an idea."

"I think I've heard they did. What have you written thus far?"

"Only a few lines. I say that there was once a poor old woman living in a forest, and all she had to eat was raw corn-meal. She shivered all winter and was all het up all summer. Every night the wolves came and howled at her door, and—and—"

"And itched to get in and get her and her corn-meal, of course. You have a great plot there, and the situation is certainly thrilling."

"I am glad to hear you say so, but you see, I don't seem to get on from that point. What would you do with an old woman in such a fix?"

"U-m-m-m! She must live on corn-meal?"

"She must."

"Can't she have turnips with it?"

"Mrs. Bowser, I want to excite the sympathies of my young readers at once. It might be better if the old woman had to subsist on the old rubber rollers taken from clothes-wringers."

"That's an orginal idea. Yes, change it from corn-meal to wringer rubbers. Is the old woman to be toothless?"

"What has that to do with it?" asked Mr. Bowser, seeming to be a little suspicious all at once.

"If she can't bite chunks out of the rubber then she must have a horse-raddish grater handy by. Your readers will think of that at once. We'll say that she's toothless, and that she has to grate her food. What kind of a bed do you give her?"

"One of rags, of course."

"That's right. That touches a sympathetic chord at once. Beds of straw are played out in fairy stories. Does she weep when she remembers that she was once the leading lady in the play of 'Shamrock?'"

"I hadn't said what she once was."

"Then that's a point overlooked. She must have once owned an auto, worn a fur coat and dined at Sherry's as a steady thing. There's got to be a come-down, you know, and the longer the drop the more sympathy. Yes, have her weep as if her old heart was breaking. Her feet will be frost-bitten, won't they?"

"I hadn't decided."

"You should have them frost-bitten, by all means, Mr. Bowser. It would be as well to say that she had lost all the toes on both feet except the big ones. She has to gather her own fuel in the forest, of course?"

"And she has to crawl on hands and knees to do it. Therefore, you must describe the great callouses on her knees. Were you going to have a bible in the hut?"

No answer.

"You had best have one. The poor old woman will want to read when she isn't weeping, and if you don't mention what she reads the children may think it is 'The Sewing Machine Girl' by Bertha Clay. The little folks are very curious about these things. Had you thought of it?"

Mr. Bowser had been flushing from red to white and back, and from the way his ears worked back and forth it was easy to tell that he was agitated. However, Mrs. Bowser went right on with:

"There must be times when an old woman like her has dreams—dreams of the days when she sauntered into the best eating joint on the Great White Way and ordered her lobster and champagne as carelessly as you order six pork chops for breakfast. She may dream of the foot-lights and curtain calls—of harps and angels. Are you going to work in a dream, Mr. Bowser?"

"See here, but I don't like the way you talk!" he exclaimed at last.

"You don't? Why, I'm trying to help you out. I'm not literary, but I have ideas."

"But I don't want 'em. You are flippant and sarcastic, Mrs. Bowser."

"Am I indeed. I don't mean to be. I mean to bring the old woman out all right in the end. You see, the fairy has not been introduced yet. It's the fairy that turns the trick."

"But how?"

"There are various ways, but if I was literary and writing the story I'd have the old woman lie awake all night some night, shivering and shaking and weeping. I'd have her tears freeze as they fell, until there were icicles a foot long hanging to her eyes. On this particular night there should be an extra number of wolves to howl, and it should be extra cold to bring more frost-bites. You are approaching the grand climax, you see."

Mr. Bowser didn't say whether he saw or not.

"When morning comes the old woman must get out after fuel to make herself some wringer rubber soup. The snow is five feet deep, but on hands and knees she crawls through it to the foot of a weeping willow tree. There she can go no further. There she cries aloud:

"'Help! Help! Will no one save me?'"

"Yes she cries that way, Mr. Bowser, and to her amazement a fairy on snow shoes and the end of her nose red with the cold, makes answer:

"'Yes, Lulu Bannister, I will save you! I am in the life-saving business anyhow, and old women are included.'"

"Then, Mr. Bowser, the fairy stoops and picks Lulu up in her arms and bears her—!"

"Mrs. Bowser, stop it!" shouted Mr. Bowser.

"But Lulu is picked up and borne—"

"I don't care a durn!"

"And all her tears and frost-bites and eating wringer-rollersare —"

But Mr. Bowser was down the hall putting on hat and overcoat, and a few seconds later the door slammed to behind him. He made for the family drug store, but halted outside the door. The druggist saw him through the glass and came out to ask:

"Anything you wanted, Bowser?"

"N-o-o."

"Just out for fresh air, eh? Well, they say you don't make an ass of yourself oftener than once a week nowadays, and I want to congratulate you!"

Revenue from Interest is in Excess of Dividend Disbursements

(28)

CONSIDER very carefully how a company pays its dividends before you invest. Compare it to "Home Builders" record. Last year the revenue from interest alone was $83,076.29, while the four cash dividends paid, amounted to $75,846.43, leaving a balance of $7,229.86, to go with the other balance of net profits which was added to the surplus fund.

Here's what it means—"Home Builders" could stop building houses, stop selling stock, "draw in its horns" so to speak, and its interest on the more than a million dollars invested in deeds, mortgages, contracts, stocks and bonds would keep right on paying the present 17% cash dividend (on par) to every one of its stockholders.

You cannot place a higher standard upon an institution than this. It refutes every contrary argument you can conjure up against investment in these shares.

"Home Builders" is going right along the same conservative, safe and sane course to much greater size and influence. Its field is large. Its opportunities are many, but, whether it be a great big institution or not, it will be sound and that is the most important thing for you to require when you invest.

Shares $2.55 During March

WHAT enables "Home Builders" to make this magnificently sound showing? Simply this, right management. Keeping on the right side of the ledger. Placing the stockholders' funds into creditor securities as the source of profit. Earning interest. Counting its chickens after they are hatched.

The closer you study "Home Builders" way of investing your money the more you will say with us, that it is the most rational way in the money-making world to grow—that it is the surest; therefore, it is the safest.

The fundamental principle of investment is security—earning power is secondary. In "Home Builders" stock you find both safety and earning. If it must be a choice at any time, the safe side is taken.

"Home Builders" management demonstrates this firm belief. Just get a list of the fifteen directors and you'll see why "Home Builders" is safe.

EL SEGUNDO Breaks All Records

On August 1st 1911	On March 1st 1912 7 Months Later
"El Segundo Was Only a Cornfield"	El Segundo's improvements included: The completion of the first unit of the Standard Oil refinery, employing hundreds of men. The completion of the mammoth reservoir, with capacity sufficient to supply the needs of a city of 10,000 population. The completion of the new railroad. The completion of 25 business houses and 70 dwellings. The opening of a postoffice and bank. The incoming of a large number of families, giving El Segundo already a population of many hundreds.

The Wheels Go 'Round at El Segundo

Where there's industrial and building activity you should invest your money. There's no profit in a town which stands still.

At the opening of El Segundo in August, 1911, reports stated that the mammoth Standard Oil Refinery would be completed about March 1, 1912. It was completed and operating several months prior to that date.

In August, 1911, it was predicted El Segundo would have substantial business houses and dwellings. It now has these and in a greater number than anticipated. In August, 1911, the building of the new railroad was promised; while the delivery of material slightly delayed the construction; the railroad is now completed and the first train ran over the tracks February 22, Washington's birthday.

El Segundo's improvements are going in as specified and as fast as facilities permit and in no instance has a promised feature been omitted. El Segundo "The City That Must Be Built" is "making good."

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Mystery Gold.

PASADENA, Feb. 10.—Q.: Will you give me the information asked for in the following questions: (1) Is there a false gold that will resist the acid test? (2) How would I proceed to get "fine" gold? (3) What is "Purple of Cassius?" (4) What is "Jeweler's Gold?" (5) How do you make "Perchloride of Gold?" (6) How is "Mosaic Gold" obtained? If you will give me the information asked for it will be of benefit to me as I am an amateur in decorative art.

MISS A. L.

A.: (1) There is a false-gold that resists the single acid test; it is known as "Mystery Gold" and is composed of an alloy of one part platinum, two parts copper, with one-fifth of a part silver. This alloy resists the action of strong nitric acid, but if it is subjected to the action of aqua regia (one part nitric acid mixed with two parts of hydrochloric acid) and boiling the mixture; then, when the solution is cold, add aqueous ammonia as reagent to the solution, the solution will turn blue, thus proving copper present. (2) To a solution of a salt of gold (gold chloride) add ferrous sulphate (ordinary copperas, selected green pieces, dissolved in distilled water) solution, set the whole aside for some hours; metallic gold is precipitated, and a ferric salt remains in solution. (3) Add a few drops of dilute solutions of stannic and stannous chlorides (tin crystals) to a pint of distilled water; stir the mixed liquid, a small quantity at a time, into a very dilute solution of gold chloride (auric chloride) and thoroughly stir the mixed solution. The solution soon turns purple and "Purple of Cassius" is precipitated. (4) "Jeweler's Gold" varies in quality, every twenty-four parts containing 18, 15, 12, or 9 parts of gold, the alloy being technically termed 18, 15, 12, or 9 carat fine. (5) Take 3 grains (by weight) of gold leaf, dissolve the gold in aqua regia, set the resultant acid solution aside in a clean glass (glass container) when the metal dissolves, solution of perchloride of gold (auric chloride) is formed. Evaporate the solution nearly to dryness to remove nearly all of the excess of fluid, then dilute the remaining substance with two and one-half ounces of distilled water, and you have "solution of perchloride of gold." (6) The anhydrous stannic chloride is subjected to sublimation; the resultant sublimate is of a yellow, orange or yellowish color, and is known as "bronzing powder," or "Mosaic Gold."

Nickel Present.

EXLEY (Or.) Feb. 10.—Q.: Will you tell me what this letter one of the packages with three samples of ore is? and marked 1, 2, and 3. Sample No. 1 is from my claim on Grant Mountain, and comes from a vein about 18 inches wide, and from the depth of 500 feet. No. 2, is from a vein in creek near there, and about 30 feet wide. No. 3, is from another creek near there, and in an old tunnel about 25 feet from surface and find it is eight feet wide. I have shown No. 2 to lots of mining men, but none of them seems to know what it is. What are these ores? What is the commercial value of them?

A. W. B.

A.: Pretty deep claim 500 feet! No. 1 is a mixed serpentine with copper minerals present. No. 2 is a sulphide ore that will concentrate, as it carries pyrrhotite, arsenopyrite, chalcopyrite, and pentlandite (magnetic pyrite.) In the pyrrhotite and arsenopyrite nickel is present in very low percentage. No. 3 is a "schistanalide" with graphite, talc (black mica,) titaniferous iron, and micaceous iron (hematite) ores. Unless ores represented by samples will assay gold or platinum, commercial values are problematical.

Gypsum.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10.—Q.: This sample was taken from a locality in Riverside county. Is it a borax mine?

L. C. H.

Chalky Carbonates.

BLUEBIRD (Nev.) Feb. 10.—Q.: Will you kindly tell me whether the enclosed sample contains any valuable metal or what it contains?

T. B.

A.: We will please send to this office a solid chunk of the mineral for further analysis, slides, etc.

Fuller's Earth.

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 10.—Q.: I send herewith sample for analysis of this sample. It has been reported upon as sheelite, but is diatomaceous earth, and what is it?

F. P. S.

Oxides and Feldspar.

CARDORA, Feb. 11.—Q.: Samples are from the hills about nine miles from Glendora. Kindly give results through The Times. Am more interested about the iron sample.

G. D. H.

A.: The mixed iron and quartz carries traces of copper and manganese, the brownish-red oxide (resembling copper) is iron oxide also. The white sample is feldspar.

Willemanite.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Q.: Kindly tell me what is known as the Franklin section of the New York district. It was taken from a ledge about 3 inches wide and running parallel with a vein of quartz. Is the sample of zinc or other titaniferous ore?

"MINER."

Rhodonite and Augite.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—Q.: Ore from Mojave desert. No. 1 is gray and No. 2 is black. Have either any commercial value? What is the value in them?

J. M. C.

A.: The gray-green rock is altered augite. The blackish sample is partly altered with uniaxial micas. No value of commercial value.

Fertilizers.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—Q.: Please analyze the enclosed specimens and let me know their value for fertilizing uses. Nitrates, phosphates, etc. There are six samples, numbered 1 to 6. Please give the values of each.

W. F.

A.: A comprehensive analysis on each sample is beyond the scope of the question. No. 1, gypsum. No. 2, fossiliferous limestone. No. 3, fossiliferous limestone. No. 4, magnesium silicate present with 1 per cent. phosphoric acid. No. 5, gypsum. No. 6, fossiliferous limestone with 1 per cent. phosphoric acid low per ton. Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, oxides and gypsum present

AERODYNAMIC LABORATORY.

AVIATORS WANT ONE ESTABLISHED IN WASHINGTON.

Could Draw from the Funds of the Smithsonian Institution and Would Promote the Study of Aeronautics and the Accumulation of Information Regarding Aerial Conditions.

[Washington Star:] One of the most important results expected from the meeting here of the American Association for the Advancement of Science is the probable establishment in the United States of an aerodynamic laboratory to further the development of human flight in the air. This especial interest is in the hands of the division of mechanical science and engineering. The chief interest, however, centers in the establishment of the research laboratory mentioned and the prospect that it will be in Washington.

The particular paper before the section that will deal with the need of a laboratory is by Dr. Albert F. Zahm, secretary of the Washington Aero Club. According to present arrangements this will be followed by a resolution addressed to the Aero Club of America, pointing out the advantages of such a laboratory and asking the support and co-operation of the club in the movement. This resolution will be presented by Prof. Lawrence Rotch of the Blue Hill Observatory, Prof. Willis Moore, Chief of the Weather Bureau, and Capt. W. I. Chambers of the navy, or some other scientist interested in the subject.

There are two or three possible locations for the laboratory, but the general opinion among aviators is that it will be located under the direction of the Smithsonian Institution. The United States is the only first-class power still without such a laboratory.

Numerous arguments have been advanced by those interested for having the work undertaken directly by the government. It has been pointed out that the Bureau of Standards is well situated to handle such a work. One objection that has been raised, however, is that the bureau has never made any move toward instituting research on this line, and in case it did undertake the work it would be necessary to have it wholly supported by government funds, as the bureau could not be the custodian of a private endowment.

On the other hand, while the Smithsonian Institution is practically a national concern and handles the bulk of the scientific work of the government, it can and does handle private funds, and has the whole organization for such a laboratory already at hand. It has the international prestige of being the scene of Prof. Langley's pioneer work in mechanical flight. It has the administrative machinery all ready, good shops, an aeronautical library and some scientists already familiar with the subject. These are things that a new institution would have to accumulate, and that would represent a large initial investment of capital.

In addition, the Smithsonian already has a large amount of money in the form of the Hodgkins fund that could be drawn on at need. This endowment, while not made specifically to aid aeronautical research, was left for the general investigation of the atmosphere, without any narrow restriction. It has been used heretofore for all sorts of atmospheric investigations, from researches as to the form of insects' wings to the ventilation of homes for consumptives. It is therefore considered that the endowment could be legitimately used at any time in aiding aeronautical research.

All of the big aerodynamic laboratories abroad are under the direction of men of international reputation in scientific work, and all of them are operated either under the direction of the government or in connection with some of the big universities.

The laboratory in France is connected with the University of Paris. M. Basil Zaharon originally gave $40,000 to found a chair of aeronautics there. He was followed by Henri Deutsch, the millionaire sportsman, who gave the university the equipped laboratory of aerodynamic research at Saint-Cyr. This laboratory was founded at a cost of $100,000 and was endowed with an income of $2000.

The director of this institute is M. Maurain. He is a doctor of science and formerly a member of the scientific faculty at Caen. He has associated with him in the aerodynamic work, some of the best scientists of France and representatives of the Aero Club of France, so that the work is national in character, though the management is in private hands.

In Germany there is a similarly established laboratory at the University of Gottingen, with an income of $7000 a year, which is equal to about twice the amount in this country.

There is a well equipped and adequately endowed laboratory at Krutshino, near Moscow. It has an annual income of $18,000 and is intimately co-ordinated with the University of Moscow.

In England there is a similar laboratory under the direction of the National Physical Laboratory of Great Britain.

Those interested in the development of aviation in this country are anxious to have the United States equally well represented in aeronautic research work. They argue that the time is opportune. The cream has been skimmed from the exhibition business by the few men who were first in the air, and the work is now settling down to a business basis, where there is need for all the aeronautical information that can be accumulated.

It is not known whether such a fund as is contemplated will be given in the shape of an individual donation or whether it will have to be raised by popular subscription, but those interested in the work in connection with the Association for the Advancement of Science have decided that they will "start something" and get the value of such an institution impressed on the people of the United States.

SECOND FIDDLE.

BY NELLIE CRAVEY GILLMORE.

There was a slightly fictitious note in the daughter's voice as she remarked with a yawn, "You go down tonight, mother, and talk to the judge. I'm tired."

Mrs. Metcalf turned from the mirror and regarded her daughter's distinctly visible on her youthful, comely face. "I must say you're the queerest specimen of a girl I ever saw, Katherine. The judge is one of the finest looking men in New York. He is brainy, prominent, rich—and foolishly in love."

From her luxurious stronghold among the sofa cushions, Katherine stifled a yawn. "Yes," she assented meditatively, "Indeed I believe that is all quite true." She watched her mother with drowsy interest as she brushed out the heavy masses of shining gold hair and looped them into an artistic knot low on her neck. She noted the soft, throbbing color in her cheeks and marveled at the brilliant clarity of the wide gray eyes—the roundness of the firm white throat. What a lovely creature she was, to be sure, in that low cut, black velvet gown!

"And what excuse am I to make to Judge Gresham this time?" she inquired stiffly, turning with a little brisk movement from the mirror.

"I'm ill, dearie. You know I am. Think of motoring from nine till one, lunching—golfing till dusk—"

"All with that impossible Jack Baker."

"Ah! the door bell now, mother. Run along and don't keep his judgeship waiting."

With a slightly heightened color in her cheeks, Mrs. Metcalf passed through the door and closed it quietly behind her. And presently Katherine heard the sound of their voices in the library below; her mother's musical treble mingling with the judge's throaty bass. She crossed her arms behind her head with a deep sigh. All at once she began to hum softly a little love song. She leaned back on the pillows and closed her eyes.

Two hours later, Mrs. Metcalf came up and found her daughter peacefully asleep. She half-roused at the sound of soft footsteps about the room and muttered lazily: "Dear me, Muzzie, is it midnight? You must have found the judge enormously entertaining."

"I wonder, Kitty, if you're going to come to your senses and quit dawdling?"

"Give me time, please; I'm only twenty. But what do you mean?"

"Why simply that if you're going to marry Judge Gresham you ought to do it and stop your nonsense," was the crisp retort.

"But he hasn't asked me."

"You won't give him a chance."

"Half a man would make one—if he wanted it," she replied significantly.

"But let's go to bed and get some beauty sleep; I've an engagement at seven to go sailing."

"With that Baker?"

Katherine nodded as she slipped into bed. Mrs. Metcalf smothered a sigh and the fingers that unfastened her bodice trembled. The clock was striking twelve when she turned out the light. When she awakened the following morning Katherine was gone and the room was in a frenzy of disorder. She dressed herself quickly but with painstaking care. Every little while, straightening things up, she stopped to think. There was a distinctly troubled look in her eyes.

At ten o'clock Katherine had not returned and in despair Mrs. Metcalf decided to read the judge's note and see if it required an answer.

"Dear Miss Kitty:

"I want to take you to drive behind a new pair of grays, if I may. I shall appreciate it very much if you will let me have your answer at once.

"Cordially,

"B. R. GRESHAM.

"P. S.—If Mrs. Metcalf would care for the drive, you might ask her to come with us. B. R. G."

The blood flamed hotly in the little mother's face. She wouldn't go—she wouldn't! It was all her daughter's doing—this bringing her into all their arrangements—making her play "second fiddle" and thus defeating the amiable gentleman's obvious intentions—and arousing his secret disgust! With the color still beating high in her cheeks she sat down at her desk and wrote a hasty reply to the letter.

Mrs. Metcalf had put her feet down at last and when, at a few minutes past eleven, Katherine burst into the room with sun-blistered cheeks and wind-tossed hair, her mother chilled the exuberance on her lips by a cold glance of disapproval. "Judge Gresham has invited you to drive with him at three," she announced stiffly. "I took the liberty of accepting for you."

"Bully! Let's see the letter, dearie!" Katherine reached out her hand for the paper and devoured its contents at a glance. "And you?" she queried.

"I? I shall remain at home—of course."

The girl uttered a little incredulous laugh. "Shucks!" she cried. "Do you imagine I'd let you snub him in this fashion? Never! The fact is, if you don't go, I shan't either!"

Mrs. Metcalf knew her offspring too well to remonstrate. She half smiled and her mouth showed signs of weakening. I'm sure you'd not be so selfish and discourteous, Kitty. But for fear you might—"

"You'll go—certainly." And having, as usual, gained her point, Katherine bounced up from her chair, kissed her mother's cheek and said breezily: "I'm off to refresh myself with a cold plunge before luncheon. Are these my things? How dear of you to lay them all out; I'll wear the green, I think—he likes green." And dropping her lids quickly to hide the twinkle in her eyes she turned and vanished from the room.

After luncheon, when Mrs. Metcalf went up dutifully to prepare for the outing, she found her daughter dozing on the bed. She tip-toed about the room, making as little noise as possible. After some indecision she selected a clinging, mauve-tinted gown. First she did her hair in one of the becoming new styles and rubbed powder on her cheeks. The effect was surprising. When the new dress was hooked and a bewildering lace veil of gauzy mesh draped about the pretty spring hat, she looked ten years younger. She smiled unconsciously at her reflection in the glass and began to trill a bar of some plaintive, half-forgotten little air of her youth.

A Popular Hostelry.

[Youth's Companion:] At the present stage of sociology no onlooker need doubt this New York Sun story of the "might have beens" of a great city:

So many men to whom the city missionary had given money for a night's lodging had expressed a preference for a certain East Side lodging-house that he wondered what constituted its particular attraction.

"It makes us feel self-respecting," the man said, when questioned.

So far as the missionary could see, it was a typical lodging-house, whose inducement to self-respect were not apparent to the ordinary eye. He appealed to the manager. By what method did he wan the fires of self-respect in his guests?

The manager pointed to a sign above his desk.

"Gentlemen are requested to leave their valuables with the clerk."

Talk is once more being heard of an endurance run between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Earle Y. Boothe, the local National agent, is the latest man to spring the idea, and he urges the dealers to take it up and plan a run for the last of May or the early part of June.

Five-year-old Date Palm, Bearing 125 Lbs. Ripe Dates

DATES

Pay $1000 to $3000 Per ACRE Annually

The United States Government Has Proven, After 8 Years' Experimenting, That

Millions of Dollars Can Be Produced Annually From Growing Dates on a Commercial Scale Right Here in Southern California

We have been on the ground for the past three years, and have been waiting for positive proof. The results obtained by the government, and several private date growers, in the form of thousands of pounds of delicious, ripe dates, of the very finest varieties, will convince any sane person that date culture is destined to become as important a product as any fruit grown on the American continent.

The Time for Action Has Arrived

Three years ago we purchased four hundred and eighty acres of choice land—(the best adapted to date culture in the United States)—located midway between the two government experimental date groves, in Riverside county. Only one hundred and thirty miles from Los Angeles.

We have developed 250 miner's inches of flowing water from deep artesian wells, and have been improving the land in every way. We have a large acreage planted to alfalfa and grain.

We Also Have Thousands of Date Palms Growing in Our Own Land

We are now planting the entire four hundred and eighty acres to date palms.

A Half Million Dollars Annually

This will assure dividends of three hundred per cent. per annum.

Date trees are planted 50 to the acre, and the most conservative estimate of their production is 200 pounds to the tree, making a total of 10,000 pounds to the acre, which at the low price of ten cents per pound makes $1000 per acre.

Small Capitalization Means Large Dividends

While our date palms are maturing, we are operating the ranch as a hog ranch. We have it fully stocked, and will be able to pay at least eight per cent. dividends annually until our date palms begin to produce. We will have 1000 hogs ready for the market within a few months.

Enough stock has been sold to positively assure the financial success of our company.

This is NOT A SPECULATION, but a gilt-edge investment, with absolutely no risk attached to it.

Don't Miss This Opportunity to Investigate

Over 100,000 shares have been sold to this date.

We only wish to sell a few thousand shares of stock, in ord er to further improve the property.

Price of stock, One Dollar per share. For full particulars, call at the office of HENRY LABOUCHERE.

[London Express:] "If the real Labouchere was not quite the sort of man that the public have been encouraged to believe," says a writer in this week's Truth, "at least it may be said that the better you know him the more he astonished you, until you got to the point where your capacity for astonishment was exhausted."

With these words the writer, who knew Mr. Labouchere intimately for a quarter of a century, prepares the reader for a most amazing serices of stories cancerning his mental attitude, his outlook on life, his mode of living, and his judgment of others.

"For many years," says the biographer, "it was his habit to drop in at Truth office on a Monday or Tuesday morning and order lunch. The meal usually consisted of a chop just warmed through. He ate it without bread, salt, pepper, or drink of any kind, smoking a cigarette all the time. I have seen him with the chop in one hand and the cigarette in the other, pausing to crack some joke.

"Voules (manager of Truth until his death in 1909, who had to sit on the other side of the table while he was refreshing himself, used to be horribly upset by the performance. But the climax was reached when Labby, at the conclusion of the repast, took out his teeth and laid them beside him on the table while he corrected his proofs.

"His jaws must have been as peculiar as the rest of his constitution, for no dentist could give him satisfaction. As soon as he felt the slightest inconvenience from his teeth he had them out and set to work on them with the first impiement that came to hand. I have seen him prodding them about with the office scissors or battering them with a ruler.

"'Have you got a hammer in the office, Voules?' he inquired one day, and, the caretaker having produced one, he destroyed about fifty pounds' worth of dentist's work in a few minutes."

Mr. Labouchere often lived on tenpence a day during his parliamentary career.

"When Labouchere came back from Florance to attend his last two parliamentary sessions, he took a modest couple of rooms in Queen Anne's-mansions. The mansions (he used to say) gave him a cup of coffee and a slice of toast in the morning for sixpence. He had found a delightful place for lunch—the Aerated Bread shop at the corner of Parliament street. Here a particularly choice delicacy could be obtained, for which he had taken a great liking—two cold sausages, price fourpence.

"He had been rather bothered at first by the girls persisting in bringing him bread, which he didn't want, and worrying him to know what he would take to drink.

"'So, you see,' he said triumphantly, 'as I don't often take any dinner, I generally get through the day for tenpence.'"

Mr. Labouchere's clothes were a source of much trouble to his wife.

"'It's a bit the worse for wear,' he once remarked, half apologetically, when I was helping him into his overcoat. He had put his arm into some recess between the cloth and the lining, which was hanging in tatters. 'My wife won't let me go out in it, but I'm rather fond of it, and I hide it from her. He—he—he,' and then came the Mephistophelian chuckle.

"One day Labby arrived in a more presentable garment, and in a very irritable frame of mind. He complained bitterly that Mrs. Labouchere had surreptitiously captured the old coat.

"A week later, to the general horror, he reappeared in it, bubbling over with glee. 'I've done her,' he said to Voules. 'I found it!' He never said where, but I suspect that he recovered it from the dustbin."

The writer tells us that Mr. Labouchere was "constitutionally disdainful of all things that Englishmen prise most highly and hold most sacred. He had no liking for sport in any shape; he hated outdoor life.

"He was a very regular visitor to Switzerland, and he never wrote to Truth from that country without expressing his contempt for anybody who took the trouble to climb a mountain.

"'I never could understand,' he said to me only the last time I saw him, 'how anybody could take an interest in such a stupid beast as a horse.'"

Little credit is given to Mr. Labouchere for the career of Truth, which the writer declares was made by Voules.

"Labouchere's part in all the troublesome libel actions was to come and sit beside Sir George Lewis in court, and to receive the congratulations and compliments after the victory. From 1885 onwards I can state from personal knowledge that Laubouchere's editorial duties consisted in his dropping in for an hour or two when the paper was going to press, correcting the proofs of his own contributions, gossiping about anything but the business that the rest of us were there to do."

Philippines' Highest Mountain.

[Youth's Companion:] According to the Philippine Journal of Science, the highest mountain in the Philippine Archipelago is Mount Pulog, in Luzon, sixty miles from the coast. It was first ascended in 1907 by Charles Benson, who found the height to be 9450 feet. His party passed a night on the mountain; the next morning they were surprised to find more than half an inch of ice on the pools of water just below the summit. The mountain has since been explored by American botanists. They encountered four main vegetation zones. The steep lower slopes below an altitude of 4000 feet are covered with grass. A pine region occupies the greater portion of the slopes to a height of 6000 feet. Above this region is found the "mossy forest," which consists of a dense wood of small, irregular-shaped trees of various kinds. On neighboring mountains of similar elevation the mossy forest extends to the summit, but beyond the 8,000-foot mark Mount Pulog is covered with grass land. The entire top is virtually a large meadow, with deep, rich soil almost entirely free from rocks.

First Aid to the Alligator.

[Knoxville Sentinel:] The fiance of a Louisville girl had been spending the winter in Florida, in connection with his father's business interests in that quarter, says the Petosky News.

"Marie," said the girl to a friend the other day. "Walter has just sent me the dearest little alligator from Florida!"

"Dear me!" rejoined Marie, with affected enthusiasm, "and how shall you keep him?"

"I'm not quite certain," was the reply, "but I've put him in Florida water till I can bear further from Walter."

KNIGHT HOME AGAIN.

Plans Extensive Trip Through United States in Fall of This Year.

Charles Y. Knight, inventor of the Knight sleeve valve motor, has returned to his home in Coventry, England, after making a tour of the eastern cities where he delivered lectures. Knight has stated that he will return to the United States in the fall and will cover most of the States and in all probability will make a trip to the Hawaiian Islands, so insistent has been the demand upon him for a series of lectures on the wonders of his invention by motorists of Honolulu.

Knight is accompanied on his return trip by H. J. Edwards, former chief engineer of the United States Motor Company, who recently resigned his position to become associated with the Edwards Motor Company. He intends to remain abroad for some time in order to investigate thoroughly the Knight engine manufacturing not only in the Daimler works, but in the Mercedes, Panhard, Minerva and others.

Offering Him Honors.

[The Argonaut:] A Japanese diplomat, during Admiral Togo's American tour, said at a dinner at Narragansett Pier: "Admiral Togo well merits his wealth and his honors. But a boyhood friend, one day, after the manner of the boyhood friend—sneered at the admiral's success, whereupon our great warrior retorted: 'Come, now, I'll resign all my money and titles to you, but on one condition—that you pay the same price for them I did. We'll just go out into the garden there, and I'll fire a cannon at you ninety times. All I have shall be yours if you survive.'"

LICENSES FOR SALESMEN.

According to a decision by Judge Maul, of Buffalo, automobile salesman driving cars in New York State must have license in spite of the fact that the Callan law requires only those hired for the express purpose of driving cars to be licensed. Judge Maul's opinion, which is but one of several conflicting opinions by various New York State judges, was evoked in the case of two Buffalo salesmen who were demonstrating cars to prospective buyers, when they were arrested and brought to court. They were fined $5, but will appeal from the decision.

LAWS FOR ODD CRIMES.

Freak Legislation in Different States to Cure Harmless Offenses by Careless Persons.

[Washington Post:] The legislatures of our various States, as well as the Federal government itself, are forever busying themselves with the framing of new laws.

"I am fined for failure to provide good drinking water on my passenger trains," a Rhode Islander might say; to which a fellow railroader in South Carolina would add:

"In this State a jail sentence follows a neglect to provide cuspidors for A man in Virginia says: "I killed a partridge on the second day of February, for which I must serve time in jail."

In Wisconsin a baker must serve three weeks in jail for sleeping in his bakery.

In California nurses are punished by fine or imprisonment should they fail in the proper instance to notify the physician of certain phases of illness in their patients.

To water a bicycle path in the State of Ohio is an offense punishable by heavy fine and sometimes imprisonment.

In most of the States it is a penal offense to tap a telegraph wire or to sell kerosene that is not up to the fire test.

In various States men are fined or imprisoned for dropping advertising matter in letter chutes; for gambling by means of slot machines, and for countless other offenses the very means for committing which were unknown 100 years ago.

ENLARGES OFFICES.

J. S. Moore of the Moore Investment Company, with offices in the Security building, has enlarged and elegantly furnished the quarters of that concern. T. E. Albee, formerly with W. I. Hollingsworth & Co., has taken charge of the leasing department, and J. L. Buckman, formerly of the Metzler Investment Company, will have charge of the business property exchanges.

$100---and you have bought a home

That's really just how quickly it's done. And it's done just as easily as it's done quickly, if you'll just make up your mind that it's going to be done and going to be done NOW. Make a full-sized man of yourself, make a close-bound family of yours, start something—start a Home, and start it right.

Rodgers Park

has solved the problem of a happy existence for several score during the past several weeks. Rodgers Park is proving the magic key that is unlocking the door of Independence to many a man who thought his chance of owning a home way, far off, probably many years ahead.

is the land of today. Tomorrow never comes. Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today. See Rodgers Park — be independent—own a home. Be your own boss. Here's your chance. $100 down and then $23 to $30 a month pays principal, interest, taxes and even insurance.

Rodgers Park is "different." Remember the $600 price on lots and the $2300 price on homes; 14 separate parks, public tennis court and public playground, to which all are freely invited. A succession of artistic homes, each different—1, 1½ and 2-story. Built well, finished well, planned well, executed well, laid out well, priced and sold right. You'll find in these homes just what you would find in six or seven thousand dollar homes. Sanitary plumbing, white enameled bath rooms, sleeping porches, built-in features, artistic fixtures, solid hardware, large rooms, neatly tinted walls, cabinet kitchens, screen porches, attractive front doors, non-leak roofs, good foundations. So far as the tract itself is concerned what more anywhere than model stores, wide, graded and oiled paved treets; practically and artistically planted parkings, cement curbs and sidewalks, good lawns in, gas, water, electricity, telephones?

OWN YOUR OWN LATCHKEY

Make a memorandum in your diary that on this day of 1912 you paid $100 for a latchkey. For this small sum you get the latchkey to a Rodgers Park home, the like of which you could not pick up anywhere else with a first payment of less than from $600 to $800. That would mean waiting, that's folly.

We'll sell you such a home here for from $2300 to $3000 as you'd pay from 25 to 50 per cent more for in equally well located tracts sold by other owners or through agents. A worth-while saving, isn't it?

A Lot Will Prove a Good Investment in

Rodgers Park

$600 and up buys lots here. The location of the tract, the improvements which are in and the buildings which we're putting up all practically guarantee that an investment here is a wise one. We make terms right, too. Look into this lot proposition. Good for a home site. Good as a speculation or investment.

HOW TO REACH RODGERS PARK We'll be glad to have you come to our office and ride out in an automobile. Or take a Florence Avenue car on Hill Street, between Third and Eighth, to Florence Avenue; ten-minute service. Or take a Vermont Heights car on Broadway, south of Fourth, to Seventy-sixth street. Courteous Salesmen are always on the tract glad to show you.

There is Money in THIS LAND for You

There is money in California land for you, MR. HOMESEEKER, or investor, providing you buy the right kind—and by that I mean not only the right kind of soil, but land that has a safe and abundant supply of cheap gravity water—land located close to markets and with good transportation facilities. Of course, if you are willing to pioneer, that is, to go into some new and unsettled section, where everything is on paper rather than an actual fact, you will find many offerings, but if you wish to buy in a proven territory, under known soil, water and climatic conditions, where your family will enjoy good schools, churches and social advantages, you will find that your selection will be narrowed very materially.

If you wish to make money farming you certainly can do no better than to locate in the banner agricultural county of California. That Merced is the ideal farming section is attested by two facts. First, with only 4000 population Merced's two banks carry $3,500,000 in deposits, making this little town, in all probability, the richest city, per capita, in America, and, remember, every dollar of this $3,500,000 has grown out of the ground. Second, at the State Fair held at Sacramento in 1911, Merced county took 17 out of 25 first prizes, 4 seconds, 4 thirds, grand prize for the best general agricultural exhibit and a special prize for the best display of cereals.

When you realize that the 4300 acres, known as Grogan's Merced Tracts, are universally conceded to be the very cream of the entire Merced district, the present price of on the easy terms of one-fourth cash, balance 1-2-3 years, with interest on deferred payments at 6% must strike you or any sensible man as being the best real land value in California. Don't allow yourself to be pursuaded into buying "something just as good." There is nothing just as good as these lands except this very land itself. Grogan's Merced Tracts, consisting of 4300 acres of Bear Creek first bottom land, adjoin the westerly city limits of Merced, the county seat of Merced county, a city of 4000 population, with 100 blocks of asphalt street, miles of concrete sidewalk, two boulevards, two parks, as good church and school facilities as will be found anywhere, besides hundreds of pretty homes.

Merced is located on the main line of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads, 151 miles—only four hours south of San Francisco. Produce shipped from Merced tonight is on the San Francisco and Oakland markets in the morning. This means that the Merced farmer has at his command the best market west of Chicago.

Water

To insure prosperity in California, the farmer must be certain of an ample, dependable supply of cheap gravity water. Every 10 and 20-acre farm on Grogan's Merced Tracts has of record a perpetual water right, which insures him gravity water at a rate which cannot exceed $2.00 per acre per year. This abundance of gravity water on Grogan's Merced Tracts insures regular annual crops, such as oat and barley hay and grain, black-eyed beans, sweet and Irish potatoes, onions, garden truck and cantaloupes, all of which bring high returns per acre. On these irrigated lands anyone could raise two simple crops per annum, such as oat hay and black-eyed beans, and net, under the most adverse circumstances, not less than $60 per acre, which would be 40% per annum on the purchase price of the land, which is only $150 per acre. In addition to annual crops, Grogan's Merced Tracts are proven alfalfa and dairying lands, or, if you prefer, you can make from $60 to $250 an acre growing figs, peaches or almonds. The returns are sure because the water supply is safe and abundant.

THINK OF IT, no trouble in cleaning main ditches—no additional cost for maintaining and building new canals—no charge for repairs, no special assessments, no worry about rain, no pump trouble. Every acre in the entire 4300 acres, known as Grogan's Merced Tracts, is right now awaiting the plow. It has all been under cultivation and is all level, and awaits nothing but the checking or bordering to hold the water. There is plenty of time to make a crop this year. You can buy a farm today and begin working your land tomorrow. You are not pioneering. You are not going into a new country. We are selling this land, not as it is going to be, but as it is today.

As we all know, good land in the middle west is worth and sells at from $150 to $200 per acre, according to location, etc. Government statistics show that this land has a net annual earning capacity of between $11 and $12 per acre. Based on a comparative earning capacity per acre, our land, which will net from $60 per acre up, is worth at least $600 per acre. The real choice land of California is being rapidly absorbed, and will shortly go to very high figures on account of its high earning capacity. You could not duplicate the same advantage of soil, water, climatic conditions, earning capacity, etc., any place else in California for less than $250 or $300 per acre, which means that comparative advantages considered, Grogan's Merced Tract is the best land value on the market today.

There are only 4300 acres of this tract, and when it is gone you cannot duplicate it. In less than forty days the sales have amounted to $80,000, and if the present rate of progress is maintained, every acre will be sold out inside of four months. If you want A-1 land, either for farming or investment purposes, land that has an abundance of cheap gravity water—land that is located so as to enjoy the full benefits of close markets, cheap transportation, good social and educational advantages, and in addition, land that is certain to double in value inside of two years, you should investigate Grogan's Merced Tracts at once. Merced in general, and this land in particular, should be seen to be appreciated, and you should arrange at once to join one of our three or five-party excursions, leaving Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

If you are interested and cannot call personally, write or 'phone for free booklet, entitled "Facts for Farmers."

RENTON PULLS NOVEL STUNT.

Shows How to Keep Motors from Skidding.

Velie Dealer Gives Helpful Hints to Drivers.

Proves How to Handle Car on Slippery Pavements.

Skidding over the slippery pavements on the downtown streets, is one of the most dangerous features of driving during the rainy season. There is not a motorist who has not experienced the thrill of trying to control his car in the thick of the traffic.

P. A. Renton, with a big Velie forty horsepower touring car, volunteered to demonstrate just how a machine should be handled when the pavement is greasy. The chief of the Renton Motor Car Company took a Velie "Forty" and during the busiest part of the day sent the car to Seventh and Broadway. The crush was ideal, not for a novice, but for the experiment. Renton never lost an ounce of his nerve.

Now Renton is one of the greatest road drivers in Southern California, but it took all of his skill to demonstrate how to dodge the unskilled performers and keep his car from sliding into other machines. With the motor headed straight toward a fire plug Renton proved that the machine can be righted without damage to the car or to pedestrians.

"When you feel the car sliding away from under you," said Renton, "keep your head. This is the first essential. You will avoid trouble if you can keep your wits, and learn to act quickly. A motor car is the easiest thing in the world to handle provided the man at the wheel uses his brains.

"Don't put your foot on the brake when the car is sliding as with the rear wheels locked it will only slide faster. Learn to manipulate the front wheels in such a way that you will gain control of the car. If the machine is about to turn completely around don't get excited. Don't know of an accident that has happened in this way.

"Keep from getting rattled if possible. When the machine gets out from under you let it glide but keep your eyes wide open. Then when you realize that there is danger of a collision, press the brake firmly, don't use the emergency, and be ready to touch up the foot throttle as soon as you are out of the jam.

"Non-skid tires are fine of course, but a good driver is much finer. For instance the Velie cars are so well balanced that you can grasp that big wheel firmly and keep control of the car, stopping it in its own length. Now when it begins to get fractious, shut down the throttle, don't be afraid of stalling the engine, remember you have a self-starter and don't get embarassed.

"No matter how well you drive, and no matter how many mistakes you make, remember the crowd will gaze at you. Don't concern yourself about that, however. You have nothing to lose and no favors to ask. Remember the crossing patrolman is your friend all the time.

"Let me give you a few pointers that may help during the rainy days that are yet to come.

"Obey the traffic regulations to the letter. You may not agree with all the stipulations, but obey them strictly.

"Keep your eye on the crossing patrolman. Keep your ears wide open for the whistle. Don't try to cross on high gear.

"Your car will skid if you drive too fast. Keep down to the speed limit and there is no danger.

"Don't drive too fast between blocks Remember the main streets are not speedways.

"Be careful when you get inside the car tracks. Danger lurks in the rails.

"Watch the other fellow. If he is reckless give him every inch of the street that you can.

"Don't try this high gear stuff. The Velie will throttle down as low as any car, but remember the gears are there to use.

"Always keep one foot on the clutch and the other on the brake pedal. Don't argue with the traffic squad men.

"Last but not least, keep your head."

Skidding Into the Crowded Traffic at Seventh and Broadway in a Velie Forty.

P. A. Renton, studying some of the perplexing situations on the crowded street where accidents may happen on a rainy day. The Velie is being handled by Harvey Freeman, as a demonstration of just how to operate a high-powered car in a most dangerous jam in the middle of the day. Traffic Officer Walter Krug is jumping to the aid of another driver who is in danger of crashing into the tonneau of the handsome Velie.

SOCIETY TO RIDE RACING PONIES.

CORONADO (Cal.) March 8.—With ten well known society women of San Francisco, New York and London, entered in the sixth and seventh polo pony races at the country club course tomorrow afternoon, the events promise to eclipse all others in point of interest. In the sixth race will be Mrs. C. W. Clark, Miss Eleanor Sears, Mrs. Walter Dupee, Mrs. Duval and Mrs. S. H. Velie.

In the seventh race the fair riders will be Miss Sears, Lady Reginald Herbert, Miss Jennie Crocker, Miss Georgiana Leadbetter, Miss Redd and Mrs. John Borden.

It is stated in country clubs circles that Miss Sears may ride in regulation men's polo clothes. All of the women entered are to wear the colors of the owners of their mounts. Whether all will emulate Miss Sears is not known, but it is believed that masculine riding togs will be donned by most of them for the races.

Bears Come South.

BLUE AND GOLD TO MEET U.S.C.

Stanford's Conquerors Last Year Here March 16.

Christie's Cinder Stars Are Coming to Form.

Berkeley Freshmen to Meet Pomona Same Day.

For the first time in the history of track athletics at the University of California, the Blue and Gold will be represented by two track teams in the South at the same time, when the varsity competes with U. S. C., in Los Angeles and the freshmen contest with the Pomona College athletes on the afternoon of Saturday, March 16 at Claremont.

Coach Walter Christie has been conducting a series of tryouts for positions on the team, and after the interclass meet held Saturday on the varsity oval, the veteran trainer will have a good opportunity to decide on the personnel of the team which will best represent the University in the South. On account of the fact that there are a large number of veterans on the team this year, it will be a difficult matter to select the best team of thirteen men, and it is probable that the men who are capable in a number of events will get the preference. It is certain that there will be several southern men on the team, while the freshmen delegation will be made up largely of athletes that have registered from south of the Tehachepi.

The best man that California will enter in the sprints against Waldo Throop of U. S. C., is Ful Wood, the Berkeley runner who won the intercollegiate century dash last spring in 10.1. Wood is strong this year, and his backers believe that he can make the distance in 10 flat. Connolly and Claudius have both run the distance in 10.2, but it is doubtful whether they will make the trip.

QUARTER MATERIAL ONLY FAIR.

There is no extraordinary talent in the varsity 440. Leo Myers, Chase, Vitousek, Levy and Horner are all consistent men around 53 seconds. Meyer is the only man who can be expected to negotiate the distance much under 52 seconds.

In the middle distance the southerners should have a chance to grab some points if they can enter some 2-minute men. Ormond Smith is the only man who is likely to make the trip, who has done the 880 in about 2.02. The other possibilities are Griffith, Shields, Edwards and Mills.

It is in the long distances that the Blue and Gold expects to clean up. Marry Wood, the little phenom from Whittier, and Earl Crabbe from Portland, will likely be entered in both the mile and two mile. Last year in the intercollegiate with Stanford, Wood did the mile easily in 4.31, with Crabbe second, and in the two-mile grind, Crabbe came back a winner in the longer race in 9.59. It is doubtful whether any, but these two distance men will be taken on the trip, but Arnott, Hayne and Rathbone are other good men who have won their letters in intercollegiate company.

The hurdles are, as in the past, a stronghold for California. For years California has been successful in the timber topping events, and it is time out of memory since any hurdler has won from the Blue and Gold at the 120-yard distance. In the Pacific Coast championship meet last spring Eddie Beeson made a mark of 15 3-5 over the high sticks, and in the meet with Stanford did 25s. Sat in the furlong event. Deming Maclise is good for 15 4-5 in the high hurdles, and runs close behind Beeson in the 220-yard hurdles. Wallace, Haven and Clausen are a trio of hurdlers who will get their chance in the meet with Stanford.

RICE AND SHATTUCK GOOD.

Rice and Shattuck are the two men likely to compete against the Methodists in the weight events. Rice won the shot against Stanford with a put of 45ft. and ½in. Shattuck holds the Coast Intercollegiate record with the hammer at 157ft. 7in. Rice has developed the triple turn in the hammer during the winter months, and if he can stay in the ring, is able to hurl the sixteen-pound hammer over 160 feet. Hale is a shot putter able to do over forty-two feet, while both Gabbert and Ready can throw the hammer over 145 feet. Gabbert is from Oxnard.

In the broadjump California will be represented by Allen and Captain Kretzinger. Fred Allen broke the Coast record last spring with a leap of 23ft. 3in. This is a new mark for college men both on the Coast and in the Middle West. Kretzinger can clear about 22ft. 8in.

BEESON A STAR.

In the high jump Eddie Beeson will be the one best bet. His performance of 6ft. 3in. last spring marks him as one of the greatest jumpers in the country. It is all the more remarkable when the fact is considered that he is a record holder in both hurdle events. Taylor and Hill are two other Californians who do six feet. One of them will probably make the trip, Taylor is the best.

For the pole vault Potter, from Los Angeles, is one of the best entries. K. Julian Potter is a wearer of the "C," and is working in fine form this year. Mike Smith or Valle are other men who may be chosen to compete a week from Saturday. Potter is good for about 11ft. 3in. in vault.

THE FRESHMAN TEAM.

The freshman track team that Coach Walter Christie takes South on March 16 to compete against Pomona College, while the varsity is working against U.S.C., will be a fine aggregation of talent, so far as the first-year teams usually go. There is a large number of first-class men in the baby ranks, and the Sagebrushers will have to extend themselves if they "con" most of the points.

In the sprints the hope of the team will be in Ed Stanton of Los Angeles. While in the Los Angeles High School the speedy youngster devoted his time to the 440, but Trainer Christie sees in him the makings of a sprinter. His best time in the quarter was about 52 seconds flat. There is no official time on his shorter races, but it is certain that he will make the best men at Claremont run some to head him at the tape. Fred Bradway from Hollywood is another good sprinter in the freshman ranks. He runs the century in 10.2 seconds.

The honor of representing the university in the quarter-mile is between three men, who are all good for something in the neighborhood of 53 seconds. Todd of Oakland is a fast man, while Driver of Redlands and Harlowe of Berkeley are other men who will figure in the final selections.

POMONA HAS SHOW IN DISTANCE.

The men who will enter the distance events are unknown quantities. Beans in a San Jose men who has a record in the 880 of 2:04, while Ved-

ATTELL MAY LOSE THE JOE RIVERS FIGHT DATE.

"I CANNOT tell now whether I would put on the Attell-Rivers fight or not," said Manager McCarey yesterday evening.

"I will have to wait until I read the account of the Attell-Murphy fight before I would say whether I would call off the Attell-Rivers fight. You know you can't always judge Attell's chances by the fact that he is beaten by a lightweight.

"As a matter of fact I never really promised an Attell-Rivers match. I merely got a statement from both boys that they would fight here if I wanted them. That's as far as we went. If I did not want to give them a fight they could not fight here. I do not know now whether I would offer them a fight or whether they would fight. I cannot tell what I would do.

Joe Levy said last night if the detailed reports of the fight show that Abe made a very bad showing against Murphy, Joe will refuse to meet him. However, he thinks that allowance should be made for the fact that Murphy weighs twelve pounds more.

"Joe is not ready to fight Murphy yet in any case. He is too big and heavy."

"Curtains."

HARLEM TOMMY MURPHY BEATS UP ABE ATTELL.

Referee's Decision in Favor of the New Yorker Is Received With Cheers as Abe Totters to His Dressing-room, Bleeding and Defeated—The Proverbial "Coffroth Luck" Was Too Much for the Rain God.

DALY CITY ARENA (Cal.) March 9.—Abe Attell, erstwhile featherweight champion, showed further indications of pugilistic retrogression, when he lost the decision to Lightweight "Harlem Tommy" Murphy, of New York, in the twentieth round, this afternoon, at the Daly City open air arena. It was a bloody fight throughout and Attell presented a sorry figure as he tottered to his dressing-room at the end of the contest. Murphy had a clear lead in the majority of the rounds, his best blow being a right cross with which he time and again sent Attell's head back, at the same time opening up numerous facial cuts. Referee Welch's decision was cheered by the spectators.

Two preliminaries, one of six and the other of ten rounds duration, preceded the main event, which was scheduled for 3 o'clock.

The proverbial "Coffroth luck" was again in evidence when clear skies and a warm sun greeted fight fans who had made the long journey today to the San Mateo county open-air arena. The attendance was surprisingly good.

Betting at the ringside was light and unchanged from the morning quotations.

Willie Campi knocked out Tommy McCarthy in the second round of the first preliminary. A right hook to the jaw settled McCarthy. A similar punch in the first round floored McCarthy, but he was saved by the gong.

Manuel Veiria and Lee Johnson (negro) mauled one another through ten interesting rounds to a draw decision. The second preliminary ended at 2:10.

Murphy entered the ring at 2:22. Attell followed two minutes later. Jack Welch referee.

Among the spectators were several women.

Both Attell and Murphy were cheered vigorously.

Among the notable pugilists introduced were Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast, Jack Britton of Chicago, Frank Klaus of Pittsburgh and Jack Dillon of Indianapolis.

ROUND ONE.

"Time" was called at 2:32.

The first round developed some fierce milling at close range, the fighters pummeling one another with hands together. Attell landed frequently on the body and forced Murphy to seek protection on the ropes. No damage.

Attell bled from the mouth as the round ended with honors a shade in his favor.

Murphy was warned and reprimanded several times in the second round for holding and hitting. He almost put the ex-featherweight champion through the ropes with a succession of short-arm drives, but Attell sprang at the New Yorker like a panther and almost floored him with a similar onslaught. Murphy again took command as the round ended and Attell went to his seat unsteadily with a badly swollen left eye and bleeding freely. Murphy's round.

In round three Murphy had Attell groggy, landing a fusillade of short-arm punches to the face, bringing the blood in streams. Abe, however, fought back desperately and held the New Yorker even in a vicious mid-ring rally. So fierce was the fighting that both men almost fell into the laps of the newspaper men. As the round closed Attell staggered

WORLD MARK FOR WARREN.

Beardsley Wins Honors for His Stylish Thirty.

Crowds Cheer as Flanders Mark Is Passed.

Twelve Thousand Miles and Then Some.

Another world non-stop record has been knocked into smithereens. Once more a western firm has pulled off the trick. This time Volney S. Beardsley, president of the California Automobile Company, is one of the winners. The world's non-stop motor record is now held by a Warren-Detroit.

When the 12,000 mile mark was passed yesterday the mark of the Flanders "Twenty," which stood for more than a year at 10,572.5 miles, was beaten. The official documents proclaiming this wonderful run are on file at The Times office. The mark of the little car is bettered and the Warren is still rolling.

The long hard grind has created a great interest in San Francisco, where the stunt was pulled off. It was Beardsley, however, who first conceived the idea of running a Warren as a non-stopper. When the automobile show was held in the Shrine pavilion Beardsley started a Warren-Detroit and ran the car steadily for a week. Again last year Beardsley tried and a crowd of rollickers spoiled the run.

With the record of this run under their hat the dealers in the Bay City planned to break the world record. The mark was a high one. They have set it much higher. This time it will be a task to break the record already set by the non-stop car.

The automobile public is always interested in a long non-stop run. This time the car has attracted thousands who have watched the machine as it chugged about the city streets. The high notch already reached has surprised many and the mark when completed may surprise more.

Working on a special schedule the Warren was sent after the mark made by the Flanders. When this mark was passed the car was sent out after difficult stunts and now it is more than 2000 miles ahead of the previous record and is still on the run piling up the mileage.

This car has proved its right to a niche in the hall of fame. It has shown that the motor will stand abuse and misuse. The crew consisted of George Vesper, William Dandy and Vaughn Cooley, all gritty drivers who kept their head every minute and who won in spite of severe obstacles.

Volney S. Beardsley, president and manager of the California Automobile Company, factory representative in this territory for Warren cars, in commenting on the subject said:

"Not only our company but the large number of Warren owners in Southern California are proud of the victory of the Warren in capturing the official world's non-stop record. This record would have been ours about eighteen months ago had it not been for the fact that our non-stop car was attacked by a bunch of rowdies on New Year's night, after it had totaled a mileage of nearly 8000. Our company has felt ever since that we should have this record, and it was decided to pull off the stunt in the northern city.

"We are not only proud of now holding this record, but other important American and world's records as follows:

"Light car class 161 to 230 piston displacement.

"On March 29, 1911, the American championship five-mile race was won by the Warren at Jacksonville, Fla.

"On March 30, 1911, the same car came back and won the ten-mile American championship race.

"On April 9, at the Los Angeles motordrome, a Warren stock "30" model captured the world's twenty-four hour record, covering 1167 miles in the twenty-four hours, which was an average of nearly fifty miles per hour, and the nearest competitor in the race was 292 miles in the rear at the finish. And now with the official world's non-stop record, which covered a continual grind twenty-four hours in a day for nearly eight weeks and the same car is still at it, which proves conclusively that the Warren car is able to compete with any car on the market, regardless of price, not only in the short spurts of speed, but in a twenty-four hours speed limit test, as well as a two-months continual grind.

"The official record of this world's non-stop also proves a wonderful economical showing for the Warren car. The oil consumed during this long grind has averaged 264 miles to the gallon. The gasoline consumed has averaged 17 miles to the gallon. The car has averaged nearly 400 miles per day. It is not only a great victory for the Warren cars, but it shows the prospective buyer that the present automobile has reached such a stage of perfection that it is not only dependable under all conditions, but it is not necessary to spend a large sum of money to buy a car that will give universal satisfaction."

Looks Good to Him.

OAKLAND MAN HERE SEES GREAT THINGS IN FUTURE.

J. B. ECCLESTON, general sales-manager for Oakland automobiles, with headquarters at the factory at Pontiac, Mich., was in the city this week looking over the local agency conducted here by Hawley, King & Co. Eccleston recently toured the Middle West and will establish an Oakland agency in San Francisco at which place he will locate a large warehouse. This branch will act as a base of supplies for Oakland dealers, to which they will apply when in need of accessories. A similar branch and wareroom was also installed at Kansas City.

In speaking of his trip and affairs pertaining to his cars, Eccleston paid a tribute to the local agency, of which Gilbert Woodill is salesmanager. He said:

"I am more than pleased with the remarkable record made by Los Angeles. More Oakland cars have been sent out at retail from this city than from New York, and when you stop to consider the vast territory fed by the eastern agents you will readily understand the enormity of the business that has been done. I believe that we are only fairly started. Our books at the factory show that the sales here are increasing monthly and the popularity of the cars is on the increase.

"I cannot speak too highly of the matter in which the business in this city is being conducted nor of the appointments of your salesroom. It is the most up-to-date of any I have found on my trip, and I predict that with the large increase of sales here more room will have to be added to care for the trade. Another thing which impresses me is the complete line carried. There is not a vehicle made in the factory that is not shown here.

"As an eastern man I have been more or less skeptical concerning the reports sent out from here concerning Los Angeles, but after having viewed the country I will say that you have been modest in your claims for the Southland."

A Splendid Trophy.

CHALMERS PRESENTED BY PRESIDENT AT DENVER.

JACK HENDRICKS, manager of the Denver baseball team, which won the championship of the Western League, was presented with a Chalmers "Thirty" touring car. Because of his brilliant work during the season, the fans of Denver raised a public subscription and purchased the car in time for President Taft to make the presentation speech during his brief stay in that city on his recent westward tour.

President Taft was in Denver only one afternoon and, although his schedule for the day was a busy one, he found time to drive out to the baseball park and present the Chalmers car to Manager Hendricks before a crowd of over 20,000 enthusiastic rooters.

The President said, in part: "You won the pennant honestly and the people of Denver, who watched your progress, desire me in their behalf to present you with this handsome automobile. I hope you will use it and enjoy it. It will always remind you of the hard work and attention to the fine points and the fact that you played a 'square game.'"

The Chalmers "Thirty" is equipped with anti-skid Republic staggard tread tires by the request of Hendricks. This was specially arranged for with McDuffie of the Chalmers Motor Car Company. Republic tires are gaining a stronger reputation for service in the Western States.

HIGH PLACE FOR ABBOTT MAN.

BAILEY BECOMES ONE OF THE FACTORY CHIEFS.

Prominent Business Man Is Selected as Chairman of the Board of Directors and a More Vigorous Policy Is Outlined for Concern Which Is Building Many Cars.

At a meeting of the directors of the Abbott Motor Company held on Saturday, February 24, Clayton E. Bailey of Jamestown, N. Y., was elected first vice-president and chairman of the board of directors. For several months past C. W. Jamieson of Warren, Penn., president of the company, has been seriously ill and his health is in such condition that he will be unable upon recovery from his present illness to assume active duties as head of the company. Bailey has been associated in other business enterprises with several of the principal members of the Abbott Motor Company for a number of years, and has recently acquired a heavy financial interest in the Abbott Motor Company.

Bailey is well known in New York State as a financier and manufacturer; his interests in that section also include gas, street railways, mercantile and real estate holdings.

He has been for a number of years president and a moving spirit in the Bailey Table Company of Jamestown, one of the largest and most successful furniture manufacturing establishments in that section. He has also been closely allied with the management of a number of other manufacturing plants and financial institutions of Jamestown, and is a director and chairman of the Finance Committee of the First National Bank of Jamestown. Mr. Bailey is well known in southwestern financial circles and has exhibited a very considerable amount of strength heretofore in the handling of transactions involving large capital, with the financial interests in New York City. He has been active in educational, club and social affairs in New York State. It is Mr. Bailey's intention to move his family to Detroit some time in the near future and make his permanent home there.

In an interview today M. J. Hammers, general manager of the Abbott Motor Company, stated: "The management and board of directors are all much elated over Bailey's connection with the company, and feel that his broad experience as a manufacturer and business man and his strength as a financier are exactly in keeping with the qualifications that should be possessed by the executive head of an institution that has assumed and is assuming larger proportions at the remarkable rate evidenced by the growth of the Abbott Motor Company. Bailey's policies, while conservative, are equally progressive and we feel that his connection with the company assured the board of directors, and the city of Detroit, that the Abbott Motor Company, while a comparatively young concern at the present time, will continue to sharelop and finally round out into one of the best manufacturing institutions in this vicinity."

At the instigation of Bailey the board of directors passed a resolution to the effect that the policies and all matters pertaining to the management of the company are to be handled by an Executive Committee, consisting of W. T. Bush, sales manager; B. C. Spitzley, assistant general manager, and M. J. Hammers, general manager—the general manager to be chairman of the committee and the chairman of the committee and the chairman of the board of directors to be a member ex-officio.

The Abbott Motor Company has been working on a production of 2000 cars for the current season of 1912, and at the present time has one-third of the entire output sold and shipped, and has orders on hand at the present time, considerably in excess of the number of cars that can possibly be built during the remaining period of the present fiscal year.

Pays Well.

ATLANTA AUTO SHOW SUCCESS.

CROWDS ATTEND DESPITE THE SNOW AND RAIN.

Many Machines Are Sold During Week of Auto Salon—Display Is Pleasing and Cars Gain in Favor as the Nineteen-Twelve Designs Are Shown to Advantage.

The Atlanta Automobile Show, held the early part of February, was pronounced a decided success, both by visitors and the exhibitors. The Executive Committee of the Atlanta Automobile and Accessory Association state that they believe all the dealers who bought space and exhibited at the rate of 50 cents per square foot will receive a refund of 25 cents or more upon the aggregate of $15,000 that they paid. The refund will come from the revenues of the show.

The opening day there was a heavy snow and one other day of the week a heavy downpour of rain the entire day, but in spite of this the show was crowded each day. Thousands of out-of-town visitors from neighboring States looked over the big display. Many factory officials were the guests of their southern branch managers during the show week.

The show sales were large. Several of the exhibits were sold out completely, while others were not quite so fortunate. All the exhibitors had some sales and gathered in numerous prospects, as a direct result of the show. It is predicted that the Atlanta show will become an annual event. The members of the Atlanta association are interested in the suggestion that another show be held next season.

Among the different makes of cars displayed were: Stearns, White, Velie, American, Hudson, Marmon, Peerless, Overland, Locomobile, Ford, Mitchell, Everitt, National, Brush, Maxwell, Columbia, Stoddard-Dayton, Winton, Case, Chalmers, R. C. H., Buick, Cole, Krit, E.M.F., Flanders, Stevens-Duryea, Thomas, Mercer, Oakland, Pierce-Arrow, Apperson, Cadillac, Pope-Hartford, Firestone-Columbus, Whiting, Courier, Bergdoll, Imperial, Marion, Garford, Sampson, Alco and Fiat gasoline pleasure cars; Baker, Detroit, Columbus, Hupp-Yeates and Rausch & Lang electrics; also Alco, White, Velie, Autocar and Sampson trucks.

WILL PARK AUTOS.

Rodeo Management Makes Excellent Arrangements For Patrons Who Go In Cars.

Parking space for the accommodation of 2500 automobiles, with protection patrols to prevent interference with the machines, has been made at the "Lucky" Baldwin ranch, Santa Anita, in preparation for an influx of motor enthusiasts who will witness the opening of the first annual celebration of the Rodeo this afternoon.

While the great majority of spectators, 25,000 of whom are expected to be in daily attendance during the nine days great southwestern interstate cowboys contest, will be carried to the Baldwin ranch by electric trains thousands of others will ride to the scene in automobiles.

The entire membership of the Automobile Club of Southern California will witness the spectacular out door extravaganza. Officials of the organization have made special plans for the occasion. Sign posts directing motorists to the ranch have been erected throughout Southern California.

Such arrangements have been made for the especial accommodation of motorists that the machines can be driven directly into the Stadium and to the immediate entrances of the different boxes. The motorists can get out of their machines and step right into the boxes. Mexican girl attendants in their picturesque native costumes have been provided to render free service to all box occupants.

This is not a year when farmers are buying many cars. It is a poor year for farmers, with the cotton crop bringing so little; though in States unaffected by cotton—like Florida, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky—the farmers are buying automobiles rapidly increasing numbers.

Let's Hope So.

LINGENFELDER FOR REFEREE.

Young Ready for Real Reform in Racing.

Motorcycle Stadium Has New Management.

Speed Fest This Afternoon Should Be Hummer.

Eddie Lingenfelder for referee.

This is the slogan of the riders who are matched to meet this afternoon on the Los Angeles Stadium.

Pete Young, formerly manager for Aviator Moissant, has purchased the Stadium. He is the right kind of a manager. He has declared first, last and all the time in favor of clean sport, and will stand for nothing else.

The new manager is a young man with a purpose. He knows the game from start to finish. He has been through the mill, and the milling has been right. Now he has come to Los Angeles with Mrs. Young and expects to settle here. He has purchased the Stadium, and intends to make it a go in spite of the handicap of a referee who is repudiated by the motorcycle fraternity.

NEW BLOOD.

An entire new management is promised for the meets which are to come. The right kind of a starter will be chosen. Not one of the riders is to be given an advantage over another if the management can help itself.

Young will not devote himself exclusively to motorcycles. He expects to depend on other features to make the new Stadium a drawing card. He will plan several open-air stunts, will build a cinder path, a football gridiron and a baseball diamond.

There is room for such an enterprise, and the Stadium, if conducted according to the plans of Young, should become one of the great city resorts. Athletics of all kinds are to be favored and promoted by the new manager, who is here to stay.

A great majority of manufacturers are using metal to metal brakes; some of them have adopted cast aluminum lined with cast iron working against iron shoes.

The Stearns-Knight Car

Come See This New-Type Motor

The Knight-type engine is today the leading topic in Motordom.

Not in ten years has there been an invention which meant nearly so much to the motorist.

Daimler—England's greatest car—adopted this motor in 1908. Their sales have quadrupled since then.

Mercedes and Panhard—doubtless the two master cars of the world—are now Knight-motored cars.

So is Minerva—Belgium's pride.

So now is the Stearns.

Ten thousand owners of high-grade cars have Knight-type engines in them.

The Knight-type won the Dewar Trophy. It won the Scottish Economy Trophy. It holds the world's records on some very vital points.

To buy a car now without knowing the Knight-type means simply to court regret.

For your own sake come and see it.

Every Great Maker

Sees the Writing on the Wall

In every great shop inventors are working to do what the Knight-type does.

Some are seeking sleeve valves, which avoid the Knight patents. Some hope for rotary valves.

Every great engineer knows that poppet-valve motors now face the setting sun.

They are noisy and slow and leaky. They depend on springs. They require frequent grinding.

The cams grow noisy when they wear. The timing gears are never silent.

When carbon accumulates so the valves don't shut, a large part of the power is wasted.

Makers know these shortcomings. Their only question is, how to end them.

The Knight-type, we believe, forms the final solution. And the leading engineers agree with us.

It forms the best motor yet invented—that is sure.

Luxury of Motion

The Stearns-Knight means the luxury of motion.

It means to glide on the road. As one user says, "It is like sliding on runners."

No valves springing shut—no valves to grind. No cams, no timing gears. Just silent, steady power.

It means immense flexibility—jumping quickly and smoothly from slow to high speed.

It means an engine which grows quieter and better with every month of use.

On a hill it means that persistent power for which electric motors are famous.

It means no waste of power.

We guarantee an excess of at least 30% over the rated power of an equal-size poppet-valve engine.

You will abandon poppet valves—just as we did—when you once learn the luxury of sleeve-valve power.

$1,000,000 Spent

Perfecting This Sleeve-Valve Motor

The ablest engineers have spent a million dollars perfecting this Knight-type motor.

We have ourselves spent $200,000. Yet we had for our guidance all that Europe had done.

Mr. Knight states that never was his motor better adapted than in the new Stearns-Knight.

But the change meant more than money.

The world's top places had been held by the cars which adopted the Knight-type. The engines which won those places had to be discarded.

All the prestige of famous cars was staked on a new-type motor.

That was so with the others, and so with the Stearns. No engine in America gained greater renown than the Stearns in its 16 years.

One can't suppose that this change was made hastily, or that it lacked incentive.

We followed three years after Daimler. And two of those years were spent testing this engine out.

Consider these facts when somebody tells you that poppet valves are going to continue.

Makers Overtaxed

Sales Doubled in a Month

The demand for Knight-type motors has taxed the capacity of the greatest European factories.

Over 10,000 cars of the latest grade are already equipped with this engine.

The first announcement of the Stearns-Knight fairly overwhelmed us with orders. And from that time on our sales have doubled over any record for our 16 years.

In November of last year we had to lease a new factory to keep up with winter orders.

Hundreds of these cars in the hands of owners have now had months of usage. And the tribute which come to us forms the highest tribute ever paid an American car.

You men who this year want this new-type car should get your orders in.

The Coming Type

The Knight-type engine is the coming type.

Poppet valves are abandoned by the world's leading makers, and the rest must soon discard them. Men may wait for developments. They may seek other methods. But they know, as we know, that the day is ending for the poppet valve.

Look into this matter when you buy a car. Ask yourself these questions:

Shall I buy an engine of the type discarded by Mercedes, Panhard, Daimler and others?

Shall I be among the first with the new type, or among the last with the old?

CHALMERS IS COMING HERE.

One of the Youngest Factory Chiefs to Visit Us.

Tells Three Main Factors in Selling Cars.

Hints to Salesmen Handed Out by Builder.

Hugh Chalmers, one of the youngest of the great manufacturers of this country, says the automobile business is the best in the world for a young man. Chalmers is now only 38 years old. He is the head of one of the great automobile companies in the world and has a reputation of being one of the nation's greatest manufacturers and salesmen. He says the automobile industry, offers the greatest opportunity to the young man of ability, industry and integrity.

"Looking over the personnel of the automobile industry, one is impressed by the great number of young men who control its destinies," says Chalmers. "The building up of this great industry, which now ranks among the largest in the United States, has been the young man's work. It has required tireless energy, the highest type of enthusiasm, dogged determination and initiative. The young men have driven to progress.

"I think the automobile industry, its great factories, its highly perfected business systems, and the scores of allied industries, is perhaps the finest tribute to the business ability of the young man of today."

OUR BUSINESS.

"Because the automobile industry is a young man's business, the public is assured of its permanency and its integrity. The young men who are now making history in the building of motor cars, have their lives before them. Their reputations are still to make and they cannot afford a mistake which would bring them to the higher stages of life with reputation unsoiled. I have the utmost faith in every young man who has his reputation to make, because he wants to make it as good as he can. The honor of the modern motor car is guaranteed by the ambitions of the young men who are building cars.

"Mere words often cause the mind to conjure pictures. Thus, if you read or hear the word 'Salesmanship,' you probably have a composite mental picture of a salesman meeting a customer, or a sales person wrapping a package across a counter, or some other typical business scene.

"But what we mean when we use the word 'salesmanship' in a broad sense is in the heading of this article, something quite different and very much larger than the mental picture conjured, comprehends. Wonderful as the English language is, it is not always adequate; that is, at least one instance; that is why we use 'salesmanship' in the restricted sense as opposed to what we mean when we use it in the restricted sense as expressed by the above-mentioned mental picture.

HOW TO SELL.

"Broadly speaking, there are three factors, and only three, entering into the sale of any article: First, the article itself; second, the prospective buyer, and, third, the agencies used for bringing favorably influencing the buyer to favorably consider the article. Salesmanship is making the buyer feel the way you do about whatever you have to sell. It is the grand total of all. It is the sum total produced by all of the factors that in the nature of circumstances tend to act upon the buyer, or that you, through your agencies, have brought to bear upon him.

And two of the handsome Chalmers cars he designed. Above is the prominent automobile man shaking hands with Ty Cobb, after the famous baseball champion had been presented with one of the cars by the builder. Below is Chalmers just as he appears at the factory. He expects to visit Los Angeles in a few weeks.

ALCO FIGHTS SNOW DRIFTS ON FIERCE MOUNTAIN TRIP.

WILLIAM H. KLECKNER and Charles D. Weed, who have recently reached New York in a six-cylinder Alco touring car, after a 200-mile trip through Pennsylvania, report some thrilling experiences encountered in a blizzard, said to be the worst seen in years. Both men say they passed over mountains that have not been traversed during the winter months for many years. They battled snow drifts seven feet deep, when the roads were obscured.

The real struggle, according to the two men, began when they left Wilkesbarre, and encountered the treacherous mountain, known as Giant's Despair. They had to fight a seventy-mile-an-hour gale in addition to being forced to climb a steep grade. Soon after passing over this mountain they ran into a high drift and the car had to be shoveled out. The natives warned the travelers that it would be impossible to get to the next town safely and they were advised to give up the trip.

The next trouble came when they tried to drive the car across the Poncono Mountains, twenty miles distant. It is said these hills have never before been crossed in winter. Here the machine ran into a high snow drift, but got through with little difficulty and reached Strousberg. Here a detour was found necessary and instead of taking the straight line, by ferry boat across the Delaware the party went by way of Port Jervis, where the night was spent.

RAMBLER CROSS-COUNTRY MODEL HIT OF THE SEASON

"THE WOMAN is the deciding factor in most automobile sales nowadays and comfort must be the dominating feature of the car that appeals to her."

This is the opinion of E. S. Jordan, one of the heads of the Rambler sales and service organization, who says he wants to prove to Los Angeles people that the new Rambler Cross-Country model is the most comfortable car in America.

"Power and appearance are important," says Jordan, "and cannot be overlooked, but the real pleasure of ownership depends upon comfort." The Rambler designers in producing the new Cross-Country model have held that above everything else. See what they have done to accomplish it. They have given this car thirty-six-inch wheels, 120-inch wheel base and thirty-eight horse power.

"The upholstering in thickness barely falls short of that advertised on higher-priced cars. The tonneau seat is four feet wide with thirty-one inches of leg room in the rear and twenty-seven inches from seat to dash. It is the roomiest car in America at the price. The upholstering is of such softness that even the invalid may ride without fatigue.

"The rear cushion has forty-five double acting steel spring coils; the front springs are thirty-nine inches long, the rear fifty-two inches, and the I beam type axle is set directly under the radiator. The front edge of the tonneau seat is nine inches ahead of the rear axle and the car steers with the same unconscious ease with which you guide a bicycle. The women folks may ride all day without fatigue."

RIM AND TIRE FOR A NOVICE.

CLAIM THAT ANY MOTORIST CAN CHANGE THIS.

Miller Tire and Dorian Rim Seem to Be a Combination Worth Testing. Non-Skids Are to Be Shipped Here and Large Claims Are Made for the New Casings.

In line with the aggressive policy of the W. D. Newerf Company, Coast agents for Miller tires, a new price list for vulcanizing and retreading has just been issued by Newerf, which has several features.

The list shows prices for all kinds of retreading. At a glance the motorist can see the charges for any tire repairs. Another page gives the prices for tubes needing section splices and the vulcanizing of blowouts. The trade getter is the vulcanizing of all punctures and small cuts at an unusually low figure. This useful list can be secured from the W. D. Newerf Company by calling or mailing name on a postal card.

The W. D. Newerf Company are also agents for the Dorian remountable rim, and will make a special demonstration of the rim this week. An attendant will show the working of this unique rim. Any motorist can take the fully-inflated Miller off the wheel and put a new one on in two minutes without hurrying. Newerf will also take this opportunity of showing the new Miller casings, for which such long life is claimed.

A new non-skid tire, which has a raised tread with a cutaway section, is soon to be sent here.

The new tires have been shipped, and will be exhibited in Los Angeles some time during March. Newerf has been expecting this tire, but, having none of the details, refrained from making an announcement. The Miller company has been experimenting for two years to find what their experts considered an ideal non-skid, and they believe they have solved the problem.

How It Is Done.

PLANT SECRET DISCOVERED.

Mystery in Laboratory Easily Explained.

Flexibility of Steel Is Thoroughly Tested.

Machines in the Making Most Interesting.

It is a well known fact that while most of the automobile manufacturers welcome visitors to their plants each factory organization has its trade secrets. Many thousands visit the Studebaker Corporation plant during the year; no one has ever been refused who has shown a desire to see through the shops. Manufacturers of other makes of cars have availed themselves of this opportunity, some spending as much as several days there.

While all visitors are made welcome, few have noticed, in all probability, that there was one factory building in the Studebaker plant toward which the guides never led them. This is now known in the Studebaker organization as plant No. 10 and was what was formerly known as the home of the Ford Company. Not even another employee of the other plants of this concern has ever seen in this building back of the office, without a pass from the chief engineer.

The entire space of Plant No. 10 is given over to the Studebaker laboratory which is in three departments, the chemical, physical and the experimental. There is an immense drafting room. The establishment is the result of a policy adopted early in the history of the firm, to accept the word of no steel manufacturer, regarding the qualities of his output. Every shipment of steel designed for use in the cars made by the Studebaker Corporation is sampled and put through a searching chemical test and the slightest variation from the established formula causes the immediate rejection of the whole shipment.

The physical laboratory is probably the most interesting. Here are a number of powerful machines, designed for testing steels against twisting, pulling, rubbing and vibration. For each test there is a different machine. The limit of flexibility is determined by another big machine and all register automatically the amount of misuse the steel will stand up to the breaking point. In the records of this department are tests of hundreds of kinds of alloys. These tests have shown beyond a question what kind of steel is best for each part of a motor car. Alloys of cronium, vanadium, silicon, nickel and manganese are used in the manufacture of each E- M-F "30" and Flanders "20."

This plant is a complete automobile factory in itself. The cars made here are for the use of Studebaker Corporation only. There are in these cars innovations and inventions which have appealed to the engineers as worthy of a trial. Many of these have been tried and been disapproved, while a few have from time to time been added to the regular Studebaker models, after surviving tests which proved their value.

PROUD OF JACKSON.

New Forty-five Is Particularly Handsome Model When Fully Equipped.

Charles H. Thompson, Southern California agent for the Jackson line of cars, is enthusiastic over the new model which he received during the past week. It is the Model "45" and has all the lines of the most popular automobile. The new Jackson is a 45 horse-power and is a 4½ by 5½ long stroke motor, with cylinders cast in pairs. It has a wheel base of 118 inches which gives long rakish lines to the body.

Thompson says the equipment will include top with top hood, windshield, speedometer, gas tank, gas lamps and oil lamps, with full set of tools and will sell in Los Angeles for $1750. The car received is finished in a dark blue, and with the combination of a handsome body and the construction of the chassis the new model is bound to be well received by the automobile enthusiasts.

As the result of an increase in dues from $6 to $12 per annum, the Milwaukee Automobile Club has already received more money than the total receipts for dues during the entire year of 1911.

TRAFFIC RULES PUZZLE MANY.

Chicago Solves Many Hard Problems for Autoists.

Muffler Cut-Out Question Dealt With Sanely.

Lights on All Vehicles Universal Rule.

There are many evidences in different parts of the country of a sentiment in favor of general uniformity in traffic regulations. The greater attention that is being paid to this important question in all of the large cities has exerted a direct influence upon all communities where traffic has attained any reasonable proportions. In many cities and villages where traffic, due to the more frequent use of the automobile, has largely increased in recent years, this demand for proper regulations is taking the form of requiring suitable lights to be displayed on all vehicles after sundown, while, in more thickly populated centers, decisive action is being taken against the muffler cut-out on motor vehicles.

The growing sentiment for reasonable traffic regulations and uniformity has been indicated to a greater extent than ever before since the adoption by the committee representing the Touring Club of America at the recent American road congress of a series of model resolutions for traffic uniformity based on practical rules which have been successfully worked out in many large cities and embodied in many municipal ordinances.

On the subject of lights as an aid to safeguard all users of the public highways, the resolutions recommend that all vehicles should carry at least one lighted lamp of sufficient candle power to be visible at a distance of 200 feet, so placed as to be seen from the front and left side and a red light visible in the reverse direction. The use, in cities and villages, of non-dazzling headlights on all automobiles wherever the streets are adequately lighted was also urged.

On the subject of the muffler cut-out nuisance the resolution was to the effect that the use of the muffler cut-out in thickly settled sections and cities should be discontinued. Scores of requests from city officials throughout the country have been made to the Touring Club of America, for copies of these resolutions and that organization is now distributing them to the heads of municipalities, police officials, State motor vehicle administrative officials, highway authorities and civic organizations.

The desire upon the part of the Touring Club through its traffic committee to secure the enactment of uniform rules for traffic regulation is reflected in the ordinances recently passed by the city councils of Chicago and Atlanta. In the former city Sidney S. Gorham, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Chicago Automobile Club, was instrumental in securing the adoption of several of the principal recommendations urged by the Touring Club's traffic committee, of which he is a member.

The new Chicago traffic regulations are considered by far the most comprehensive yet adopted by any municipality and are sure to have a marked effect in solving the many problems in other cities connected with this important subject. Looking toward the abatement of the unnecessary use of warning signals the ordinance defines for the first time in the history of municipal legislation just what an adequate automobile signal is, by the adoption of one of the Touring Club's recommendations, that all motor vehicles shall be provided with an adequate warning signal which must produce an abrupt sound sufficiently loud to be heard under all conditions of traffic and that its use except as a warning of danger shall be punishable by a fine of $25.

As a result of several serious accidents caused by automobiles striking passengers alighting from street cars, the Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta requested the Touring Club of America to suggest some way to eliminate such accidents in the future through the enactment of proper traffic regulations. The provision in the Callan automobile law of New York State, which provides that "In approaching or passing a car of a street railway, which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight or embark, the operator of every motor vehicle shall slow down and if it be necessary for the safety of the public, he shall bring said vehicle to a full stop," was recommended and substantially incorporated in the ordinance passed by the Atlanta Council.

PORTO RICO IS AFTER OUR CARS.

AMERICAN MADE MACHINES IN DEMAND ON ISLAND.

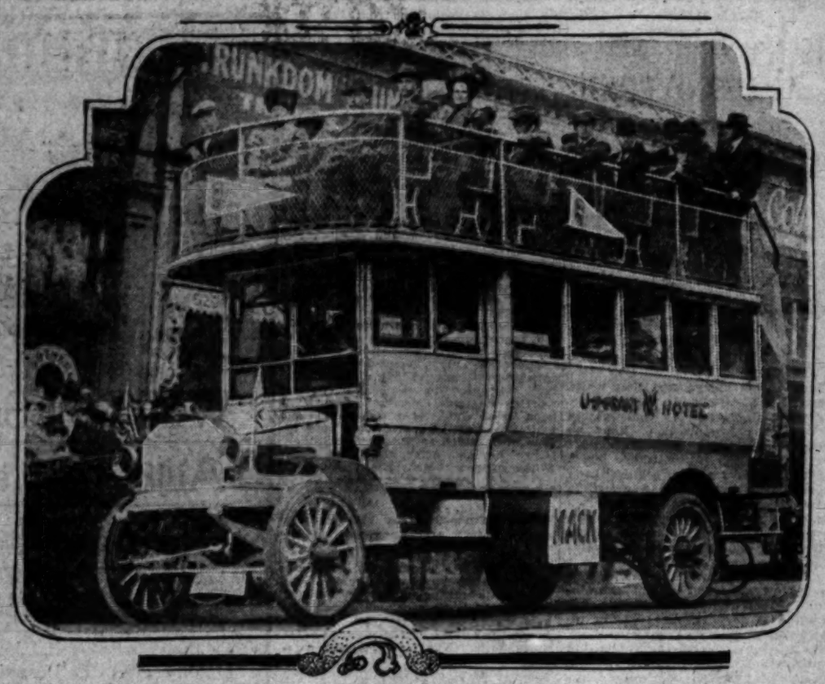
Motor Trucks Also Gaining in Favor and Natives Are Becoming Used to the Chug of the Engines Which Are Sent Spinning Over the Roads of the Land Far Away.

John B. Tower manager of the export department of the United States Tire Company recently returned from a month's visit in Porto Rico. He reports that the island is automobile hungry. Every ship bound for Porto Rico, according to Tower, has from two to six American cars aboard, yet they simply can't get the cars there fast enough for the people.

"There are at the present time a number of cars owned on the island as compared to the population," said the tire man. "The people are divided into two distinct classes, the very rich, and the very poor. As a result Porto Rico is proving a good market for good cars. Practically all the cars one sees there are American made.

"Motor trucks are rapidly coming into favor. There are at the present time, twenty-five of them in use and all American made. They are mostly owned by big plantations and are used in transporting native products from the interior to seaport towns."

While in Porto Rico Tower visited San Juan, Ponce, Mayaguez, Aguadilla, Arecibo and Humacao. The principal distributing point for United States tire on the island will be in San Juan, but they will be handled to each of the places named.



Giant Mack Truck, With Its Load of Passengers, Ready for a Round Trip Over the Roads.

This big carry-all has just been put into commission by the U. S. Grant Hotel, at San Diego, and is giving excellent service in the southern city. It will carry more passengers than any motor car now in operation in Southern California.

Sounds Good.

PROSPECT OF GOOD ROAD THROUGH TO SAN DIEGO.

THAT the State Highway Commission will resurface the coast road between San Diego and Los Angeles and assist in the construction of the highway to Imperial is the promise made the Board of Supervisors. After spending three days here securing rights of way for the entire system in San Diego county, as planned, Right of Way Agent C. C. Carleton left today for the North.

Carleton came here to secure easements to be considered by the State board at its next meeting. Because the County Highway Commission had secured these documents when the coast highway was built with county funds Carleton was confronted with no difficulty in acquiring the desired data. The County Highway Commission is at work on the road to Imperial. It is understood that if the county funds will not permit entire construction of that road the State Commission will supply what is lacking.

According to statments made to Board of Supervisors the State commission will resurface the coast road the entire distance between here and the Orange county line. While the county commission graded the road and caused it to be surfaced where badly needed the road today in places is not in the best of shape. According to Supervisors Joseph Foster and T. J. Fisher, the State commission will convert it into a macadamized highway, the entire distance to Los Angeles.

When Right of Way Agent Carleton succeeds in securing easements over the entire route planned for Southern California active construction will be begun. While here Carleton was unable to state when this would be accomplished. Carleton was formerly right of way agent for the San Diego County Commission and works under Secretary A. B. Fletcher of the State commission, who was formerly secretary and engineer of the San Diego commission.

MOTOR TRUCKS MONEY SAVERS.

KNOX MAN MAKES SEVERAL STARTLING STATEMENTS.

Horses Are Outclassed by Giant Commercial Cars Which Show Their Superiority in Severe Test. Two-Horse Teams Against Gasoline Power, Fail to Make Good.

Charles F. Barrett, assistant sales manager of the Knox Automobile Company, believes that a truck can be made to pay for itself within a year's time. While this may seem hard to believe, it is nevertheless a fact. Barrett, to prove his belief, has the figures of a large trucking concern, which had a contract to remove all the city garbage, three miles from the city to a reducing plant, located in the outskirts.

"For five years this work has been done with horses," said Barrett, "and as the company was contemplating the purchase of motor trucks figures were kept of the actual cost of operation, including all items for use as a future basis of comparison. To do this work successfully with horses it was necessary to use five two-horse teams with trucks of three-ton capacity each, four of the teams making the trip three times a day, making eighteen miles, while one team had to make four trips a day, making twenty-four miles. This was found to be the most economical way of operation and including all items of expense, averaged over $6 per day, a team, or a total for the five teams of $30.

"Believing that they could reduce this expense by using a motor truck, the company purchased a Knox, six-ton truck, fitted with a fifty horse-power motor. Careful records were kept of this vehicle also, and the results so far are astonishing. Liberal allowance was made for tire repairs, depreciation, wages and all expenses and the total cost figured close to $15 per day. This single truck was found to be easily able to remove the entire forty-eight tons of refuse in a working day of ten hours, supplanting five two-horse teams and four drivers. The motor truck has thus affected a saving of $15 per day, or actually paid for its cost, $5200, in 347 working days."

HERE'S BIG BUSINESS.

Guy West Is Passing Out Federal Tires in Large Numbers at Local Supply House.

According to Guy M. West, manager for the Western Rubber and Supply Company, the Federal tire factory in Milwaukee is increasing its working force daily. They are also keeping a large number of men employed in erecting new buildings and adding new equipment. It is one of the best equipped tire factories in the world and has expert workmen under the supervision of the oldest tire makers in America.

The local supply company is doing a large amount of business in the sale of Federal tires. The three stores, one in San Diego, one in Pasadena, and the local store at No. 1011-13-15 South Olive street, keep large stocks of the Federal cases and tubes and this department is under the supervision of expert tire men.

TRUCKS CLEAN CITY.

In the service of the Kansas City Street Department are three two-ton trucks and three three-ton machines. Each has been found to do the work which was formerly done by from seven to nine teams of horses. At the end of three months' service, an analysis of operating costs was made by the street commissioner as follows: Average cost of horses and wagons doing the work equivalent to that of one truck, per month, $960; average cost of one truck, per month, $125.25; saving due to use of one truck, $825.75; saving from six trucks at same rate, $5014.50. These figures do not include such items as depreciation, insurance and tires, but allowing for these, there would still be a big margin.

Hupp Corporation Secures Large Sum and Is Willing to Change Its Cognomen.

There is always a "nigger in the woodpile." Now that he has been uncovered the following communication received direct from the R. C. H. Corporation is of interest. This concern claims to have secured concessions which are worth a great deal and also claims to have been paid a large sum by the Hupp Motor Car Company in settlement of the differences which caused so much comment recently.

Here is the communication:

"Further information with regard to the settlement of the litigation between the Hupp Motor Car Company and the Hupp Corporation of Detroit discloses the fact that a condition of the consent of the Hupp Corporation to change its name to the R-C-H Corporation was the payment of $42,041 due the Hupp Corporation from the Hupp Motor Car Company. Upon payment of this amount and the consent of the Hupp Motor Car Company to the use of the names of R. C. and L. G. Hupp in individual business or as a partnership name, the Hupp Corporation agreed to a consent decree."

Sending a Wireless Message from the Sands of Lower California Direct to The Times.

Cartercar and the wireless crew out on the Mexican desert testing the air currents. Above, the car is just being loaded preparatory to a fast dash toward Ensenada. Below, J. B. Walker is ready to intercept a message from a ship at sea. Warren Vance, who is sitting on the running board, is taking one of the messages received from Point Loma. The kite, which Jesse Buttum is about to fly, is to be used to catch a long distance message from Los Angeles. The Cartercar is many miles from a railroad or telegraph station.

Far, Far Away.

LAND OF GREAT SILENCES CHARMS CARTERCAR CREW.

Vast Deserts Hold Mysteries Yet Unfathomed and Wireless Men Are Amazed at Wide Level Stretches Where No Roads Exist—Teeth Chatter in Cold When Blankets Are Stolen—Glad to Be Home Again.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

TIA JUANA, March 9.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] We have scoured the deserts of Lower California, our wireless apparatus has been erected at almost every village of any size on the Mexican side of the line, and we are coming home with good news to tell our friends. While we found many Mexicans who do not like Americans, we found many more with whom we could fraternize. Our trip is one of the greatest ever taken by an automobile.

The Mexicans never ceased wondering how our apparatus worked or why the motor snapped so angrily. They could not believe that we could understand any of those strange dots and dashes. It was too much for them to think we could talk to our friends in Los Angeles from a point near Ensenada.

We did not go to this seaport. We were not afraid, but out of respect to the desires of many we did not try to tease any Mexicans who had shown a desire not to wish to see us. The nearer we drove to the coast, the better was our opportunity to catch passing steamer. Our experiments were amazing.

The vastness of Lower California appealed to me. We are not far away from the Mexican border, but it seems we are in a wilderness where the American has never lived. Civilization is far away, apparently, but we are really only about 200 miles from Los Angeles.

WILD BULL.

When we left Los Angeles in the Cartercar none of us knew how well the friction-driven machine would perform. When we hit the first big sand dunes we were given an object lesson that will make each one of us boosters forever for the Cartercar. She just dug her nose into the sand and bucked her way through like a wild bull.

Not for a moment during the trip did we have the least worry about the machine. We have crossed many miles of the worst roads I have ever seen, but we came through without trouble of any kind and were always in readiness for a dash back to the Land of Canaan, as we called the country we had left.

There are many square miles of good land in Mexico. We passed acres and acres of country which, if properly handled, could be made to bloom as the rose. We saw dismal areas on this side of the line, which are as fertile as the Valley of the Nile, but the revolution talk is such that no one cares to work with a view to the future until everything is settled.

Wherever we went there is an air of suspicion. The people looked on us [illegible] and then with alarm. Even when we explained our mission they seemed to think we had been sent into their country by the United States government to either help them or stir up more trouble.

We will be home to enjoy ourselves with our friends on Sunday and it will seem so good to be back in the Sunny Southland once more. One of the things that has impressed each one of us is the need for development in this country. If the United States intervened thousands of Mexicans would welcome our troops. If our boys in blue crossed the line it would indeed be a march of triumph from one end of this land to the other.

LONE LAND.

It is now a problem, whenever we meet troops of any kind, as to whether they are insurrectos or loyalists. We have been treated well enough, but the country, though quiet, is lonesome as Iceland in midwinter. There is positively no protection if a band of bandits swooped down on our outfit.

Our most thrilling experience came at a point about twelve miles from Volcano Lake. A troop of soldiers met us. They took our bedding and provisions. The loss was not great, but it was like losing a fortune for us. We certainly needed the bedding and we wanted the food. As far as the whisky was concerned, we were glad to part with it, as the snakes are harmless and not one of us believed in that old fallacy about snake bites, anyway.

This is a country of vast distances. As far as the eye can reach it is level. One of the things that impressed me particularly is the possibilities of exploring. We passed over a country through which an automobile had never been driven before. We found little settlements where the Cartercar was an object of great curiosity. We found Mexicans who had never before seen an automobile.

The roads are better than we thought. Except for about 100 miles the car could be driven easily. This 100 miles, however, was the hardest bucking we have ever done. It was a fight through sand hills where there are no roads. Of course, we made a mistake crossing the line below Jaqumba. It was foolhardy, but an experience I would not have missed for a fortune.

TEETH CHATTER.

When we dived into the wilderness it was with misgivings. We were told that it would be impossible to make the trip to Calexico. We were determined to get to the C.-M. ranch, about which we had heard so much. We got there, but it was a fight such as I never again expect to experience.

Far out on the wilderness we met the bandits who took our clothes. Then our troubles commenced. The night was bitter cold. We gave them our flags, because they would have taken them, and we passed over everything we had. Then we waited for the shades of night.

Never in my life have I been so cold. People talk about the hot desert. Tell them a little about the cold desert. The sands were like ice. We could have played tunes with our teeth, they chattered so merrily. That night was the longest of my life.

Warren Vance struck an idea about midnight when it seemed we would freeze to death. We had almost run ourselves down when Vance cranked the motor of the Cartercar and we began to get warmer. It was reckless, as gasoline is costly, practically priceless on the desert. We kept the motor singing away and we got warm. Perhaps if we had thought of it sooner we could have scared away the robbers.

When that sunrise came I have never seen Old Sol more beautiful than on that cold morning. We cheered until our lungs were sore and then we started for Calexico. Two of the sights I will never forget were the sunrise after that cold night and the wide fields of alfalfa on the C.-M. rancho after the trip across the desert.

Now we are home again and glad of it. There is lots to learn in Mexico and we found out much, but the half has not been told. It is a country of great possibilities, and, perhaps, if things continue, we will have a chance to learn more of the desert land under different circumstances.

Thrilling.

FORD DASHES OVER THE ICE.

Sensational Race With Little Twenty.

Glides Over Glassy Table on Novel Stunt.

Cracks Are Passed Safely in Midget Car.

Dashing over Lake Erie in an open automobile at fifty miles an hour with the ice cracking all around you and your hands and face freezing, your feet paralyzed with the cold, may be good sport, but a party who recently made such a trip in a Ford car have not indicated that they care to repeat the performance.

Charles Stensen, a Port Clinton, O., newspaper man, volunteered to take the chief warden of the Ohio Game and Fish Commission out to the State hatchery at Put-In-Bay. They made the trip all right and another newspaper man who accompanied them had this to say of the expedition:

"Without robes or blankets and with the mercury at zero we left Port Clinton. We made a sixty-mile dash, with only occasional slackening speed for cracks in the ice.

"As we darted onward, I found that my hands were gradually joining my feet in that land where hands and feet will not be needed at all. The thumb of my right hand went last. I felt a tight rim of cold that bound my flesh from chin to eyebrows. My skin seemed padlocked or it would have peeled right off. The cracking of the ice behind us did not make a hit with me; the only consolation I got out of the situation was the devilishly cool remark of Stensen, who said: 'She's got to crack pretty fast, if she wants to crack ahead of this car.'

"Far as the eye could see there stretched in glistening evenness the great ice table. Here and there drifts of snow lay in piles; we plunged at them, into them and through them, at a mad clip. Once we encountered an ice wall two feet high. Great cakes of ice were piled up in all kinds of fantastic shapes. Stensen pushed his machine into the hummock. We rocked here and there like a ship on an angry sea. It was a see-saw progress, but finally we emerged on an open sea of ice."

"We saw most of the cracks in the ice, but failed to anticipate the biggest one and at a fifty-mile clip we hit a crack fourteen inches wide. We were on it, bumped up again and onward, without injury to machine or men.

"I might as well own it—I feel real fond of dry land again."

IMPROVE THE ROADS.

The Chicago-Milwaukee Road Association is effecting a permanent organization, the main object of which will be to repair and improve at least one principal highway between the two cities, and keep it in good repair winter and summer, not alone for pleasure car traffic, but for commercial vehicles and horse-drawn vehicles. The project is backed by the Milwaukee Automobile Club and Milwaukee Citizens' Business League from the Milwaukee end, and the Chicago Motor Club from the Chicago end.

Congratulations.

LINGENFELDER STEPS UP NOTCH.

GOODYEAR MANAGER IS GIVEN NEW BERTH.

Makes Good Here, Concern Is Incorporated Under Laws of California—Eddie Becomes Vice-President—Also Member Board of Directors With Added Honors.

Eddie Lingenfelder, manager of the local Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, has been made vice-president of the new company, which has recently been organized in California by the Goodyear company. The new concern will be called the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of California, and will have a capital stock of $100,000.

During the recent visit of N. B. Taylor of San Francisco, district manager for the Goodyear people in California, to Akron, the headquarters of the company, the matter was discussed, and it was decided to incorporate under the laws of California. Taylor strongly urged that some recognition be shown the western State as due them for the great support they had given the company in the past.

The office in Akron believes in the ability of their Coast representative, and, upon Taylor's return to California, he was authorized to go ahead with the matter of organizing a company which would be distinctly a California concern. The following officers have been elected: N. B. Taylor, San Francisco, president; E. Lingenfelder, Los Angeles, vice-president; J. F. Wise, San Francisco, secretary and treasurer. The board of directors will be N. B. Taylor, Eddie Lingenfelder, J. F. Wise and H. B. Hall of Akron, O. The headquarters of the new company will be in San Francisco.

Meteoric Career.

LONG TOURS NOW ARE EASY.

Tallwell Gives Helpful Hints to Autoists.

Man Who Made Good in Year Gives Straight Talk.

Warner Autometer Chief Is Good Authority.

"For the Eastern visitor who is taking advantage of our beautiful weather and climate, to tour extensively in Southern California," said W. H. Halliwell, of the Halliwell Company, recently, "there are many things to learn. This season there has been a little rain that the average Eastern man may enjoy many long tours. Those people should be told that any day may bring downpours and that these downpours will prove more or less troublesome in certain sections.

"For the tourist who does not care for longer drives than to Pasadena, Riverside or Redlands, there is nothing to fear from rains. The roads are in first-class shape almost every mile of the way and the rains will have little effect on them. On the new boulevards of Los Angeles the surface is little worse than the asphalt pavement. Care should be used on trips to Santa Barbara and San Diego. There is no danger of being tied up but the danger comes in being caught in the mountains without chains.

"There was a time when the winter rains made touring almost impossible as the roads would be in such shape that it was entirely out of the question, but I believe the roads have been improved in such a way that it will insure good traveling most of the year around and as long as a tourist is prepared for such emergencies there is no reason for not undertaking long tours."

WILLIE KNOWS.

Halliwell is in a position to know whereof he speaks, as he has been doing extensive traveling along the Coast for years. W. H. Halliwell came to Los Angeles a few years ago and was absolutely unknown. He took charge of a branch which had never been a paying proposition and built up the Warner Instrument trade until it is now the leader on the Coast. He went to San Francisco, Seattle and Portland and started stores there and has had the same success that he has had in Los Angeles.

Less than a year ago the new Halliwell Company was organized with an increased capital and new stores have been secured in the leading cities.

C. E. Halliwell is in charge of the branch in Los Angeles, while W. H. Halliwell is the head of the company and spends his time between all the stores. The company is now firmly established in their new quarters at No. 403 West Pico street. The concern handles the Warner Autometer, Martin Shock Absorbers, Saunders Motor Starters, Right Jubricants and Right oil.

GOSSIP ALONG GASOLINE ROW

BY BERT SMITH

Jack Prince leaves tonight for Chicago to build another motordrome. He is through with the motorcycle racing game forever, he says. Now he is in line for a speedfest that sounds right. He will build a speedway in the East that should be even as great a card as Jack things it will be. The well-known designer has made many friends during his stay in Los Angeles and is ready for another big enterprise.

The Greater Los Angeles Auto Speedway is to be the name of the new motordrome which Jack Prince expects to build in this city when he returns in a few months. His dream of a mile stadium on which motor cars will race at 100 miles an hour, within ten blocks of the heart of the city, may come true. Prince has all his plans made and even has chosen a site. It is said the money is in sight for the big undertaking.

Barney Oldfield is coming here for the Santa Monica road race. The former speed king will visit Los Angeles the latter part of April and will remain here until after the big road race. He may be seen on a racing car, but this is doubtful, as Barney would have to be reinstated by the Automobile Association of America, and that is also a doubtful proposition at the present reading. The big chief has enemies and may be unable to settle matters until another year has passed away. In the meantime, Barney is enjoying himself as representative for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, and is drawing a big salary.

A. Bertero, factory representative for the Martin shock absorber, is here. He expects to remain for some time. He is making his headquarters at the Halliwell Brothers Company. This is his first visit to this city, but he declares the opportunities on the Pacific Coast are far greater even than they are in the East at the present time.

L. C. Buxton is the new agent for the Moon line of cars. Buxton was formerly with the Simplex and later with the Alco. He has hit upon a line of cars that made good in the East. They are to be introduced here by the young dealer in such a way that they should make a strong bid for popularity. Buxton says he found the Moon factory one of the best-equipped plants in the East, and was so struck with the cars as shown at the Chicago show that he closed with the deal as soon as possible.

The tenth 1912 limousine was sold by Don Lee last week, to R. I. Rogers, vice-president of the National Bank of California, who purchased the Cadillac for Mrs. Rogers.

Preparations are being made by the Howard Automobile Company to receive the second shipment of Buick cars, which will arrive in California the middle of the coming week. The first trainload was unloaded and delivered by the Howard organization in five days, and the company has been unable to deliver cars for nearly two weeks. A large percentage of the second trainload are already ordered, and indications are that this immense shipment will also be delivered in quick time.

Y. R. del Valle, local agent for the Brush, who recently returned from the East, is delighted with the light delivery Brush which was built after his own design. Mr. del Valle says that he has worked unceasingly for over two years to get the factory to build him such a car. This nifty little machine looks like the real goods and at the low price should appeal to many. The first carload of these machines arrived yesterday and shipments hereafter will follow one week apart until the allotment of 350 cars has been disposed of.

Richard Carlson has joined the sales force of the Hudson Motor Sales Company. Dick was given his schooling at the Lee Motor Car Company. When Don Lee gets hold of a man he at least teaches him how to get out a large number of cars. This seems to be Dick's plan, judging from his work already with the Hudson. He is running his brother, Willie, a hard race for high man in the sales line.

Wish we could do something to clear up the motorcycle racing situation. Pete Young is a manager who will make good if given a chance. If he can kick the present referee out of the ring he will have an opportunity to give the public a racing bee that will be worth watching. Let's get in and fight for a square deal. There are enough good men in the motorcycle industry to demand this. The public wants the races and it is up to the management to provide the right kind of sport. Watch Pete Young when he gets into action.

"I do not propose an endurance run for the purpose of replacing racing," said Boothe. "It is amusing to read some of these interviews against racing. One which appeared recently, stated that an endurance run does much more to show the public what a car will do than racing. Any motorist knows how absurd this is. In a 200-mile road race a car is subjected to more strain and wear than in 10,000 miles of touring. A car that will go through a hard road race will certainly do any touring that anybody would want to take, and any man who would say that any kind of a touring run could be harder or more of a test on a car than the Phoenix race, must have a fine knowledge of motor cars.

"I also notice that manufacturers who are always howling against road races are usually makers, who have tried racing and always failed to build a car that would stand the test. Perhaps that is the real reason they oppose racing. But why not have both. Let's have the races for those who want to tackle that game and the touring contests for the owners. I would suggest a strict, up to every rule, endurance run for the dealers, and an easy schedule, no technical penalty run, for owners."

A Group of Song Birds in the King Silent "38," Outside the Hotel Green in Pasadena.
This is one of the new cars just arrived which has already created a sensation in the East. In the center is Mr. Marcal, Louis Dreyfus, with his hat raised, and Mrs. Dreyfus and Madame Lamont and C. A. Jenson, one of the well-known automobile-body designers of this city.

FOR BETTER HIGHWAYS.

More than half million dollars is available for the work of the Pennsylvania Highway Department in the improvement of State roads, through a decision given recently by the attorney-general in regard to the disposal of money derived from automobile registrations and licenses. The probabilities are that a goodly portion of the money will be used for highway maintenance. The State is required, by the terms of the Sproul Main Highway Act, to maintain the roads it takes over, and as all except turnpikes must be secured by the department before June 1st, it will mean that such work will be necessary.

UP TO THE DRIVER.

When a car is on the road there are many changes in conditions which affect the motor, and are not noticeable to any of the five senses of the driver. In one case it may be a slight grade; in another a sandy road, or a slightly increased or decreased speed. Even were the senses acute enough to notice these differences, it would be impossible for the operator to change the advance enough, but not too much, to meet the theoretical and practical requirements. And yet, to get the perfect result, such change is indispensable. There is no question but that the correct timing of the spark is greatly to be desired.

James Canavan has made a great record during the absence of Warren Vance on the Cartercar wireless trip. Jim has sold every Cartercar that has arrived in the past two weeks and is two carloads ahead on sales for the coming few days. He is making a record with both the Cartercar and the Halladay and of course is Track.

The Los Angeles High School will meet Manual Arts High March 13. The meet is duped to be a close run, as in the instances the Vermonters seem to have the best of it, while in the singles, Los Angeles will have a majority of points. The hurdles and high jumps will go to Manual if Kent is allowed to compete. In the quarter Chronkite ought to give Johnson, the Los Angeles boy, a good race, Tolworth of Manual is good for the 440 and the mile, having defeated the latter in the exceptionally good time of 2m. 4s. The shot will go to Manual, Franklin having done 40ft. 6in. In the pole jump, unless Brooks spills the beans, will go to Manual. In the 220 Sargent of Los Angeles is a very good and ought to give Wade of Manual a hard pull. Johnson and Tolworth of Los Angeles are sure to win the century.

Taking the meet all in all, it will be interesting and worthy of journeying to Bovard field Tuesday afternoon, March 19 to see.

Baseball.

Coach Andrews walked all over the Out-Door boys in a game which resulted in the latter's loss by a score of 16 to 1. E. Volker and C. Ward were battery for the St. Andrew's team, while E. Hallet and E. Hare were for the Out-Door team. They were lined up as follows:

St. Andrews—J. Genual, shortstop; Ward, catcher; R. Hopkins, first base; J. Hahen, second base; Powers, third base; E. Father, pitcher; P. Hare, right field; R. Maloney, left field.

"Green Badge."

The contest for the pupils of the Los Angeles named "Bronze Badge." It was postponed by the Public Elementary School on account of rain. The contests consist of a run, jump and a throw. The tests for this badge by running 50 yards (11-5s); standing broad jump, 6 feet; a basketball throw of 40ft. The contests have a 75-yard dash (10 2-5s); a standing broad jump of 6ft. 3in.; a basketball throw of 70 feet. The seniors have a 100-yard dash; a standing broad jump of 7ft. 6in., and a basketball throw of 80ft.

The meet will be followed by a game of baseball between the fifth and sixth grades; a soccer game between the fifth grades, and a relay contest between the Mr. Rothwell, principal of the Pasadena Normal has charge of the entertainment is all the boys and lookers-on will be the contests given and

A Hike.

Some of the 135 boys under the care of C. S. Fliker will take a hike to the country or some place near there. It will be fun for all of them. Their next walk will be to Pasadena, where they will be the guests of the Cambilin Johnson Company in the pleasure dip in the pool that was built of solid rock. This hike will be three miles, making a six-mile jaunt. On their return they will cross the new bridge at the corner of North Broadway and Avenue 21. They will learn how the machinery and building of concrete bridges will be explained to them in charge. The boys expect to start early and always show up with good appetites and early.

Basketball.

The Broadway Department Store basketball teams played basketball games last night, resulted in Hamburger's favor. The score was 16 to 12. They were lined up as follows:

Hamburger's—E. Fugel and N. Hall, forwards; E. Long, center; H. Foster, guards.

Broadway—G. Webster and R. Tilly, forwards; G. Walsh, center; W. Gray and C. McDonald, guards.

Broadway store—N. Edgely and E. Edgely, forwards; P. Bordon, center; E. Long and F. Borton, guard.

Baraca Boys.

The physical department of the Baraca classes of various churches are starting a campaign of athletic activities. On next Friday their programme will start off with a list of basketball games. These games will be between the different Baraca classes. Speed and excitement is expected during these contests.

A Hike for Fun.

There will be about twenty-five boys between the ages of 12 and 16 years under the management of secretary of boys' department, L. F. Poley, who will leave the Y.M.C.A. at 8 a.m., Monday, April 1. They will go by car to Sierra Madre and hike from there to Sturdevent's camp, where they will roost for the night. At 6 a.m. reveille sounds and after breakfast camp breaks for another day's journey to West Fork Cabin. While there they will enjoy a real old-time campfire and spread their blankets for the night. At sunrise the next morning they will leave for Colby Springs and will pitch their tents for another day of fun and frolic. In the evening they will be entertained by a minstrel show which all boys like. After a good night's rest in the hay, the bugle will wake up the "Out-Door Boys" for still another tramp to Sweitzer's camp, where they will stop for lunch with L. B. Lawson, director of the educational department of the Y.M.C.A. After rompling around the camp for a few hours they will prepare for a homeward journey after about four days of outing and enjoyment. On arrival at the Y.M.C.A. building they will take the legal constitutional bath and a short rest. Then with their packs on their backs and smiles that won't come off they will depart for home. They can boast of going about fifty-two miles of tramping and outing. Each boy will bring his own utensils and paraphernalia.

Basketball.

The Avenue-Twenty-one Intermediate and Thirtieth-streets played basketball under difficulties in the rain. There was much slipping and the slipping seemed to be in favor of Twenty-first boys, as they put it over their opponents by a score of 25 to 8. Thirtieth-streets need to practice a little more in the rain and perhaps the next rainy day can slip one over on the Twenty-first boys.

Fourteenth-street School All-Stars defeated the Downey boys on the latter's grounds by a score of 4 to 2. It was an exciting game all the way through and was watched by quite a large attendance.

Disputed Game.

The conductor of the Outdoor Boy does not wish to take any sides on the question of who is right or who is wrong in any controversies that may arise from time to time in any schoolboy athletic competitions. However, we will be glad to publish upon request statements of both sides of the case that are issued by the captain or manager of either team. The following is an exact copy of a protest that was filed with Dr. Beach, physical director of the Los Angeles city schools, of a basketball game that was played between the intermediate schools of Avenue 21 and Fourteenth street.

Thomas Leahy, Fourteenth-street captain, seems only to be actuated by a spirit of fair play in filing this protest and not by sore-headedness.

"Protested Game."

"We, the Fourteenth-street basketball team, object to the decisions that were rendered us in Monday's game by the referee of Avenue 21. I, Thomas Leahy, as captain, enter this protest on grounds that the Avenue 21 referee did not umpire the entire game and therefore did not have a right to umpire the second half. The rule says: 'A basketball game shall have an umpire and a referee throughout the game.' The referee from Avenue 21 made four successive rank decisions that were uncalled for, which robbed us out of a game that we would have won if we had had fair play.

"Another rule is that 'no player on either side shall have a right to speak while a foul is being thrown' (rule 21.) This rule was entirely ignored.

"We remain, hoping to have this righted.

[Signed] "THOMAS LEAHY, "Captain."

Bowling.

The bowling competition that was rolled off at the Recreation Center alleys between Recreation and Downey resulted in victory for the former. The teams lined up as follows:

Recreation—	Av.
L. Cowan	189
W. Banbee	160
P. Hastings	135
Total	484
Downey—	Av.
Joe King	145

Baseball.

Recreation Center and Echo Park played an exciting game yesterday on Downey grounds.

Entertainment.

There will be an entertainment at Recreation Center grounds Saturday afternoon and a musical programme will be furnished by outside talent.

Basketball.

The basketball league of playgrounds will open their series of games next week. Many good games are expected from this league, and much rivalry will be shown between the teams competing.

Baseball.

Sacred Heart school baseball team is at active practice and has an open schedule for some games with teams of its class.

The Mothers' Friday Evening Club of Recreation Center is furnishing a programme and giving free lessons in gymnasium, cooking and dramatic art once a week. The mothers wish to have their husbands present if they see fit to attend this meeting of muscle and pastry.

Belvedere Meets.

The Belvedere school boys are all enthused over their coming meets in The Times Camp series. One boy in Belvedere school No. 1 and one in school No. 2 will win a trip to the camp next Saturday morning, when their meets are scheduled to be run off on the grounds, located between the two schools. The plum goes to the boy in each school who scores the highest number of points, whether he is a senior or junior.

Arlington Heights.

The boys of the Arlington Heights school will hold their home track meet next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The boys have all purchased new track suits and are equipped in great shape for the races. The meet will probably be held on the Harvard grounds. Paul Reston, Nengent Thomas and Walter Wuesthoff are among the early entrees and boosting hard for the track meet.

For the Boys' Good.

A joyous time is expected March 16, when the third annual banquet of the Slauson playgrounds will be held under the management of the Woman's Club of Slauson playgrounds.

Director J. E. McCarthy will act as toastmaster and the guests of honor will be Mayor Alexander, Chief of Police Sebastian, James Slauson of the Playground Commission, City Librarian Percy and his assistants, State and city officials of the Mothers' Congress, and Mrs. William Gould, chairman of the Banquet Committee, who will be assisted by Mrs. George Weigle, Mrs. Spencer Pratt, Mrs. S. Smith and Mrs. James Gordon. Lady Director Mrs. Steinman will act as hostess and will be assisted by Mrs. Beede, Mrs. A. A. Schaeffer, Mrs. C. C. Noble and Mrs. Alfred Small. Mrs. Wursham will be manager of decorations, with Mrs. Norman and Mrs. Marlow. The Committee of Finance will be Mrs. Ayers, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Hamlin.

A fine programme has been planned by Mrs. John Yates of Hollywood and Mrs. Frank Shaw, president of the club.

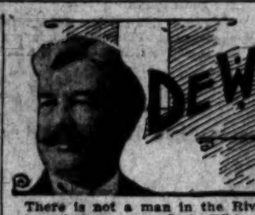
There will be numerous others present and music will be furnished by the Slauson band.

Educational.

On next Friday the children of the city schools will have a day at the Land Show. A small fee of 10 cents has been arranged for their admittance. A most exquisite exhibition will be given, as the interesting exhibits have been coming in very fast during the last few days. A fine programme for the children has been brought together with all sorts of things to please and amuse the little ones that go on that day. Decorations are of the best, making it the most attractive exhibit that has been given in many years and is well worth the time to go and take in the different sights that will keep one's eyes busy in all corners of the show.

Present Arms.

The boys' drill team of the Sierra Madre schools is going through its military stunts each week with a lot of enthusiasm and interest. This drill work among the boys is very creditable and should be encouraged. Director Mead has his heart and soul in the work and deserves the hearty support of all the boys' parents. Principal W. R. Maltbie is encouraging the work in every way possible and has set aside one of the school rooms for the use of the team. The boys of the drill team are endeavoring to go to The Times Camp in a body and are now working to meet the requirements, which are unusually light for so many privileges. They expect thirty boys to be there when the bugle sounds.



DE WITT VAN COURT'S COLUMN.

There is not a man in the Rivers camp that can see Jack White in the coming fight next Saturday afternoon. Joe Rivers himself speaks with more confidence about his chances than I have ever heard him. He said "I am feeling better than I ever did, I also know that I am stronger and faster and I intend to give White a good licking and will not be long getting to work when the bell rings."

This is more talking than I have ever heard him do. He looks and works every bit as well as he talks. After three rounds with Audy Rivers, three with Charlie Dalton and two with Battling Chico, Joe Levy, his manager, said that he was just at the weight that he wanted him, at this time.

Joe wore a bandage around his stomach when working, a pretty good proof that he is over weight. Rooney spoke with the same connidence as Levy, and said that there would be nothing to the fight but Joe.

Andy said, "I, if any one, should know if Joe has improved, as I usually take the most of the punching. This time he sends them in so fast that several times. I was wondering if I was not boxing with three or four men instead of one, and those punches are hurting worse than ever when they land."

Little Battling Chico said, "I used to think I was fairly fast when I boxed with Joe before, but I feel as slow as an ice wagon when he gets started." Charlie Dalton said, "he is hitting like a middleweight and I will be glad when he is through training."

Each and every one think that Joe Rivers will be champion some day. Levy said that he hoped they would not bring over that Australian champion for Wolgast, as he wanted Ad to meet Rivers on next Fourth of July, and intends to give Joe just one more match after he beats White, between now and next July.

Rivers has bought himself a new violin and has started to practice again; he is trying to teach Willie Rooney some Spanish songs. He first plays the air on the instrument to give Rooney the swing of the tune, then Willie takes a chance at it, but has given it up in disgust.

Joe sprung a new one on him the other night, Rooney thought he was playing, "Where the River Shannon Flows," and was all smiles, but when told by Levy that it was a Spanish song, he grabbed his hat and took a run to Ocean Park and listened to some of that good old Irish stuff that Curley Monroe is pulling off. "No more of that chili concarne stuff for me," says Willie, "I am going to stick to the Shamrocks from now on when it comes to singing."

Rivers says that if he did not have Levy, Rooney, Chico and his brother Andy around, the training would become monotonous to him very soon.

Levy further said, "I know that Jack White is the best man that they have brought out from the East at his weight, but you will have to show me that he can beat Joe, I have many reasons to believe that he will be invincible for some time to come, he is improving so fast each time he fights and trains."

There seems to be some hitch about a return match between Fagan and Herrick. Joe Levy, who is managing Fagan, says that he thinks Gilmore is trying to dodge Fagan and wants to match Herrick with Mantell. Fagan is a real middleweight. He can fight at 154 pounds which is the real weight in that class. One hundred and fifty eight is a special weight and a championship cannot be won at that weight. Bill Aldridge, who knows Mantell well, says, "Mantell cannot make 158 pounds unless he goes to the baths" and also, says that he weighed 172 when he fought Papke a few weeks ago in Sacramento.

McCarey is very favorably impressed with Fagan, and thinks the next champion in that class will be a young fellow much like him. If Levy does not land Herrick for Fagan he will get Howard Morrow, Tommy Ryan's new aspirant for the honors in that class.

Joe Myers is training down at Venice and is much peeved to think he has been offered a semi-windup to the next fight that will take place at Vernon on the 30th inst. Joe and his father both seem to think that he is entitled to a main event. He has been offered a match with Bobby Waugh and is willing to meet him or any one else provided it is a main event.

Father Myers says that Joe has five years and a half experience and is entitled to some recognition. I called his attention to the fact that while he might have had all that experience, around training camps, it counted for nothing as a drawing card. The public are all from Missouri and have to be shown.

Joe says that he was offered a match with Freddy Welsh by McCarey but had to turn it down on account of a sore hand, that he injured in his fight with Jimmy Giblin, and if he was good enough then for a main event then he is now and will take nothing else. Myers is a very promising boy and can fight, but I believe he would do better to take the best thing that comes along until the fans are satisfied that he can make good.

This has been the course that all fighters have had to take and work their way up to the top. Myers is willing to fight any body in the lightweight class, not barring Wolgast, and seems to think as his father does that he should be given the chance regardless of the opinion of others.

A large field for the motor truck is open in the coal delivery business, and demonstrations are daily making converts to the truck way out of skeptics. The truck makers in many cases have conducted tests, perhaps, as much for their own information as in the hope of selling their machines to the parties in whose delivery systems they have installed a truck for a test period.

This Splendid Delivery Car---$1675

The First Real Commercial Car at Such a Figure

Here is the delivery car that progressive dealers have been looking for—the car for which buyers have been waiting.

The Lippard-Stewart is the first low-priced commercial car to embody all the up-to-date features. Features which buyers have learned to demand, but which heretofore could be secured only in commercial cars selling up to $2500.

Consider these important points on the Lippard-Stewart:

1. Four Cylinder Monobloc Motor.
2. Selective Transmission.
3. Multiple Disc Clutch.
4. Shaft Drive.
5. Special Timken Rear Axle.
6. Left Hand Steering.
7. Bosch Magneto Single Ignition.
8. Thermo-Siphon Cooling.
9. Special Spring Suspension.
10. Handsome Lines—Beautiful Finish.

Here is a full sized delivery car scientifically designed by experienced automobile men for hard commercial work. A car that offers all the service, economy and satisfaction anyone could possibly demand in a delivery car—and all for a low price. All types of bodies.

Opportunity for Live Dealers

We want a live dealer for Los Angeles and any other open territory. The commercial car field offers big money-making opportunities. Nearly every good retail business is a prospect. Wire or write for our liberal proposition.

The Oil for Endurance

Premier Motor Mfg. Co., Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30, 1911.

Standard Oil Company, Gentlemen:—On the recent Ocean to Ocean run of the Motor Worlds, Polarine Oil, Transmission Lubricants, and Greases were used on all the cars.

The lubrication of Polarine was ideal, and there was notable freedom from carbon deposit.

The Polarine Transmission Lubricants and Greases furnished equally satisfactory service.

Very truly yours, J. G. MORMAN, Secretary Motor Transit.

POLARINE stands up under the severest tests.

MANY ENTRIES RECEIVED FOR BIG MARATHON RACE.

Almost One Hundred Names of Entrants Already in. Much Interest Shown Among Business Men—U.S.C., Los Angeles Athletic Club and Soldiers Are to Be Strongly Represented.

BY OWEN R. BIRD

DURING the past three weeks there has been a lull in regard to the Times Modified Marathon, which will take place April 20, over the streets of Los Angeles, covering a distance of twelve miles. During the quiet period the entries for the race have been coming in steadily to Secretary H. H. Eling at A. G. Spalding's, and at the desk of the writer at the Times Office. The list is now only four short of an even 100, and with one month and a half yet to go, the entry muster should count nearly 225 on the day of the great race.

Never in the athletic history of the South has an event assumed a more cosmopolitan nature than the Times Modified Marathon. From Dr. Edward Warman, aged 65, to little Charlie Perkins of the Page Military Academy, aged 15, the athletes in the race cover every possible branch of athletic enterprise in the South. The entries are coming from all over California and Arizona, and not only is every western section of the country represented, but the nations themselves will have athletes entered in the race.

BUSINESS MEN AROUSED.

The interest aroused among business men of the city is very noticeable. Many of the most prominent firms are offering trophies for various features of the race. Fesgans & Co. are to give a cup for one of the regular finishers. In addition to the twenty-five regular prizes and the bars, which will be given to every man finishing the course within the time limit of two hours, special prizes will be given for several side lines of the race.

H. H. Eling of A. G. Spalding's will give a cup for the best time made from the home of Gen. Otis, which is the last checking station on the course, to the finish at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. A. G. Spalding will also give cups to the oldest and the youngest finishers of the race. The Tufts-Lyon Arms Company will give a cup to one of the regular finishers, and Ed Tufts will pick out one of these special features later on for the donation of a cup. W. A. Johnstone is also down on the list with a cup for one of the finishers.

SPLENDID TROPHIES.

The prizes, which will be offered for this race, are well worth notice. Besides the trophies given for special features by different firms and public - spirited men of the city, twenty-five cups will be given to the first twenty-five men who cross the finish line. These cups will range from "The Times Trophy," which will stand fifteen inches high, to the little cup for the twenty-fifth place, which stands about four inches high. These are not the only men who will receive a token to remember the race by, for The Times is offering a gold bar to every athlete who finishes the course within the prescribed time limit of two hours.

There is another trophy which will cause considerable interest in the winning, and that is the cup offered by The Times for the team making the best score in the race. U.S.C., Co. A. of the Seventh Regiment, Co. F, Co. D, Co. C, the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A., and the Los Angeles Athletic Club have entered teams for this cup. The teams will be scored by the usual method employed in cross-country races, as follows: The position of each runner on the various teams will be counted in points, that is to say, team, then if Teschke should come in second he would score two for his team, then in Teschke should come in fifth he would score five for his team; if Torrance of U.S.C. came sixth he would score a half dozen for his team and if Teschke should come in eighth he would score a double quartette for the Cardinal. Now the point of this scoring is to make the lowest possible number of points, adding up the total of the position of the runners of each team, the squad with the lowest score to win the trophy.

MANY TEAMS ENTERED.

While speaking of teams it would not be a bad idea to go over the list of the squad now entered for the race. The U.S.C. Trojans will be represented by Arthur Torrance, Charlie Swiggett, Fred Teschke and Ralph Murphy. They are crack long distance runners, having taken many prizes in cross-country runs, and the Cardinal and Gold has every chance to be well represented in the big event.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club will run U.S.C. a close race in the matter of a team. Peter George, winner of the Venice-to-Los Angeles race February 22; George Haggart, who took second in the same race, and two others yet to be chosen, are to represent the L.A.A.C. as a team. It seems that the Los Angeles Athletic Club grew tired of having Peter George win their Marathons as an unattached runner, so threw the membership net over him and from now on he will run under the L.A.A.C. colors. The Y.M.C.A. has a team of three men entered in M. H. Harnstein, Eberhard Johnson and A. F. Pradean. Little Harnstein will not only represent the Y.M.C.A., but will run under the colors of his native land, Austria-Hungary.

TO ARMS.

This article will now take on a military tinge as we enter the ranks of the Seventh Regiment. The soldier boys of the Seventh have gone Marathon crazy and will enter forty-eight men in The Times Marathon, representing the various companies of the organization.

Co. A, the athletic marvels of the Armory, is to enter a team of four men in the running department and a team of eight men in the light marching order event. The runners will show as follows: Sergt. Herbert G. Simon, Tom Stone, James A. Grace and Victor Grace. These boys are training hard for the race and should be in good condition on April 20. The marching squads lend a very interesting feature to The Times Modified Marathon. Co. A, Co. F, Co. D and Co. C are all entering teams of eight men equipped in light marching paraphernalia and will try for the world's marching record over the twelve-mile course.

There will be a cup offered for the best soldier team, and the rules governing this phase of the contest are as follows: Each soldier must carry his rifle with bayonet fixed, cartridge belt and wear his olive-drab uniform, but will not carry the haversack or canteen. Then the eight men who start must finish. If one or two of the number gives out on the road the remaining members of the team will have to carry the tired men across the finish line, for eight men MUST finish.

Co. F will be represented among the runners of the race by Ralph Pearson and Paul Sidner. Co. D will be represented by John Ormsby and John Riley. Co. C, known as the Irish brigade, will be represented by Capt. Anderson and others yet to be selected. The sons of Erin maintain that this is their chance to win athletic glory because they are there on this hiking stuff and think the race has been made to order for their special benefit.

The entries for the Marathon will close on April 15 at 12 o'clock midnight, and we would urge all athletes who wish to enter the race to send for blanks at once, so their names may be entered on the great register without further delay.

Charlie Perkins,

Of Page Military Academy, youngest entry in Times Modified Marathon.

Expert Opinion.

DE ORO THINKS POOL IS BETTER THAN BILLIARDS.

THAT pocket billiards, which years ago knocked about under the more plebeian label of "pool," is a more scientific game than billiards, is one of the contentions made by Alfredo de Oro, Cuban cue wizard, who passed through St. Louis the past week on his way to New York.

De Oro had just come from Denver, where he dropped the three-cushion championship to Joe Carney.

This thing of acquiring titles is a regular habit with De Oro. Ever so often he bags a pool or three-cushion championship, then flips it away. At that, though the wiseacres put the Cuban next to the incomparable Hoppe in the cue hall of fame.

"I like pool. That's my pet game," opined the Cuban the other day. "I would rather play one game of pool than fifty matches of billiards. There's more science to it. Then, it's a prettier game to watch. The best evidence of the truth of this assertion is the fact that championship pool matches invariably draw more patrons than championship billiard matches. It's a question of turning 'em away at a pool match. You've got to 'paper' the house to make a showing in billiards.

"I don't like billiards for another reason. It's too stereotyped. What is there to straight rail? Let an expert play, and all that is necessary is one 'gather' shot. Then he'll run a thousand or more. The same for 18.1 and 18.2 balkline. One must develop that delicate stroke, and then he's through.

"Three cushions is not a typical game of billiards. The man who can't play straight rail always can play a little three cushions. Hit 'em hard, and you'll surely count. However, I think the happy medium would be fourteen-inch balklins, one shot in balk. This style of billiards has never been put into a real test.

"The champions have always clung to 18.1 and 18.2, although no one has been developed to wrest the title from Willie Hoppe. The only way to beat the title holder is with a club. However, in 14.1 they should find a game that would appeal to the masses. This style will force the player to develop along every line of the game. He must have a delicate stroke as well as the power to drive. In 15.2 there's little of that.

"Never figure that billiards compares with pool. When experts play pool, it's beautiful. It thrills. Nothing in billiards like the wonderful combination shots that arise in 'pocket billiards,' as it's now called.

"Another thing about the science of the two games. In pool you have a pocket 4½ inches in width. If you're playing a bank shot your objective point is just 4½ inches wide. What about billiards?

"A billiard ball is 2 3-8 inches in diameter. That means that you have an objective point of 7 1-8 inches. You can hit it thin on either side or full. You have a space equal to the diameter of three billiard balls as an objective point, whereas in pool you must shoot at an object just 4½ inches in width. I'm for pool first, then billiards. I've played them both for twenty years and know whereof I speak."

TO MOBILIZE TROOPS.

Special Arrangements Are Made to Transport Men by Motor in Case of War.

To facilitate transportation of the general staff in case of war, the military government of the city of Paris has decided to give those who own automobiles of medium power, especially between twelve and thirty horsepower, and who are able to prove their ability to perform in person all work necessary for the maintenance of the mechanism and the tires, a special opportunity to discharge their military duties in an agreeable manner.

Each of them must sign an agreement with the authorities that he will sell and turn over to the State, the moment a mobilization of the forces is called, the vehicle described in his application for the privilege of this form of service. And for all maneuvers he and his vehicle must be at disposal, the vehicle to be conducted by himself under orders from his military superiors.

Punchers Busy.

BUGS STIRRED UP OVER BOUT.

FIGURING ON CHANCES OF RIVERS WITH JACK WHITE.

Both Boys Working Hard in Rainy Weather—Attell May Meet Winner of This Battle—Heavyweights May Be Seen in Curtain Raiser for Card to Be Dealt Latter Part of Month.

BY GREY OLIVER.

The rainy weather is putting the fight training camps on the blink these days but both Jack White and Rivers are still keeping carefully at their work this week in preparation for their coming battle on Saturday of next week. Road work is really work this week for it is no sugar lump stunt to get out early in the morning and go five or six miles in the rain.

However the training camps are big enough for almost any kind of exercise ad neither Rivers nor White is suffering any for excitement. They make up for the rain by tacking on an extra amount of indoor business and thus put in a very busy day.

There is considerable doubt in the minds of the local boys as to how Rivers will come out with a good boy of his own weight. For many months he has had the better of all his opponents on the weight question but now he is to meet a tough customer of about his own weight. White is far from being a slouch and he must be a good one to journey clear across the country to meet a good boy like Rivers. Of course White thinks he will win.

Manager McCarey is negotiating with Abe Attell for a match here with the winner of the Rivers-White contest, but nothing definite has come of it. Attell says he is willing and the other two doubtless would be, for Attell is always a good drawing card and gets the money.

Billy Papke is training hard at Venice for his fight with Kid George at Sacramento on March 18, and expects to make a better showing than he did against Mantell at Sacramento two weeks ago. Billy says he was not right that day. George is a tough one for he knocked out Fritz Holland in six rounds at Sacramento some days ago. If Papke can beat the kid he will have some real standing and it is up to him to show himself in the coming bout.

Walter Stanton, a well-known middleweight, is here looking for a match with Papke. He is some puncher and a fairly good boxer

Harry Burns is trying to match Jack Clark, the amateur middleweight champion, against Harry Davis, who worked with Papke at Jack Dovie's camp when Billy trained for the Mantell fight. Clark's friends think he is a comer.

Efforts are being made to get Joe Hansen and Bill McLain matched for the curtain raiser in the card that McCarey is figuring on early in April. If Jim Cameron's left arm can be gotten into shape he will box with Hansen. Cameron can hold his own with any of them in the training camp but when he gets into the ring he is scared to death. This is why he lost to Elder. Poor Jim would be a wonder if he had a heart.

Overland

This Car Costs $900

What More Will $1800 Get You?

YOU must judge values by comparing values. A dollar article from one man is worth only one dollar from another—not a dollar and a half. Smith, who pays a higher rent, operates extravagantly, and does little business, must take care of his "overheads" by inflating values. Therefore, he tacks an extra ten to twenty per cent. on everything he sells. But Jones, who sells the same goods, but sells more of them, and does not have the additional rents and numerous other overhead charges to take care of, sells you his standard goods minus this ten to twenty per cent. inflation. Jones is the man to deal with.

Apply this to automobiles.

The car shown here is our famous 30 horsepower touring car. It is priced at $900 f.o.b. factory. This car has everything of any practical value that any $1800 car in America has.

Do you question this?.

Then run over these facts:—

First of all, this car has a powerful 30 horsepower motor. It seats five large passengers. The operating levers are in the center—where they should be. The selective transmission is fitted with the finest F. & S. annular bearings—the best made.

It is a magnificent, strong, powerful car. It has all the beauty and comfort that is possible to get in a popular priced car. You cannot find a weakness or a flaw. It is sound and thorough. Neither the chassis nor body could be improved upon. It is made of the best material on the market by the most modern methods.

It is made by the largest factory in the world. These enormous plants, by reason of their huge operations, can buy material, handle material, make parts, and sell cars at smaller costs than anybody else in the business. They make 35,000 cars a year. The average standard plant turns out about 100.

Would thousands and thousands of shrewd people select the Overland in preference to all others if we did not give them more car and a better car for less money?

Let us take you out in this car and give you a thorough demonstration. Let us show you the unusual value. See this car, then see some of the higher priced cars. This will prove to your own satisfaction that our $900 car will give you all the power, speed, comfort, service and wear that you can get in any $1800 car made.

Sage Advice.

HOW BALL PLAYERS CAN KEEP IN GOOD CONDITION.

BY GREY OLIVER.

"DID you ever see me when I was not in condition?" asked Roy Brashear yesterday, while Shine was rubbing his arm in the clubhouse.

"I tell you there is a lot to learn about ball players getting into condition, as they call it, but I never learned it or rather I learned it without trying.

"The principal thing to do is to live a temperate life and if you do that and take ordinary care of yourself you need not worry about your condition in the spring. I always go to bed by 11 o'clock every night and half the time long before that and get up about 7 o'clock in the morning. Ball players need lots of sleep. You have to eat moderately and exercise every day.

"I would never advise any ball player to do that winter baseball business, for, while many of them need the money it brings, the work is bad for them. You take fellows who play winter ball and you will find that the majority of them are stale in the spring. If they go into the training camp strong and even start the regular season feeling fine, many of them will blow up after a month's work.

"A man has got to go into the game at the beginning of the season feeling at his best, full of ginger and anxious to play. You cannot have all these things if you play winter ball and tire yourself out. It deadens the enthusiasm and makes one indifferent. All ball players should give their arms a rest. One or two games during the winter will not hurt, but any more are bad for any player. Live temperately, get plenty of sleep, cut out winter ball and I see no reason why you should not be in good condition when the next season begins."

On the first engines, which could be styled internal combustion motors, the ignition of the charge, whether powder or some sort of a gasoline mixture, the builders met with many obstacles in their efforts to get a quickly burning mixture. Until the time the hot tube was tried, the ignition of the charge was far from reliable, and many discontinued their experiments with internal combustion motors, being unable to devise means of exploding the charge.

BOOKIES NOW EARNING BREAD.

Former Gamblers Engaged in Mercantile Lines.

Ed Lichtenstein a Publisher; Vendig Sells Cigars.

George Rose Doing Business at Juarez Track.

What has become of all the bookmakers, and what are they doing during the period of their exile? To begin with, most of them have their ear to the ground trying to learn the attitude at Albany and figure when, if ever, in New York, they will be able to hang their pads, pencils and stools all of the moth balls and dash gleefully back to their old 'stamping grounds.' This is a pleasant occupation, but it does not butter a particularly large number of parsnips, and, with the fate of racing is in the balance at the capital, the bookies must get around for the wherewithal to keep them in waistcoats and such like.

During the heyday of racing in New York the lot of the average bookie was not a hard one. True, his work kept him busy during longer hours than would be supposed and often his "bank roll" became sadly emaciated, but for the most part he was well fed and consequently lived well, contentedly and generally at peace with the world. The stunning blow dealt racing by the liability clause of the so-called anti-racing law, therefore, hit many a bookie with force enough to cast him upon lean days within a very short time after being closed off the metropolitan tracks.

Scores of bookmakers, accordingly, looked around to get a job. And being mentally quick and unusually expert mathematicians most of them encountered little difficulty securing lucrative work. They went into all lines of work, and some today are quite as prosperous in their new fields endeavor as they were when quoting odds against the thoroughbreds. Today they are now represented in a score fields from selling cigars to dealing in oil paintings and rare books, and not a few are so well satisfied that except for their interest in the sport itself they aren't worrying a whole lot whether New York ever racing again or not. The others, however, pine for the old days and anxiously watch every development in the effort to restore the sport to its old standing in New York.

LICHTENSTEIN AS PUBLISHER.

Prominent in the ring in the old days was Ed Lichtenstein. He was also interested in a Fifth-avenue book publishing concern, and with the decline of racing devoted all his time to this business. He says he would be racing back only because he would be glad to again combine business with the joy of outdoor life.

Charlie Heeney, another prominent bookie a few years ago, is operating a picture gallery and salesroom in Manhattan. Joe Vendig, recently appointed a special deputy Sheriff by Sheriff Harburger, of New York, is interested in one of the big taxicab companies, and is also operating a chain of lunch and restaurant cigar stands. Charlie Jones and Al Stokes are engaged in the real estate business in Manhattan.

George Wheelock has been engaged in numerous pursuits and is now, it is understood, about to engage in the book business. George Rose returned to his home in Los Angeles and is now operating a book at Juarez. Some of others of less prominence are also at work as salesmen of various commodities.

Others transferred the outlet of their speculative instinct to Wall street and some, it is whispered, are killing time by operating ostensibly ostentatious "palaces of chance," such as poolrooms, etc.

A large proportion, too, clung to the game even after the deathblow was dealt it in New York, and are now touring tracks at the various southern resorts where there is still racing. The Sheriff, of course, has been at home in the ranks of the bookmakers, and several, notably Dan Shaw, have crossed the great divide. As for the rest, as one of their number said, the less said the better. They have indeed fallen upon hard times and some have not scrupled to do, in their phrase goes, "by their

The Metropolitan Turf Club, commonly known as the Bookies' Club, is still in existence in West Forty-fifth street, New York City. It is still the meeting place of such of the profession in New York, but the spirit to be found there is not to be compared with that of the old days. The "push" is too busy earning a Membership buttons of this club are worth a small-sized fortune in the old days, now they are almost a drug on the market. The club itself is no longer a paying proposition, there remains a comfortable balance in the treasury, which permits of its existence even now at a loss.

Knocking Out.

BEACH COMBERS TO GO NORTH.

HUNTINGTON BEACH HIGH OUT FOR STATE BASKET TITLE.

Local High School Play Will Be a Struggle This Season. Winner Will Meet Sacramento High and Lodi High. Southern Champions Stars.

The title of Southern California interscholastic basketball champions will satisfy the ambitions of the Huntington Beach five, and they will go for the North April 1 to battle for honors of Berkeley high, Sacramento and Lodi, in the state championship of the school class.

The best wishes of all Southern fans will accompany the invaders, it is hoped that Coach Jackson's clever pupils of the basket ball will bring home the much-sought honors.

The battle by the sand pilots is certainly one and their right to wear the white ribbon is unquestioned, wearing a string of twelve games without a single break in the High School ranks, taking the count on U.S.C. in one game and losing to Whittier, the southern intercollegiate champions in a close 28 to 25 game, is the way Jackson's score book reads.

It is seldom that a High school team slips one over on a college quintette, but that is what the Huntington Beach boys did to U.S.C. in their first game, 27 to 25 was the score, and it must be remembered that the Trojan varsity copped one of Whittier's bean bags about the same time.

In the second game, played on the university court, U.S.C. won by the same score (27 to 25,) as was chalked up against them in the early contest; but as these games were not in the interscholastic schedule, they had nothing to do with the standing of the High School championship.

The Whittier game was one of the sterling scraps of the local basketball season. It was give and take during the two long rounds and at the sound of the gong in the last session, the score stood a draw, with the figures on the board giving each team 25 chips.

The play-off proved a Waterloo for the High School lads and Whittier carried off the wreath with 28 points, against Capt. Livernash's 25.

The phenomenal success of the team is largely due to the clever tutoring of the coach. Jackson is a finished athlete of the new school. Track, baseball, basketball, swimming and even football have been the specialties of this Jackson chap, and not only is he a close observer and scientific theorist, but his choice collection of Western Intercollegiate medals prove his practical knowledge of all athletic branches.

Leonard Livernash, captain of the champions, is a finished athlete of court, diamond, gridiron and track. In the play every moment and showing good judgment, has placed this young prep at the head of his class in all branches.

Another member of this Livernash family of athletic marvels is in the Huntington Beach line-up, and will make the trip to the far North. This is Locksley, a junior in the school, who will assume the star athletic role in the school, after his older brother graduates in June.

Haptonstall will be looked upon as a sure winner of glory in the coming contest. He has played a hard, steady game all season, and is as reliable as any basketball player of the near varsity type ever seen in action in the South.

The scores made by the H.B.H.S. team this season are: Burbank High 21, H.B.H.S. 24; Occidental Preps 4, H.B.H.S. 54, Orange High 12, H.B.H.S. 51, Burbank High 12, H.B.H.S. 28; Fullerton High 8, H.H. H.S. 8; Santa Ana High, 20, H.B.H.S. 39, Anaheim High 20, H.B.H.S. 40, Anaheim High 19, H.B.H.S. 43, Whittier High 17 H.B.H.S. 27, Chaffee Union High 19, H.B.H.S. 45, Long Beach High 15, H.B.H.S. 34, Long Beach High 15, H.B.H.S. 31.

College games: Huntington Beach High 27, U.S.C. Varsity 25; Whittier College 28, H.B.H.S. 25, U.S.C. 27, H. B.H.S. 25.

BIG COMMISSION GIVES SOME ADVICE.

Kicking against the national commission is a profitless undertaking.

Sundry members of the contending teams in the recent world's series has bored ill feeling against the supreme court of baseball because of the belief that the members of the commission were making a little rakeoff by granting the moving picture privilege to a firm engaged in that work.

The players wanted to know the reason why. They also wanted to know why they did not share in the proceeds; why their permission was not asked.

The answer is a model if its kind. The players are politely informed at first that it is none of their business; that under the rules governing the world's series they received their share.

They are also informed that the sum received goes into the commission fund and is not received by individual members.

They are also informed that moving pictures of the 1911 series will increase the interest in world's series in the future.

WAGNER HAS TIED ANSON'S RECORD.

For fifteen consecutive seasons Hans Wagner has batted over the .300 mark, thus tying the record of Pop Anson. But chances are that he will pass Anson's mark in the coming campaign, for it cannot be figured that the Flying Dutchman can possibly hit under the coveted mark.

Wagner is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable ball players that the game has ever produced. While an awkward appearing individual, he is fast, covers a lot of ground and there is not a single position which he cannot play to perfection. But for the injury to Wagner in the last campaign, Pittsburgh must have come pretty near to winning the flag. Wagner says he is completely recovered from the injury which put his team out of the last race, and that he is not yet in a position to say when his career on the ball field will end.

Jeannette Wins Easily.

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Feb. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dave Fitzgerald, referee, stopped the fight between Joe Jeannette and Andy Morris at the end of the sixth round here tonight because Morris was groggy. Jeannette, who had been advertised with Morris as fighting for the heavyweight championship, had the advantage for practically the whole six rounds. Morris was groggy in the last two. The fight was scheduled to go fifteen rounds.

SUBURBS AT BAT.

The Suburban Interscholastic Baseball League will open fire today. With nine teams in the running this season should be a winner. Downey looks good for the pennant even at this early date, with Walter Walk and his famous beer ball (full of hops,) looking after the interests of the institution. The other high schools which will have teams in the league, are Norwalk, San Fernando, Compton, El Monte, Citrus Union, Covina, Burbank and Alhambra.

Huntington Beach Basketball Team.

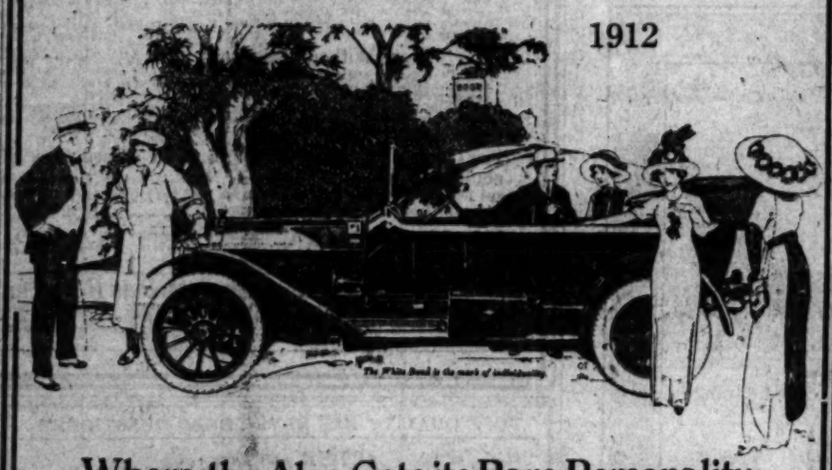
ALCO



1912

Where the Alco Gets its Rare Personality

IT takes a year and seven months to build one Alco.

A month alone is required to build the rear axle. It is one piece—not built up—but hammered out of a solid billet of steel. Forged out by the largest drop hammer in the world—one that weighs 250,000 pounds and cost $51,700.

Metals in the Alco are rare. Brief specifications do not reveal the superior properties. These are metals that 70 years of locomotive building experience have chosen as final.

Per pound in the raw, no materials cost as much as those in the Alco.

Before these metals are turned into parts for the car, they receive the most thorough heat treatment of any automobile in America. Gigantic ovens registering as high as 2600 degrees Fahrenheit render every part in the Alco where strain occurs well nigh unbreakable.

Alco parts might be bent, but broken—almost never.

Large vats of oil complete the heat treating processes. To fill one large vat in the Alco heat treating shops requires $2000 worth of oil.

Tests are numerous. As in locomotives, a motor car is strongest only in its weakest part. Therefore every single part receives a superhuman test.

In the chemical laboratories of the Alco, metals are analyzed into infinitesimal particles. Every ounce must come up to definite, delicate standards—one of the specification sheets would amaze nine out of ten motor car manufacturers.

In the physics laboratories of the Alco are wonderful machines—Frankenstein in their strength—which test springs, axles, frames and other parts with thousands and thousands of pounds of pressure.

Many automatic machines may be found in the Alco shops. Here also are gigantic machines which perform a score of operations in one. One machine bores a small hole through a solid billet of steel almost six feet long with a mathematical accuracy of one one-thousandth of an inch.

One may observe as well small tools that perform a more delicate operation than that of a surgeon.

And the men who run these machines and build these parts into Alco cars are skilled New England workmen who love their work and are proud in knowing that they assist in building America's superior motor car—the two time winner of the race for the Vanderbilt cup, America's motor classic.

Much of what has been said here may be found in first hand evidence in the Alco Exhibit at the motor show. Examine the Alco chassis there. It is evidence which will convince almost any man.

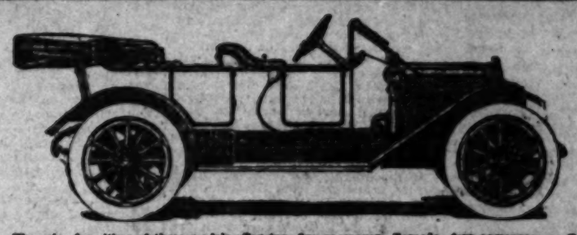
The Fallacy of Buying a "Discount" Automobile



The price for either of these models—Touring, five-passenger; Torpedo, four-passenger; or Roadster, two-passenger—is $1750. Not a cent more is needed to equip either one before it is ready for use, for top, Disco Self-Starter, Demountable rims, MFO tires, Windshield, large gas tank, magneto—dual ignition system—and all things usually listed as extras are included. While the illustrations showing how the NEW best-selling HUDSON "33" is simpler than any other car.

When you buy an automobile at a cut price you forfeit more than you gain.

There are two kinds of "Discount" cars—those that are purposely listed at a high figure so that their price may be cut and those on which the dealer divides his profit. Cars of the first named class have no definite value. The prices at which they are sold are seldom the same to any two buyers. While you might receive a 10% discount, as likely as not some other buyer is given a 20% cut.

Since no two have paid the same price, there is no basis of valuation if you ever wish to resell the car.

You should just as persistently avoid the dealer who divides his profit.

You cannot afford to patronize an automobile dealer or manufacturer who is not prosperous. A car is not of as much value if once having been represented in the community it no longer is sold there.

If dealers split their profits they must sooner or later go out of business. They cannot stand back of the car with the service it should have.

And after all, that is the biggest item to consider. Don't buy any car that does not carry with it a complete service from the dealer.

By securing even a 20% discount you put yourself in a position to pay double that apparent saving in repair and service charges before the year closes.

The New Self-Starting HUDSON "33" is sold at the same price everywhere. No dealer has an advantage over any other dealer. All agree to maintain the price, which accounts for the fact that second-hand HUDSON cars always sell for a higher proportion of their original cost than do other cars.

HUDSON dealers are required to give a service that is much more complete, much more satisfactory, than you get with other cars. There is an advantage in owning a car that does not carry with it the liability of constant repair costs, that is not laid up because the dealer can't or won't look after your needs.

Howard E. Coffin Built It

To all who know, that is an endorsement of the greatest value. It is in its line, as if to establish the merit of a new electric light, one would say it was an invention of Thomas A. Edison. Nothing more could be said.

"33" is Mr. Coffin's latest of six great automobiles. Year after year during all the rapid development of the industry, he has been its recognized leader. His inventions are universally used. His cars of earlier design are even now leaders of their class though built years ago.

He has made the "33" a simpler car than anyone else has ever built.

It is quieter, too. The mechanism is entirely protected from dust and dirt. There are approximately 1000 fewer parts.

The saving effected by this simplicity accounts for the high quality of materials, of workmanship and of an equipment equalled only by cars selling at above $2500.

Here is told but a few things of which you should think seriously in making such a large purchase as is involved in buying an automobile. Let us tell you more. Certainly it is to your advantage to buy at as low a price as you can. But don't forfeit service or accept an uncertain value to obtain that discount.

It will be worth your while to talk to us before you place your order for any automobile selling under $2500. Won't you either come to see us, or write or telephone?

On the Links.

ANNANDALE CLUB TAKES IT ALL.

REDLANDS GOLFERS FAIL TO GET SINGLE POINT.

Visitors Unable to Solve Mysteries of Links Made Treacherous by Recent Rains, and Come to Grief. Los Angeles Country Club Team Scheduled as Possible Victim.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

There was no golf yesterday.

In the match between the Redlands Country Club and the Annandale Country Club teams Friday afternoon, Annandale won all seven points, with Redlands nil.

The meeting took place on the links at Annandale, the home team consisting of Tom French, Armine Brand, E. N. Wright, A. A. French, J. V. Eliot, Michael McLaughlin and J. K. Jewett. The Redlands team was made up of Raymond Hornby, Harold Palmer, Wilson Miller, Albert Will, E. Resor, Morris Phillips and Maurice E. Ginn.

Harold Palmer and Tom French played together, the latter winning by 3 up and 2. Mr. Brand accounted for Mr. Miller with 3 up and 1, and E. N. Wright for Mr. Will with 5 up and 4. One of the closest matches was that between A. A. French and Mr. Resor, the former only winning by 2 up and 1 after a really good tussle.

Morris Phillips fell to the lot of J. V. Eliot, who won by 4 and 2, and McLaughlin defeated Raymond Hornby rather disastrously, Mr. Hornby finding, with the rest of his team, that the conditions had totally changed on these links during the recent rains. On the day that Raymond Hornby put up his splendid game against E. S. Armstrong in the semi-finals for the championship, only succumbing to the champion's inspired play at the nineteen hole, the ground was dry and the whole course very fast. Now the reverse is the case and approaching the present greens is a very different affair, for which the Redlands team were totally unprepared. Their defeat was due chiefly to this, as most of the Annandale victors chivalrously insisted.

J. K. Jewett defeated Maurice E. Ginn by 4 and 3, thus completing the team's sweeping victory.

In the contest for the Weber Cup at the Annandale Country Club, J. F. Taylor becomes its custodian for the ensuing year with a net score of 67. His gross score was 90 and his handicap 23 strokes, thus he joins the ranks of the many long handicap men who have carried off laurels this season. Lincoln Clark came second with net 73, 8 handicap and the two best gross scores were made by Tom French with 78 and E. N. Wright with 80.

An interesting visitor to the club is A. A. Crane, president of the First National Bank of Minneapolis, Minn., who came as a guest of E. P. Gates. Mr. Crane bears a striking resemblance to President Taft and experiences the very mixed joy of being mistaken for him wherever he goes.

TO EASE HER PAIN.

Miss Ona Shearer, 19 years old, living at No. 338 North Hill street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital Friday night in a serious condition, as a result of an overdose of chloroform. Persons living in the house with the girl declared that she has been in the habit of taking chloroform to ease the asthma, from which she has long been a sufferer. At the hospital she denied that she had taken it with suicidal intent. She recovered sufficiently to be removed to her home late last night.

BLUE AND GOLD.

der, from Los Angeles Polytechnic, is able to make the distance in 2:06. Heisen is a good man for both the half and the mile. He has made 4:45 in the mile. Another miler of some reputation is Cooper from Modesto. His best time in interscholastic circles has been 4:46. Miller, Taylor and Sherwin are other men who are trying out for the mile and two-mile.

In the hurdles the best man who will represent the freshmen is Cuttle of Riverside. He did the high hurdles in 17 seconds when in prep school, and is fast developing into a good man under the tutelage of Walter Christie. Knapp, Herriott and Reinhart are other hurdlers, but who have not obtained reputations.

In the weights the freshmen will be strong. Coolidge from Healdsburg is able to throw the hammer 140 feet, while Wylie from Berkeley is fast developing into a good man with the hammer. Thomas, from Ukiah, is a big freshman who gets the shot out forty feet without any particular form.

YOUNG BEST IN POLE.

There are a lot of freshmen trying out for the pole vault. The best man is Fred Young, from Healdsburg. He is the holder of the world's interscholastic record at 11ft. 9½in. Reische, Gower, Abrams and Kelly are other aspirants.

In the broad jump, Bogardus, captain of the freshman football team, is a likely man, while Bradway will enter this event, as well as the sprints. Other men in the broad are: Beans, McKim and Canfield. McKim, from Pomona High, is also a good man in the shot put.

No very good entries will represent the freshmen in the high jump. McKim will compete in the event down South, while it is between Rector and Thuner to decide who will be chosen for the trip.

WANTED RELEASE FROM FUNNY LEAGUE.

Tip O'Neil tells of a peculiar case that came up before the National Board recently. It was the funniest one he ever heard. A certain player on the Rochester club of the New York State League wrote to the board that in 1910 the Rochester club owed him ten days' pay. He tried to get it from them, but it was useless. Finally the owner of the club had the player in consultation for a day and convinced him there was no money coming to him. In 1911 the club owed him for fifteen days. This time the club owner talked to him for three days and finally convinced him there was no money coming to him.

In a letter to the board the player wrote: "I don't want any money, but please get me my release from that Christian Science league."

CHICKENS A FAILURE.

The desire to raise chickens in the house and avoid disagreeable tramps through the rain to the barn, resulted disastrously to E. B. Taylor of No. 3501 Dayton avenue Friday night. When the rains began, Taylor moved an incubator in which he had several dozen eggs into the house, placing it in the kitchen. It became overheated and the fire which followed damaged the house to the extent of $300. The damage to the contents of the house was estimated at $250. Taylor carried no insurance.

BIG WATER CARNIVAL.

Chicago is to have a big water carnival during the week of August 10, during which time prizes will be distributed amounting from $30,000 to $40,000. Its principal features will include power boat races for the American championship and an international yacht race between the Royal Canadian Yacht Club and the Chicago Yacht Club, Lipton cup yacht races, a naval review of government cutters of the Great Lakes, Venetian night carnivals, etc.

Big Road Race.

SHRINERS FROM ALL PARTS WORLD AT SANTA MONICA.

WHEN Starter Fred Wagner sends the first car away in the great series of races which will be run over the Santa Monica course on May 4, more sections of the world will be represented in the stand than at any road contest in the annals of gasoline competition.

In addition to the automobile fans who will congregate for the great programme of space annihilation from the different parts of the country, there will be present 10,000 Shriners from the four corners of the world.

Manager Young has already begun to receive inquiries from many parts of America, where the information has already gone, through the great Shrine organization of the big event that will mark the beginning of their entertainment in Los Angeles.

From the other side of the world, in far off Odessa, Russia, where the Santa Monica race has become known, an inquiry has been received from M. Edward Russell, a representative of the J. I. Case Company, who wants to reach Los Angeles in time to witness the running of the great race.

With the Shriners auto racing has always been an attractive feature. At almost every annual gathering in the past five years some sort of an automobile race has been held as a part of their entertainment.

And there are probably more automobile owners in Shrine organization than any other secret organization in the world.

Comes James J. Canavan with the promise of a Halladay for the Santa Monica road race. This is one of the surprises which Manager Young expected to spring later, but Jim let the secret out yesterday.

F. A. Renton, who has been out of the racing game for two years, plans to come back with two Velie cars. Renton is authority for the statement that a pair of fast Velies will probably be seen in the Santa Monica classic.

There is promise of a large entry list for the free-for-all. This race is to be the hummer. At least two Mercer cars are to be added to the machines already entered and these, though smaller than most of the other entries, will be among the contenders in the big speed duel.

GREAT HOCKEY TEAM.

Canada enjoys the distinction of having enough players in one family for a hockey seven. The Morenoy family of Quebec, has available a complete septet and one spare man, with, if necessary, a sturdy extra goal tender in the person of Morency senior. Last year they lost the championship of Quebec to Laval University 3 to 2. There are eight brothers in all and they are by name Emile, St. George, Adjutor, Alphonso, Henri, Jules, Gaudiose and Ernest.

BUTLER ENTERED.

Everand Butler of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto, champion amateur sculler of America, will row in the American regatta at Philadelphia on May 25. He sails for England June 10, where he will row in the Royal Henley regatta July 3 to 6, then go to Sweden, for the Olympic races July 18.

Six Cylinders — Price $1900

Of Course You Will Buy a Six

—it is utter folly to resist the Six Cylinder trend in Moderate Priced Cars—why not be first?

YOU will not invest a cent over $1500 in any four cylinder car if you stop to consider the unconquerable trend toward Sixes in moderate priced cars. The movement has set in good and strong. Generally, it is yet an undercurrent, but just as sure as you live to operate your car in the year of our Lord, 1912, you will wish it was a "Six," if it is not.

You can save your bacon now and not wish you had next year. Mitchell Sixes at $1500 in either five passenger or two passenger models supply your way of escape from the fellow who's trying to persuade you to buy his four cylinder at more than $1500 against your own interests.

Mitchell "Sixes" have three years of proven merit to substantiate their claim. Why are they so far in advance of others? For the same reason that put Vanadium Steel; Full Floating Rear Axles, Pressed Steel in place of cast, and many other similar quality-items into Mitchells, long ahead of the other fellows.

Now, don't ignore our word of caution.

SEARCH the market. Don't take the first car you look at. Take no agent's word in place of proof. When you come to us, make us get down to "brass tacks." Make us show you why Six cylinder cars will dominate in moderate price makes as they do now in high priced ones.

Get the reason why! When you do, if you don't buy a "Mitchell" you will at least have found some things to your profit. You will have found why a correctly built "Six" is a more economical car, power for power, than a "four." You will have found that you do not have to mortgage your home to buy a "Six," because they are made today within your price.

Here Is a Story of Real Comfort

Here is a car that appeals to all your senses. Graceful in lines, distinguished in color, long and low hung—it's pleasing to the eye. Step in and you will marvel at the feeling.

Settle down in the deep cushions at the big eighteen inch steering wheel—stretch out your legs and know what comfort is. Start the motor and you will sense its silent dignity and power. It runs without vibration.

Ride In Careless Ease

Take to the open road and at the first release of the clutch its silent action deceives you for the moment. You wonder if the motor has stopped. Open the throttle and away it springs with eagerness. You ride on and on in careless ease, and the farther you go the satisfaction of comfort grows.

This is a car for relaxation—for perfect ease. The wheel base is 120 inches, the wheels and tires 36x4, and the straight line torpedo body swings low between the axles — three inches lower than the ordinary car.

Steer Without Friction

When you hit a stone the wheels don't turn sharply. When you want to turn it guides as without a point of friction. There's no whip to the wheel—no kind—just a pleasing flexibility.

You sink down with pleasure into the eight inch upholstery—yet you never strike bottom—you never feel not feel a jolt. The rear springs are 2½ inches wide and proportionately thin.

Let Women Decide

It's a car that women most endorse. The seats are low—yet high enough—with sufficient leg room to choose the attitude you like.

Three persons ride with ample elbow room in the rear. The rear seat is four feet wide and twenty inches deep with thirty-one inches in leg room—enough for the tallest person. The long, easy arm rest is upholstered to the full length of twenty-six inches. There is room for extra baggage in the tonneau, and the robe rail, 34½ inches wide, has five inches of space for wraps.

A Captivating Car

Leather pockets on both rear doors and the left front door are for convenience. The front door below the cowl dash is not narrowed, but is wide, due to the parallel sides of the torpedo body.

We want you to feel the personality of this car. To see it is to appreciate its charms.

Finished in English Purple Lake, with black japanned guards, fillers and tool box, with high, distinctive radiator, it has individuality without eccentricity.

You will want to prove these things to yourself before you buy. Call on our nearest dealer or send for catalog.

To the Man Who Can Compare Car Values—

You are the one we most desire to criticise the new Moon Model "40." No matter what your standards of car excellence—no matter what your prejudices—we court your judgment on Moon "40" as a whole, and part by part.

Moon "40" is the achievement of Joseph W. Moon's lifetime success in manufacture. Five years of development are represented in the Moon Motor alone. It is a T-head long-stroke motor of 45 actual horsepower—a triumph in itself.

Transmission, universal joints, propeller shaft, bevel gear and rear axle are guaranteed for 60 horsepower. Nothing less than the utmost in safety satisfies this veteran of thirty years' experience in high-grade steels, whose O. K. must go on every car before it is marketed.

The 120-inch wheel base—big demountable wheels with 36-inch tires front and rear—the smart, roomy all-metal body—are all in keeping with the mighty power and noiseless perfection framed within the Moon Chassis.

See the Moon and know for yourself what amazing car value the price of Moon "40" commands. Call or telephone for demonstration.

Long Stroke Motor of "Great Western" Origin

The automobile advertisements of to-day say much about the long stroke motor and all standard cars have adopted its construction.

This type of motor has many advantages over the old style and gives more complete lubrication of the working parts. It is interesting to know that the first engine designers and builders to advocate and adopt the long stroke principle were those who now make the Great Western "40" automobile.

This engine is the result of 12 years of continuous engine development and manufacturing. The Great Western has won many of hill-climbing tests—due in no small part to its wonderful motor.

The 1912 Great Western "40" is a triumph of automobile manufacture, and shows its value in its demonstration of service. Its handsome appearance and general graceful design. The hood is a straight-line body is finished in a mirror like surface by 15 coats of enamel. Its large, roomy front and rear doors are handsomely upholstered with the finest of hand-buffed leather. It has the automatic engine starter, dash lighting, headlights; demountable rims; electric signal horn; ventilated windshield adjustment; rear compartment under the rear seat, accessible from the outside; foot rails; dash brush; dash clock; tire gauge and every other equipment to make that a car of such quality should have.

COLLEGE SPORT IS WATER-LOGGED

Cinder Fans Are Gloomy as Farmers Rejoice.

Pomona-U.S.C. Meet May Be Held After All.

Southern Athletic World Is Brought to Halt.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

The farmers are filled with joy over the rain, but these same little rills of water plunged the entire college fandom of Southern California into the deepest gloom yesterday. Four track and field meets were called off yesterday, due to flooded fields, and swimming races would have filled the day much better. The fact that the Pomona-U.S.C. meet was called off was the hardest blow of all. This affair was to have been the banner event of the local intercollegiate season, as both aggregations were trained to the minute and eager to be at each other's throats, but the windows of heaven were opened and the "nothing doing" sign was hung out.

Managers Jones of Pomona and Heard of U.S.C., were in conference last night over the long distance phone in regard to holding the meet at a later date. Next Monday and a week from Monday are the only days on which it seems possible for the two institutions to mix, but the condition of the field has come up as a highbrow.

Monday is a holiday at Pomona, but is a regular school day for the students of U.S.C., so the faculty of the latter place cannot see the way clear to give the students a half holiday just for a track meet. However, if Pomona would come to Los Angeles for the meet it could be arranged without any difficulty.

The trouble lies in the fact that Pomona will not come to the city for the meet, as last year the Blue and White team met U.S.C. on the latter's grounds and was defeated, so it is the locals' turn to go to the country regions and the Pomonans will not have it any other way.

Unless the university can arrange matters and make the trip there tomorrow afternoon or one day from tomorrow, there will be no Pomona-U.S.C. meet this season. The other meets and games that were called off on account of the rain were the Orange county High School meet at Santa Ana, the Los Angeles county meet at Long Beach and the dual meet between Pomona High School and Los Angeles High School, which was scheduled for Pomona field.

The Pomona High School man arrived on the field and came in yesterday all bedraggled and wet, but eager for action. Coach Noble was allowed to use them, but went out and gathered his team and the bunch then set out to Bovard field with some of the best sports in the city, who were to act as officials. Starter Bonner was carrying his gun under his coat and was ready to give the word.

Just as they were about to get under way there was a near cloudburst and all the hardies started for the fence, but were blocked by the fence around the field. With this exhibition on the part of the elements it was decided to call off the affair.

The next track and field excitement will be Saturday, March 16, when the Cardinal Trojans mix with the University of California Bears on the Berkeley cinder trail. The Berkeley team is made up of some of the greatest track and field stars on the Coast and there is little doubt but they will hand the Trojans a hard time when the meet is over.

The Stanford-Oxy Tiger baseball game, which was to be the second of the local series, was put on the blink by the deluge opend on the ground of Base Park. Manager Johnson of Oxy tried to moor his team for fully half an hour and made a little time on the foul line but finally gave up as the elements would not be denied.

The Pomona game was the "Reds" a bad day afternoon, but who knows was the second game was a matter open to argument and the remainder of the college year will be the Occidental team hits the ball for the return games with the Harlemite with a right hook to the jaw. Even.

MURPHY BEATS ATTELL.

HONORS EVEN.

Round 4. They swapped wallops at close range, it being a case of give and take with honors even. Attell now appeared to gain strength and a well directed volley of snappy jolts caused the Harlem boy to spit blood. The round ended with the fighters battling against the ropes. Even.

MURPHY RUSHES.

Murphy opened the fifth round by rushing Abe to the ropes, where he hooked his left hard to the jaw. The crowd yelled that Murphy was holding and jeered him. Attell had all the better of the mid-ring rally, but Murphy, using every ounce of his superior weight, almost pushed and fought the Hebrew through the ropes, landing telling facers. Both bled as they took their corners with honors even.

The sixth round was varied by some long-distance sparring, both fighters slowing up perceptibly. Attell peppered his man with heavy rights and lefts to the jaw and clearly outboxed Murphy, who clinched to avoid punishment. Attell landed left and right and had a good lead to the round.

In the seventh round Murphy forced his man into a corner, and landed twice with right and once with a powerful left that made the blood fairly spurt from the Hebrew's nose. Then with the assistance of the referee, Attell cavorted to the center of the ring, where a hard rally ensued, both landing on face and jaw, Murphy doing the greater execution. Murphy's round.

ATTELL'S ROUND.

In the eighth round Murphy landed several short-arm lefts to the face, but Attell drove a heavy right to the stomach and Murphy again was cautioned not to hold. Abe duplicated the body punch and the Harlem boy grunted while Attell winked at the New Yorker's seconds. Two more rights found their berth in the Harlemite's stomach and the round closed with the crowd yelling "good boy, Abe!" Attell's round.

ABE'S BEST ROUND.

Attell was a veritable will-o'-the-wisp in the first two minutes of fighting in the ninth. For the first time he gave an exhibition of his much-vaunted cleverness and had Murphy hammering the air. Attell landed right and left to the stomach with lightning-like rapidity and Murphy took on a worried expression. Attell, grinning like an ape, smote his man unceasingly, his body punches doing great execution. It was Attell's best round and he was cheered to the echo.

In the tenth round Murphy, on the aggressive, belabored the ex-featherweight champion about the face with left and right and emphasized this with a vicious right clip on the solar plexus. At long range they exchanged rights to the face, and Murphy started the blood afresh with two right face swings. This was Murphy's round.

It was an even thing with the fight half over and the betting was also even.

Murphy took the fighting to Attell in the eleventh round and after landing twice on the sore nose with left jabs, was checked by a trio of body punches that forced him to call a halt. Then for thirty seconds it was hammer and tongs at close quarters. Murphy excelling. Murphy almost put his antagonist to the floor simultaneously with the gong, two wicked right hooks being accountable for this. Murphy's round.

ATTELL DESPERATE.

The twelfth round witnessed a lull in the fighting, not a blow being struck for two minutes. Then Murphy outslugged Attell with long range blows, and they mixed in a corner, head to head. Attell fighting with great desperation. His round-end rally, however, apparently weakened him and there was not much power behind his delivery. Even.

In the thirteenth Attell maddened the tough New Yorker by landing a right boldly over the heart. Murphy responding with a powerful left straight on the nose. Close-quarter fighting followed, each landing punch after punch, with Murphy holding on. Abe forced him back with a succession of stomach drives that gave him (Attell) a lead of the round.

As in all previous round intermissions, Attell's seconds worked constantly patching up their battered charge's face. In the fourteenth Abe sent his left to the stomach and face with clock-like regularity and Murphy threw his superior weight into play and Referee Welch warned him several times to cease holding. Attell danced around the ring like a jumping-jack, but Murphy was ever after him and they fought in close until the bell ended an even session.

ATTELL HAS SHADE.

Attell opened the fifteenth with a trio of left stomach blows, the impact being heard all over the arena. Murphy appeared to have slowed up considerably at this stage, but was willing at all times to mix it, and clouted several good ones on Abe's sore face as a reminder. Attell chatted with Murphy's seconds and a mid-ring exchange followed, both landing with great frequency to the body and face. Attell had a shade the best of the round.

Murphy opened the sixteenth with a left that found the face with a resounding smack. Murphy forced his man into a corner and landed almost at will with short-arm punches to the face, then they mixed it in the center of the ring and Attell opened a gash on the Harlem boy's lips with several well-timed left hooks. Another mix followed with Attell forcing and doing all the landing, Murphy backing against the ropes. Attell's round.

FIERCE RALLY.

In the seventeenth Murphy shunted Attell about the ring, and landed twice with great force on the jaw, sending Attell's head back a foot each time. Attell then devoted himself to a bombardment of the stomach and one of the fiercest rallies of the fight followed, Abe doing the greater execution. Murphy closed the round by lambasting Abe about the face and jaw until he (Attell) was covered with blood to his waist-line. Murphy also bled from the mouth as he went to his chair. Even.

The eighteenth opened with Murphy rushing with great ferocity and landing telling punches on the sore face. Murphy sent two rights to the jaw that shook Attell considerably and brought him to a clinch. Murphy then almost sent his man through the ropes with a straight left to the jaw. Abe coming back with two stomach blows of no mean power. Toward the round's end Murphy landed right and left at will, forcing his antagonist to the ropes. Murphy's round.

MURPHY LEADS.

Murphy went at it like a beginner at the opening and time and again sent Abe's head bobbing with short-arm rights and lefts. He peppered away but Attell was on the firing line every minute and retaliated with body punches that carried a sting with them. Desperately milling at close range wound up the round with Attell very tired but willing. Murphy was cheered at the close of the round, in which he had a big lead.

ALL MURPHY.

Round 20. They fought like a pair of tigers at close quarters, each trying to secure a decisive advantage. The crowd yelled encouragingly at each fighter. Murphy sent Attell's head back thrice and Abe stalled and clinched. Murphy found it difficult to land with the Hebrew holding on for dear life. It was all Murphy and the crowd cheered again and again. They fought to the last ditch on the ropes with Attell a very tired boy and seldom landing a blow. (Murphy's fight at the end of the round.)

The fight ended with Attell covered with blood and holding desperately to his belligerent antagonist. Referee Welch promptly declared Murphy the victor and the decision was roundly cheered by the spectators.

VENTURA HORSEMEN ORGANIZE CLUB.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

OXNARD, March 7.—Horse fanciers of the county today took steps towards the reviving of horse racing in the county, by the organization of the Seaside Driving Club. Arrangements were made for the holding of the initial matinee event on May 1, when dozens of fine animals in the county will be entered.

The organization of the association was the principal feature of the meeting. T. G. Gabbert of Ventura was named as president and S. R. Canfield and E. P. Foster as secretary and treasurer. Directors named were Charles Donlon and James Leonard, Oxnard; Capt. Stowe, Fillmore; Sam Henderson, Santa Paula; A. Camarillo, Camarillo; T. S. Clark, Nordhoff; W. A. Hobson, H. W. Delaney, E. P. Foster, T. G. Gabbert, James Blackstock and A. Norman of Ventura.

A meeting has been called for Saturday, March 16, to complete details for the May 1 races.

PARTIALLY DESTROYED.

Fire of unknown origin partially destroyed a two-story brick building at No. 215 East Seventh street, owned by the Huntington Land and Improvement Association, Friday night. The building was occupied by A. F. Colburn, a taxidermist, and the Christian Mission. The fire started in the rear of Colburn's place. The damage to the building and contents is estimated at $3000.

No-Rim-Cut Tires
10% Oversize

Note What 900,000 Did

We have sold to date 900,000 Goodyear master tires.

They proved our claim to cut tire bills in two. And users told the facts to others.

In two years the demand has increased 500%. It is increasing now faster than ever.

These patented tires now far outsell any other tire that's made. They are the coming tires.

Saving $1,000,000 Monthly

Based on present demand, No-Rim-Cut tires are saving motor car owners a million dollars a month.

This is how they save it:

Rim-cutting is made impossible. And statistics show that 23 per cent of all ruined clincher tires are rim-cut.

No-Rim-Cut tires are 10 per cent oversize. And that 10 per cent oversize, under average conditions, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

Yet these patented tires now cost no more than other standard tires.

13-Year Tires

No-Rim-Cut tires are the final result of 13 years spent in tire making.

Tires will never get nearer perfection.

The No-Rim-Cut feature is controlled by our patents. It forms the only practical way ever discovered to get rid of the hooked-base tire.

These are the reasons why today's demand centers so largely on Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

127 Makers

We have contracts this year for Goodyear tires from 127 leading motor car makers.

The demand from users is three times larger than one year ago.

These men are not mistaken. Your judgment, when you test these tires, will be the same as theirs.

Our 1912 Tire Book—based on 13 years of tire making—is filled with facts you should know. Ask us to mail it to you.

Making Promises.

NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE MEEK.

Not Looking for Any Trouble With Big Leagues.

Promises to Deal Only With Men Who Are Free.

Intends to Spend Much Time Developing Players.

The United States Baseball League does not plan a war with organized baseball, as many believe, says President Witman.

"We will recognize the reserve clause contained in the contracts between players and clubs which operate under the national agreement, and shall deal only with players who are free agents.

"We have every right to go into the baseball business where we please, and do not believe the national Commission has any right to stop us from playing even when we invade territory occupied by clubs playing under the national agreement.

"If the National Commission declares the United States League an 'outlaw,' we will go along just the same. We are not itching for a fight but this does not mean that we will surrender.

"There are plenty of good players who are not associated with national agreement teams. We have the names of many former major leaguers who are still able to play good ball.

"We will get the best players possible. We will develop players. We plan to sign several veterans for each team and let them develop our youngsters. In a few years we hope to have a mighty fast league.

"There are hundreds of young players aching to play professional ball. We will give them the chance.

"The daily average attendance in the Eastern League in 1911 was 1600. I think we can draw as well.

"We will not have a salary limit. Club owners can pay such salaries as they see fit.

"The United States League will be composed of Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Reading, Pa., Washington D. C., Richmond, Va., Brooklyn and New York. Capitalists in Boston and Buffalo have sought franchises."

BEAVERS WORK OUT IN GREAT SHAPE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA MARIA, March 8.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Yesterday was home-run day in the camp of the Portland Beavers. Krueger was the Ping Bodie of the squad with six line drives over the fence. Doane, the new New Orleans outfielder, hit five over the right wall, and Kibbie, the Helena infielder, four.

Doane looks especially sweet. He is a natural left-handed batter, bunts something like Lindsay and is down to first like a flash. He is a fixture unquestionably.

McCredie is paying considerable attention to young Kibbie, and has switched him over from third base to shortstop.

IS HOCKEY LADYLIKE?

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

I SAW my first game of ladies' hockey a few weeks ago when I was invited to Duarte to see that team play Santa Monica and I thought it one of the jolliest sights I had witnessed. It seemed such a joyous romp, and it made one feel young again to see these girls and young matrons and young mothers all running like the wind and scrambling after a ball with odd looking sticks.

And I was conscious of feeling quite jealous because I was a mere onlooker, instead of one of the players. I decided that one of these days, when I am too old and too wise to write any more, I too, will play hockey.

But, luckily, I have not irrevocably committed myself! How very unfortunate if I had—with my reputation for seemly decorum to keep up! Mercy, what a narrow escape! For, imagine my horror to discover that a no less weighty authority than the London Times Educational Supplement (when it is honestly labelled an educational supplement, it is the quintessential essence of all that is authoritative and indubitable) regards hockey as "rough and unladylike, and extremely detrimental to the best physical development of the maiden."

There!

"I have known," says the writer, "young girls to be crippled for life through a treacherous knock from a hockey stick. Eyes have been poked out, heads smashed in, knee caps broken, ankles broken, and the knuckles of the hands torn and deformed through participation in this crude and riotous game of hockey."

Golly!

Then as regards the "unladylikeness" the writer goes on to point out that the wild running necessitates the showing of an undue amount of leg; that loud shouting, most unbecoming in a lady, is quite unavoidable; that hair frequently becomes disarranged, and that altogether there is a most unseemly lack of decorum throughout the so-called game!

It reads for all the world like a page of dear old Jane Austen, and you will each and all agree with me that Jane at least was an authority on ladylikeness.

And yet I did like hockey. Can it be possible that my tastes are so shockingly depraved? It may be unladylike, I consoled myself, but at least it is healthy.

And then I come across "The Lancet," that dear pompous old journal of the medical profession in Great Britain, whose word on most subjects, from walnuts and wine as the dinner finale to the correct size of the bath towel, is accepted without question. And the Lancet confirmed my worst fears about hockey. No, it's no use, hockey isn't even healthy! The most they are prepared to admit is that it may make strong girls stronger, but it kills off weak girls quicker than ice-cream or microbe-kisses.

And then I miserably recalled how on that famous Duarte day, a certain Mrs. Seymour, looking deceitfully ladylike in an awfully becoming white serge dress, was limping about artistically, and excluded from the game through—a sprained ankle! Sprained in the practice game the week before! Visions rose before my eyes of Mrs. W. H. Young (ah, alas, she cannot be as ladylike as she seems!) and her mutilated knuckles when I met her on the car coming home from the Santa Monica match! I tried to recall that she had hidden them with decorous shame, but as far as I remember she merely laughed and said, "Oh, that's nothing, we all do that." That there is Miss Alice Scott, whom in my ignorance I had fondly imagined to be graceful and ladylike to the point of perfection. Painfully I conjure visions of lacerated hands, bruised knuckles, scratched arms! Oh, oh, oh!

And those three Sutton sisters, and Mrs. Bruce a mother, too! I have seen them run so lightly and so swiftly that their feet scarcely seemed to touch the ground. Joyously they wield their hockey sticks and scamper down the field after the ball, and appear to positively bubble over with mischievous triumph when they foil the enemy's attempt to make a goal. And how the whole jolly team laughs! And Mrs. Dudley will trip and fall, lightly jump up and continue the game as though nothing had happened. Oh, it's all dreadfully unladylike. Any self-respecting heroine in Jane Austen's novel would have had the decency to faint under the circumstances. And if she positively had to run, she would certainly have had a sufficiently fine sense of decorum to wear a long dress that should completely veil anything so disreputable as a leg.

And yet. . . . It does seem jolly to see each separate girl putting her whole heart and soul into making a point for her side. It does seem plucky and wholesome and refreshing to see slender dainty girls take knocks and hurts with a smile. It does seem exhilarating to see delightful mothers like Mrs. Young, shed the responsibilities of grown sons like Mr. Gerald, and run as lightly as though they were but sixteen.

Oh, dear, I know if I have any sense of decency left I shall devote the rest of my life to the Friday Morning Club and Bridge, with possibly a decorous round of golf once a month—but.

Perhaps if only hockey were regarded as thoroughly and indubitably ladylike by the London Times Educational Supplement and The Lancet, why then, I am pretty sure I should take to—poker!

McGRAW SIGNS OLD COLLEGE BALL STAR.

Frank Nohowel, at one time the third baseman for the Columbia College team, of which Eddie Collins was a member, has been signed by John McGraw.

Followers of intercollegiate baseball will recognize the name immediately. Nohowel played third base and Collins shortstop on that team, and they gave luster to a sparkling infield. McGraw has had his eye on Nohowel for some time, and two years ago he tried to get him to sign a contract. The player, however, was attending the Columbia Law school at the time and did not have any inclination to enter professional baseball. The last few summers have found him playing with amateur nines on Long Island. The lure of the diamond, with its contingent financial remunerations, has evidently proved strong, and McGraw will take Nohowel to Marlin Springs for a trial.

Eddie Collins was always considered the class of the Columbia team on which both men played. He was a strong hitter and a lively fielder, but Nohowel ranked second in the estimation of many critics. Whether he can be developed into a big league star remains to be seen. He has a wonderful arm, according to reports, and Billy Lauder, who coached the Columbia team in the days of Collins, has informed McGraw that the youngster has "the goods." It is not beyond the realms of possibility to see Collins and Nohowel playing on rival teams for a world's championship at no distant date.

Wonderful Invention by a French Mechanic

Millions have been spent trying to make a perfect Auto Starter, but it was left for this great French inventor, Aug. Wagniere, to make one that is 100 per cent. efficient, simple, lasts longer than the car; no air, gas, springs, cogs, ratchets—yet so simple a child can understand and operate it.

It only costs $50.00 installed, and is manufactured and absolutely guaranteed by the

BUSINESS IS GOOD

OUR ENGINEERING CREED

WE BELIEVE WHEN A GOOD ENGINEER DESIGNS A CAR, THE BASIC PRINCIPLES, ASIDE FROM SIMPLICITY AND ACCESSIBILITY, ARE TO ELIMINATE FRICTION, GUARD AGAINST DISTORTION, REDUCE WEAR TO THE MINIMUM, AND DELIVER THE MAXIMUM HORSEPOWER TO THE DRIVING WHEELS WITH THE LEAST POSSIBLE LOSS.

This we have done, as we can prove to you by a demonstration. The OAKLAND car will deliver more power and is more efficient, with the same piston displacement, than any car on the market. This you must understand means economy, low cost of maintenance and freedom from trouble.

OAKLAND cars are built with a conscience—with the firm conviction that they represent the best principles. Aside from mechanical excellence we have made great strides in body design, equipment, and other details that will be welcomed by the exacting purchaser. When it comes to riding qualities and ease of operation we know that our car is not equaled by any car on the market at anywhere near the price. We use the unit power plant which means efficiency, simplicity, and reduction of friction and wear. It aids materially in gaining accessibility, insures perfect alignment, and is a safeguard against loss of power from the motor to the driving wheels.

There are a hundred things to be said in its favor, nor is it necessary to explain these features in any technical terms, or any language other than plain simple sentences, so that you may readily understand them, so the advantages of the unit power plant may be summed up as follows:

A. It is mechanically correct.
B. The loss of power from the motor to the driving wheels is reduced to a minimum.
C. It is lighter.
D. Wear is reduced to a minimum, since frame deflections are not communicated.
E. Increased efficiency and smoother running.
F. Less parts by actual count and greater simplicity.

There has been a great deal said about less parts. We only ask a few minutes of your time to prove to you, beyond question of a doubt, the truth and fact in every statement that we have made.

The question of maintenance is always an interesting one—especially to a man purchasing his first car: it is this one thing that worries him. He likes to know what it is going to cost him to keep his machine. We believe that the maintenance expense, aside from fuel and lubrication, depend largely on the design and construction and whether the manufacturer has guarded or rather provided for a minimum maintenance.

Simplicity and accessibility naturally insure low cost of maintenance. The OAKLAND running gear consists of but two distinct units. The motor, clutch and transmission considered as one—the driving shaft and differential assembly considered as the other. You can see that this insures economical maintenance. There is nothing to bother with. Nothing to get out of order. You have no jumble of wires, rods and cross pieces to break and get out of order. The OAKLAND chassis is clean. Everything is protected from dust and dirt. Every unit is housed.

When it comes to body design, detailed finish, equipment, etc., as for appearance the OAKLAND is second to none. We ask you to investigate or give us a chance to demonstrate.

THE JUMP-UPS

VERSES BY PAUL WEST
DRAWINGS BY WM. H. LOOMIS

1.—One day there came to Genevieve a gladness scarce controlled.
The Jump-Ups had received a card from Mrs. Gobbsa Gold
To attend the Spring Golf Meeting on the Golds' fine private course,
Where all the swaggerest swells would be participants in force.

2.—Thought Genevieve [illegible] other chance to make a hit for Jim.
None but the blue [illegible]y, I'm sure, so I will enter him.
He's failed in other ways, perhaps he'll shine in this department!
He'll study golf with Jimpson in the halls of our apartment!"

3.—"Gosh ding it!" Jim protested, "I don't want to learn to play."
But Genevieve insisted, and of course she had her way,
And Jimpson in a week declared, "Hi fawncy, ma'am, 'e'll pawss.
'E knows the names of hall 'is clubs and wears 'is togs with clawss!"

4.—The day arrived. Society was thick upon the links.
"Gee!" stammered Jim, "I can't mix up with all them high toned ginks!"
"You must!" persisted Genevieve. "Just do as you've been told!
Go join the men!" And off went she to speak to Mrs. Gold.

5.—Her charms and grace, her pretty face won every one she met.
She made a rapid conquest with the leaders of "The Set,"
Who asked, "Where's Mr. Jump-Up? We are sure we'll all like him?"
And Genevieve was forced to lead a search at once for Jim.

[illegible] on across the green they went and in the lead went she.
Ah, there he is!" cried Genevieve, as they approached the tee.
"How handsome! How distinguished!" murmured Mrs. Gobbsa Gold,
And raised a jewelled monocle the better to behold.

7.—Just then it came Jim's turn to play. He swung. There was a thud.
His driver smacked the thawing turf! There rose a sea of mud,
Engulfing all the "gallery" with soggy, sticky earth
And ruining of hats and gowns a handsome fortune's worth!

8.—Apologies were mockery! In rage flew Genevieve.
She rushed Jim to their motor and they took a hasty leave.
In tears she sought her boudoir and she slammed the door on him.
"I guess I've got in wrong again!" sighed melancholy Jim.

When She Turns Her Back on You

Back Pleats in Linen

IF MILADY should suddenly become ap[illegible] assume an interest in things far away—in other words, if she turn her bac[illegible] you, you will find much satisfaction in viewing the new ways in which noted modistes have trimmed her gowns or dresses. Nothing has been forgotten in the planning of the back of the costume. It is equally as important as the front, and the sooner women recognize this fact the better. Just as many persons see the back of a dress as the front (unless you stand in a corner), and it is generally the hallmark of the professional designer to find that there has been no diminution in thought or energy when designing the back of a dress.

The Watteau effect is shown in the long heavy lace panel that forms a court train on the velvet gown. It is attached to a strip of metallic lace at the top, which also holds the draped lace in front. A strip of metallic lace runs down the left side of the court train. Notice the double train effect, the lower being circular and a trifle fuller than in the past.

On another taffeta model is shown a fitted overbodice of lace, which extends in a straight effect below the scalloped girdle. Side pieces of lace on the bodice give a slanting line on each edge. It is an easy method of trimming the back of a silk dress.

Crossed bands, rising from a soft girdle and passing over the shoulders, are trimmed with heavy lace on the dark gown of chiffon over satin. The back peplum is made of rows of lace edged with scallops, from which folds of the chiffon are draped up and hang down in unobtrusive fullness.

Any soft material can be fashioned in this way.

The light dance frock of messaline is trimmed with duchess lace. This is draped over the bodice, ending in two narrow panels at the back. At the left is a fringed silk sash. A straight, flat panel hangs down to the hem under the upper two loose ones.

In the linen frock the back is particularly modish. On the bodice a deep square yoke is filled in with coarse filet, dyed to match. The skirt has a fitted yoke effect at the back. Inverted pleats drop from the yoke line and are finished under the side panels. Fullness once more, you see!

The medieval jacket of lace on the last gown can easily be copied. It has elbow-length sleeves over satin and a square yoke at the top, with a slight opening at the central line. A shirred girdle holds in the lace at the waist line and a short shirred panel drops down the back. At the left hangs a long silk sash, bound and edged with ball fringe.

No longer need there be a painful disparity between the front and the back of any dress. The same scheme, generally, should be carried out, and the resultant beauty and feeling of comfort will repay for the double energy required in making the back view just as lovely as any other.

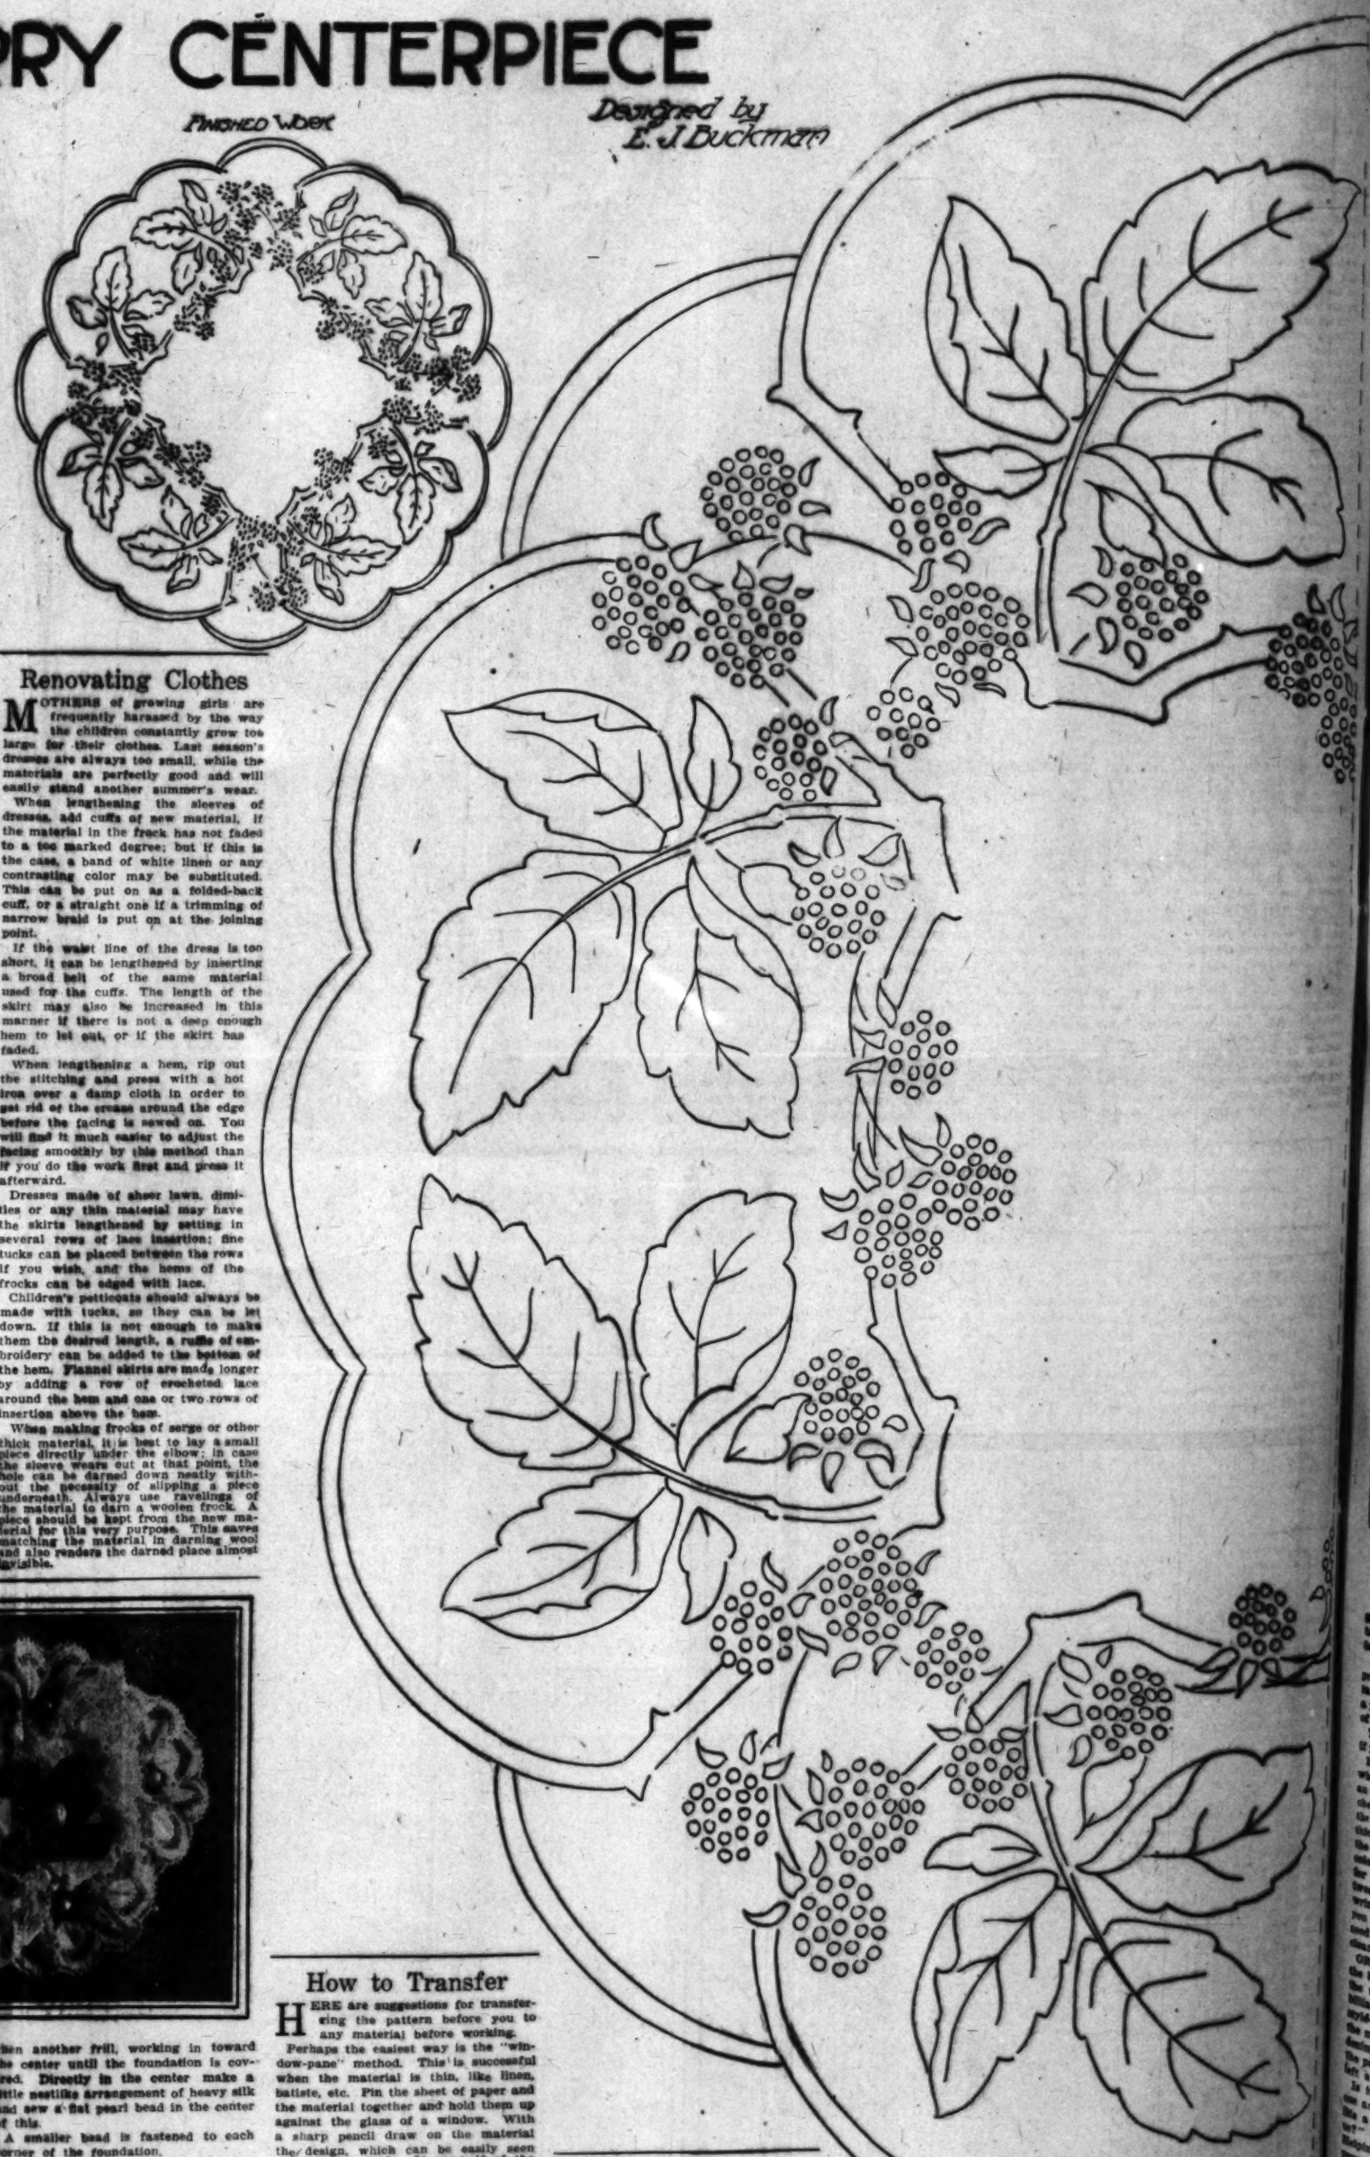
A BLACKBERRY CENTERPIECE



WHEN I offer to you blackberries that can be worked in French knots and their leaves that are to be done in outline, it is a treat, isn't it?

A lovely design is here. I like the way in which the scallops are continued as stems in the design.

One-half of the centerpiece is shown. When tracing it you will swing the half around so that the ends meet and complete the pattern on a medium weight tan or white linen.

Use heavy white cotton or heavy silk for the stitches; if you prefer colored embroidery, use a deep purple and a soft grayish green, with brown for the scallops and stems.

Large French knots will quickly work the berries for you. Solid work for the tiny leaves at the base of each berry will be done in no time. Use heavy outlining for the leaves and veins and, if you wish, work the turned-over edges of the leaves in solid stitches. This will give a lovely shading in the work.

After padding the scallops with darning cotton, work in buttonhole stitch up to about an inch beyond the line of junction on the edge. Continue in stem stitch along the stems and into the stem of the large leaves. Use stem stitch for the stem in the center also. As the greater part of the work has been so easy, you can afford to give some time to the stems.

The whole effect is unusually rich and I know that you will like the finished work as much as I do. Besides, it will soon be time for berries anyway.

Hand-Run Lace

THE other day in a trunk of treasures a baby's dress was found. Let me describe it. It was trimmed with net, or tiffeta, worked with linen thread in a pattern that looked intricate, but was, on investigation, very easy.

First of all, the strips of net were cut about five inches in width. Then, using the regular holes as a guide, a straight line of stitches was run the length of the net. The needle skipped three or four holes and then "took up" one, so that the effect was that of a continuous thread. Parallel with this another line was made, and between the two a serpentine line of thread was made that gave a simple, effective border.

On the other edge of the net the same idea was carried out.

Between the two borders the lace was filled in with squares of decoration founded on the walls-of-troy design. After once making the winding pattern the rest is easy.

There are other suggestions. The thread can be run under and over the net to form long oval petals of a daisy. The wide petals of a wild rose can be outlined and then filled in with darning stitches on the net. Simple leaves are easily outlined or worked solid, and stems need be only two parallel lines of thread.

Conventional designs in squares, circles, diamonds, etc., are the easiest of all to make. Even the double lines of thread in rows one-half inch apart are effective.

The lace is hand-run, and occupied much of our mothers' hours. They vied with each other in giving complicated patterns, and many hours were spent on the exquisite work. And oh, how it lasted! The coarse linen thread added strength to the net with each stitch. It washed well and was extremely effective over colors.

Pincushions, motifs for scarfs for the bureau, and even shades for the boudoir candles, are exquisite in this hand-run design. It resembles filet work, but the background is of a circular mesh.

Yokes and subsleeves are exquisite when made of this old-fashioned hand-run lace. Think of the color possibilities.

Although our mothers did not use the colored thread on white or ecru net, we need not hesitate to sound the color note in the work. Ecru is a good background on which a design in color can be worked. The different shades of blue, ranging from dark to delft and cadet blue, are lovely. Tans and browns, with here and there touches of orange, are effective. Grays and blue, or red, make pretty decorative stripe for dresses, and a combination of all shades, even in a simple design, gives a Persian effect.

Be sure to procure washable colored threads and then begin. Make the design a running or continuous one, if possible. No knots need be used in beginning the work. Just work under and over for a few holes toward the starting point, then retrace your steps in the design, covering up the first few stitches, and no one will be the wiser.

What ideas we can get from a treasure chest!

An Invisible Patch

WHEN children's dresses have to be patched, be sure to match the weave of the material, and if it be striped or plaid goods, take great care that the lines of the figure exactly match.

Before applying the patch be sure that the material of the patch matches the dress in color. For example, do not patch a faded garment with a piece of new material. If the dress is faded, wet a bit of new material and lay it in the sun until it, too, is faded the same amount as the dress itself; then it can be put on underneath the tear, the frayed edges cut away and the edges of the tear sewed [illegible] invisible stitches, and press the patch on the wrong side and it will be almost impossible to see where the garment has been mended.

To apply an invisible patch to woolen material, place the patch under the hole, then, with strands of wool thread raveled out from the new material or the piece you are patching with, darn the edges of the hole down to the patch, taking care to follow the weave of the material as you work. Dampen and press under a cloth on the wrong side.

Lace may be successfully patched by sewing a piece of net having the same mesh as the lace underneath the place you want to patch, and with a fine needle and thread that corresponds to the thread in the pattern of the lace work over the net the same design found in the lace. This plan is very successful in mending lace yokes and collars that have worn in small holes about the joining point, yet are too good to discard altogether.

When Making Irish Crochet

A CLEVER woman, who supports herself by making Irish crochet lace at odd moments, always learns to make the new patterns first by doing the work with a coarse hoop and fine wrapping cord.

When thoroughly familiar with the intricacies of the pattern, she can do the work with fine thread without danger to her eyesight and very much more rapidly than it could be done if she was working on an entirely new design.

The coarse lace made of the wrapping cord is used to trim linen and cretonne covers for the bureau and tables.

When she wishes to copy a new pattern from a small illustration in a book or magazine, she uses a powerful magnifying reading glass. Then the stitches can be counted without any trouble or without danger of straining her eyes.

Filet and cross-stitch work are treated in the same manner.

Renovating Clothes

MOTHERS of growing girls are frequently harassed by the way the children constantly grow too large for their clothes. Last season's dresses are always too small, while the materials are perfectly good and will easily stand another summer's wear.

When lengthening the sleeves of dresses, add cuffs of new material, if the material in the frock has not faded to a too marked degree; but if this is the case, a band of white linen or any contrasting color may be substituted. This can be put on as a folded-back cuff, or a straight one if a trimming of narrow braid is put on at the joining point.

If the waist line of the dress is too short, it can be lengthened by inserting a broad belt of the same material used for the cuffs. The length of the skirt may also be increased in this manner if there is not a deep enough hem to let out, or if the skirt has faded.

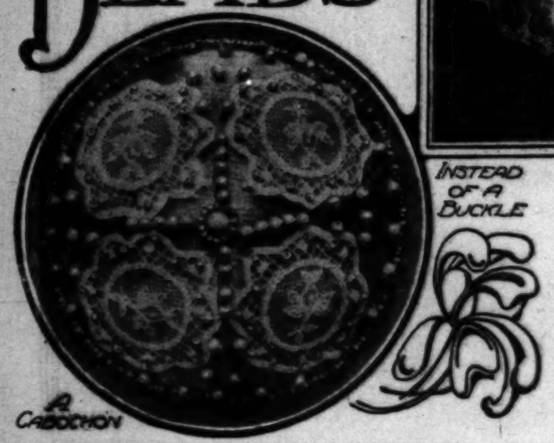
When lengthening a hem, rip out the stitching and press with a hot iron over a damp cloth in order to get rid of the crease around the edge before the facing is sewed on. You will find it much easier to adjust the facing smoothly by this method than if you do the work first and press it afterward.

Dresses made of sheer lawn, dimities or any thin material may have the skirts lengthened by setting in several rows of lace insertion; fine tucks can be placed between the rows if you wish, and the hems of the frocks can be edged with lace.

Children's petticoats should always be made with tucks, so they can be let down. If this is not enough to make them the desired length, a ruffle of embroidery can be added to the bottom of the hem. Flannel skirts are made longer by adding a row of crocheted lace around the hem and one or two rows of insertion above the hem.

When making frocks of serge or other thick material, it is best to lay a small piece directly under the elbow; in case the sleeve wears out at that point, the hole can be darned down neatly without the necessity of slipping a piece underneath. Always use ravelings of the material to darn a woolen frock. A piece should be kept from the new material for this very purpose. This saves matching the material in darning wool and also renders the darned place almost invisible.

OF LACE and BEADS



DO YOU need a fancy ornament to adorn the new spring hat? Or, perhaps, the gown that you are making over and want to give it an individual touch that it never before possessed?

If so, take needle, thread and any odd bits of lace that you may have, supplementing these with a few beads, and you have enough to make at least one pretty trifle.

To copy the lace ornament shown here, cut a three-inch square of buckram, canvas or any stiff material.

Beginning at the outer edge, sew a frill of narrow lace all the way around, then another frill, working in toward the center until the foundation is covered. Directly in the center make a little nestlike arrangement of heavy silk and sew a flat pearl bead in the center of this.

A smaller bead is fastened to each corner of the foundation.

The cabochon of beads and lace is made by cutting a circle six inches in diameter from buckram and slashing the edge at stated intervals one inch. Overlap the cut edges a very little and sew down. This will form a foundation slightly rounding on the top.

Cover this with a piece of metal cloth, satin, silk or fancy tapestry.

Sew the lace medallions to this, catching them fast at every point. Now sew on your beads in any design you like, or use the design given here. A box of assorted beads that can be bought for 5 cents will be found very useful in making these things.

With lace and silk and a box of beads one can make many such pretty trimmings for dress and millinery.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Surely the way is easy.

Handy Scrapbag

THE woman who uses a sewing machine will do well to make herself a good-sized bag that can be attached to the side frame of the machine and used to collect all scraps and bits of thread left from the sewing.

Select an embroidery hoop eight inches in diameter and cretonne sixteen inches long and fourteen inches wide. Sew the ends and one side together and turn the edge of the other side over the hoop and run a gathering thread in the hem thus formed. When finished, draw up the thread the size of the hoop and catch it tight. This will make a bag that is gathered on to the hoop and is amply full in body to hold a goodly number of scraps before it is necessary to empty.

Another sewing help is to have a pattern bag hung back of the machine. Make inside pockets to this bag in which you can keep the patterns belonging to the different members of the family. Have also two extra pockets that hold patterns of your own dress accessories.

A deal of time and strength can be saved in the hunting of patterns or in picking up bits of the kind if every machine is equipped with these two little bags.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

"LITTLE FOXES" OF THE HOME.

"TAKE us the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vines."

When Solomon made this remark, it is quite another connection, even so wise a man as he could never have foreseen its application by a housekeeper of any kind, least of all by an American housekeeper of the twentieth century.

Yet I find them fitting the case in hand with marvelous appropriateness. For my talk today is concerning the small leaks of the household, the little foxes which ravage our domestic vines.

"I am not penny wise and pound foolish," I heard a woman say the other day. "I am penny wise and penny foolish! Leave the pounds and let the pence look out for themselves!"

Isn't that the case with a good many of us when it comes to minor economies in the home?

"Luxury gets into the blood!" asserted a man in a recent popular play. Does not frivolous also get into the blood? Does not the American almost invariably associate comfort and extravagance? Does he feel himself well-off unless he can spend more than is needed?

Take one of the minor wastes in the home. How many of you feel it incumbent upon you to turn down the gas or to extinguish the electric light when you quit a room for a few minutes? Doesn't it savor of parsimony to you to think of so minute a saving as that?

A friend told me not long ago of a visit she had paid to the house of a titled Englishman. The dwelling was superb in all its appointments; there was a small army of servants; prosperity was manifest everywhere—but in each bedroom and dressing room a small printed notice was tacked up over the electric light fixtures: "Please turn out the light when leaving the room." "Did you ever hear of such meanness?" cried my friend. "A titled Englishman, too! A plain, everyday American would be scorned to do such a thing!"

Wealthy Set the Pace.

Certainly he would! Also he—and his wife and daughters—would scorn to practice many another small economy which would not in the least degrade them. The trouble is that while there are some sin and women to whom such petty savings are of no importance, their conduct sets the pace for many of us to whom money is worth while. Because the ultimate does not care to recall the fact that it takes a hundred cents to make a dollar the rest of us feel that we lower our dignity by bearing it in mind. I may remark, by the way, that the millionaire did not reach his present status by ignoring dollar or cents. Also that the really wealthy, who have become accustomed to their possessions, are not those who are ashamed to watch the little leaks. It is more likely to be those who are not sufficiently sure of themselves to appreciate the elegance of economy and be proud of it.

To return to the gas and electric light waste. Does it seem too tiny to notice?

"I estimate that you have lost as much as half a cent's worth," a man said scornfully to a woman the other night, when she reproved some one for having left the electric light turned on in a vacant room.

"And if that is done every night for a month it amounts to 15 cents," she retorted. "I am not above saving the price of three trolley rides."

Half a cent doesn't seem much when you take it by itself. The trouble is that the same waste goes on in every department of the household. The electric light or the gas left burning unneeded and unheeded for an hour or two is so common an occurrence that one hardly notices it. I have always striven to impress upon my household the fact that matches cost less than gas, but what similie can one use to describe the cheapness of turning on electric key? Yet we waste the light sooner than take that infinitesimal pain. If there were a practicable meter by which we could scale the waste of light we would have a concrete notion of how much useless expenditure goes on in the home.

Waste of Fuel Gas.

When it comes to the gas used in cookery the opportunity for leakage is even greater. The oven lighted ahead of time and kept burning when it is empty, the full head turned on when a mere glimmer would answer, are on a par with the wastefulness of fuel in a coal range when the stove is kept filled with coal at a red hot stage instead of being left low when it is not needed. The open dampers and drafts, the heaped up firebox, do we not all know them?

All the wastes are not in light and fuel, by any means. When it comes to the extravagance in our kitchens words fail me! I know that many of you whom I try to help practice close economy in buying and using provisions, but are there not, even in your pantries, neglected economies whose observance would seem to you to savor of meanness? They have been described as the cheese paring and candle ends kind of savings. Why, I ask you, should not one save both candle ends and cheese parings? Is there anything especially fine and generous about wasting either one?

To my mind there is something peculiarly repugnant in an extravagance which profits no one—unless it may be the dealer of whom you buy more than you would if you took care of the candle ends and the cheese parings. If you gave those ends and ends to some one whom they would help, if the leavings from your table which you have no use for could be utilized by the suffering poor, I would not have a word to say. But when you throw away the ends of loaves and the cut slices of bread, the dry biscuit and the stale remnants, you are helping no one and hurting yourself. Why do you not put your ingenuity to work to prepare dishes which will use the better pieces of dry bread and crisp the smaller pieces in the oven to crush and use for crumbs in cookery of various sorts?

Watch Contents of Larder.

Go through your larder with the same appreciation of wastes. How about that soup-meat from which you say "all the good has been cooked?" Recall the fact that the well known "bouilli" of the French—the most marvelous culinary experts and economists we know—is nothing more nor less than the boiled meat from which their pot-au-feu and their bouillon are made. They do not throw away the meat with the assertion that it is worthless after boiling it for soup. They put with it some of the liquor in which it was cooked, add vegetables and seasoning and make a savory dish fit for the table of any one. Suppose you try this.

Exercise the same care with other left-overs of food. Nothing is too small to be worth keeping. A tablespoonful of to matoes or of peas or of beans, a little rice, a cold boiled potato, odds and ends of this sort—none of them is too trifling to go into a salad or to enrich a soup or to make a part of a savory compound which will help out at luncheon or dinner. The despised cheese parings may be ground up and saved for macaroni or some dish au gratin.

Stale cake, like stale bread, has many uses, either by itself or in combination with something else. The tablespoonful of preserves left in the bottom of the jar need not be "eaten to save it," but put aside to spread on bread for a child's lunch; the left-over of preserves or dessert will help to give character to a cornstarch or rice or bread pudding. Orange and lemon peel may be thrown in cold water to be candied or preserved for future service. Fresh fruit which will not keep may be stewed, even if there is only a little of it.

I know several housekeepers who do not disdain to add to their store of jellies and jams, a jar at a time, by putting up the fruit left from a meal—fruit that will not last overnight. It is practically no trouble to put it over the fire and cook it so that it will keep.

Uses for Sour Milk.

Don't waste milk! I have been in households where sour milk apparently had no use save to throw away. If you do not have need for it in biscuits, or corn bread, or ginger bread, or some one of the many other recipes where sour milk is called for, use it in pot cheese, which will keep for several days, and is good with bread, with crackers and jam or cake, or in salad.

All the wastes of the household do not take place in the pantry, or with the gas or electric light meter, and you have only to open your eyes wide and look about you to see leaks on every side.

Carelessness is one of the worst. When you let a pot boil dry or a pan stand in the oven with a little food burning to the bottom, or put a coffee pot where the direct flame of the gas will melt the solder which holds on the handle or the spout, you are guilty of as much extravagance as when you burn holes in the dish towel by using it for a holder to open the oven door or to lift an iron from the stove.

You are wasting when you do not take care of the commodities you have, when bread gets stale on your hands because it is not properly wrapped, when milk sours because it has been left in the hot kitchen, when ice melts because the door of the refrigerator is not carefully closed, when crackers grow damp and musty because they are kept in a paper bag instead of in a tin. All the provisions that go bad before they can be used are just so much dead loss, and show your extravagance in buying, your inattention in caring for them, or your heedlessness in planning their use. Perhaps you do not call yourself wasteful, but stop and think. Is there any other word which describes the condition?

Other Wastes to Check.

Look to other wastes. What care do you take of your household linen? Do you watch for every break and mend it as soon as it comes? Do you look over your worn napkins and tablecloths before they go to the wash and put in the stitch that may save a hole? Do you cut over tablecloths which are too badly worn for their proper use and convert them into fish napkins and doilies to lay under baked potatoes and the like? Do you turn your sheets as they become thin in the center and make wash cloths out of the towels that are badly broken and catch up the hemstitched border of the towels themselves as soon as it begins to go and save every bit of old linen for possible wounds or illness, either in your own home or in that of others?

The chief effort in connection with economy is forming the habit. After you once get into it it becomes second nature. Let me beg of you to see that there is no meanness about saving. It is not penury practiced for the sake of hoarding, but care of the little things that you may save enough to get something worth while. There is no virtue in wasting an article which might be of good to some one else or for which you might provide yourself with an equivalent which would be of real service to you.

One of the best methods of saving money is recognized to be the custom of laying aside a little at a time. You may get your charity money or your Christmas money or your vacation money by putting away all the dimes or the nickels or the pennies which come to you in change. If you have ever tried it you know how the sum accumulates without your ever really missing the amount you have saved.

Try the same plan in your household economies and see if it does not work a well. Look out for all the tiny leaks and stop them. If you could keep an accurate record of how much it would mean in the course of the year it might not startle you by its immensity, but no matter how small the saving, it is better worth while to have that than the loss which means nothing except the increases in habits of wastefulness which profit no one in the world, and impairs your own character. Take the little foxes by any traps you may devise and be sure your vines will not be slow to show the improvement.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the department I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 100 words, except in cases of females or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this regard is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them.

Marion Harland.

"CAN you tell me how to wash and starch dark blue percale dresses so the starch will not show? I have three little girls and like to use the dark blue, but the washerwomen cannot seem to clean up nicely, and I don't know how to instruct them.

"I take this opportunity to express appreciation and gratefulness for the 'helps' in your columns. It is, indeed, a help for a young housekeeper to have the advantage of experience and wisdom. E. P. L."

You may wash the percales in bran water, if you like.

BRAN WATER—Boil two quarts of sifted bran in six quarts of water for half an hour. Let it cool and strain through cheesecloth, pressing hard to get out all the nutritious matter. Should it be too thick, dilute with cold water until it is of the consistency of starch. After rinsing the dark percales dip them in this and leave for five minutes. Then wash, rubbing between your hands and put through the wringer. Unless the gowns are badly soiled you need no soap in washing them, and you need no starch in any case. The bran both cleans and stiffens.

To make your starch dark colored with bluing. It will not show then between the threads. I once saw the walls of a dining room in a fine mansion—colonial in style—that were ruined by the failure of some one who hung them with dark green paper, or some other thick stuff, to color starch. It oozed through, and in drying left a reticulated lace all over the walls.

"As George Eliot who says, "Of what use are we in the world if we do not make life less difficult for those about us?" I thank you for telling us that the Helping Hand has been an aid to you. The Helping Housekeeper is the most conspicuous object in my field of vision whenever I turn to paper.

Advice to Kitchen Workers.

"I am a new kind member tell me why bread is coarse in texture and rather tough? 'Cheesy,' some call it. I kneed it in a bread mixer.

"I have a bit of advice to offer in exchange. It is this: Buy a cheap office stool, cut off from the legs about one and a half or two inches, keep it in the kitchen and use it! Moreover (and a harder task sometimes), teach the maids to use it. It should be just the right height to allow you to sit comfortably at the sink in washing dishes, at the mixing table, at the ironing board, and while you clean silver. It is light enough to be moved easily from place to place. The use of it will save many an hour of fatigue and backache—possibly some serious disorder. Women have to be so much upon their feet in doing housework that they should learn to sit whenever it is practicable and the office stool in the kitchen and laundry makes this possible. R. A. C."

The sensible woman gives us no hint as to her place of residence. Hence, rigid obedience to rules should shut her communication out from the Helping Hand. Because she speaks so pleasantly the words of truth and soberness I am constrained to admit her. I direct attention particularly to that part of her letter which recommends the use of the office stool. Forty years ago in the Familiar Talk which prefaced the first edition of "Common Sense in the Household," I said:

"I lay it down as a safe and imperative rule for kitchen use—'NEVER STAND WHEN YOU CAN DO YOUR WORK AS WELL WHILE SITTING.'"

We energetic authors are forbidden the use of italics when we would raise our voices and gesticulate if we were speaking. Forty years back in the past this law did not govern printing offices, and that sentence was italicised boldly. It deserves larger capitals than it has received.

I added: "If I could have John's ear for a minute I would tell him that which would lead him to watch you and to exercise wholesome authority in this regard."

How to Steam Rice.

"Will you kindly tell me how to steam rice so that it will be light and flaky?

"Mrs. C. B. W."

If you have no regular steamer, improvise one by setting a colander over a pot of boiling water, fitting it tightly into the kettle, yet so far above the surface of the water that it cannot reach it at its hardest boil. Wash and drain the rice and put it into the colander, leaving plenty of room for swelling. Fit the top of a pail or a plate upon the colander and lay a thick folded cloth upon the cover to keep in all the steam.

Keep the water at a fast bubble until the rice is tender. Try a grain by biting it to make sure of this. Each grain should be whole and stand apart from the rest. Shake up lightly to let the air get at the mass, and set in the open oven to dry off as you would boiled potatoes. Salt to taste, and turn into a hot vegetable dish.

An easier way of cooking rice that will gain the same result is to throw a cupful of washed rice loosely into two quarts of boiling salted water and let it boil fast until tender. This should be in about twenty minutes. Test by biting a grain. It should be translucent, tender, and unbroken. Drain and dry off. Never put a spoon into the rice while it is cooking. When prepared in this way it is altogether another cereal from the pasty, grayish stuff which is all many know as "plain boiled rice."

The water in which it was cooked is a valuable addition to the stock pot.

* *

Two "New Wrinkles."

"Following you have two 'new wrinkles':

"POTATO SAVING—[1]—Grease the potatoes lightly with lard before baking them. This renders the skin thin and tender, so that when peeled it does not adhere to the inside of the potato nearly so closely as when it is baked in the usual way. This saves the mealiest and most nutritious part of the potato. It usually comes off with the skin and is wasted.

"[2]—TO RENOVATE SOILED VEILS—Dip in alcohol several times, and squeeze gently until the alcohol is discolored with the dirt from the veil. Then pull out into shape carefully, stretching a little to the desired width. The veil will dry with the handling, and be as fresh and crisp as when new. GRACE M. B."

Every Word in Earnest.

I meant it then—every word! I reiterate the advice with tenfold more earnestness. We have a way of saying that cooks are more prone to be cross than chambermaids and waitresses, and allege as a probable reason that they get overheated and fagged out working so much over and about the fire. I am fully convinced, after much study and observation, that what the employer would account for in herself by pleading "nervous exhaustion" is the natural effect of standing for hours in a hot room. The strain upon the spine and hips induces weakness of organs directly connected with the most sensitive parts of the nervous system.

Norah's back aches continually, she will tell you if you remark upon her gloomy looks. Except when she is at her meals she rarely sits down from early dawn until night. She bends over the sink, the table and the ironing board, to say nothing of the washtub. Have you ever noticed the conventional stoop of one who has served in the kitchen for many years? Or that she habitually puts both hands upon the small of the back in raising herself to an erect position from tub or sink? Sometimes—and this you may have been annoyed at observing—she groans in straightening herself. Put yourself in her place! If you do this conscientiously you will have a change in the kitchen furniture and in her attitude while she is working.

Always supposing that she is amenable to reason! Our wise correspondent hints that you may not find this so easy as you imagine. At all events, have your own chair and spare your spine and hips—and nerves—and temper! Forty odd years ago I had a chair constructed expressly for my use when I had occasion to do kitchen work. I rolled pastry, beat up syllabubs, meringues and mayonnaise, canned pickled, and preserved—without rising from my comfortable seat—and never felt "fairly worn out" and "as cross as two sticks" at the close of the day.

I have devoted what may be considered an unreasonable length of time to this single point of kitchen usage. The student of physiology will excuse my verboseness. So will John, if he loves his wife, and is as commonsensible as "R. A. C."

In reply to the query thrown off the track by the superior importance of your second proposition—you should knead your bread longer if you would have it of finer grain, and to make it tender add more shortening.

A Word to Mothers.

"Have you a wee nook in the Helping Hand for a few words I should like to say to other mothers? Many are in a state of perpetual worry as to how they are ever to get through with the day's work. In the first place, don't worry at all. Be systematic. Never let one week's mending and darning run over into the next. Do not put an article that needs repairing into drawer or closet until it is mended.

"2. Rest when you are tired! Rest is as much a duty as eating. See to it that you get a regular supply of it. Don't allow yourself to get overtired. That means wearing out. It is poor economy, not to mention the unkindness to husband and children.

"3. Begin each new day thinking that you have fifteen hours before you in which to work and rest before bedtime. Make it also a duty to get into the open air daily. That is one way of laying in fresh supplies of health.

"Rest, walk, and don't fret!

"A MOTHER."

Kindly and sensible counsel from mother to mother abounds today. Every word in this brief letter deserves consideration. I wonder sometimes why women do not, in commercial phrase, "capitalize" their physical forces. Continual work and incessant worry are a popular method of suicide. Our mother says aptly that rest is as truly a duty as eating.

How to Rainproof Coat?

"Will you or some member of your 'Helping Hand' tell me if there is anything I could apply to an old but good looking raincoat to make it again waterproof? It seems to be made of some kind of cloth the under side of which had the water turning qualities.

"Also can you tell us how to care for shoes so that they will hold their new appearance as long as possible? I find that the liquid polish I used is death to the leather.

"I have tried your 'Rice Souffle' which 'C. O.' lately told us how to make, and I find it 'simply delicious.' Years ago I clipped from some paper a recipe for 'Ginger Crisps,' which I often make when eggs and butter are dear. Children especially like them.

"In a rather large teacup stir three level tablespoonfuls of butter and lard mixed. Pour on three tablespoonfuls of boiling water, then fill the cup with sirup or molasses. Stir in a teaspoonful of soda, and as it foams up work in enough flour to make a dough to roll out thin. Of course put in ginger to taste. I also use a heaping teaspoonful of sugar, though the recipe does not call for it. Roll thin and cut in sheets the size of the bottom of the biscuit pans, which should be slightly greased. As soon as taken from the oven cut in strips of convenient size.

"My only excuse for offering this is that it is a good thing and I would like to contribute a mite where I have so often gained much. A GEORGIA CRACKER WOMAN.

I refer the query relative to waterproofing the coat. I have an impression that it is altogether practicable, but I do not know by what process the end is to be obtained. Will somebody tell us how to restore the raincoat to usefulness?

I, too, have found that patent polish do not agree with my shoes. Years ago I went back to old fashioned blacking. Have "trees" for your shoes and upon taking off a pair fit each upon the "tree" belonging to it. Do not keep them in a warm room or closet. Heat makes them crack and shrink. If you do not mean to wear a pair within a few weeks, rub them over with neat's foot oil. Pour a few drops into the palm of the hand, and rub gently until the leather is warm. Fit in the "trees" and cover away from the dust. Shoes thus cared for "ripen" with age, instead of depreciating in value.

Your recipe is a favor done to us—not a liberty that needs an "excuse."

Request from an Invalid.

"I am not exactly what you might call a 'shut-in,' for I can creep around the yard in fine weather, but I cannot go from home. I have been a great sufferer for three years, and it would be a boon if I had something that would engage my mind and divert it from my troubles. I long, also, to make a little money. I have not been able to do any regular work for twelve months and I have a family of five to support.

"I am writing to ask if some kind reader of the Helping Hand who can afford easily to do it will not give me a pair of chickens of a pure breed with which I can start a small poultry yard. I would gladly buy them if I could. But I can't. If a poultry fancier or lover will give me this start I will never forget the benefit and repay it some day if I can.

"I like white Leghorns, but any breed will do.

"I should greatly enjoy any good magazines readers may feel inclined to give away.

"May God bless the work of the corner and the great hearted contributors to it is my prayer. W. G. R."

A manly letter which I have to speak for itself. It is from South Carolina—and in a region where poultry farming should be profitable and carried on the year around. Will our southern contributors, who, by the way, are numerous and liberal—take the matter in hand? The magazines may be sent from any part of our territory.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL-DRESSED FOLK

THE MARCH WINDS

DEAREST MADGE:

The March wind doth blow
And we shall have snow.

I always think of the dear old nursery rhyme whenever I hear the weird whistle of the wind in this blustery month.

Indoors we thoroughly enjoy the warmth of an open fire, but the cold, crisp wind brings the roses to our cheeks when we walk abroad.

Speaking of roses, there is more than a hint of spring in the air, and the roses will soon be blooming again.

And so it is, all through life: after the winter, spring; after the darkness, the dawn.

Well, here am I moralizing again, when I started out to write you the description of several attractive gowns I have seen recently.

One was a stunning coat suit, combining dark-blue satin and a light-weight broadcloth in a stone-gray shade. The coat was cut with a peplum, which fitted well down over the hips and was belted in at the normal waist line with a gray belt fastened with a large gilt buckle. A deep shawl collar edged with gray wool fringe finished the coat at the neck, and large cuffs of cloth edged the sleeves. A satin scarf tied the collar together at the throat.

The skirt was blue satin, but over it was a draped tunic of cloth edged with fringe.

Her hat was a combination of cloth and satin also. The crown of the latter was trimmed at the back with a black aigrette, and the brim was made of cloth.

Another suit of golden-brown taffeta had a very long coat, cut away at the waist line in the front and extending almost to the hem of the skirt in the back, where it finished in two points. Two flat, rounding capes, stitched on the edges, formed the collar; and the hat worn with this was of black taffeta, trimmed with brown plumes matching the costume.

I saw another woman wearing a tan-colored cloth suit with a short cutaway coat and a plain narrow skirt. About her shoulders was draped, when the wind did not blow it away from her body, a sapphire-blue satin scarf, lined with black chiffon and edged with fringe. Her little brown hat was trimmed with a big blue bow at the side.

With her was a young girl wearing a dull-green cloth suit made in a very modish way.

The coat had double revers, one lapping well over the other to the left side, where it fastened with two large bone buttons. The short skirt of the coat was trimmed with small buttons and black braid, put on in military fashion. This same trimming was continued on the skirt from waist to hem, and was seen on the sleeves also. Her black taffeta hat had a crown of green and was trimmed with long black quills.

My walk served me well, for I have made up my mind how to have a new spring suit made. Can you guess which model I shall follow?

Affectionately, ELEANOR.
